Opposition leader Bob Clark, in a brief rehash of statements by a legislative committee on regulations which reported in 1974, has warned that the plan is loosely worded and "leaky" for all sides to find.

The code, which Leitch presented to the house last week, was to go into force January 1st. The treasurer reports receiving reaction from the civil service and elsewhere. He wants more time to prepare the final version.

Premier Peter Lougheed began tightening the rules in May, 1977, when he made cabinet ministers disclose private interests. He reported two years later that the system had been expanded to deputy ministers and senior officials.

The committee also proposed that all civil servants of the provincial government. The proposals are billed as insurance that "the minister will run with efficiency, impartiality and integrity."

The code governs outside employment, political activities, public statements, deal ings with relatives, gifts and conflicts of economic interests.

Clark stresses that only a minimum standard is established and deputy ministers are granted the right to make exceptions. They can "modify, vary or add to the code for their departments, Leitch's draft states.

Clark also underlines what he sees as loose provisions in conflict of interest rules and warns that exceptions could wind up being made.

Public servants could be made to disclose holdings, put wealth in "blind trusts" or transfer to other jobs if official actions affect private fortune.

But the code states only that employees "may be required" to accept the alternatives. Clark also found restrictions on moonlighting, dealings with relatives and appeals uncertain and unclear.

His basic complaint, that without consistency there will be justice neither for employees or Albertans dealing with them, echoes warnings against vague rules by the house committee in 1974.

The committee adopted as a first, "invariable" principle that "people shall be governed by laws rather than by officials."

It found Alberta statutes ridden with "Heavy VIII" clauses conferring extensive power on the executive, the premier and the 23 cabinet ministers.

Clark has detected little respect to the committee. Since its report, the cabinet has maintained extensive authority under legislation such as the Heritage Fund and the Planning Act. Cabinet power remains a constant sore point.

Hardisty Legion install officers

The January meeting of the Legion Auxiliary was held on Monday, January 9 at 2:00 p.m. in the Hut.

Following the open ceremonies, President - M. Elaine Gately introduced the visiting District Commander, M. Elaine Gately. M. Elaine Gately then installed the incoming officers as follows - Pres. - Pauline Gately; 1st. Vice - Barbara Matthews; 2nd. Vice - Nettie Johnson; Sec. - Maryann Thorne; Treasurer - Dorothy Krosser; Executive Committee - David Yurkiv, Freda McBride and Josephine Clements.

Following the installation, M. Elaine Gately presented 30 year pins to Joyce Leonard and Barbara Matthews, and a 25 year pin to M. Elaine Gately.

It was decided to hold our joint social on January 20th. A date of fresh donuts is to be held in early February, watch for posters.

The District Commander then expressed her pleasure at being with us, and answered questions brought forward by the members.

Hardisty Hospital auxiliary meet

The regular meeting opened with the Auxiliary prayer on December 14th at the Catholic Church Hall.

The minutes were read and approved. A thank you card was received from M. Elaine Gately. A donation of twenty-five dollars was received from the Hazelwood Good Deed Club.

A term saving account was opened with the sum of seven thousand dollars deposited.

Thank you cards were sent to M. Elaine Gately for the baby set and to Mrs. W. Miller for a pair of sheep lined slippers. These articles were donated for the Auxiliary showcase.

P. Manning moved the meeting be adjourned. A Christmas party was held after the meeting with a gift exchange.

Entertainment was supplied by Hilary Gray. The lunch was supplied by the Hospital Kitchen Staff.

History writers workshop to be held in Edmonton

Anyone interested in learning how to research, write, edit and publish a history of their region is invited to attend Alberta Culture's Workshop on Writing Regional History Jan. 27 and 28 in Edmonton.

The $10 registration fee includes coffee and all seminars during the two-day session.

"The number of community histories being readied in Alberta is nothing short of unbelievable," said John Patrick Gilless, Director of Alberta Culture's Film and Literary Arts Branch. "Noted author Dr. J. W. (Grant) MacFay, prize winning editor and a variety of support people in research, publishing and design are the guest speakers who will be attending the workshops. Sharing their knowledge with us will help to smooth the way for individuals and groups undertaking a regional history project."

A maximum of 75 applicants will be accepted. Sessions start at 9:00 a.m. and go to 4:00 p.m. Lunch is not included in the $10.00 fee. An informal discussion ends each day.

ELECTRIC FRYPAN HINTS

Calgary Power Home Economists suggest that if you've been using your electric frypan just for frying, you're not getting maximum use from it.

Why not try some of the following ideas?
* BAKED POTATOES - put a medium sized or rack in the frypan. Place potatoes on rack. Set temperature control at highest setting. Close vent. If rules have dried out, put about 1" of water in bottom of frypan.

* DESP FAT FRY - put enough cooking oil in your frypan to half fill it. Set temperature at 375 degrees F. When temperature has been reached, use a slotted spoon or wire basket to slip foods into hot oil. The frypan's thermostat will keep the temperature accurate.

There are many other uses for your frypan, including popping corn, heating T.V. dinners, and of course, stewing and braising.

* BAKE REFRIGERATOR ROLLS - put rolls in a greased 8 x 8 dish or round cake pan. Place or rack in frypan. Set temperature control at highest setting. Leave vent open. Take as 30 - 45 minutes.

* BAKE A CAKE - put cake mixture into a round or square pan, place on rack. Set thermostat control at 375 degrees F. Open vent. Takes about 1 hour.

* BAKE YEAST BUNS - put buns in greased round cake pan. Place on rack in frypan. Bake at highest setting. Leave vent open. Takes 40 - 45 minutes.

* HEAT ROLLS - place rolls on rack in frypan. Set temperature control at highest setting. Close vent. If rules have dried out, put about 1" of water in bottom of frypan.

* DESP FAT FRY - put enough cooking oil in your frypan to half fill it. Set temperature at 375 degrees F. When temperature has been reached, use a slotted spoon or wire basket to slip foods into hot oil. The frypan's thermostat will keep the temperature accurate.

There are many other uses for your frypan, including popping corn, heating T.V. dinners, and of course, stewing and braising.

Are you interested in purchasing a new frypan? If so, Frypans is a publication by Calgary Power, free from Alberta Agriculture. The pamphlet discusses various features which are found on the market.

THE FURRY WIZARDS
Gazing at my reflection after a busy summer, I couldn't help but note how limp and bedraggled my hair appeared.

The heat of the summer had taken away the luster and the length seemed over long. Or had those gray hairs suddenly become more noticeable.

I was determined to do something about it. My first thought was to cut it off. My next one was to be finished with everlasting job of washing it every three or four days. It has natural wave but its baby line texture presented a problem.

When I announced to my family I was going to get one of those "Furry Wuzzy" perms, my husband questioned my sanity and my own blurted out "waste of money." My daughter had a little more understanding as she had some of the same problems. "Well," I said, "I'm tired of washing my hair every three or four days - or every time I go to town. Sure it dries fast, but it's still work. I'd like to appear a little different for a change."

I can remember my hair problems as a girl in high school. I curled and washed and coaxed my hair into all sorts of styles never seen on the likes of those around me. The curlers in my hair every night brought forth a loud guffaw from my Dad and he'd tease me "Looks like black Topsy again, eh Shirley?" "It doesn't want to do a thing for me," I'd cry tearfully. The lovely shoulder-length page boys or feathercuts were not for me. I had a style all my own - fuzzy shoulder length.

It wasn't until I went to Vancouver to work that I made the wonderful discovery that I didn't need to struggle quite so hard to do something with my hair. Maintaining my own apartment meant that time to fuss with my hair was limited. Quite by accident one day I washed my hair before leaving the beach after a swim. My friends gazed at me and said, "Hey, that's cute!" So I wore it that way forever and a day afterwards, it seemed.

Well I bought my fuzzy wuzzy perm and isn't it funny hardly anyone noticed. I suppose someone whose hair appears curly doesn't really look at that different in this type of perm. But I will say this, it is a lot less work and a lot less greasy.

Strome and District News Items

If Strome had a good deed award it should go this month to Barbara Robson. Two of our Sr. Citizens, Jack and Peggy Whether have been very sick with the flu, in fact they spent quite a few days in bed, and were unable to do their daily chores. Barb stopped in each day to see how they were and what they needed. She brought them food and what groceries they needed from town. Her happy smile and cheerful greetings certainly brightened their day. I think Barb should be commended for her act of kindness which was so greatly appreciated by the Wheelers. I would like to have another "Good Deed" to write about for the month of February. We have a number of Sr. Citizens who are "shot-ins," and so crippled with arthritis, they find it very hard to get around to do their work. As a result, Mr. and Mrs. Jim McNaughton, Sr. Ben Niehaus is a patient in Kilham Hospital.

Mrs. Gertrude Polder of Toft, visited the Jack Olsen's, Mrs. Ballard at the Kilham Hospital, and Gertrude Watkins at the Madelon Mason.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Szeel attended the Ice Capades in Edmonton.

The Strome 4-H travelled by Doug Kantar back to Edmonton on Saturday to attend the Ice Capades. Forty-five in all were in the group. Caparones were Ann Peltola, Diana Blaser, Linda Dalong, Hilda Krostsch, Susan Jones, Anna Pielfer, Martin Krostsch, and Brian Blaser.

Weekend visitors at the John Howe home were Mr. and Mrs. Dan Rowe of Edmonton. They also visited his Grandmother, Mrs. Jane Rowe and Oval.

STROME SENIOR CITIZENS CLUB

The Strome Senior Citizens Club held their business meeting on Jan. 12 with 22 members present. Mr. Cohen, P.S.S. representative visited us in regard to one of our young people wishing to form a Snow Shovel- ing 726 to assist any Senior Citizens wishing to hire them. Mel Johnson was nominated as our co-ordinator. The Secretary and Treasurer reports were read. All the correspondence was dealt with. A discussion took place as to our Club gathering all the information possible in order to make a Book of the History of Strome.

A vote of thanks was given to everyone who helped in any way to make our Club a success. We have sent a quilt to Telaram which is to be held on Jan. 28. We are to have our twice monthly Card Parties on the first one on Jan. 19 at 8:00 p.m. A potluck supper on Jan. 26, with Bingo to follow. On Tuesday, January 11 we were entertained by Mrs. Hilker of Kilham and Mrs. Holmes of Forestburg to two films of interest to the Senior Citizens of which we all enjoyed very much. A social hall hour was spent over lunch.

Then a delicious lunch, prepared by Marg Lewis, concluded the evening.

KILLAM 4-H BEEF CLUB

The 4-H meeting of the Killam Beef Club was brought on order on January 7th at the home of Ray Lewis.

Among the business discussed at the meeting, we decided to change the meeting night to Saturday's because some of the members were unable to attend on Fridays.

Our public speak-offs were discussed. We will be notified of the date before the next meeting.

We were told, once again, that the District Show and Sale would be held in Killam on the first Monday in June.

After the meeting, some of

Loughheed WI.meet

The January meeting of the Loughheed Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Harold Probst with 12 members present. The President, Mrs. John Johnson, was in the chair.

After the reading of minutes and all committee reports, Mrs. W.W. Frost read a large amount of correspondence for the library.

The Kindergarten children made a Christmas Card with a picture of the class which was presented to the W.I. For the Christmas card which was given a book. They enjoy their weekly visit to the Library.

There was discussion in regard to the members having a trip sometime in the spring. There were several suggestions with a visit to the Gladys Theatre being the most popular. Information as to dates, names of plays, etc. is to be presented at the next meeting.

The minutes of the Directors meeting, held Jan. 4th, were read. Program booklets were given to each member.

The program on Citizenship and Education was convened by Mrs. Peter Sneath. She invited Mrs. H. Alder, to be guest speaker. She gave an interesting talk on the work that is being done in the Early Education program. The four main objects are emotional, social, physical and intellectual.

The Roll Call was answered by each member answering the question: "What does it mean to be a Canadian?"

Articles for Unitarian Service are to be left at the United Church before the end of January.

The Hostess prize was won by Mrs. J. Johnson. Mrs. Probst conducted a contest: A quiz to test knowledge of Alberta. This was won by Mrs. H. Swaleson, consolation prize to Miss Molly Perneyhough.

The next meeting is to be at the home of Mrs. Vernon Storvick.

Loughheed WI.meet

The January meeting of the Loughheed Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Harold Probst with 12 members present. The President, Mrs. John Johnson, was in the chair.

After the reading of minutes and all committee reports, Mrs. W.W. Frost read a large amount of correspondence for the library.

The Kindergarten children made a Christmas Card with a picture of the class which was presented to the W.I. For the Christmas card which was given a book. They enjoy their weekly visit to the Library.

There was discussion in regard to the members having a trip sometime in the spring. There were several suggestions with a visit to the Gladys Theatre being the most popular. Information as to dates, names of plays, etc. is to be presented at the next meeting.

The minutes of the Directors meeting, held Jan. 4th, were read. Program booklets were given to each member.

The program on Citizenship and Education was convened by Mrs. Peter Sneath. She invited Mrs. H. Alder, to be guest speaker. She gave an interesting talk on the work that is being done in the Early Education program. The four main objects are emotional, social, physical and intellectual.

The Roll Call was answered by each member answering the question: "What does it mean to be a Canadian?"

Articles for Unitarian Service are to be left at the United Church before the end of January.

The Hostess prize was won by Mrs. J. Johnson. Mrs. Probst conducted a contest: A quiz to test knowledge of Alberta. This was won by Mrs. H. Swaleson, consolation prize to Miss Molly Perneyhough.

Visitors to Killam Auxiliary

Tuesday, Dec. 20th was a memorable day at Killam Auxiliary when the staff hosted a Christmas party for the patients and their families as guests. The honored guest was Mr. Dochniak, who that day celebrated his 70th birthday. A lovely birthday cake made and decorated with point-cakes by Mrs. Moulder of Hardsby was enjoyed by everyone present. Cards were sung and the staff presented a humorous skit, "The Corn Patch". A reading by Mr. Hawkins and Ms. Hunkula singing "I Saw Mommy Kissing Santa Claus" to the arrival of Santa Claus, Mr. Al Gramlich rounded out the program. Lunch was served and the staff bringing to a close that memorable day.

A special thank you to all the groups who came to the Auxiliary to help us celebrate the birthday of Christ our King. Thanks to the 4-H Club, Mrs. Blumhagen, Mrs. Burdick, Mrs. Flansburg, Mr. Umrysh and Mrs. Granger who so generously volunteered with music, singing and Mr. and Mrs. Santa Claus, entertaining and bringing gifts.

Sat. afternoon was greatly enjoyed when the Merna Sevens Day Adventist Church members presented the true meaning of Christmas with recitations, carol singing and scripture reading.

Sunday afternoon, the Royal Purple brought Christmas goodies for everyone.

The Superior School children were most enjoyable.

Thank you to the Baptist Ladies who entertained Wed. evening.

We wish to extend a Happy Birthday to Mr. Horst, Jan. 18; Mr. McDevitt, Jan. 17; Mrs. Howells, Jan. 18; Mr. Twitcheall, Jan. 26; and Mrs. Lund, Jan. 18.

KILLAM HOSPITAL LADIES AUXILIARY

The Ladies Auxiliary to the Killam Hospital Complex with a membership of 44 are an active group putting in many volunteer hours helping at the hospital.

During 1977 there were over 500 visits to the sick and shut-in patients. Many were for car rides and shopping trips.

The canteen cart travels the two hospitals each Wed. afternoon.

The residents of the auxiliary look forward to this event each week.

Such articles as slippers, bibs baby gowns, pneumonia jackets etc. are cut and made up by members - 170 articles in all.

The ladies serve tea and sell raffle tickets at the craft sale in May. They also help serve the Hospital Complex staff dinner in December. The officers for 1978 are: President, Sophie Abel; Vice Pres., Myrtle Larsen; Treasurer, Ruby Stainthorpe; Secretary, Emma George; Canten Meetings are held the 2nd Thursday of each month at the Hospital. Anyone interested in this work and would like to join the auxiliary, contact Mrs. Abel by phoning 385-9832 or any member.

Sedgewick Midget hockey wrapup

The Sedgewick Midget Hockey Club are enjoying a very successful season to date, with the team playing a fine brand of crowd pleasing hockey. They started the season on November 25th with a 4 to 2 exhibition win over Watnwright. On the 25th they metored to Viking where they were defeated 7 to 3. On December 2 the Midgets played their first league game in the SM league with the Watnwright and defeated them 5 - 1. On December 4 they hosted the Provost team in another league game and after falling behind 6 to 0 midway through the game they came flying back to tie the game 7 to 7. December 11 Sedgewick visited Kilham and in a close checking game finally asked away with a 4 to 2 win. Dec. 12 the boys hosted Viking and in their best effort of the year they avenged the earlier 7 to 3 loss to Viking with a resounding 12 to 1 victory. December 18 Sedgewick played host to Hardy and emerged 5 to 2 winners in this one. December 23 The Midgets played host to Daysland and after falling behind 6 to 4 after 2 periods, came roaring back in the third period to take a 10 to 6 win.

December 27 with Watnwright Midgets the visitors, the locals came out on top with a 5 to 3 victory in a closely contested game. December 30th Sedgewick were the visitors in Provost and lost their first league game of the season losing 10 to 5 in a rugged contest. Jan. 6 Sedgewick travelled to Viking and came away with a 5 to 1 victory which featured

Hardisty and District News Items

Mrs. Harry Koehler (Pat Moody) and baby arrived from Australia on December 24th to spend the holidays with her parents (Alma and Harold Moody) and other relatives.

Mrs. and Mr. Harry Koehler and son and daughter from Stettler spent New Years Day at the home of Alma and Harold Moody. Pat and baby returned to Stettler with them to spend a week or so. Harry Trice, who attended the funeral of Mary Albrecht's sister in Calgary, visited with his sister-in-law Margaret Cherram in Hardisty. He also called on Perry Powell who is getting around better now, after his fall before Christmas.

Mrs. and Mr. Al Douglas and family of High Prairie were down here to attend the Irving Bell's 25th wedding anniversary.

Your reporter went to Maple Creek with her brother and his wife Jim and Ida Todd, nephews, Rodney, David Todd and families, also niece Marilyn Bells and her daughter from Veterans.

We attended Rodney's daughter's wedding and it was a nice wedding, a great evening altogether.

Coming home on Sunday, visibility was at a minimum until we arrived near Oyen but all the way to Conson it still was not good. A person sure doesn't want to have car trouble along that road as towns and houses are surely scarce.

A large crowd attended the funeral of Mr. Ray Bagdole of Hughesdale on January 18th.

The pallbearers were all men who had operated "Cats" for him and they were: Arnold Metel, Dick Hayes, Keiver Hunter, Keith Hobson, Gerald Nelson and Irvin Bettege. Among the honorary pallbearers were Jim Todd, Clarence Fisher and Edward Larum.

Keith Hobson brought up in Hardisty, now works for the M.D. of Provost and has an art gallery out of Amisk.

Just heard a request over C.F.C.W. for "Back Home" by Al Senter. How many know that is Allen Abrams recording name?

We have very sorry to report that Miss Gladys Siebrasse went to Valleyview to visit her sister Mrs. Myrtle Rober when she fell and broke her hip.

She has had a pin put in and is resting comfortably in the Misericordia Hospital in Edmonton.

Ray VanAlstyne who had lived in the Parkland Manor the last year, but who had spent a lot of time in hospital passed away and his funeral was Jan. 7th.

Another ex-Hardisty resident to pass away was Steve Hatalak who resided in Edmonton after the passing away of his wife. His funeral was Jan. 11 in Hardisty.

When Howard Hays was in Edmonton at Christmas time, Barbara had the pleasure of talking to Rev. and Mrs. Zwickler who were visiting their son in Edmonton.

Alto Rev. Zwickler has been busy since leaving here, they are going to visit in the Ministers Retirement Lodge very soon.

They wished to be remembered to all their friends in this area and Barbara had numerous questions to answer when talking to them.

We were glad to know that Mrs. Joe Koot has been transferred to Hardisty Hospital from Camrose.

Gladys Goodrich, Todd Kurth, Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Goodrich, Belinda and Bobby enjoyed the ice Capades in Edmonton.

Former friends and neighbors of Mrs. Leslie Miller were pleased to see her picture in an Edmonton paper, holding the youngest great granddaughter, Brad and Toni Miller's little daughter, to celebrate her 100 birthday on Jan. 7.

She lived in the Hardisty-Rosyth district for many years and moved to Edmonton in 1975 to Central Park Lodge in Jasper Place where her daughter Verda Miller is employed. Her daughter Edith Marler lives in Edmonton while son Louis is employed at the Hardisty I.P.L. Station.

We hear that Doug and Linda Dwyer met up with the Paul Draggers in Harval. With so many booked to go there it must be a great place, if you like the beaches and night clubs.

We were all saddened to hear of Dr. Bernie Clark's untimely passing in Camrose. He was well known here as he was opthalmeter here every Wednesday for some time.

A few friends called on Perry Powell to wish him well on his birthday and to wish him many wishes.

Due to his fall before Christmas he's not up to dancing a jig yet, but maybe the next birthday!

Gee! I was mistaken about David Hutton being shot and killed. It distinctly said over T.V. that he was shot in the back with robbery a suspected motive. However, he was reporting from the Middle East last night so all must be well with him.

Bill Matthews and John Gola flew to Phoenix, Ariz. last week to take part in a trap shooting tournament.

How to save for a happy retirement, even if you're not the saving type.

We're sure that your idea of retirement has nothing to do with sitting at home in a rocking chair or wondering how financially, you'll make it through the month. Once you're free to do what you want for a change, you'd like to do things you've never had time to do.

This takes money.
In order to do this, you'll need money. Something like 70% of what you're earning now. How do you put this idea into effect? You've never been a saver? At the Credit Union, we've a Registered Savings Plan that may help.

First, you can save on taxes.
If you plan ahead to save for your own retirement, the government lets you defer the tax you pay. Save up to $3,500* a year including your company pension plan. Or up to $5,500* if you're not in one. All this money comes off your taxable income, as long as you don't touch it. So you won't be quite so tempted to take it out.

And your money builds.
Leave your money in and the interest you earn is compounded. With the rate of interest we pay, this quickly builds up. To arrange for your plan talk to us.

Registered Savings Plan expert. We'll help you to save, while you're planning for future fun.

*or 20% of your income, whichever is less.

Mr. and Mrs. George Hagen were among the parents who travelled to Villem on Saturday to watch the 8 and under boys play their first of two hockey games. The boys played against Daykin and Irma and, although they lost both games, it is good to know that some folk are interested enough to start these young fellows on their hockey careers. And we're sure we'll soon be learning about some victories.

Six tables of whist players enjoyed the Senior Citizens

Card Party at their Drop-In Centre on Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. Gussie Storkach and Mr. Gunnar Hope won prizes for the highest scores. Consolation awards went to Mrs. Gussie Hope and Mr. David Davidson. Books of tickets were given out for the raffle, arrangements were made for a holiday in the Bahamas. 28th and entries were taken for the Shuffleboard Tournament which will begin on January 16th.

Mr. and Mrs. George Hagen and family were in Edmonton on Sunday to attend the "Ice Cupade". Mr. and Mrs. Jim Walsh visited with Mr. and Mrs. Grant Blesser and family in Heiler on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Sparrow left on Monday with Mrs. and Mrs. Don Sparrow of Red Deer for a holiday in the Bahamas.

Mr. and Mrs. Doug Tweedy visited with Eleanor's mother in Provost on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Pat Lech and daughter Carmen were Edmonton visitors on Monday.

The usual Card Party was held at the Legion Hut on Monday evening. Mrs. Mary Cameron won the prize for the highest Bridge Score and Mrs. Molly Bruce the consolation award. In Crib Mr. Brian Lee had the highest score and Mr. Stuart Cameron the consolation.

Mr. and Mrs. Zane Parsons and children and Mr. A. Parsons of Hardisty attended the "Ice Cupade" in Edmonton on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ted Archibald of Alliance were Friday night supper guests at the Porter O'Reilly home.

We were pleased to hear that Mr. Carmen Robertson had received a commemorative medal from Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth. These medals were awarded to folk who had contributed to their community in various ways. They were issued to commemorate the twenty-five years the Queen has reigned.

Congratulations, Robbie!

Mr. Harry Trice of Vancouver and Mrs. Margaret Cherran of Hardisty called on the Porter O'Reillys one day last week.

Mr. John Baker attended the Uniform Convention as a delegate. It was held last week at the MacDonald Hotel in Edmonton.

A former resident of Sedgewick, Mrs. Tina Gollan, now living in Edmonton, called on the Porter O'Reillys one morning recently.

Mrs. Mary Ann Cameron left on Wednesday for a holiday in southern Texas. Melba says she plans on getting her big toe in the sand of Mexico.

All that activity at the Senior Citizens Drop-In Centre on Monday and Tuesday is due to the Shuffleboard Tournament which is in full swing.

HOCKEY WEEK - A full day's activities on January 14th in the Killam Arena were staged to mark Min. Hockey Week. Boys from the 5 minor age groupings met their counterparts from two Hills. No scores or winners are available at press time but it is understood that a good time was had by all. Another minor hockey activity took place on Sunday, January 15 when the Camrose Goodtimers played the Edmonton

Drama group is organized
Six of the newly formed Drama Club, with Ken Affolter elected President. The enthusiastic group met at the school in Sedgewick recently and various committees have been set up. Possible workshops are under consideration with University of Alberta personnel. Plans are underway for a production in early spring with auditions scheduled to be held shortly. We encourage interested persons throughout the county to join our group. Many members are needed behind the scenes as well as on the scene. Phone James Walsh now and leave your name - Ph: 384-3676.

Sr. citizens enjoy whist
Six tables of whist players enjoyed the usual Wednesday afternoon Card Party at the Senior Citizens Drop-In Centre on Main Street. Prizes for the highest scores were won by Violet Thomas and Mr. Rod MacKinnon while consolation prizes were awarded Mrs. Minnie Dye and Mr. Harry Potage. The Shuffleboard Tournament will be resumed on Monday, 22nd and a Bake Sale held on Saturday, January 28th.

Hardisty functions provide entertainment

A very pleasant evening was spent on Friday evening at the Legion Hut, where the Legion and Auxiliary joined forces for a party. Due to sickness, cold and various commitments, there were only 20 in attendance. The first part of the evening was spent playing military whist, with winners being: a Russell and Dwayne Benz and Gately. Consolation: Dolly Hearn, Maryanne Thompson, Lloyd Stuart and George Kruse.

Some of the ladies then presented a fashion show, which caused much hilarity. With Dorothy Krauer at the piano and Jo McClements at MC, the girls paraded their styles. Tricky (Mary Gutmann) in a stylish print - Edmonton Journal of course, was followed by Heston (Pauline Gies) in a stunning and original Black Velvet creation. Francine (Florence VanKoughnet) showed the popular and casual such dress, with leather shoes. Zina (Doris Yankov) wore a lovely gown with pill box hat and matching bag (Pinner, that is). All beauties were won by the dark haired beauty, Zorana (Mrs. Hearn) in a red checked jump suit. The procession ended with the traditional Blushing Bride (Maryann Thomson) whose gown and head dress

Two curling teams head to district play-offs

The District B Playdown for the Elks Curling Club took place on Jan. 21 - 22 at Round Hill. Eight teams participated with Strone winning the right to represent the district in the zone playoffs in Wainwright.

Two Senior Citizen teams also took part with Killam going on to represent the district in the zone. Members of the Strone rink were: Pat Miller, Dennis Loesch, Don Hayes and Ren Bergel.

LEON WINNERS
Congratulations to the rink of the Sedgewick Royal Canadian Legion who over the weekend won the Zone Play-offs in Daysland. Dick Matthews played lead, Chad Cherran second, John Cherran third and Clayton Johnson was skip. This rink now goes on to the District Play-offs to be held in Provost.

Sedgewick mens club?

A few months ago it was decided at a meeting of the Sedgewick Ministerial Association that a Christian Men's group which would meet once a month, alternating between the four churches, would be a great idea. The first meeting proved fruitful with twenty in attendance for a full course meal and a great time. The second meeting another dinner and film with the same number in attendance.

Men of Sedgewick the rest is up to you. For our part in this club is essential. Without participation obviously the club cannot survive. It is fully realized that, Hockey, Curling etc. will take precedence over the mens club, this cannot or should it be avoided.

A meeting of the Sedgewick

Mens Club will take place in the Anglican Church Parish hall on Wednesday, Feb. 1st of February at 8:30 p.m. sharp with an evening of entertainment to follow.

8:30 p.m. - Supper will be served at 8:30 sharp with an evening of entertainment to follow.

by Thomas McLaughlin
United Church of Canada

Last week I shared with you a "fuzzy" kind of story. Of course the point is to let all that God loves each and every one of us as individuals. This is the wonderful and beautiful fact of Christianity — that God has loved us so much that he sent his only Son to be our Lord and Saviour! And when we realize that, our relationship to and with, other people around us takes on a new and rich meaning.

However in our relationship to others, we at times take these whom we love most for granted. This is so true when it comes to our youngsters. We think that they should be mature like us, forgetting that they are youngsters, and letting them be youngsters.

I came across an article in the past week which I believe is worth passing on. It's titled The Shrines of Sleeping Children. The author is unknown, but his message hits every parent, especially fathers, right between the eyes.

A father stands at the bedside of his sleeping child and reflects:

"Listen, son — these are the things I was thinking — at breakfast I found fault — you spilled things. You gulped down your food. You put your elbows on the table. You spread your butter too thick on your bread. And as you started off to play, you turned and waved and ALBERTA TOWN OF RURAL ELECTRIFICATION ASSOCIATIONS LTD.

President Al McLean of the Alberta Union of Rural Electrification Associations Ltd. reports a very successful two-day Board Meeting was held recently. Cabinet Ministers Warack and Harle attended the meeting briefly for discussion of rural power matters, also present with them were two assistant Deputy Ministers.

Government and Power Company personnel were in attendance during the second day of the meeting.

Discussions centered around the proposed re-organization of certain sections of Government Departments concerned with rural utilities.

Reports were received and discussed regarding the underground installation of power lines, amalgamation of several R.E.A.s into larger units, costs of re-construction, adequacy of Deposit Reserve Accounts for this purpose and other items stemming from resolutions passed at the Annual Meeting.

gone, pattering up the stairs. Suddenly I saw myself as I now was, in all my horrible selfishness, and I felt sick at heart.

"What has habit been doing to me? The habit of complaining, of finding fault, of reprimanding — all of these were my rewards to you for being a boy. It was that that I did not love you as you felt."

Mr. and Mrs. Art Ponto and Mr. and Mrs. W. Wise were business visitors in Forestburg.

The Galahad and District Lions Club held their Ladies Night in the York Cafe 76. About 48 people were present. A delicious Chinese Food Supper was served. The Lions held their meeting after which Father Dicks showed his film on his trip to Hawaii. All enjoyed the film and a round of applause showed their appreciation.

Daysland plans for senior citizens

Future Senior Citizens housing in Daysland will be discussed with M.L.A. Gordon Stronberg, Alberta Housing and Municipal Services representatives on Thursday, February 2 at 7:30 p.m. in the Daysland Community Hall said Mayor Lisack at the January Town Council meeting held Tuesday, January 10.

The community and all interested persons are invited to attend this important meeting.

Other business discussed at the meeting was a Preventative Social Services report to council that indicated that the "County of Taggart is one of Alberta's lowest per-capita expenditure areas with regard to preventive social services. A suggestion was forwarded to council by Richard Cohen that student employment opportunities were possible in P.S.S. summer projects with funding available through the S.T.E.P. grants.

Council requested P.S.S. personnel to consider a meeting with the councillors in the interest of improved communications.

Council was informed that the dog catching services of Greer Kennels would go into effect with the finalization of the contract. Citizens should be mindful that this service now becomes effective on February 1.

The hiring of a snow blower has improved snow removal and plans call for additional trucking services speed up the process.

Council was informed that final approval of the plans for the new sub-division were expected shortly from the land titles office. This approval has since been received at the town office.

The new garbage disposal by law (by-law G. 258) was given second reading. Principal Forestburg hosts Jr. High bonspiel

The County of Playfair Junior High bonspiel was held on January 21, at Forestburg Town and Country Centre. A total of nine Junior High schools represented the sixteen teams in the curling play-offs.

Winners of the A event were Loughheed No. 1 first place and Daysland No. 2 second place. The winner of the B event was Daysland No. 1.

The following members represented each of the teams, Loughheed No. 1 Ken Krawchuk, Kim Cox third, Howard Ness, second and Glen Stetson lead, Daysland No. 2 Murray Kluski skip, Joan Campbell third, Lynn Kluski second, and Lester Robinson lead, Daysland No. 1 Leslie Dalziel skip, Marcia Lisack third, Neil Brown second and Robert Loech lead.

Legislature report

by Kevin Peterson

Initial surveys has been called for the Loughheed government's plan to conserve Alberta's natural resource wealth with publication of Provincial Auditor D.W. Rogers' public accounts for 1976-77.

Rising revenue from oil, gas and coal, and tight budgeting, led the administration run at a profit last year, even though spending reached $2.92 billion $1,544.99 for every man, woman and child in the province.

Accumulated savings of $992 million to top $3 billion as of last March 31st, including the Heritage Fund, then $22 billion, a budget surplus of $366 million and $316.6 million already on hand in general revenue.

Attention was given to a complaint about the unsightly aspect of several buildings on main street and council authorized the inspection of these buildings as fire hazards.

Hardisty Wipeout coming

With so much happening at the Hardisty Winter Wipeout Days, it'll be a rare just to see you or other, don't miss the Old Times Hockey Tournament on Sunday.

Where there's fun and excitement, there's usually a lot of food. The Hardisty Winter Wipeout Days promise not to be an exception, take for example the delicious pancake breakfast planned for Sunday.

From country skiing buffs will be in for a treat too. Several interesting trails have been prepared so the skier can take off on his own for a while, one of the first ever in Hardisty, according to Jim Powell one of the busy organizers of the carnival. A game not to be missed.

If anyone is feeling creative on Sunday, enter the ice sculpting contest. Entries may be telephoned to Jim Powell at 888-3626 in Hardisty.

For fast paced action, skidoo will be available for rides or if a jaunt into yesterday is preferred, a leisurely sleigh ride awaits you.

If it's excitement on the ice you're after, don't miss the Old Times Hockey Tournament on Sunday.

Legislature report

Provincial Treasurer Merv Leitch was pleased with the ledger's record of the first year in the government's restraint program. Spending came in at $41.4 million less than the 1976-77 estimates had allowed.

An 11 per cent ceiling had been imposed against the estimates as they stood in the middle of the 1975-76 term, before the bills for election year. The rate of increase in budgeted was comparable to 1975-76, but spending had soared twice as fast.

Girl achieves honours

Jamieson Neff, Dean of Camrose Lutheran College hereby reports that Jennifer Davidson, a first year student at CLC, and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Don Davidson of Alliance, has attained academic honours at graduation on first term grades.

For Grade 12 this standing is defined as an 80 per cent average or better with no mark below 50 per cent. For university students, honours is a 7.5 average or better on the 9 point scale with no mark below 4.

Jennifer is in her first year in the Faculty of Arts.

Dayland High report

An enthusiastic crowd cheered the Foursburg and Dayland basketball teams as they met for the first time this season.

The girls game was a close defensive game with Foursburg winning 18-15. Scoring for Dayland were Pat Fehnel 7 points, Joan Koehli 4 pts., Sherry Van 2 pts., Bev McCarroll and Sheila Pottle with 1 pt. each.

The Dayland Dynamoes fought back from a 14 point half time deficit to tie the game as the final buzzer went. However, an official called a Dayland foul and Foursburg scored 1 of the 2 free throws with no time showing on the clock. Final score Foursburg 41 Dayland 40.

On Thursday, February 16th Foursburg will be in Dayland for a return match. Scoring for Dayland boys were Terry Gajewski 15 points, Brent Sommer 5 pts., Dave Hill 7 points, Sheldon Stiel 5 pts., Ken Wolbeck, Bill Zimmer and Richard Zimmer with 3 points each.

Most valuable player on the Foursburg team was Terry Gajewski. Though closely guarded by one and sometimes two Foursburg players, Terry led the Dayland attack with 13 points. Terry is in his Senior year at Dayland High School.

Sheila Pottle was chosen the Most Valuable Player in the Dayland-Foursburg game. Sheila is a Junior at Dayland High School and played a centre position for the first time in high school basketball. Her 5'8" height and good vertical jump enabled Sheila to block a lot of shots and force the opposition to shoot from well outside the key.

Camrose man N.D.P. candidate in Crowfoot

A Camrose man, 31 year old Roger Milbrandt, has been nominated as the N.D.P. candidate in the federal riding of Crowfoot. He received the nomination in January 21st, at a meeting attended by 76 enthusiastic supporters.

Mr. Milbrandt is a native of Manitoba and has been a teacher at the Camrose Lutheran College for the past four years. He is married and has 2 children.

In accepting the nomination, Mr. Milbrandt said "I shall conduct a campaign that is vigorous and shows a degree of moral responsibility which will do credit to my supporters." He also emphasized that two important issues in the campaign will be the record of the present government and the quality of the Crowfoot representation in the House of Commons.

Dayland Junior High Curling

On Saturday, January 21st Foursburg hosted the County of Flagstaff Junior High Curling Bantam.

Dayland had two entries in the Bantam and both teams did very well.

The Leslie Dalgry rink with Marcia Lissack, Neil Brown and Robert Loeber placed first in the 3 v. 3 event.

The Murry Kutz rink with Joan Campbell, Lester Robinson and Lesma Kutz placed second in the 4 v. 4 event losing to Lougheed in the final.

Both teams brought trophies home for their efforts. The Dayland Junior High School would like to thank Marshall Church and the Foursburg Junior High for hosting the tournament and for doing a fine job.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Robson and Barbara, and Mrs. Honey Curtis drove to Edmonton on Friday where Frank received medical attention.

The doors and window at the Strome Co-op store have been repaired and are once again as good as new. I wonder for how long?

Orval Rowe spent several days at his farm at Ashmont. Mr. and Mrs. Rodney Zimmert holidayed at Las Vegas. Mrs. Helmer looked after the family while they were away.

Mr. and Mrs. Eric Weischer were in Edmonton on Thursday and Friday attending a rape seed convention. The children spent overnight with their grandparents Mr. and Mrs. Ludwig Weischer. Others from here attending were Mr. and Mrs. Joe Charbot.

Mrs. D. Mikkelson came here from the hospital on Friday. On Saturday the Clouse Mikkelson family of Edmonton drove down to visit her. It was a happy occasion as Mrs. C. Mikkelson and her two children were involved in a car accident before Christmas and the mother and daughter were in critical condition in the University hospital for sometime. It is good to see them home.

On January 20th and 21st the Schooler rink of Dayland participated in the N.A.A.C.A. playoffs held at the Thistle Curling Club in Edmonton. This being their first year together with Rose Scheeler Skip, Mary Ann neehart third, Linda Tush second, and Karen Gooden leading.

In their first game Friday Scheeler was defeated by Foursburg Hahn of Wainwright 9 to 2. The second game Scheeler won over Linda of Wainwright in an extra end 9 to 8. The third game Scheeler lost to Bunney Provost of St. Albert 11 to 10 in an extra end.

This was the first time the Scheeler rink had entered any competitive curling and are hoping to give it another try next season.

A showing for Mickey Nyre was held January 27th in the United Church Social room with a nice crowd in attendance. Seated at the table were the bride and her two bridesmaids, her sister Glennys and Fayre Cardwell, also her mother Mrs. Nyre and Mrs. Dorothy Spiller introduced the head table and pinned a corsage on Mickey.

For the constant, they made Mickey mix up a cake without a recipe which turned out good. She received many lovely gifts which she thanked the ladies for. Mickey Nyre and Jim Miller will be married February 4th.

A meeting was held in the United Church basement on Wednesday evening January 26th, to discuss further plans for the Voluntary Fire Service, for the town of Dayland. Frances Dietrich and Frances Leeb agreed to tackle the job phoning all those who volunteered to help with the driving to see which days they can be on duty. Then a list will be sent out to all volunteers and to those who need rides.

Mrs. Eleanor Davidson went to Edmonton to celebrate her birthday with Roxanne, Joan and Dwight and families last weekend. Sorry to hear Eleanor is in a Edmonton hospital with the flu.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Parsons and Jason have moved to Vegreville where Bob is working. Bob Parsons will reside in their home now.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Blatz and family moved into their new home on Thursday.

by Arnold Malone, M.P.

A BEEF AT THE BORDER
Some American cattlemen are angry with us. They contend that Canadian beef producers are depressing the American market and that the United States government has an obligation to seal off the present beef trade with Canada. The blockade that began on the 3rd of January was founded in ignorance and perpetuated by frustration.

Farmers throughout North America are torn by the fact of ever rising in-pout costs particularly in the area of farm machinery, agro-chemicals, and fuels. In spite of the legitimate sense of anguish that many farmers have about their economic positions, the relatively small number of American cattlemen who are blocking the entry of Canadian beef into the United States are dead wrong.

While I believe that some American cattlemen are acting foolishly, the Canadian government is not at all without fault. In many ways it has been the irresponsible action of the present Minister of Agriculture that has caused many American cattlemen to lose confidence in us as a reliable trading partner.

It was Canada that flooded North America with American and New Zealand beef. It was Canada, through her Minister of Agriculture, that announced 32 ad hoc beef trade policy changes in a recent 15 month period that eroded the confidence of many American cattlemen. Who can play the game when the rules keep being changed under the sheets in the middle of the night?

Also, it was Canada that introduced the LIFT program whereby the U.S. was called GOOP (that pressured farmers and ranchers to accelerate the growth of their herds to abnormally large numbers. All of this mismanagement, coupled with a government bent on imposing a National Beef Marketing Board, has worn away the confidence of our major and natural trading partner.

The border blockade of Canadian beef is an obvious example of eroded American confidence in Canadian beef export policies. The blockade is the action. The symptoms have been there for more than 2 to 2 1/2 years when many American cattlemen were expressing their frustration at the Canadian government for formulating these policies with a roulette wheel faster than a popcorn popper on a hot stove.

It is not too late. The North American beef market system must be made to work; but it will never work at its optimum if Canadian policy does not keep in touch with the wishes of our cattlemen and our consumers and with our largest trading partner.

Our winter roads

hurry and hubby knew that we must not. After my year of marriage he realized when he was dead. We had a quick sandwich and a cup of coffee too. I felt at last better now wouldn't you?

As we neared the junction the signal light clicked on. We weren't going that way, what over could be wrong? In Bill's driving all the confidence I had, but oh, that creatured would certainly be dead. With a smile on his face he looked across at me and said, "Just relax, it'll be okay, soon you'll see." Well, he was right, I was wrong, on that road we travelled along.

Everything was going great till I got that hunger pang. When we reached Edson we just had to eat again!

Arriving at Hinton we caught Billie scrubbing the floor. She hadn't expected us for a couple of hours more. She finished her job and we got settled in. Shortly picking up a fourth our possible bed began.

Those roads that had caused me anxiety were really just fine. When we got to the end and snore we had a wonderful time!

Notice

It has been brought to the attention of the County of Flagstaff that some farmers are shearing their lambs, posing the snow across the road or leaving it on the road shoulders.

This Practice Must Cease

The snow must be disposed of on your own property. Action will be taken if snow is removed from lawns, yards and left on road shoulders.

Heisler and District News Items

The Heisler Senior Citizens "Friendship" Club received a "Certificate of Achievement" from the Minister of Culture for successful accomplishment. This has been framed and prominently displayed on the top of the piano. A book case has been purchased and a library started. The front of the Senior Citizens building has been finished in stone work. The new riding in the park in the spring. The interior has been completely finished. We feel justly proud of our endeavours. Mr. and Mrs. Philip Hauck were dinner guests at the home of her nephew, the Norman Burdards.

The "Birthday Club" gathered at the Senior Citizens building to help Mrs. Frances Nishaus and Mrs. Peter Hepp celebrate their birthdays. The party was hosted by Mary Heisler and Agnes Kuntz.

The Norwegian Whist card party was held at the home of Mrs. Frances Nishaus on Wednesday evening. High score went to Gerlie Hauck and second high to Irene Fankhael. The Joe Martin family helped their dad celebrate his 77 birthday on Sunday. With nearly all the family present, the party was held at the home of their daughter Florence and son-in-law Warren Sommer and family. The large birthday cake was baked and decorated by daughter-in-law Alma Martin. Present were Ralph and Helen of Camrose, Rita and Irvin Blumhagen of Calgary, Leander and Maryanne, Lorraine and Norman, Gilbert and Alma and Angie and Jerry Riba. Theresa and Jim Krotach of Edmonton and Melvin of Calgary were unable to attend. Innie and Lenora Lassu and Dana of Lethbridge spent a few days with his folks Mr. and Mrs. Fred Lassu.

Mary and Jim Cunningham and family of Kelowna were Sunday visitors with her folks Mr. and Mrs. Matt Nishaus. A surprise housewarming party was held at the home of Roseanne and Herman Fredrick near Forestburg. The house which they built is very unique. Folks from Heisler who attended the housewarming were Roseanne's parents Mr. and Mrs. Fred Lassu, Irene Fankhael, Michael Leuss, Mr. and Mrs. Norm Lassu, Mr. and Mrs. Del Krotach and Mr. and Mrs. Frances Fankhael also a numerous crowd from the Forestburg area.

Dr. Don Hauck and son Philip of Wainwright were Sunday visitors at the home of his folks Mr. and Mrs. Philip Hauck. The Heisler Curling Club held their club curling event with 16 teams taking part. Rick winners were: Grand Challenge Mickey Heisler, 2nd. Norman Martin, 3rd. Bill Lousch, 4th. Allan Sommer. Second event: 1st. Leo Jopson, 2nd. Larry Nawrot, 3rd. Brian Martin and 4th. to the Heisler South club 4-11 team.

Mr. and Mrs. Philip Hauck are staying with their grandchildren in Wainwright, while Collin and Joanne go to Lethbridge for four days for a Knight of Columbus hockey tournament.

Kathy Krotach and Susan Walker of Edmonton were home over the weekend.

Lillian and Ray Hutchinson of Fort Saskatchewan were visiting her parents Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Rauter on Monday.

Carey and Joan Krotach and Judy Sells with Tracy, and Fred of Corvallis were Sunday visitors with Rose and Albert Krotach. Bonnie and Gerry and Morris Stolt of Dayland were home on Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Stan Badry.

Agnes and Sylvester Kuntz spent the weekend with Allan and Bert Kuntz in Red Deer, inspecting their new home.

On February 7, 1978 from 6:30 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. The Devonian Group of Charitable Foundations will have a Caravan of four displays parked at the Heisler School grounds for public viewing. The Caravan consists of: 1. Early for trading practices, 2. Tops of yesterday's, 3. Peoples of Alberta, 4. Vanishing Canada. The general public is invited to view the displays and admission is free. Students will have the opportunity to view these displays during normal school hours.

A Junior High School Curling Bonspiel is being planned for the Heisler Junior High School students on February 8 commencing at 9:00 a.m. Parents are more than welcome to attend the Bonspiel at the Heisler Curling Rink.

A coronation booth is being planned for the day as well. The Heisler Junior High School Students Union is holding a closed Valentine's "Solex Hop" on February 10, from 8:00 p.m. to 11:00 p.m. at the school. If a student wants to leave early he or she will have to sign out upon departure.

Donald Fankhael spent the weekend with his sister Muriel in Alliance, also enjoying visiting with his parents Mr. and Mrs. Kim vanbeek of Edmonton is staying a few days with her grandparents Mr. and Mrs. Bill Brownstein. Mrs. Audrey Bruesen with Michelle and Billy of Camrose are also visiting for a few days.

4-H Horse Club organizes for 1978

We held our first meeting in the Auction Market on January 9th. There were 13 members present plus about 8 adults.

Meeting was opened with the 4-H pledge and roll call and minutes of last meeting.

Nominations for new executive were called for and resulted in the following: President - Patti Wallace, Vice Pres. - Allison Gagne, Secretary - Lori Lund, Treasurer - Carmen Gagne, Club leader - Stan Wheeler, Assn. Leader - Jean Jones, Adult Committee Members - Pat Wallace, Philip Rott, Liz DeBruin, Mr. and Mrs. Dave Brinker of Dayland (former 4-H member) Karen Hines.

We have 21 registered members this year ranging in ages from 6 to 15 years old.

New business arising from this meeting is an invitation to visit Ian McCrae from Hardisty and his new barn set-up for horses. Members are quite enthusiastic about going and Stan will arrange with Mr. McCrae for possible late January or early February visit.

Patti and Lori are going to arrange the photo committee circles.

Heisler North Dairy Club has challenged us for the cup again in bowling and Stan is going to arrange a Sunday afternoon.

I was moved we have our meetings every 2nd Wednesday of the month at 7:30 p.m. Members please note.

We discussed record books and membership cards. It was decided that we keep scrapbooks for Achievement Days, with pictures and information on our horses.

The meeting was adjourned with lunch served by Mrs. Wallace and Stan, and the adult committee filling in necessary forms for registration.

About half of the $2.5 million allocated this year for land reclamation from the heritage savings trust fund is being invested by villages, towns and other municipal governments, environment minister Dave Russell said today.

The environment department and municipal governments now are involved in several dozen joint reclamation projects.

Many of the projects involve lands that were mined for coal and abandoned before 1973 when the land surface conservation and reclamation act has been passed. Since then, the companies which mined land have been required to reclaim it to government standards, which usually require the land to be as productive as before mining.

Abandoned coal mined lands are being reclaimed near Foreburg, Cardiff, Vulcan, and Grassy Lake for recreational, agricultural, and industrial uses. Derelict lands and steep-banked pits are being cleared of hazards and converted to productive use.

Abandoned sewage lagoons are being reclaimed at Lacombe, Castor, Cold Lake, Bruderheim, Lamont and Sedgewick. These lagoons are no longer sufficient to meet their growing communities' needs, and have been replaced by larger facilities.

The department purchased 250 acres of worked-out strip mine and has levelled it. The area is being revegetated and will eventually be used as agricultural land. Total cost is estimated at $225,000.

The department levelled an abandoned sewage lagoon at a cost of $400 and the town is seeding the area. Final use of the land has not been decided.

Kindergarten honours grandparents

Due to brain drain this report has been delayed for three months. Please accept my apologies. By now I'm sure the kids have forgotten the wonderful stories Betty Walsh read to them on November 1st. Thank you Betty.

The children were thrilled with the fireball visit on November 4. Chief Cal MacPherson gave them a ride in the fire engine back to the kindergarten.

Their visit to the post office was not only informative, it was also for business reasons. As they mailed their letters to their grandparents for Pioneer Day on November 25.

The girls stepped out in their bonnets and the boys in their top hats to greet their grandparents. Boutonnieres made by the children were given to the grandparents at the door. The children put on a pioneer play and sang songs for entertainment. Homemade bread and jam was served for lunch. A good time was had by all.

December was a busy month with preparations for Christmas. On December 15 the kindergarten mothers put on a kumby supper. At supper the children sang songs and did the Christmas story. A gift was given to the parents by the children. At the end of the evening, Santa Claus made his appearance with a bag of candy for each. A good time was had by all.

January was a quiet month, the children have gone skating for the last four Fridays.

We have a few notices for the next month. On February 1 and March 9 and 10, the kindergarten will be closed due to Teacher Preparation Day and Teacher's Convention.

Easter holidays start on March 24 and end on April 3.

While playing crib on Monday afternoon with Mrs. Ida Black, Mrs. Tony Blackney and Mr. Rod MacKinnon, Mr. Jim Walsh had a 29 hand. This is the dream of every crib player and many never even see a 29 hand but this was the second one for Jim. Some people are lucky.

I have to correct a news item of last week. It is Mr. Holly Kendrick who is residing in the Viking Nursing Home not Mrs. Molly as appeared in previous T's. I have to improve my writing.

We are very sorry to hear that Mark Meer broke his leg in a ski accident at Alliance on Saturday. Hope you don't have to wear that cast too long Mark.

Mr. and Mrs. Lorne French and Mr. and Mrs. Cal MacPherson with Mr. and Mrs. Sid Reis of Manville returned on Sunday 22 January from a skiing holiday at Salt Lake City, U.S.A.

Mr. and Mrs. Lorne French and baby Kristian were visiting friends and relatives in the Sedgewick district at the weekend.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Sparrow arrived home on Monday morning from their vacation in the Bahamas.

Mr. John Baker, Mr. Leif Oshack, Mr. Greg Empey and the Co-op manager Mr. Al Strobel, were in Edmonton on business last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Walsh visited with the Grant Blanders in Heister on Sunday.

Mr. George Anderson had the weekend at his parental home, the Red Coluberts.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Bergum of Wetaskiwin were visitors recently with Beas and Irving Bergum.

Randy Mikkelson and Lana Loftus of Wetaskiwin spent the weekend with his mother, Walthe Mikkelson and girls.

Larry Leirdahl of Edmonton spent a few days with his mother last week Mrs. Geris Leirdahl.

Ervin and Margaret Feder visited in Edmonton recently with the Butch Dornie family and the Donald Horinek family.

Mr. Ken Caruth returned to Inuvik where he is employed after spending holidays at home.

Mr. and Mrs. Irving Bergum went to Dayland to help Julie and Bob Parsons pack and now the Parsons have moved to Vegreville where Bob continues work for A.G.T.

Mr. Lindsay Hay, 66 Willow Park Green, Calgary passed away on Friday, January 27 after being ill from cancer for a long time. Mr. Hay was the eldest son of Mr. Scotty Hay who was manager of the Creamery here for many years. We offer our sympathy to the Hay family. The funeral took place in Calgary on Wednesday February 1.

At the usual Wednesday afternoon card party at the Senior Citizens Drop-In Centre Mr. Stephen Potage won the prize for the highest score for men with the unusually high count of 192. Mr. A.W. Russell won the consolation award. Mrs. Hazel MacKinnon, Mrs. Guenda Storbakken and Mrs. Lillian Craig tied for the ladies high score so cut the cards for the Radio Shack's STS-68, highly praised by a major audio magazine, and with good reason: it's the greatest combination of power, features and quality you'll find in this price range. Dual-gate MOSFET FET offers higher sensitivity, lower noise and higher overload resistance than conventional FET types. Triple-ganged All-tuner. Direct-coupled amplifiers. Deluxe taping facilities with up-front dubbing let you record on three decks at once and dub from one to the other two. Signal strength and center-channel meters help you tune for lowest total harmonic distortion. Full muting and "no switch" beautiful blackout dial with source indicator and color-change; dial pointer/retro indicator. Main/remote speaker switching. And with a second speaker pair, you can enjoy Quadraphonic surround-sound. ST-3883.

Barb Kunst auxiliary president

The regular meeting of the Legion Auxiliary was held on January 17th with a roll of 9 and 6 visits to the sick.

President Barbara Kunst opened the meeting, Chaplain Verma Shultz led in repeating the Auxiliary Prayer.

The meeting was turned over to District Commander Madam Allison Barton. Edna Duffield was elected as executive member to replace Betty Kirkman. The following slate of officers for the incoming year were installed.

President - Barbara Kunst
Vice-Pres. - Olive Grieve
Secretary - Edna Looney
Treasurer - Vesta Cookson
Chaplain - Verma Shultz
Sgt. At Arms - Jerry Johnson
Color Bearers - Hazel Swainson - Hannah Oakes.
Executive - Margaret Denham, Ella Collier, Edna Duffield.

Members who were absent will be installed at the February meeting. Minutes were read and adopted as read. Treasurers report, adopted as read.

Barbara Kunst and Eunice Looney were elected to audit the books.

Two letters were read acknowledging the Bursary and Hospital fund donations. Anyone having pictures or snaps of interest to the Auxiliary of Legion please bring to the next meeting, where they will be put in an album or frame for safe keeping.

Provincial Command Lane Hospitality Bags for the Dominion Curling and Raza competitions. Each District Commander is to get the Auxiliary in her district to put something towards this depicting Alberta.

The Auxiliary in Provost are now selling very nice cook books at $4. each. Anyone interested in purchasing one contact Allison Barton.

Edna was the birthday girl. Happy Birthday Edna.

President Barbara Kunst thanked Madam Barton for installing the officers. The raffle was held and Vesta was the "Lucky One."

Meeting adjourned. Members joined the Legion members for a lovely lunch supplied by Allison Barton and Irene Potter. See you all on the 21st of February.

Rosyth pioneer marks 100th birthday

Mrs. Leslie D. Miller, the former Estelle Brondgeest, was born in Orangeville, Ontario on January 7, 1878. The fourth in a family of nine children. At the age of two years she moved with her parents and family to a Wabash farm in the Turtle Mountain district of Manitoba, later moving to the Whitewater district. Her father passed away when she was 9 years old, leaving her Mother and small children to carry on, which they all did, working hard to keep the family together.

In 1910 she married Leslie D. Miller and moved to the Wabash district. In 1917 they and four children moved to Alberta, settling on a farm in the Rosyth district, where one more son was born. Here they spent many happy years including the hard times of the thirties. Later they settled on a farm closer to Hardisty, where the Interpretive Provincial Pumping Station is now. She lost a son, Morley, in 1920, her husband in 1948 and Maurice in 1962. She lived in her home doing her own work until she was 97 years old, when she left to live with her daughters. At 98 she moved into the Jasper Place Central Park Lodge, where she celebrated her 100th Birthday on January 7th. About 30 friends, relatives and children visited her, where birthday cake and coffee was served. The youngest great grandchild, nearly 100 years younger, Shaun Marie Miller from Hardisty, attended the party.

She received many congratulations including ones from the Queen, many Government officials plus cards from relatives and friends. Mrs. Miller was also showered with bouquets of flowers and gifts, including one from the Rosyth F.W.U.A. ladies, a local group to which Mrs. Miller was a long time member. She has 16 grandchildren, 17 great grandchildren, a son Les in Miller, Hardisty, daughters, Verd Clark, Edmonton and Edith Marler, R.R.1 Sherwood Park.

TRINITY L.C.W.

The January meeting was held Monday the 23rd in the United Church basement with eight members present. President Jenny Mae Tweedy opened the meeting and Preamble was repeated by all. Devotion was read by Donna Steinhilber. Bev Neibergal led in an interesting Bible Study on "Workship." The minutes of the last meeting were read and discussed. Trinity Church and United Church Women have divided the cost of candy bags for the Christmas Program.

Plans were made for the Valentine Tea and Bake Sale Feb. community Hall, Lougheed.

A letter of thanks was read from the children of Bethany Home for gifts sent to them at Christmas. The offering Meditation was read by Norma Probst and we then closed with the Lord's Prayer.

Irene Potter was the hostess. Next meeting will be held Feb. 16th, 7:30 p.m.

Hardisty and District News Items

Sorry to hear that Jeanette Drager fell on the basement steps and cracked a wrist so will have her right hand in a cast for sometime.

Glad to see Mrs. Grace Kells back in the drug store again after being away for sometime on account of illness.

Some of the travellers are back from Hawaii. Some are just ready to go. Lyle Lukens said that he and Brenda enjoyed their trip over there and only wished that they could have brought some of their hot weather back with them.

Rev. and Mrs. N. Jackson, accompanied by Isabel Nelson drove to Kessler Hall on Monday where Rev. Jackson had the funeral service for Mrs. Glad Gilbertson who passed away at 89 years of age.

The pallbearers were grandsons, one of them being John and Dixie (Clark) Gilbertson's son of Drayton Valley.

The honorary pallbearers were one time neighbours. Frank Moorman, Ernest Peddicord, Buck Davis, Glen Mitchell, Glen Campbell and Jim Todd.

Interment was in Fairfield cemetery with lunch afterwards in Kessler Hall.

The Strong Ladies held their meeting at the home of Mrs. Gladys Goodrich with very few members attending due to colds etc. It was Marj Korih's birthday month so we enjoyed cakes made by both Gladys and Mary Goodrich.

Mrs. Jack Spady of Alliance with her two daughters-in-law visited her cousin in Hardisty Manor, Mrs. Nellie Scott. Also visiting Mrs. Scott was her daughter Mrs. Lois Jack of Irma.

We are glad to hear that Mr. Jim Davidson expects to be home anytime now after undergoing surgery in Edmonton.

Mrs. Gerie Terry who is in Victoria at present, will be leaving for Hawaii with her sister in early February.

The Drop-In Centre is getting very comfortable down stairs as 2 chestofridges and chairs have been donated so there is a place for the spectators to watch the pool games now.

Your reporter has been following the Oak Lake Manitoba hostage drama with great interest, so it was with relief to hear that he finally gave himself up.

Having a cousin living in Oak Lake and two about twelve miles away plus my dad being brought up there, it was of special interest.

Congratulations to Lena Hopfe on winning the last of the mini jackpots at the Elks bingo.

It was a nice sum of $80.00 and the Elks, from now on will have bingo Wednesday night instead of Friday night.

The new helper in the Bank is Colleen Anshel of Anish. Her mother is Vera Hendrick's niece, also Howard Hays. So we welcome you to Hardisty Colleen.

Talked to Mrs. Catherine Martin of Ottwell Lodge and wished her many happy returns on her 82nd birthday. Says she is keeping quite well which we are glad to hear.

Two happy advertisers, Garth Weatherly and Larry Quast received responses to their ad, re snow shovelling etc. and we were given some work to do, so it pays to advertise.

We were sorry to hear that Donna Fossum had broken her leg and hoped that she gets along well.

Your reporter saw a big flock of evening grosbeaks in a tree of Mr. C. Prost's. Too bad there aren't more mountain ash trees in town as they enjoy the berries.

The Legion Mixed Bonspiel for this Zone was held in Hardisty on Jan. 28 and 29, with one rink from Sedgewick and two from Hardisty taking part.

The winning rink was from Hardisty, members being: Jim Thomson, skip, Jo McChesna 3rd, Allan Thomson 2nd and Pauline Gately, lead.

This rink will go to Oak Lake on Feb. 16 for the District spiel.

Mrs. Dave Livingstone called on Isabel Nelson for a few minutes while her son Charles was in to see the driver testers.

It surely was nice to see Evelyn again and to hear that son Daryl, who has been hospitalized since the car accident in Sedgewick last summer, has lately been showing much improvement in recognizing his family.

For some time he was unaware of their presence but the other day said "Hello Donna" when his sister came to visit. Here's hoping that his improvement continues on a steady basis.

The bountiful lunch dispelled all thoughts of 13 being unlucky there were 13 around the table.

Next meeting Wed. Feb. 8. Good health, good weather and a happy return home should give us a full house.

The program was first started two years ago and last year several such "islands" were used successfully by Canada geese. The project was prompted by the scarcity of natural sites along shorelines.

The creation of a site, consists of cutting holes in the ice of protected bays and sloughs. Round fath straw bales wrapped with stucco wire are then dropped through the ice. Locations selected are usually those sites not susceptible to ice and wave action.

Part of the bales sits approximately two to three feet above the water and provides an ideal nesting site for geese with

STAR-NOSED MOLE

CONDYLURA CRISTATA

Like others of its kind, the star-nosed mole is very peculiar in addition to its size. Along its flexible, shaped hands together with a flexible portion of its covered body, it constructs a network of bumps in fast or two beneath the surface, but above the soil for its food. Its body is made of short quills and other vegetation.

Found over most of eastern Canada as far north as James Bay, this animal is about 6" in length, approximately 1/2" of which is tail. The tip of the snout is expanded into a rigid pink disc which supports 22 finger-like tentacles or feelers, and which give this creature its name.

Active for 12 months of the year, it spends a good deal of its time in the water where it is an able swimmer and has often been observed swimming under the ice in winter. The star-nosed mole preys on worms, insects and crustacea. It has few natural enemies but sometimes falls prey to the Great Horned Owl and to some of the larger fish.

Loughheed Rebekahs

The regular Rebekah Lodge meeting was held in the Community Hall on Wednesday, January 25th with thirteen members present. Noble Grand Sir Ashton Barrie was in the chair.

Illness, vacations and inclement weather caused many members to be absent, but despite this the sisters business was dispensed. Sisler Gwen Freeman and Katie Sneathan received birthday honors.

The bountiful lunch dispelled all thoughts of 13 being unlucky there were 13 around the table.

Next meeting Wed. Feb. 8. Good health, good weather and a happy return home should give us a full house.

Iron Creek Fish & Game installs nesting sites

The Fish and Wildlife division of Alberta Recreation, Parks and Wildlife and the Vermilion, Marwayne, Lloydminster and Iron Creek Fish and Game Associations are once again engaged in a "Buck for Wildlife" project to provide secure nesting sites for Canada geese.

Approximately 60 sites have already been installed in the Kenworthy and Bellshill Lake area in east central Alberta. Divisional staff will be working in the Stettler area for the next two weeks and then the project will move to the Brooks and Medicine Hat areas.

The program was first started two years ago and last year several such "islands" were used successfully by Canada geese. The project was prompted by the scarcity of natural sites along shorelines.

The creation of a site, consists of cutting holes in the ice of protected bays and sloughs. Round fath straw bales wrapped with stucco wire are then dropped through the ice. Locations selected are usually those sites not susceptible to ice and wave action.

Operation Ski Check

Are you afraid of losing your skis?

If so, the local R.C.M.P. or club will be marking skis of local interested people.

These markings consist of two parts. The top of the ski will be marked with an invisible ultra-violet number. A Ski Check sticker will also be placed on the top of the ski. A steel plate will also be engraved somewhere on the ski.

The identification number, in most cases, will be the same as the number on the owner's driver's license. If checked, this number must correspond exactly with the number that will go on file with the R.C.M.P. records in Edmonton. If the ski equipment you have with you does not have a proper number, you had better be able to explain why you have this equipment, says Staff Sgt. Bob Finster.

Ski boots will be marked with the invisible marker on both sides of the boots. Ski jackets will be marked on the jacket near the collar. Ski poles will have a Ski Check marker wrapped around them.

Beef director reports

This column is the first in a series of designed to update beef producers in this zone as to the activities of their organization. These articles will be written by myself and the other 9 elected zone representatives on a regular basis.

In the first two weeks of November the A.C.C. conducted a series of producer election meetings across the province. In zone 4, consisting of special areas 2, 3, and 4, County of Parkland and Flagstaff and the M.D.'s of Acadia Valley, Provost and Wainwright, meetings were held at Hanna, Oyen, and Corcoran.

Successful candidates for two year terms were Cliff Downey, Cadot, Jim Gowanlock, Forestburg, Brian Heidecker, Corcoran, Frank Gattley, Consort and Ted Christensen.

Zone Director, Alister MacArthur of Walsh assumes the vice chairmanship. Best of luck to these fellows as they help guide our industry out of the financial slumps of the past five years.

—Brian Heidecker, Zone Director, Alta. Cattle Commission

cutting ceremony, the members of the Seto family, plus Mayor of Hardisty, Mr. Golka and Mr. Bill Mitchell.

With the official grand opening of the Seto Dining Lounge held February 8, 1978 at the lounge, the Chinese New Year was a very special one for the Seto family of Hardisty.

The grand opening commenced with approximately 100 friends of the community and surrounding areas present.

At the finish of the opening the Seto family and guests made their way to the Elks Hall in Hardisty to celebrate the opening and to bring in the Chinese New Year in a gala fashion.

The Chinese New Year which fell on February 7 of this year, is year 4000 according to the Chinese calendar and called year of the Horse.

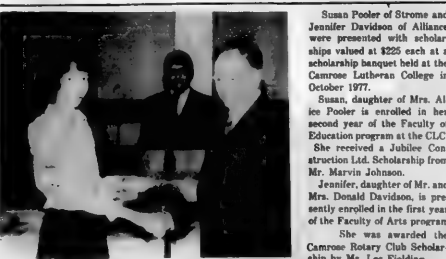

At 8:30 p.m. over 400 people sat down to a lovely banquet followed by Mayor Louis Golka of Hardisty introducing the host tables.

He asked that applause be withheld until members of the family were introduced, however, when he proceeded to introduce Wally and Sally Seto, president and secretary of the Seto Dining Lounge, they received a standing ovation.

Mayor Golka then continued to introduce Tommy Seto, manager of the lounge, Jim Chu together with his wife, Julie, manager of the dining lounge and finally May and Sally Seto the younger girls of the Seto family.

Introductions were ended with the recognition of the regular staff members who serve the public. Mr. and Mrs. Bob McFarlane from the Federal Business Development Bank and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Kroeger, M.L.A.

Congratulations to the Setos on the opening of their fine establishment.

Susan Poole of Strome and Jennifer Davidson of Alliance were presented with scholarships valued at $225 each at a scholarship banquet held at the Camrose Lutheran Church in October 1977.

Susan, daughter of Mrs. Alice Poole is enrolled in her second year of the Faculty of Education program at the C.L.C. She received a Jubilee Construction Ltd. Scholarship from Mr. Marvin Johnson.

Jennifer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Davidson, is presently enrolled in the first year of the Faculty of Arts program. She was awarded the Camrose Rotary Club Scholarship by Mr. Les Fielding.

Sedgewick to host Midget D provincials

The Provincial D Midget playoffs will be held at the Sedgewick Rec Centre starting Friday, March 31 and will continue through to April 2 if necessary.

There will probably be a total of eight teams participating, one from each of the seven zones and Sedgewick as host team.

The first game will begin Friday at 1:00 p.m. with play-offs continuing right into Sunday if all 13 games are necessary to find a winner.

D.H.E. to speak to Hobby Club

On Wednesday evening, January 18 the Amalgamated Hobbyists of Playstuff met in the Sedgewick United Church Hall with 15 present.

President, Mr. D. Patterson chaired a short business meeting. It was decided to renew membership with the Alberta Horticulture Association.

The President showed two films on New Zealand which had been obtained through the school. Mr. Potting had two interesting pictures on Yew. One was a pen and ink drawing in an antique frame, and the other a garland wreath in a shadow box frame. Lunch and social hour rounded off the program.

The next Hobby Club meeting will be the third Wednesday of February - which will be February 15 at 8:00 p.m. in the Sedgewick United Church Hall. The guest speaker will be Diane Bourne, our District Home Economist who will be talking about Easter preparations. Everyone welcome.

KEEPING IN TOUCH

THE ADMINISTRATION OF GOVERNMENT

One of the fundamental laws of communication is that as soon as a group becomes too large for effective communication, participants either become disenchanted or have a tendency to build themselves up to shield themselves in a sense of self-importance.

It is interesting to note that Canada today has 55 members in its Federal Cabinet. It recently added another one to give a full 54 person government from now. By contrast, the United States with 10 times our population has a Cabinet of 14. In effect it takes 20 more Canadians to run a $200 billion economy than it does Americans to run a $2 trillion economy.

However, perhaps one of the most unfortunate aspects of the recent decade is the fact that seldom is a Cabinet Minister in a portfolio long enough to be an authority in his job. I am sure that it will surprise most constituents to learn that there have been 150 changes in the present Government Cabinet since 1968. These are not, of course, all resignations but rather shifts from one portfolio to another. One must question whether or not there is an ulterior motive in moving a Cabinet Minister from one portfolio to another or whether or not that motive is to deliberately keep him from becoming highly competent in his portfolio. Obviously, the lower the level of competence of a large number of Cabinet Ministers, the more the control of the government remains amongst a select few.

Furthermore, it is interesting to note that in the past nine years some Cabinet positions have had one change every year. There are other Cabinet positions that have seven or eight changes in the nine year period. Of particular concern, however, I believe that Canada ought to recognize that the 42 per cent increase in the size of the Canadian Cabinet in the last nine years has logically caused a communications problem within the Cabinet itself. To envision the nature of conversation that must take place when 54 people are collected around a table, each biding their time to speak, the level of in-depth thinking and continuity of discussion must be greatly curtailed from that of a smaller more cohesive Cabinet.

Those people who have done well in the field of social communication will be well aware of the fact that there is an optimum size for group discussions and in fact that in all the Cabinet is, a group of people discussing very important matters. It is not possible, however, if the size of the Cabinet continues to grow without check, to have all people participating and feeling meaningfully involved, and at the same time to have a coordinated, concentrated, and directed attack against the problems of the nation.

The best ideas are those that accrue from a mental interplay wherein there is a sense of participation that causes a constant alertness of the mind. Thirty-four people gathered around one table obviously means that during the course of a single meeting many will not be participating and will simply "mentally opt out."

At the bottom line one could really ask whether or not Ham let or Maclean could have better been written by a committee of thirty-four. It is my firm belief that the size of the Cabinet in Canada should be trimmed so as to keep in touch with the Canadian citizen—not only for the amount of money that would be saved directly but rather for the fact that a smaller group would have a greater degree of participation and, therefore, a more meaningful role in guiding the ship of state.

Deepest sympathy of the community goes out to Mrs. Percy Stitt and family and all relatives in their loss of Mr. Percy Stitt, who passed away suddenly on Monday, Jan. 30, at the age of 70. Funeral services were held on Wednesday, Feb. 1 from the United Church with Rev. Tom McLaughlin officiating.

Dr. and Mrs. Mike DeAbreu and family were weekend visitors to Edmonton. Mr. and Mrs. Doug Foster were visitors to Calgary for the weekend.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Brodie and Mr. and Mrs. Moe Sorenson left by train for Toronto and from there by plane to Antiga, West Indies, on a holiday.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Morgan and Mrs. Glen Roggenack spent the weekend in Calgary visiting Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Erickson, Mrs. Gordon Keinderfer and Joan, Mr. and Mrs. Nick Shepet, Miss Kay Alquist and Mr. and Mrs. Dave Galt. We were found time to have coffee with Rose Schaffer.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Weivoda of Oregon are visiting at the old Davidson home for a few weeks. Mr. and Mrs. George Bonnett left by plane for Sanderson and Parra, California for a visit with a brother and two nieces.

Mrs. Lloyd George went by plane to Quebec City to visit Mr. and Mrs. Claude Debbis and to admire the new granddaughter Sara Ann.

Mr. and Mrs. Pat Sorenson, Mr. and Mrs. Jay Pritchard and Mr. and Mrs. Herb Stell were on a holiday to Las Vegas.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert North and Mrs. Jim Black attended a gift show in Calgary on the weekend. Mr. and Mrs. North drove onto Edmonton and Mrs. Black returned home. Killam and district residents and businesses are reminded to expect a canvasser soon on behalf of the Agriplex debt retirement.

Mrs. Doreen Bowersock and Mrs. Florence Martin of Forestburg were recent visitors with Mr. and Mrs. Ted Erickson.

Old books given away by the Edmonton Public Library, may be more of a problem than a blessing, say Killam Community Library Board members at January 26 meeting.

A letter from the Edmonton Public Library informed us that thousands of "culled" books are available, free, just for the picking and taking. After considerable discussion it was the consensus that this may be more of a problem than a blessing, due to the distance separating us. However it was decided that this could be checked out further by some members who will be in the city March 10 and March 11.

D. Cote reported that several contacts had been made in regard to the typing of filing cards. Payment is to be fifty cents per book. The Grade 7 class is soon to begin assisting with this task. The filing cabinet previously ordered, had arrived and is in use in the library.

The Annual Report of Public Libraries in Alberta was completed and forwarded January 27.

A letter to the County of Flagstaff was to be forwarded, requesting the grant for the coming year.

A proposed budget was presented, approved and is to be presented to the Town Council at its next regular meeting.

G. Slavik will be phoning volunteer library workers at the beginning of each week, during February, to remind them of the dates and times they are to serve. We are most appreciative of those who assist in this manner. Remember, these are volunteer workers, to make it worthwhile. Obtain and enjoy what's on the shelves.

B. Friedrich has permission to set up a special section of Leisure Books, for the convenience of readers. This will be of particular interest for grades four to nine. If this proves to be a worthwhile venture this special selection of books will be continued.

T. Tiffen is to check into the cost of shelving for this Easy Reading section. Community clubs and organizations are invited to meet occasionally in the library. Here you will find pleasant surroundings and at the same time members will be able to browse through the books and publications. Kindly contact T. Tiffen to arrange a date for your meeting.

Renewed subscriptions included publications such as the Alberta Poetry Year Book, Country Guide, Wilderness Arts and Recreation, and Horsemanship (Big and Small).

B. Friedrich reported that January 23-27 was Kid's Week. Grades one to three were especially encouraged to use the library.

Monday suckers were handed out. Names were entered in a mystery draw. Winners were Grade 1 - Dwayne Kilbore, Grade 2 - Connie Sorenson, Grade 3 - Carrie Sorenson.

A Valentine poster contest for grades one to six is forthcoming.

Books, recently added to the shelves: The Thorn Birds (Colleen McCullough) No. 1 best seller lists. Story of a family and their struggles.

The Silmarillion (J.R.R. Tolkien) An engraving fantasy. The Deep (Peter Benchley) An action packed underwater thriller. Now, also a movie.

Trinity (Leon Uris). A story of Northern Ireland and her troubles.

The Greek Treasure (Iris Irving)

Sorenson - 4 points, and Bill Smolaki - 2 points.

The second game they played was against St. Edmund, an Edmonton team. Killam lost by a score of 36-21 and the half time score was 26-7 for St. Edmund. Killam's points were made by Blair Grant - 7 points, Glen Trotter - 6 points, Gary Fomen, Bill Smolaki, Kenny Moore each with 2 points and Glen Costes and Leighton Sorenson each with one point.

In the basketball tournament in Sedgewick for the Killam went and didn't win. The new uniforms were ordered just after the basketball season was over.

The junior high will be using the Agriplex for their mini-B option. We are taking swimming, bowling, curling and skating. We are using the Agriplex for the next two weeks. In the first five weeks the boys have the pool and the girls have the ice for girls hockey. At the end of the five weeks they will switch and the girls will have the pool and the boys will have the ice. On Thursday at 4:00 the girls are having a game against the teachers at the Killam arena.

Our curling bonspiel will be held on Friday and Saturday, March 3 and 4.

When using your fireplace, please remember that an extra supply of fresh air is essential. Otherwise, there's a possibility of depleting the supply of air to your gas appliances.

You can ensure a sufficient supply of air and avoid the possibility of a hazardous situation by opening a window when using the fireplace.

By closing the fireplace damper when the fireplace is not in use, you'll prevent loss of heat up the chimney and conserve energy.

Hardisty and District News Items

Shari Lukens and Lana Suko were in Ponoka on Sunday, January 29, 1978 for the Zone 4 State-Ofs for the Alberta Winter Games which take place in Medicine Hat March 1 to 5. Both girls did well with Shari placing second in the Intermediate Ladies event and she will go on to the games at Medicine Hat. Out of 28 girls competing, Lana finished 8 in Juvenile Ladies. Well done girls.

A very nice afternoon was spent at the Drop-In Centre when seven Lougheed residents came down.

Those coming were Mr. and Mrs. Hunter White, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Probst, Mrs. Johnson, Mrs. Marlow and Mrs. Denham.

A few cards were played, floor shuffleboard, shuffleboard, also pool and bingo.

After games a plentiful lunch was served and Mr. H. Probst thanked the Hardisty people for inviting them to such an enjoyable afternoon. He also invited Hardisty people to attend their card parties on Thursday evenings.

The Chamber of Commerce meeting with discussion of the neighborhood watch was well attended and gave people something to think about.

Hopefully the Chamber of Commerce reporter will report on this as your reporter, regretfully, did not attend.

Barry Elliot has returned to his home at Shawanau, after being bumped aside by seniority.

He hopes to be able to come back to Hardisty again and will soon know what the score is.

Congratulations to Eddie Maana on winning the Elks jackpot of $125.

Ann and Heinie Koblitzsch have returned from a trip to the States. Went as far as Tijuana, Mexico. Heinie said that they were snowed all the way to California and with so much rain down there, some of the oranges didn't look too healthy.

They were discovered at Knott's Berry farm by another Albertan, namely Norma Pet.

Hardisty who lives in Edmonton and had taken his family down to Disneyland.

Norman went to school in Hardisty so he was glad to see someone from his old home town.

The bingo are changed a bit now and have new sliding cards, so if we forget our bingo chips it is still okay.

It would be nice if there was a reporter for the hockey games in Hardisty. I did hear that when Viking came down to play, they led the game for some time, then Hardisty forgot about winning the game.

We are surely sorry, about Larry Quast getting his eye injured. Get well soon Larry.

The sympathy of the community is extended to Mrs. Owen Conroy 10611 38 ave. Apt. 2 on the sudden passing of her son Stanley, age 17 years.

He had been hurt skiing before Christmas but was at home when rushed to hospital.

His mother looked after coffee shop in the hotel here for some time then moved to Wainwright, where she worked at the camp and later on went to Edmonton, so Stanley will be well remembered in Wainwright also.

Gladys Seltrahne has been promoted from wheel chair to walking at the Glenrose Hospital and has prospects of coming home before long.

A thank you card was sent to Arne Sargis, the donation of the lamp to the patient lounge and also the hospital staff for the lunch served at the Auxiliary Christmas party.

Don't just give your wife credit; she needs a little cash too.

Wednesday, February 8, 1978

Mrs. Edie Wells and Mrs. Wava Cameron were also holding parties in Hawaii and would like to be remembered to all their friends.

Mr. John Willett and Mr. Jim Willett and Nancy of Vancouver visited at the Lukens home last week.

HARDISTY HOCKEY LETTERS

There have been many ladies hockey teams spawned in Hardisty over a great number of years since a Hardisty senior citizen.

This was a statement made in reply to an article published in the February 1 edition of the Community Press about the ladies hockey game won at the Har-disty Winter Wipeout Days.

The article had said that the ladies hockey game would be one of the first ever in Hardisty but in a letter received from one of our readers, she said this was not so and wished to set the record straight.

"My earliest recollection of a ladies hockey team would be 1923-24, of which I was a member."

"In 1933-34 we boasted a championship team and I believe there was a pretty fair team here about ten years ago."

HARDISTY HOSPITAL AUXILIARY MEETING

The January meeting of the Hardisty Hospital Auxiliary was held in the hospital on January 11, 1978, with 10 members answering roll call.

Minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved.

Correspondence was read and dealt with. A variety of reports were heard.

Mrs. Wilder made donations to the showcase of men's slippers lined with sheep's wool.

The curators given to the Honorary members at Christmas time were received by Nettie Johnston, Alvina Parsons, Barb Matthews, Myrtle Elmqvist, Clara Wilder, Vera Hendricks, Mrs. Hearn, A. Richardson and Marion Elm.

Tickets have been made for the Afghan raffle to be made at the spring bazaar.

A thank you card was sent to Arne Sargis, the donation of the lamp to the patient lounge and also the hospital staff for the lunch served at the Auxiliary Christmas party.

Don't just give your wife credit; she needs a little cash too.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Probst, Mr. and Mrs. Doug Niehaus and Molly Perneyhouse were supper guests a week ago last Sunday at Mr. and Mrs. Mike Niehaus of Camrose.

They are completed. It was decided to make a quilt, and we discussed some ideas to do designs.

At our next meeting in February, each one can put on their "thinking cap" for new ideas for making a valentine card or article for their Silent Sister, but note — it must be hand made.

This meeting will be held at the home of Louise Wyllie with Violet Wyllie as co-hostess.

Rita donated to the Birthday Box this month, Valda Storkbaken was the lucky winner of the raffle. Hottentot prizes were won by Irene Potter and Helen O'Reilly, with consolation prizes going to Rita Storkbaken and Donna Martin. Our meeting concluded with all repeating the Lord's Prayer.

GOOSE CREEK LADIES CLUB

On the afternoon of Thursday, February 2 the Goose Creek Ladies Club met at the home of Mrs. T. Cookson in Sedgewick.

There were 8 members and 3 visitors present. Correspondence was received from the Bethany Home in Camrose for the Christmas parcel from our club and from Mrs. Jennie Baker for a Christmas card from Mrs. K. Peard.

The entertainment was a contest provided by Margaret Simpson which was won by Shirley Simpson and Donna Martin. The consolation went to Pearl Simpson and Marjorie Adamson.

Hardisty library receives gifts from students

In the true spirit of Christmas last December, several grades at the Hardisty school collected money for different projects instead of the usual gift exchange amongst themselves. The most fortunate beneficiary was the Hardisty Public Library.

Grades one to four and grade 8, under the guidance of their teachers, Mrs. Routledge, Mrs. Burden, Mrs. Stuart and Mrs. Penny, attended two presentations at the library to hand over the books they had chosen with the money they had collected.

Librarian Mrs. Ben Hahn and board members, Rev. Bert Jackson, Mrs. Mary Goodrich and Mrs. Hilary Gray were on hand to receive the books and offer words of gratitude at the usefulness and generosity of the students' gifts.

The books were most timely in the event that the library is still in the process of being

Wipe Out Days popular event

There was no shortage of people at the Hardisty Winter Wipeout Days held the first weekend in February according to one of the organizers.

The majority of events were well attended, including the gymnastic display February 2, in which about 25 school aged children participated.

With all the fun and excitement, some people even managed to finish the weekend as trophy winners.

Hockey trophy winners were the Mini Mites from Hughesden, the Mites from Irma, the Pee Wees from Hardisty, the Midgets from Wainwright and the Bantams from Irma. Winner in the women's hockey game was the Wainwright team for Recreation Hockey. It was for the women and Ron Melin proved best in the men's division.

Neil Nelson was the champion in the curl tournament.

For the well driving event, Frodo McKillo took the honors for the women and Ron Melin proved best in the men's division.

Both Swanson and Koren Golka won the title of best log sawers in women's doubles with Jack Albenberg and Ron Melin winning for the men's log sawing event.

Winners in the Curla-Golf event were Sharon Gately for Junior, Beth Schmidt for women's and Lou Golka for men's.

Trophies for all events were donated by local businesses.

Mr. and Mrs. James McClements were recent visitors in Wetaskiwin visiting with friends and family, also visited Mrs. Marie Ness in Edmonton.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Patterson have returned after a holiday in the U.S. They flew to Sacramento and did their other traveling by car. They visited with relatives while down there. Welcome home Bill and Elleen.

Please phone me your news 386 3992 or leave it at the Post Office.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Patterson returned Sunday after a month's vacation in Arizona and San Francisco then back home.

Different activities at Sedgewick carnival

The Ski-Doo Poker Rally promises to be an extremely exciting part of Sedgewick's 1st annual Winter Carnival being held this weekend, February 17 to 19.

Set up much like a car rally, this Ski-Doo Rally holds a special appeal for those who enjoy a little gambling mixed in with driving skill.

There will be a marked run for snowmobiles reaching approximately 25 miles in length. Maps will be supplied.

Cards are drawn at the starting point which will be the Rec. Centre, then at three check points along the way and finally at the finishing point. The snowmobile which finishes with the best poker hand will be called the winner and receive 60 per cent of the purse, says Morris Hampshire, one of the organizers of the event.

Hot refreshments will be available at the halfway checkpoint.

Starting times will be 12:30 and every half hour until 3:00 p.m. for both Saturday and Sunday.

All weekend long, there will also be plenty of action for the more conventional sports enthusiasts, such as an open fun filled curling and bowling bonspiel.

A large system of cold Air conditioning extending from the far north to southern Alberta kept our province in extremely dry weather conditions during the past week. The flow of south-east winds accompanied by snow brought blizzard conditions. Roads were blocked and schools closed for four days. However our Alberta sun is shining again. Roads are returning to normal making a pleasant change.

Mr. and Mrs. Leander Lang attended the Baptist Convocation of Desiring Jane, daughter of Mrs. and George Gurel of Slave Lake, on Sunday, February 5 at St. Clair Parish, Edmonton, with Fr. Len Gartner officiating. Sponsors were Rhonda Carlson, Bawil and James Lang of Heiler. Others present were Mr. and Mrs. Alphonse Lang, Chris Keith, Kevin, Doug, and Don Lang, and Geraldine Rau, Mrs. Kay Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Orville Miller and Lesia. Following the convocation a lovely afternoon was spent at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lyle McKenzie, Nikki, Wayne and Trisha of Edmonton.

Mr. and Mrs. George Gurel of Slave Lake attended the wedding of Mickey Nyall and Jim Miller Saturday, February 4. Two former Daysland women passed away. Mrs. Allen Watson of Edmonton passed away last week. Mrs. Watson was the former Shirley Anderson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ken Anderson who were long time residents of Daysland. Shirley was born and lived all her life here until her marriage to Allen Watson. She leaves one daughter, Carol, a brother Ken Anderson of Vancouver, B.C. and a sister Betty, Mrs. Ken Woodley of Merrivale Island Washington. Service was held at the Chapel of the Chimes Edmonton and cremation followed.

Mrs. Tillie Strathmore of Heiler. A fire destroyed the Gordie Zimmer barn on Friday evening at 11:00 p.m., which is five miles east of Heiler. Lost in the fire were 80 wether pigs, 4 cows, a fridge and the cream separator plus other smaller items. The cause of the fire is unknown. Evelyn Krotchak is the new secretary-treasurer for the village of Heiler. Loraine Sullivan is taking Judy Robbins place at the Heiler school as teacher's aid, secretary and librarian. Letty Roth is staying with her daughter's children in Calgary, while Mary and her husband are on holidays. Nora Reuther and Mary Kay Reuther left on Sunday for a week in Vancouver visiting Nora's sister Elsie. Brenda Lide of Edmonton spent the weekend visiting her grandparents Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Reuther and relatives. Del and Jeanne Krotchak and girls were weekend visitors in Edmonton staying at the Edmonton Plaza, and visiting and Randy who underwent tests at the University Hospital. Mr. William (Bill) Fankhauser passed away at the age of 86 on Saturday, February 11 at St. Martin Catholic Church with Rev. Beetz officiating. He was predeceased by his wife, Altesia in 1967, also two sons and one daughter. He is survived by two sons and one daughter, Francis of Heiler, Cleo of the Thompson resort and Alice (Mrs. John) Sudrunt of Slave Lake. Interment followed at the Heiler cemetery.

Camrose formerly of Daysland passed away Tuesday, February 7. She was 88 and has been a patient at Bethany Home Camrose for many years. She leaves three sons and one daughter.

The February meeting of the Royal Purple Lodge was held on Monday 6 with H.R.L. Karovich presiding and 16 members present. Correspondence was read from Supreme Honorary Deputy and Lord Cross regarding our canvas next month. Plans were made to go to the York Cafe in Camrose for Chinese food prior to going to the Camrose Royal Purple meeting taking the gavel. We were invited to visit Camrose Lodge on February 23 when Supreme Honorary Deputy Lord Cross will be present making his visit to lodges. H.R.L.

KEEPING IN TOUCH

by Arnold Malone, M.P.

THE POST AWFUL

In 1980 it was generally regarded that Canada had the most efficient postal system in the world. Moreover, it was a Postal Office Department that prided itself for excellence in service.

Within the last couple of weeks the Russians have completed their second mailing to commoners working in a spare station in outer space. At the same time the Canadian mail is not going through. The service is becoming so poor that my office has been inundated with letters from annoyed and discontented constituents who are regretfully lamenting the sorry state of the Canadian post office. Likewise, I scarcely attend a public meeting in my riding, without at some time hearing an annoyed voice spurring the inefficient and reckless handling of the Canadian mail.

While there is generally a widely accepted agreement that there needs to be a major overhaul in the operations of the Canadian postal system there are a few sections of our society that have a very real and genuine reason for extraordinary concern. One of these groups is the smaller weekly newspapers where the Post Office Department is contemplating a change in its policy that would cause some smaller weekly newspapers to incur a mailing cost increase from the present $12.00 per week to $25.00 per week. Now that is inflation!

In talking to a number of editors from small weekly newspapers, it has been noted that in several cases this new policy, if enacted, would in effect put the newspaper out of business. It would require, as an example, one of the smaller papers to sell 4 more pages of advertising in order to recoup its mailing expenses. In papers that service the smaller villages, such advertising potential simply isn't available. At present they are hard pressed to make ends meet on the basis of subscription rates and very limited advertising.

There has also been a vast number of letters and comments from constituents where in the riding about unusually slow postal service. In one case I have a letter that took 27 days to go from central Ontario to a major community in my riding. That is an unusually long period of time in light of the fact that Van Horne moved a division of troops from Ottawa to Winnipeg in 1980 in only 10 days when there were still three sections of the railway yet to be completed.

By contrast, one should note that it is possible for one day delivery from Ottawa to my home constituents, as on several occasions I have been made aware of the fact that the post office has delivered the mail in a single day.

The difficulty for many business people is that there is an inconsistency in the rate of mail delivery. This has a particular effect on those extending notices of meetings, or are ordering perishable supplies; whereby the product must be received to coincide with a special event on a fixed day. I would want to underscore that I have had the opportunity to visit many of the post offices in my riding and certainly it is my opinion that the major problem is not at the local level, but rather in major sorting centers located in the larger cities throughout the country. One thing that we all know for sure is that the post office was designed to assist people to keep in touch. The fact is, that for many Canadians, it has become a dismal failure.

Week to honour Girl Guides and Boy Scouts

This year, February 19 to 26 has been set aside to honour the Girl Guides and Boy Scouts from all across Canada.

At the same time, the Guides and Scouts will be celebrating the week by saying "Thanks for Helping us Grow" to all the people who to so much to support them throughout the year.

These young men and women approximately half a million strong in Canada, are growing and learning to become responsible members of society.

For instance, Girl Guides and Boy Scouts are involved in service projects such as literacy, child care and nutrition. Whereas, Boy Scouts of Canada work in partnership with church and community organizations to serve the needs of boys and youths in one-parent families to name only one.

The continued growth of the Girl Guides and the Boy Scout movement in these projects and others like them, are made possible by community support and organizations who offer their time in so many ways.

During Scout-Guide Week, the Scouts and Guides will join

The favorite disguise of opportunity is hard work.

ACT NOW ON MATRIMONIAL LEGISLATION

Last week I shared an in-depth column on Bill 102, the Matrimonial Property Act. The following is a brief summary of last week's article.

It is recognized that the present system of law is generally unfair to the wife - this is because by law what is in the husband's name is his, and what is in the wife's name is hers. This is considered unfair because a woman usually performs her tasks and marriage responsibilities in a way which does not provide her the opportunity to accumulate property in her own name.

The Institute of Law Research and Reform has gained from the public a very clear indication that most Albertans would favor the equal sharing of matrimonial property. There are two alternatives; one which was recommended in 1974 called deferred sharing, and one which presently was introduced to the legislature called judicial discretion.

Judicial discretion means that when a marriage breaks up, it is for the judge to decide, by 19 different criteria, how the property should be distributed. The original recommendation by the Institute of Law Research and Reform was deferred sharing. This means that all property accumulated by either partner during the marriage (property owned before marriage is not included) is to be split equally upon marriage breakdown.

The Alberta government wants some public "input" before the end of February or early March. It is up to us as responsible citizens to make our views known. But, you say "I have a good marriage". Not everyone is so fortunate - marriage breakdown could happen to your neighbor, best friend, sister or even daughter. Don't they deserve a fair shake? Let the government know your views - below are 4 things you can do.

1. There is a kit of information 'hat the Citizens Advocacy would be happy to share with you or an interested group - contact Laverne Booth of Shelley Cohen at 825-8812.
2. Write to Attorney General Jim Foster and ask for copies of Bill 102 and 103. His address: 404 Legislative Building, Edmonton.
3. Write to Barbara Hill, Box 1878, Edmonton and ask for the question and answer booklet and the critique of the government Bill on Matrimonial Property.
4. Get informed; then, write to Jim Foster, your cabinet ministers, and your M.L.A. to let them know your views on the proposed legislation.

MEN VS WOMEN

The question is: should we men remain in their kitchens though they would rather venture out into a male-dominated world? Should housewives, who are still largely put-down despite the Women's Liberation Movement but whom are usually the foundations of good marriages, stay locked up in their small world consisting of "Family Circle" and soap operas when they would prefer to pound nails or pour cement like their husbands? And should women continue to be the weaker sex? Mentally, women tend to be more stable and physically, though they aren't blessed with bulging biceps like their masculine friends, they can still compete. Why should they stay at home pretending to enjoy forever washing dishes and endlessly ironing clothes just because of a lack of muscle?

The argument can lead to another question: which is the greater sex? The fact that women can give birth to human life while their husbands can only stand idly and helplessly by, that women who must endure suffering in their labor and in the end, produce another life, is a major factor. One might assume, then, that women are the more valuable sex. But do men do heavy construction work and difficult physical work that most women simply couldn't handle, but there again, does that make males superior to females? Or should we compare women's tasks to the men's? The sexes are supposedly equal, therefore they should be able to switch jobs to use it such as handle the other's assigned duties as well as their own.

The woman, since the prehistoric times, has earned the role of housekeeper. Through the years she has improved and taken over the job. The man, then, has been the breadwinner, his role being that of a job holder outside the home.

Now, since many women are tired of domesticities, they want to share the challenge of a career away from home with men. They want to prove they're equally capable of earning money for the family. This new craving has caused trouble with men because some men aren't willing to share their jobs with their female associates. Why not? That is a good question.

They may feel pressured by their female counterparts and scared that women will take their jobs away from them and prove to be better than them. They hate to admit it but most of them don't want to share in sweeping floors, making beds, dressing the kids and so on that women get tired of doing. Again, why not? Because being a housekeeper is a female's job.

On the contrary, no job has a title saying "strictly for men or women." It is only our society that labels them that way. We couldn't continue to live with out either men or women so why should we compare them? They're allegedly equal partners so neither should be privileged with superiority. But couldn't they switch roles as or at least go halfway, letting each clean the house while working out as well? Men could help riddle the babies, change diapers, and discipline them and women could aid in plowing the fields, dictating memos, and rewriting political speeches. Our society may argue that neither are constructed that way. Well, in time, people's thinking will change. The younger generation is already headed that way. There are more men baby-sitting now than ever before and presently, women don't have much hassle finding a job in some cases, the second spouse is forced to work outside the home but most women these days want a job simply for fulfillment and inner-satisfaction.

If sexes did share equally in all directions, would the world be a better place? Maybe men would become soft and affectionate and women coarse and husky. Or would they be a carbon copy of each other? No, women and men can be equal and still different.

CARDS OF THANKS
 I wish to extend my sincere thanks to Dr. Reist and Stanners and nurses of the St. Joseph's Hospital for the excellent care while I was a patient there. Thanks also to those who sent flowers, cards, my family and friends for their visits, gifts and cards. It was all very much appreciated.
 Violet Mies 25-1c

My sincere thanks to Mrs. Alan Bouchard, Mr. Jean Pritchard, Nick Schwab, the ambulance driver, Dr. Amin, nurses and staff of Kilman Hospital for the wonderful care I received. Also to my family, George and Alice, Lloyd and Mary, Doug and Doris of Edmonton, and Rodney of Calgary and to Rev. R. Conry, being with me. Thanks to my many friends for hospital calls and flowers and treats I received which all helped towards my speedy recovery.
 Lilly P. Stewart 25-1c

I wish to express my sincere appreciation to family, relatives and friends for the many kind and thoughtful expressions of sympathy extended me at the time of and following the sudden passing of my late husband Floyd. The floral tributes, cards, letters, telephone calls and the following memorial contributions were greatly appreciated: Pleasanton Cemetery Fund, Forestburg; Pleasanton Historical Society, Forestburg; Canmore and District Assoc. for the Mentally Retarded; Edmonton Cardiac Society; Alta. Heart Foundation; Canadian Cancer Society; Bethany Home for Children, Wetaskinaw; and North American Baptist College. A special thank you to the Bethel United Ladies Aid, Forestburg for serving lunch following the funeral service.

The Sedgewick Branch of the Royal Canadian Legion has initiated a fund raising program for the purpose of either building a new Legion Hut or renovating the present one or other community service buildings. 200 tickets, each being sold for $100, will entitle the purchasers to one extra, all 12 tickets will draw for $1000. This breaks down to $83.33 per month for a chance to win $1000 among 200 tickets in the neighborhood. The draws will take place at various events throughout the year beginning at the St. Patrick's Dance on March 17, 1978. Tickets are available from Claude McArthur, 384-3622, Tel. 384-3643 or Lyle Kobay, 384-5790. Receipts will be issued. Your support individually or through group purchases will be greatly appreciated. 25-2p

Killam District News

Mr. Albert Horvath is off to Hawaii for the next two weeks. Enjoy the sun Albert.

Deepest sympathy of the Community goes out to Mrs. 1-7 House and family in the loss of Mr. Ed Busse who passed away on February 4 at the age of 87. Ed was a long time resident in the Killam district. Funeral services were held on February 7 in the United Church with Rev. Tom McLaughlin officiating.

Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Saunders left for a holiday in Hawaii. Mrs. Florence Quinlan, Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Maxwell of Viking, Mrs. Rosney Busse of Edmonton, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Edge of Courtney, B.C., Mr. and Mrs. Al Russell and Mr. Bill Quarley of Red Deer, spent three weeks in Acapulco, Mexico. While there Rosney had the misfortune to fall and injure a hip. She only had to stay in hospital overnight, but it was a cast from the hips to the arms. We hope for not too long Rosney, Florence said it was good to get out of hot Mexico and breath Alberta air again, whether its cold or not.

Mr. and Ms. Ed Borth and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Ostrom are off to Hawaii for the next two weeks. Have fun folks.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill George and Mr. S. Grant returned home after holidaying in Hawaii.

Mr. and Mrs. Marvyn Hart, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Grant, Mr. and Mrs. Irvy Elzopfer and Mr. and Mrs. Bob McGowan spent an enjoyable weekend in Waterville attending the 85th Anniversary celebration. The men were busy cutting, had some good games but lost out. They attended dances and banquets. All had fun.

A bridal shower honoring Miss Barbara Schow (bride to be of Brian Morgan) will be held in the Killam Elks Hall on Saturday, February 25 at 8:00 KILLAM RENOVATE CITIZENS.

Due to the bad weather and road conditions a small number of Senior ventured out for the Feb. 9 meeting held in the lounge.

In absence of President Amy Rohlsman, vice president held the meeting. Secretary M. Gibb read minutes of the January meeting and they were adopted. Treasurer F. Lockey reported a memorial for Mr. Ed Busse had been given also the fuel and electric bills paid. The fire insurance on contents of the lounge were doubled as the amount previous.

Happy Birthday was sung and visits to the sick 146. Paper recycling was being loaded and delivered. Another visit had been replaced for more used papers. The response has been great.

The certificate of congratulations on completing the lounge received from Herb Schmidt has been framed by Karen Engblom and hung.

What will be played at the next card party on February 23 at 8:00 p.m. Everyone welcome. Remember to check the list of names for class up which have been posted.

A motion was passed to purchase a fire extinguisher. The next meeting date is changed from Thursday to Wednesday March 8 at 2:00 p.m. as we will have a guest speaker, Pat Stevenson who will also show slides of her guided bus tours. Do turn out for this as Pat was a most pleasant guide on our tour last fall. Phoning committees make note of this. Clara Schmetter

MARYNET LEXMIN A.C.
The February meeting of the Legion Auxiliary was held in the Hall at 5:00 p.m. on Monday afternoon.

The meeting opened in usual form. A new member, Blanche McChie, was initiated and duly welcomed.

The kitchen committee reported purchase of supplies.

It was reported that a good number of articles had been obtained for duty bags, which are to be distributed at the Legion Dominion Curling and Darts tournaments next month.

Mrs. Kromer and Mrs. Bar-Matthews were appointed to serve on a committee to compile a Hardisty history.

The matter of an evening of entertainment at Playgiff Lodge was discussed. Mrs. Yuki offered to conduct the matron on a suitable date in April.

A number of suggestions regarding by-laws were made for the members consideration.

Following adjournment, a delicious lunch was served.

HARMONY ST. MARK'S
St. Mark's Women's Guild met Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. Nettie Johnston, with 7 members present. The hostess led the devotional period.

It was decided to hold the committee meeting for the World Day of Prayer on February 18. The service will be held in St. Mark's this year. The knit-A-Thon date was decided on, watch for notices and posters. All knitters are welcome to take part.

The members discussed the ordering of music showing a picture of St. Mark's for sale. Details to be obtained on this.

A new member, Mrs. Hilary Gray, was welcomed to the group. The next meeting will be held in the Parish Hall on March 16. Following adjournment the hostess served a lovely lunch.

Nazarene Church

Pastor Abel was in charge of the Tuesday evening service at Playgiff Lodge, ably assisted by Mrs. Emma Bergery as pianist and Mrs. Jeannette Hearn leading singing. Michelle Ward played a piano solo and Darren Metz sang, especially for his grandmother Mrs. Bilk.

Caravans have been busy with learning projects: Child Care by Mrs. Sharon Kirby; song by Mr. Glen Rogers; sack and this week horseman-ship by Mr. Terry Leslie.

Eleven young people accompanied by leaders Gordon Graff and Duwayne Leedholm attended a Youth Zone Rally in Edmonton on Friday.

Wishes for a speedy recovery are sent to Janis Abel in Gala-had hospital, to Dave Davidson in Killam hospital, and to Rev. Abel who is ill at home. In his absence Lamar Graff gave the Sunday morning message and Mrs. Abel was in charge of the evening service.

Valentine's Day was celebrated by Junior Class and their teacher, Mrs. Ruth Potter, at a birthday valentine party at the church.

A fun night for adults is scheduled in the Sedgewick School gym on Friday, February 17.

The Campbell family, now pastoring Camrose Church of the Nazarene, but originally from Rhineland, will be special guests at a Potluck supper this

HARDISTY SILVER SADDLES CLUB

January 4 we held our regular meeting at 7:30 p.m. in the Hardisty Drop-In Centre.

We started the meeting out with the roll call. Afterwards we discussed the date and time of our tubing party. We decided on having it February 8 at 1:00 p.m. and afterwards have lunch.

Ralph Manning explained the constitution to us. Douglas Aldredge explained to us all about the record books for our horses.

We made plans for our public speaking. We adjourned the meeting and June Cronin our club leader gave us a quiz on our unit.

On January 9 we went to Carr to learn how to do the job were nominated for. Doug Norman was also there showing film of all of the fun days and trips people went on.

Flora MacDonald to address banquet

Flora MacDonald, opposition critic on federal/provincial relations, will address a fund raising banquet sponsored by the Crowfoot Progressive Conservative Association on Monday, February 27, 1978.

Everyone is invited to attend the banquet which will be held at the Camrose Viking Cultural Centre. The evening will commence with a social hour at 6:30 p.m. with the banquet starting at 6:30 p.m. sharp.

Flora is highly respected by her colleagues in Parliament and is well known across Canada. Presently she has been giving considerable study to the arms of federal/provincial relations and developing party policy in this area. Her recommendations will be extremely important in light of the current tensions in confederation.

Flora was educated at North Sydney High School, Empire Business College and the National Defence College. She is a director of the Canadian Political Science Association, the Canadian Institute of Public Affairs and the Canadian Institute of International Affairs. She was first elected to Parliament in 1972 and re-elected in 1974.

Miss MacDonald will be accompanied by Arnold Malone, Member of Parliament for Battle River. Mr. Malone will also deliver a short address to the audience. Entertainment will be provided by the Rosaford High School Chorus.

Farm law seminar most beneficial

Attendance at the Farm Law Seminar was poor but those who did attend, found the non-tenet most beneficial, said Glen Werner, the District Agriculturalist about the seminar held at the Sedgewick community hall from February 14-18.

Comments about the conference were quite positive from the 40 people who registered, according to Mr. Werner but he expressed concern that not many young farmers took advantage of the sessions because as new and inexperienced farm owners, the information could be quite valuable.

Most of the services were too short, especially those with Col Brandley, an agricultural lawyer, who talked about joint ownership and civil law, said Vernon Simpson, a farmer 16 miles south of Sedgewick.

Mr. Simpson originally came to the Farm Law Seminar out of general interest but said that his property lies beside an oilfield so the session dealing with oil and gas well leases, surface rights and such also held a special appeal for him.

If the time ever comes that I have to deal with an oil company, I'll have a better idea of just what my rights are, explained Mr. Simpson.

General law and surface rights are what brought Tom Barton to the three day seminar.

Mr. Barton is a farmer from south of Lougheed and is directly involved with surface rights at the gas moment.

"No, I haven't had any problems but the more you know, the easier it is to handle them. If they ever do come up, he replied when asked about his dealings with the gas company to date.

If he were to have any conflict with hunters or someone else trespassing on his property, Mr. Barton said he would now be better prepared to deal with the incident knowing what action he could take as a private citizen and still be within his legal rights.

This and other interesting situations were discussed with Col Brandley, the agricultural law specialist for Alberta Agriculture, who operated out of Lethbridge. He spoke to the group on Wednesday, February 15.

Bard Haddrell, the assistant Farmer's Advocate of Alberta, was another speaker who received a great deal of positive response.

His main topics of discussion pertained to surface rights and oil and gas leases which were covered Thursday, February 16.

Formed in January of 1978, the office of the Farmer's Advocate receives about 2,500 complaints a year and approximately 80 per cent of these are oil related with the rest ranging from inquiries about the Fence

Carnival big success

The Carnival got off to a big start with Recreation Honors on Friday, February 17 at 6:30 p.m. The A & B team played Killam. A & B won, out scoring Killam 5 to 3, the second game won at 6:30 with Sedgewick winning over Alliance 11 to 1. The final went Saturday night with A & B over Sedgewick 6 to 4. Congratulations A & B.

Friday night also saw the beginning of the bowling Bonspiel with McClary of Killam winning over the Belvedere of Sedgewick and Clara Wegerast of Galahad losing to the Terry Robinson team of Sedgewick.

On Saturday the Spartans of Sedgewick won over the Blue Jays of Lougheed and the Elson team lost to Lois Eichen with Bonah Simpson having a bye in the first draw. The final of the B event went at 8 p.m. with the Elson team taking home the Belvedere.

At 7:00 p.m., we saw the final of the A event with Bonah Simpson's team taking top honors, and Terry Robinson standing in second place.

The Hockey Ice was very busy on Saturday with a Bantam tournament. The first game saw Coronation over Macklin and the second game saw Dayland over Sedgewick with Coronation winning the trophy in the final game.

Sunday was also a busy day with the Midget Tourney. Sedgewick over Coronation in the first game with Camrose over Sedgewick in the second game and Camrose coming out on top to win the trophy. The Ski-Doo Poker Rally was very successful with 18 participants on Saturday with Hal Sparrow taking the pot by holding 3 Aces. On Sunday, there were over 27 Ski-Doo's involved with Dwayne Simpson taking the winnings with a full house of 10's and 9's.

If a seismic company wants to come onto a farmer's property and may be operating to what the farmer considers to be near water with the minimum distance the company is required to stay clear is 600 feet then have the company determine a flow rate and water clarity test before and after they proceed to make sure no damage has been done, advised Mr. Haddrell.

"But if you think water is going to be a problem, then don't let them on," he stated.

He also cautioned land owners about signing contracts with exploration companies. Diagram everything on the property affected by the intended exploration and stipulate what is to be or not to be touched.

Other topics of discussion at the seminar included the new gas control legislation which has come into or is going to come into effect, the Stray Animals Act and the Fuel Oil Tax. These were about a few of the areas covered by the three day Farm Law Seminar.

CUTTING HOUSE HEATING BILLS

Have you thought about cutting your fuel bills by insulating your house? If your house was built in 1941 or before you can qualify for a grant from the Canadian Home Insulation Program (CHIP). You can obtain 75% of the cost of your materials to a maximum of $350.00 per home. Labor costs are not eligible for grants. The grant works on a system of submitting bills to receive a refund. If you are eligible you can obtain an application form and information package by phoning collect to Quebec 514-341-1511.

Alberta Agriculture's district home economist at Stettler, Betty Bielek, gives the following example to illustrate how insulating a house can save fuel consumption. The owner in this case decided to insulate his house two years ago. It is a wood-frame bungalow with aluminum siding and consists of approximately 1,100 square feet. When it was built in the mid 1960's it had two inches of mineral wool batt insulation in its walls and attic and the windows were double glazed.

Before the house was insulated, the amount of fuel needed to heat it was estimated at 1,120 gallons of oil, 153,000 cubic feet of natural gas or 32,800 kilowatts of electricity per year.

After the owner had put six inches of batt insulation in the ceiling and rigid polystyrene insulation in the outside walls for a cost of $1,100, his fuel consumption dropped to an estimated 550 gallons of oil, 80,000 cubic feet of natural gas or 18,500 kilowatts of electricity per year. In other words he cut his annual fuel consumption by 44 per cent.

If you are thinking of doing some insulating, whether stripping etc. Alberta Agriculture has an excellent publication that will help you. Called "Keeping the Heat In", it tells you how to evaluate the present condition of your house and how to determine what needs to be done. It also tells you how to go about doing whatever needs to be done.

"Keeping the Heat In" can be obtained from my office by writing P.O. Box 270, Sedgewick, or phoning 384-3737. PLANNING TO REMODEL OR BUILD A NEW HOME? If you might be interested in a 2 day workshop called Housing Game to be held on March 7 and 8 in Killam in the Legion Hall. Some of the topics include foundation, exterior finishing materials and energy conservation. For more information Janet Zettel 395-5802. Cost $5.00.

KEEPING IN TOUCH

by Arnold Malone, M.P.

Since I am a Member of Her Majesty's Legal Opposition it must seem only natural that I would want to condemn many of the government policies. I hope, however, that it is not my instinctive trait. It is my personal desire that I would criticize a government only in those cases where I believe the government to be at fault. Recognizing, however, that when a major attack is launched upon the government the question of credibility naturally arises. For these reasons the remainder of this column will be a series of quotations abstracted from a powerful and hard-hitting speech by Maxwell Henderson, the former Auditor-General of Canada for the years 1960 through 1973. Mr. Maxwell Henderson gave this speech at the Palliser West Growers Association in Saskatoon on January 14, 1978.

Mr. Henderson commenced by saying, "I confess to being something of a crusader in the fight against too much government spending too many of our tax dollars to perpetuate 'little in power'." In speaking about the mood of Canadians at the present time he stated

"...trust has deteriorated so seriously that it has become the root cause of much of the dissatisfaction and lack of confidence we have in our ability to overcome our problems. It goes much deeper than the proverbial habit of blaming the government for everything that goes wrong."

Speaking about the lack of trust in government he stated that "...the confrontation after confrontation currently raging all the way from that disgraceful sky shop affair involving the bribing of a senator, the dredging contract, the ways in which two cabinet ministers, Drury and Ouellette, interfered with the judiciary in Quebec, questionable payments by the crown corporations, the uranium cartel, continual disclosures of wasted public money, and the housing of the B.C.M.P. The government never admits any guilt in these shabby goings on and has never been known to fire those responsible. Instead each disclosure runs its course until the government is able to sweep it under the proverbial carpet. And the government loses more and more credibility each time and frankly, never fires those responsible. Better, I think, to return to the day when the government presented a yearly bill and the taxpayer filled out a simple form, paid it and kicked out the government when he thought it excessive. Now he simply cannot know."

In next week's column I will continue with quotations from Mr. Henderson's speech delivered last month in Saskatoon. It should be obvious, however, that our past Auditor-General has severe reservations concerning the government's ability to keep in touch with the citizenry. He stated, "It is that public money is spent money taken from the taxpayer and appropriated by Parliament to the government to administer for all of the people." A few sentences later he added, "It was when Prime Minister Trudeau came to power with his big majority 8 years later that he sought to cut down on these damaging disclosures by introducing a bill to muzzle the Auditor General. My 1970, 1971 and

You make it happen

How to save for a happy retirement, even if you're not the saving type.

We're sure that your idea of retirement has nothing to do with sitting at home in a rocking chair, or wondering how financially you'll make it through the month. Once you're free to do what you want for a change, you'd like to do things you've never had time to do.

This takes money.
In order to do this, you'll need money. Something like 70% of what you're earning now. How do you put this away if you've never been a saver? At the Credit Union, we've a Registered Savings Plan that may help.

First, you can save on taxes.
If you plan ahead to save for your own retirement, the government lets you defer the tax you pay. Save up to $3,500 a year including your company pension plan. Or up to $5,500 if you're not in one. All this money comes off your taxable income, as long as you don't touch it. So you won't be quite so tempted to take it out.

And your money builds.
Leave your money in and the interest you earn is compounded. With the rate of interest we pay, this quickly builds up.
To arrange for your plan, talk to our Registered Savings Plan expert. We'll help you to save, while you're planning for future fun.

Killam woman marries

Killam Baptist Church was the scene of a pretty fall wedding on October 8, 1977 when Rev. Bert Nieuwenhuis united in marriage Miss Shelley May Erickson, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Erickson of Killam and Brian Robert Woodward, eldest of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Woodward of Winnipeg, Manitoba.

Entering the church on the arm of her father, the bride was lovely in a gown and train of organs featuring a deep ruffle at the hem and around the train. The high neckline was lace and seed pearls. Her lace trimmed shoulder length veil was held in place with a lace Juliet cap. She carried a bouquet of coral roses.

Attending the bride were Miss Diane Erickson, maid of honor, sister of the bride and Miss Audrey Woodward, sister of the groom, who were gowns of coral polyester and lace. They carried colonial bouquets of fall flowers accented with brown velvet ribbons.

Attending the groom were best man, Mr. Gary Woodward, brother of the groom and Mr. Kerry Kruger, friend of the groom, also of Winnipeg. The groom wore a white tuxedo and beige ruffled shirt. The best men wore white tuxedos and beige ruffled shirts. The groom wore white coral boutonniere's tied coral to complement the girls' gowns.

The ushers were Ronald Woodward of Carvel, Alta. During the ceremony the bride and groom each took a candle and lit one large one to signify the two becoming one. Before singing the register, The Wedding Song was beautifully sung by Diane Erickson.

The bride's mother chose a blue flower gown with butterfly sleeves and wore a pink carnation corsage.

The reception was held in the church with Constable Tom Erickson of Richmond, B.C. brother of the bride, acting as Master of Ceremony. Mr. Jack Webster of Carvel, uncle of the bride gave the toast to the bride, which the groom very shyly responded. A poem written by Mrs. Anita Diben, sister of the bride, described the first meeting and events leading up to the wedding, added to the entertainment. A beautifully decorated cake with coral roses and a waterfall, decorated by Anita Diben, was cut by Brian and Shelley after the meal. Decorations for the reception made the occasion even more lovely. Miss Pamela Barthelet played a piano solo at the reception and Shelley and Diane also sang a duet, As Many As There, to the enjoyment of all.

After the going away outfit the bride chose a soft blue polyester jumpsuit and a corsage of pink carnations. The groom chose a blue suit.

After a brief honeymoon to Banff, the couple left to make their home in The Pas, Manitoba.

Out of town guests were the bride's grandmother from Courtenay, B.C. Other guests were from Courtenay, B.C., Richmond, B.C., Carvel, Edmonton, Calgary, Winnipeg, The Pas and Pin Point, Manitoba.

Baden-Powell day commemorated

Thinking Day and Lord Baden Powell Day was held in the Killam Catholic Church on Sunday, Feb. 19 at 1:30.

Reverend Richard Conrad Pastor Thomas McLaughlin took part in the service.

Mrs. Sheila Child graciously played the organ for us.

Scouts, guides, cub Scouts, boys and brownies paraded their colors at the beginning of the service with Rev. Richard Conrad accepting the flag on each group's behalf.

Sedgewick guides, led by Elaine Keith and Barbara Potjans, and brownies, led by Verne Stiel and Shirley Kobas, marched with the Killam guides and brownies as our guests.

In honor of Scout-Guide Week, the Flagstaff District held a poster contest. Winners

Beverly Badgen and Scott Lee Ilmala.

Brownies Denise Stovin and Bonnie Badgen received the offering. The offering is split between the two associations.

Guides, Brownies and Boy Scouts send their portion to the World Friendship Fund.

It was mentioned that Debra Tiffen has earned her Religion and Life Emblem and will receive it when it arrives.

The colors were paraded at the end of the service and everyone recessed to the Agriplex. Here they had swimming, bowling and basketball.

Everyone gathered back at the Catholic Church where there was a potluck supper waiting for them.

Emily Kenderdine presided as Mistress of Ceremonies. She called on Stan Hobbs, Scout leader, to introduce District Commissioner John Pranks, his wife and family of Forestburg. Ellen Wilton introduced District Commissioner Dorothy Felgate and the following leaders:

Captain Diane Bourne who was unable to attend and Lieutenant Audrey Hobbs.

Brownies leaders Bonnie Frendrich and Carol Gordash.

Unable to attend were Joy Rott and Ellen Christensen.

Boy Scouts leaders Pat Dutton, who was unable to attend, Pat Gair and Debbie Lee.

Group leader Lois Prichard introduced Scout leader Stan Hobbs and assistant Rich Child. Cub leader Jim Clark, Elaine Manning and Dorothy Mackey.

Pastor Thomas McLaughlin said grace and a delicious supper followed which was enjoyed by all.

Keeping Alberta switched on is no light task.

As Alberta's economy grows, so does the demand for electricity. Residential customers use twice as much energy as they did in 1961. In the same time, farm use has tripled - and the population has grown by nearly half a million people. To build new generating plants costs millions of dollars - about five times what it did in the 1960's. At Calgary Power, having pace with your needs is a commitment we take seriously. Why? To ensure that Albertans and Alberta businesses light up when they switch on.

Citizen Advocacy helps others

Citizen Advocacy Society of Flagstaff is a group of concerned volunteers incorporated under the Societies Act, who have been very active within the County of Flagstaff for the last year.

The aims of the group are twofold. To actively promote human understanding and co-operation within the community and to provide the framework for involving volunteer citizens to speak and act with and on behalf of individuals within the community who request assistance.

Many people are very fortunate in that we can deal with the practical problems that come up from time to time. Many of us have also helped out friends and family with difficulties as well. In our community however, there are some who are for some reason or another who are unable to do this or do not have family of friends with the ability to help them out.

Citizen Advocacy is a group dedicated and committed volunteers that help people to advocate for themselves, that helps people to help themselves by providing both practical and emotional assistance.

C.A. brings together two competing parties. People who, needed with trained, screened volunteers whose interests and abilities coincide with the nature of the problem at hand.

An advocate can be a parent of a learning disabled child who has learned to cope with her child's problems, getting together with a parent of a learning disabled child who is having difficulty.

An advocate could be a man in the community who enjoys camping and fishing who takes along a boy who is without a father.

An advocate is a person who would like to share their talents and knowledge with a person who could benefit from their involvement with them.

If this type of community involvement is being introduced to us as a workshop for those wishing to be involved or learn more about Citizen Advocacy is being held Friday evening March 10 and all day Saturday March 11 in Killam.

The workshop will include an overview, films and interactive discussion. The deadline for pre-registration is March 3. For more information call Further Education, 385-3912.

Sedgewick lady passes

Mrs. Jane I. Acheson Sr., long time resident of Sedgewick, Alberta, passed away in Red Deer Feb. 9, 1978.

Born in Farley, Scotland in 1898, she came to the Fairview district with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Innes and family in March 1911.

She was united in marriage with George A. Acheson in 1918 and she and her husband continued to farm in the Fairview district until their retirement to the outskirts of Sedgewick in 1945. There they pursued their favorite hobby of flower gardening for the next twenty-one years.

In 1965, they moved into Sedgewick where they resided for the next three years.

Jane Acheson was predeceased by her husband in 1970, by a daughter, Sheila in 1957, by a grandson James Acheson in 1950 and by three brothers, George in 1933, Robert in 1960 and John in 1971.

She leaves to mourn her loss, on daughter Mrs. J.R. Macdonald (Lillian) of Nelson, B.C., two sons, George of Sylvia Lake and Robert of the Maritimes.

Three grandchildren, C.A. Boomer (Sheila) of Sylvia Lake, Colin Acheson of Calgary and Leslie Acheson of Campbell River, B.C., one great grandson and one sister Mrs. M. Moe of Chilliwack, B.C. and numerous nieces and nephews.

Funeral services were held from the Sedgewick United Church in Sedgewick on Tuesday, February 14, 1978, with the Rev. Robert Chappell officiating. Interment took place in the Sedgewick cemetery. Pallbearers were George Jackson, Colin Beattie, Eldon Ferrier, John Armistead, Tom Wilson and Nelson Bergman.

Fee and Sons of Killam were in charge of arrangements.

CARD OF THANKS

Thank you to the friends and relatives who have helped in so many ways to lighten our sorrow; the cards, flowers, letters, donations and floral tributes. Our thanks and gratitude to the Rev. R. Chappell, to the pallbearers, to Fee and Sons Funeral Directors and to the ladies who served the lunch following the service.

Tories want west coast improved

Premier Peter Lougheed offered to improve a west coast port and to supply the Atlantic seaboard with Alberta natural gas at the first ministerial economic conference in Ottawa Feb. 13 through 15.

Lougheed said money from the $2-billion Heritage Fund is available to be a "catalyst" for long-sought improvements to the grain port of Prince Rupert in northern British Columbia.

The fund's Alberta Investment Division can be used in a deal if one benefits both farmers and the treasury, and if the B.C. and federal governments along with grain companies and the railways co-operate, he said.

"We see Prince Rupert as a logical port for increased terminal facilities, which are located on our northern N.C. line, that does not suffer from congestion or blockages as occurs occasionally on the main route through the Fraser Canyon."

Lougheed also served notice on the other premiers and Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau that Quebec and the Maritimes should decide in the next 12 to 18 months if they want to buy more Alberta natural gas.

Lougheed suggested that the eastern provinces could convert home heating to gas if the continued reliance on costly oil imports.

The alternatives would be extra exports of gas to the U.S. Lougheed warned that if markets are not found for present surplus, industry could curtail exploration and Canadian reserves may dwindle in the long run.

In his final communique, the conference ranked Prince Rupert and the proposed Alberta Gas Trunk Lines "Q and M" line to the Maritimes among economic developments which must receive "priority".

But Lougheed kept 5 major Alberta oil projects now pending off the list: the third oil sands plant, expansion of Great Canadian Oil Sands and Syncrude, the Cold Lake development, and heavy oil upgrading. He stressed that the province will manage its own resources. He said he did not want to create mistaken impressions that Alberta is about to become a "Mecca" for unemployment.

However, Lougheed was notified that his administration had achieved its "limited objective" for the lengthy meeting.

The final communique stated, as Alberta, Ontario, B.C. and Manitoba had agreed, that "first ministers see an expanding private sector as the major impetus for growth in the Canadian economy."

Lougheed had also led the discussion of infrastructure. The first ministers agreed that in future "heavy emphasis" must be put on agriculture with policies on processing, domestic and international sales, and on improved transportation systems.

requirements and that the majority of students leaving High School attend these minimum requirements.

If parents have any questions about their child's school progress or the extra-curricular activities in which their child participates, please contact the school at 594-5871.

Central schools had a busy weekend of extra-curricular activities.

A Central curling team with Kelli Skerri, Brenda Martin, Roddy Ramcharan and David Matthews participating curled in the Regionals in Wetaskiwin on the weekend and placed third overall in the nine rink playoff. Next year we hope to see this rink proceed to the provincial competition.

On Saturday, February 18 the Central boys and girls basketball teams participated in the Flaggro league final tournament in Camrose. The girls defeated Camrose 28 - 18 and then went on to defeat Daysburg 28-27 in the first game to win the Flaggro championship. Those wins stretched the girls' unbeaten streak to twelve games.

In the boys games Forestburg defeated Central and then Central defeated Daysburg by a small margin in overtime.

The regional basketball playoffs, which form the first step towards the provincials will be held in Forestburg on February 23. Since Central teams are strong contenders for the Regional title fan support at this stage of the season is more vital than ever. Support your teams and cheer them to victory in Forestburg on February 23th.

The Herb Romboch's are proud grandparents of a little boy Ryan Lee, whose parents are Bonnie and Lee Whidden of Amisk.

Sympathy is extended to Nancy (Otto) Kowalski on the passing away of her husband John after a lengthy illness. Sympathy too, to Mr. and Mrs. Stam Lental on the passing away of Stan's mother in Vegreville after an illness of some time.

The neighborhood watch had a chance to do a good deed but didn't realize that pranks were going on at the Drug Store again.

Allen Thompson had to put a new lock on the front door as the store was broken into on Sunday night.

Sympathy too is extended to George and family on the passing away of her father Mr. Bruce, at Killam.

Chick Broughton has undergone surgery in Edmonton and is coming back very well. Evidently his first thoughts after the operation were that he was minus the pain that he had suffered for some time. We are glad to hear that.

So many are coming from and going to Hawaii. Plus Hardisty young fellows have just gone, including Leon Korth, Wayne Larsen, Kirk Broughton, two Schlusser brothers from Jerry and Mona's family so they should have a good time.

Virginia Johnson's sister, Marcella and her husband of Smithers, B.C. were visiting at the Johnson home. While Marcella was here, she and Virginia visited their girlfriend neighbor, Mrs. Joe Kost, who had the misfortune to break her leg right after Christmas, and is now in Hardisty Hospital.

Marguerite Drever had the misfortune to break her leg and was sent to the University Hospital in Edmonton. She is in Station 48 and has been in traction since she fell and will be in hospital for sometime yet.

Mrs. Mary Gabruk of Daysland, Mr. and Mrs. Leo Saraga and daughter of Wabamun visited their sister, Mrs. Joe Kost last Sunday.

Back to the Oak Lake Manor incident, you reported found out that the patrol was forced to keep curiously lookers away and her cousin was on the patrol, while his son was evacuated as he was only a block from the Dr.'s house.

Then Constable Hornshead who had the misfortune to lose an eye, has an only brother Bob, who is married in Linds, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Gibson and they reside in Fort Saskatchewan.

Virginia Johnson had attended her cousin wedding and Constable Rasmussen was the best man.

A large crowd gathered at the Legion Hotel on February 12 to help Grandma McClements celebrate her 85 birthday. Two beautiful birthday cakes, two large bouquets of flowers and a purse of money were given her.

A delicious lunch was served and 2 couple of ladies who attended from Lougheed were Mrs. Eske Drager and Mrs. Ida Black who thought it a lovely afternoon.

We wish Mrs. McClements many more happy birthdays.

Mr. and Mrs. Mark McKenzie, Karen and Bradley, Loren and her husband, Gary Larson, flew to Toronto on the first leg of their trip to Kincardine, Ontario to see Mack's Dad who suffered a stroke.

They were to leave Edmonton airport at 8:30 a.m. Thursday morning but the planes were grounded on account of the storm, so they spent the night in Edmonton, leaving Friday morning at 1:40 a.m.

Arriving in Toronto, they ran into another storm and could not rest a car on account of the weather, so waited in Toronto all day till the bus left at 7:00 p.m. His dad was hospitalized at Owen Sound but has since been transferred to Kincardine.

Well after wondering about Duffies Cox from St. Vincent who left us some time ago, hoping to finally get to her brother in New York, a letter arrived and she and her little daughter Donnette came to Brooklyn N.J. on December 4.

She wrote Jack before the storm so I wonder how she made out after the big blizzard as before that she was unable to go to work one day on account of the snow. Now that she is settled she is trying to catch up on her neglected correspondence so I guess the girls she worked with at the hospital are getting letters now too.

While Helen Morrison of Airbridge here to visit her family and take in her aunt's 90 birthday and Mrs. Marie Koltzsch's husband Jim went to Regina to watch the Good Old Times play hockey.

Neal Nelson was one of the winners at the Hardisty Wigwag Days. He won the crib tournament and gets a trophy to keep for a year, and a crib board too.

Different ones have been wondering who bought the Sk oryok now in Amisk. Well it is Mr. and Mrs. Roger Elgert, the former Amisk Albarast. They had a hotel at Winfield for a while but are now in the business in Amisk.

Talked to one of our "returners" from Hawaii and she said the crowds of people were tremendous and few flowers as they are just at the stage now of replanting for spring. Think I'd rather go on the colored leaf tour to Eastern Canada in the fall.

Quite a number attended the "Tut" blimp at the Drop-In Centre on Thursday. It is a good way to get people started coming there, as it is a lovely place.

The Bill Landals made it down to Hardisty the first trip here since Christmas as Mrs. Landals was sick with the flu before Christmas.

Gladys Seibrasse has arrived home again after her break, so we hope that she gets around well with her new car.

Lawrence MacIntyre of Stony Plain was down looking over the farm, and saying "hello" to old friends.

Best wishes go to Mrs. Gus Johnson who is undergoing tests at the University hospital.

We surely hope that the comes through these tests with flying colors.

Hughenden had a fire but it was an empty hardware which someone had turned into a recreation centre for young people also a pop shop.

Mr. and Mrs. Allan Jackson and family of Camrose were weekend visitors with Mrs. V. Fris.

The first round of the semi-finals in Battle River Hockey is well underway with some very exciting games.

Saturday, February 18 Hardisty Stampede played in Daysland where they were defeated by a 2 to 6 score.

Monday, February 20 saw a full house cheering for their team in a very exciting game in Hardisty against Daysland. This was a fast and well played game. Hardisty Stampede were the winners in this game by a score of 6 to 5.

Lougheed and District News Items

Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Driedger of Winnipeg, Manitoba, were recent visitors to Lougheed's sister and family, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Waite and daughter.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Barton of Camrose were in Lougheed one day last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Gary Jeffery of Charlton and Valda Trebb of Edmonton were home last weekend visiting H. Probst and Doug and Janet Nielsen.

Wellcome back home to Mr. and Mrs. Art Black, Cliff Roggenbach and Old Ness after spending a few weeks in Fiji Islands and New Zealand.

Sympathy is extended to Mr. and Mrs. Ernie Wylie on the passing of Mrs. Wylie's brother-in-law in Sherwood Park. The funeral was on February 13.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Wylie, Lionel and Mr. and Mrs. David Wylie attended the funeral.

Mrs. Veronica Probst attended the Provincial 4-H Advisory Council in Edmonton last week.

A week ago last Saturday night supper guests at Hunter

Whites were Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Swanson, Gwen and Gordon, Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Swanson and Jody Lynn, Mr. and Mrs. Allan Quast. Thanks to Debbie and Allan for the lovely Kentucky fried chicken.

Monday of last week Jimmy McDonald from Edmonton called in at Mr. and Mrs. Tom Swanson's. He was raised in the Green Valley district. He says he wished to be remembered to all his friends.

Sorry to report about Mrs. George (Sadie) Marlow who had a bad fall one day last week and broke her hip. She is in the General Hospital in Edmonton. We wish you a speedy recovery. We do miss you.

Oh yes we have a new Greyhound bus stop in Lougheed now. It stops at Ardis Davies Upholstery shop. Phone number 388-3888.

We are enjoying the beautiful weather the last couple of days.

The regular white drive was held at Wells Hill on Friday, February 17 with 9 tables.

Ladies club active

Fifteen members attended the meeting of the Lougheed W.I. on February 14 which was held at the home of Mrs. G. Coates with Mrs. V. Stuchlik as co-hostess.

After the welcome by the president, Mrs. Johnson, and repeating of the club creed, the minutes of the previous meeting were read by the secretary, Mrs. W. Fris.

Mrs. G. Marlow reported the possibility through the Federal Government Student Employment grant of having two students as caretakers for the cemetery during the summer.

She also reported 4 more "Verandah Valley" books had been sold, making a total of 38 during the year.

Interest in having a craft room at the back of the Senior Citizen Centre has been expressed and has been tabled for future discussion.

A Ladies Day will be held at the Centre on February 27, and some of the W.I. members were asked to provide and serve lunch.

A potluck supper for the Silent Sisters winners is being arranged for early in March.

An invitation from the Argyle W.I. to attend their 65 Anniversary potluck supper on March 21 was received.

The President thanked Rita and Katie for making cookies and Valentines for the Kindergarten visitors at the Library.

A letter from the Lougheed Agricultural Society regarding the W.I. awards for the Fair resulted in approval being given for the same prizes as last Prize winners were: First - Mrs. Dave Livingston and Howard Davidson; Sweep - Mrs. P.M. Chisney and Gordon Galloway; Mystery - Mrs. R.A. Davidson and Will Adamson; Travelling - Mrs. John Brunsen and Walter Chisney; Connection - Mrs. John Brunsen and Harvey Simpson.

See you at Coors Creek on February 14.

James McClements is home from Kilham hospital. Mr. A. Whitlock and Mrs. Pete Groves are in Hardisty hospital. Speedy recovery is wished for you all.

Nazarene Church News

Sunday morning Pastor Abel preached on the subject of the Holy Spirit and Penny Marie ministered in song. Announcement was made of the coming Easter offering for World Missions.

A pastoral recall vote was taken and Rev. and Mrs. Abel were given an extended call. The fellowship hall, tastefully decorated in the Valentine theme by Sharon Kirby and Jane Leckelmann was the scene of a Potluck supper.

A capacity crowd attended the evening service to hear Hardisty C. C. discuss neighborhood watch.

The January meeting of the Hardisty and District Chamber of Commerce was held in the Parkland Manor at 7:30 p.m. Jan. 20. There was an excellent turnout. The minutes from the previous meeting were read and Mrs. Maryanne Welliver introduced as the new secretary succeeding Mrs. Shari Irving. Reports from committees were given with Mrs. Rosemary Thompson reporting on the progress of the Main Street, Alberta project.

Guest speaker, Lloyd Coulter, R.C.M.P. Red Deer, was introduced and gave a very interesting talk and showed a film on Neighborhood Watch. All present seemed anxious for Hardisty to participate in as a program and Mr. Duncan and Mr. Jim Thompson were the first two conveners. Their progress will be discussed at the next Chamber of Commerce meeting to be held in the Parkland Manor, February 25.

Merna 4-H club honors former leader

A potluck supper followed by a meeting, held at Bellhills School on Monday, February 13, started off a night of fun for the Merna 4-H Light Horse Club members.

The parents and the 4-H members enjoyed the delicious supper which all the parents had pitched in to help with.

The new leader, Mrs. Allan Quast, presented Mr. Terry Leslie of Merna, a very nice horse baller for his eight years of leadership of the Merna 4-H Light Horse Club.

The meeting followed the presentation. President Deb Eidey brought the meeting in order. The secretary read her minutes. They were adopted as read. The Treasurer reported was read.

T-Shirts for the club members were a main topic of discussion. Many members ordered shirts.

The club decided to have a R.C.M.P. from Forestburg talk to them next meeting which is March 13th. —Karen O'Reilly

OBITUARY

Purdy Stout

On January 28 Percy Stout of Killam, passed away suddenly at his home in his 71st year. Mr. Stout was born in Weston, Ontario and at the age of eleven came to Killam. In Killam, he was united in marriage to Vivian McLean on Sept. 12, 1885. In 1940 they moved to Edmonton, where Mr. Stout spent 25 years as a boiler mechanic.

Upon retiring they came back to Killam in 1974. He is survived by his loving wife Vivian, four sons Darryl of Bracebridge, Ontario, Darway of Halifax, N.S., Terry of Cambridge, Ontario, Graydon of Edmonton, Alberta and five grandchildren. One brother Archie of Kamloops, B.C. and one sister Marjorie of Brandon, Manitoba.

He was predeceased by one son Gary in 1966, age 16 years.

He will be sadly missed by brothers and sisters-in-law, many nieces and nephews and a host of friends.

Honorary pallbearers were his three sons and three brothers-in-law. Funeral services were conducted by Rev. McLaughlin at the United Church in Killam on February 1.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank all neighbors, relatives and friends for their verbal, memorial gifts and expressions of sympathy and kindness shown to us at the time of the passing of a loving husband, father and grandfather.

Special thanks to Dr. Amin and the hospital staff, Gordon and Ed and to Rev. McLaughlin for the wonderful service.

The family of the late Percy Stout

Killam O.O.R.P. guests

Our meeting of February 18 was called to order with the Lord's Prayer in her chair. There were 19 ladies present. There were 8 visitors of the Edberg Lodge present.

A delicious lunch was served by Ladies Irene Hart and Olive Grant.

Lady Dot Morgan won the attendance prize AGAIN!!!

Mr. and Mrs. George Streich from Kamloops, B.C. are here visiting relatives and to attend the funeral of his brother Bill Streich.

Mrs. Gwen Speck and daughter Patricia of Ponoka spent the weekend at the home of her parents, the T. Williams.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Mulhead spent a couple of days skiing in Banff last week. At the Alliance Ladies Bonspiel on the weekend a rink consisting of Mrs. Georgia Branderings, Margaret Kohner, Judy Muirhead and Miss Mavis Shaw won second prize in the Grand Challenge Event. Congratulations, ladies.

Rich and Kevin Truss were skiing at Banff on the weekend.

At the Legion Card Party on Monday night, prizes for the highest score in cribbage went to Mrs. Vera Hopkins while Mrs. Claude McArthur was awarded the consolation prize. Mrs. Grace Robertson had the highest score at the bridge tables, while the consolation prize went to Mrs. Mary Cameron.

At a meeting of the Promotions Committee at the Senior Citizens Drop-In Centre on Tuesday afternoon, plans were made for tournaments in shuffleboard, cribbage and Norwegian whist as well as a tea. Mrs. Georgia Branderings and Mrs. Helen Alexander spent a couple of days in Edmonton last week.

Mrs. Mary Simons, Helen Tantin, Vivian Sparrow and Ardith Gould arrived home on Wednesday (18th) after enjoying a Bonspiel in Red Deer. I understand they won their first three games but lost that all important fourth one, so finished out of the prizes. Nice try, ladies.

At the Senior Citizens Drop-In Centre on Wednesday afternoon, Mrs. Hazel MacKinnon and Mr. Art Falla won prizes for the highest scores. Consolation awards went to Mrs. Jessie Clark while Mr. Charlie Lane and Mr. Stan Sheldrake had to cut for the consolation award for the men with Mr. Charlie Lane winning out. The biggest crowd ever turned out for this card party, with 8 tables being necessary for all to be able to play. Miss Gretchen Howditch of Whitehorse spent a few days at the home of her parents, the Fritz Howditch's, last week. Sunday dinner guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. Freeman included Mr. and Mrs. Bill Patterson of Loughheed, Mr. and Mrs. Rod MacKinnon and Mr. and Mrs. Jim Walsh. They were in for a visit in the evening were Mr. and Mrs. Cliff Pope, along with Martha's father and her niece, both from Saskatoon.

Mrs. Martha Pope returned from Saskatchewan on Sat., bringing with her her father, Mr. J. Bernhardt of Lonsdale, for a visit. Also at the Pope's for a short stay in Martha's home were Mr. and Mrs. Mavis Shaw on Sunday and Monday and did some fishing at Helena Lake and Egg Lake.

About 80 friends and relatives were at the United Church Hall on Friday evening at the shower held in honor bride-elect Miss Marguerite Galloway. The programme consisted of a slide show depicting the lives of Marguerite and Bill up to the present and even a forecast of the future. Marguerite then opened her gifts with the assistance of her aunts, her sister Mrs. Pat Erickson, her niece Stephanie Erickson and two friends Miss Wendy Johnson and Miss Maureen Cherman. Also helping out was Mrs. Nikki Galloway. All admired the gifts as they were passed around, after which Marguerite graciously thanked all present. The rest of the evening was given over to visiting and enjoying a delicious and beautiful lunch.

Happy to hear that Mr. Jimmie Davidson is home after time spent in both the Kilham and an Edmonton hospital.

allow. But we need a lot more money to reach our goal. So we are appealing to all the folk in our community for their support. The proposed building which will include a library room should serve the community for many decades, so we are really asking you to contribute to a building which, in due time, will be used by each one of you.

So, if in the future, one of the members of our Senior Citizens comes knocking at your door requesting a contribution we trust you will be generous. You will be issued with a receipt and your contribution is tax deductible. Please give us your help now, then the facilities will be there when you need them. We're sure we can rely on your generosity and we may thank you in advance. See you in our new Drop-In Centre in the near future.

Sedgewick midget report

On January 20 Sedgewick visited Dayland and were defeated 6 to 2. Dayland came up with a good team effort to hand Sedgewick their second loss of the season. Wainwright travelled to Sedgewick on January 22 and suffered a 2 to 2 tieing at the hands of a fired up local spread. This was the last regular league game with Wainwright with Sedgewick winning all games played.

Then on January 26, Sedgewick went to Provost and were the losers 8 to 2 in a penalty filled game. Provost picked up 17 penalties to Sedgewick 10. This was the second loss for Sedgewick at the hands of Provost this season. Sedgewick visited Viking January 29 and continued their misery over the Viking squad

SEDEGWICK 10 & UNDER
Congratulations go to the Sedgewick 10 & Under Hockey Team who played so admirably in their Hockey tournament on February 12 at Sedgewick Rec. Centre.

The first game at 12:30 showed Sedgewick defeating Dayland 9-4. The second game at 2:00 showed Irma defeating Camrose 5-1.

A good crowd was on hand to watch the exciting final game between Sedgewick and Irma at 5:00. Sedgewick defeated Irma 9-4. Goals scored in the final game for Sedgewick were made by Michael Fredrick, assisted by Kevin Skeppmeyer, Perry Sparrow, assisted by Murray Strill, assisted by Garret Wahlund, and six scores by Garret Wahlund, an assisted. Goals for Irma were scored by L. Firkus, assisted by R. Ganie, R. Fikur assisted by R. Ganie, R. Ganie assisted by L. Firkus and L. Firkus assisted by R. Ganie.

Eldred Tiedall, vice president of Sedgewick Minor Hockey Assoc., presented the trophy to team captain Michael Fredrick, who accepted the trophy on behalf of his teammates who played so well during the day.

Housing down, rental still tight

LEGISLATURE REPORT

The pace of housing construction in Alberta last year declined only slightly from the record levels of 1976 but renters in Calgary in Edmonton continue to face a tight landlord's market.

Housing Minister Bill Yurko reports that starts reached 86,071, a marginal decline of two per cent compared to a decrease in the national average by 11 per cent.

Only Ontario and Quebec, with their larger populations and markets, led Alberta in numbers of new dwellings begun. In Alberta during 1977 the rate of building was 54 per cent higher than in 1976.

Yurko's statistics record continuing high levels of construction in rural areas.

Last year, Alberta communities of less than 10,000 saw 6,842 housing starts—a drop of 17 per cent from 1976 but still 78 per cent better than performance in 1975.

But despite the apparently bright picture tendered by the numbers, Yurko reported "there is still a very great need for modestly priced rental accommodation."

In Calgary, all but the newest and costliest suites remain very scarce. Except for brand new units in a very stiff rent bracket, only 0.5 per cent of the city's rental accommodation was vacant in January.

Most available premises are comes on the market any time after January 1, 1978, for the first time, is exempt from rent control.

Calgary's vacancy rate was 5.8 per cent counting the newly completed and unoccupied high-rent units. In Edmonton the outlook was a bit brighter for renters hoping to sleep around, but still tight.

Yurko reported that the market quickly absorbs projects financed by the Alberta Home Mortgage Corporation under the province's core housing incentive lending program for reasonably-priced suites. Premier Peter Lougheed rated housing as a key sector for economic expansion at the recent first minister's economic conference. He sought extension of income-tax write-offs designed to encourage apartment building.

Expansion of provincial government housing commitments, now mostly made through the $5 billion Heritage Fund, is considered a possibility during 1978.

Meanwhile, "security of tenure" amendments to the Landlord-Tenant Act which the Lougheed government promised in its 1977 throne speech but failed to produce are due after the Legislature resumes on March 1.

The province is backing out of rent regulation with a decorol program. The promised amendments are widely regarded as necessary to safeguard renters' rights in a market which fails to oblige landlords to compete.

T.O.P.S. two years old!

The past two years have been rewarding ones for T.O.P.S. A.B. #204, Sedgewick. At our 2nd anniversary celebration held on February 20, Ken A. and weight recorder Darlene M. Perry was pleased to hear we have had 95 members shed a total of 1105 1/2 lbs. and awarded 236 for weight losses since she started our chapter.

Each Tops chapter has the privilege of nominating an outstanding Tops member which is voted on by secret ballot. This member competes against all chapters of Alberta at P.R.D. in Grande Prairie.

Gudrun B. read the letter prepared by Florence S. and presented the lovely Tops trophy to leader MaryAnn L. whose contributions to the chapter have been unequalled for the second year. MaryAnn has never missed a weigh-in at 106 meetings. MaryAnn L. read the letter that nominated Gail R. as our chapter leader and also co-leader. Fellow members and Kops of the year went to our hardworking weight recorder Eleanor T. whose ballots were counted by Gudrun and Minnie and Eleanor's resume was written by them. Eleanor spreads many hours listening to our ex-cuses and problems.

To all our ex-cuses who are indebted to their hard work, much credit is due for having made these years such a success.

—Minnie D.

4-H LIGHT HORSE CLUB

COME ALIVE..

by Curtis Johnson

Has anyone ever asked you why, if God exists, He does not show Himself? If only God would show Himself there would be no doubters! There would be neither atheists nor agnostics! Everyone would believe (though some might tremble).

Unbelievers ask such questions. What does a Christian answer? Does he tell us that faith, being a virtue, must be exercised because the Bible says so? But is faith a requirement for salvation just because faith is a requirement for salvation?

Faith became a requirement for salvation, not for the sake of faith alone, but because of the way in which it was necessary for the deal with the sin problem. When Luther claimed that the law of selfless service to others was an unnecessary restriction on holy beings, and so persuaded one (third) of the angels, God purposed to let his philosophy of self serving have its day. By this demonstration of what God declared to be a threat to the peace and stability of the entire universe, intelligent beings everywhere could then see the truth of it for themselves.

It was therefore imperative that God and His angels (the Angels) remain essentially hidden. The visible presence of these angels would render man incapable of choosing or rejecting the good or evil side without overwhelming coercion on the one hand or inordinate fear on the other. But with God unseen, Satan's way of life could fully operate and display its inevitable result. And then all throughout the vast universe, could compare with God's way and decide for themselves which law, which way of life, is better. And so, because He must remain unseen, our belief in His existence must be by faith. And while angels and unfallen worlds are able to compare the way of sin with the way of holiness, God designs that even among men the same contrast will be evident to the world, as well.

Some say that seeing is believing. But believing by faith is seeing more clearly. Those who believe without seeing, believe more ardently, for it takes a greater intellectual, emotional, and spiritual commitment. And then, by believing, they do see. The presence and power of God becomes apparent all around. The beauties of verdant vale and hill, the tender secret of spring, the glory of the heavens and the selfless life of a disciple all reveal to the eye of flesh what the vision of faith had already disclosed.

And Jesus said: "Blessed are they that have seen and yet have believed." John 20:29.

KILLAM C.M. NIMBLE TRIMBLE CLOTHING CLUB
 Due to the miserable stormy weather, our meeting was cancelled until February 21. But on the 21st, did we have a meeting!

Our president Jackie Collins brought the meeting to order, asking Chris Swanson to lead the 4th pledge. Patty Knievel led in the singing of O Canada. The usual business procedures followed. The four leaders reported on the sewing workshop held in the village of O Canada. The exchange trip was brought up and anyone who was interested was to get in touch with Mrs. Carol Arntsen. Chris Swanson adjourned our regular meeting.

The floor was then turned over to Mrs. Knievel, our public speaking adviser. A good lunch was then served.

— Fran Wilson

The February meeting of the Lougheed St. Andrew's U.C.W. was brought to order by Pres. Mrs. Kay Houlihan with a Lenten service which consisted of a reading from John Chapter 7 followed by the Lord's Prayer, the A.R.C.'s of church at the dance. A new hymn was then sung.

Mrs. Hazel Skoberg took over as secretary due to the absence of Mrs. Terry Odegaard.

Lougheed U.C.W. report

The minutes were read and approved.

A discussion was held on the donation to the M & H fund. It was agreed to increase it this year.

In correspondence we received a letter regarding an area vice-president for the Presbyterian Annual meeting. Mrs. Ida Black agreed to let her name stand for nomination. A letter from Foster Child, Budd, was read.

Back to Andy's, after bathing by standing in a tub and pouring on water, I finally got to bed at some late hour. The bed had a firm (solid) mattress of bamboo or rice straw. The surrounding mosquito netting did a wonderful job of keeping me warm when I didn't really need it but I did sleep some before a rooster started crowing somewhere. Andy's friend who was to take me to the bus depot, wanted to leave early; he didn't have to awaken me. I was supposed to be at the depot early to see if I could get a ticket for the cross-island trip on the mountain road to Huailien.

A convoy of buses left after seven o'clock to begin the all-day journey on a highway clinging to mountainsides where there was really no place for a road. Going around a turn, I thought, "The hind wheels made it too."

Some of the road had only one-way traffic so we had to wait for incoming vehicles. The driver was assisted by a girl who signalled with a whistle to let him know if he was doing all right. At one time the bus did scrape the mountain wall. Of course the driver went as fast as possible. As we neared Huailien, we raced through the magnificent Taroko Gorge, rushing in and out of tunnels cut through solid marble. (The regular tourist could fly to Huailien, take a tour to the gorge, and fly back to Taipei.)

Another man from the camp invited me to stay at his home in Huailien. After supper, he took me to a performance at a cultural village where I became interested in a set of black Taiwan marble goblets. "Too much," he said, so he took me downtown where they were much cheaper and then bargained down the price.

The coastal road to Taipei was similar to the one across the island except that this time you could see the Pacific as well as look down to valley floors. The next day I spent seeing some main sights of Taipei. In the Grand Hotel which rose from an eminence overlooking the city, there was the great staircase of carved marble dragons. The Taoist temple with its praying, blue-painted men, giving of blessings, incense, and fruit offerings, was unique.

But perhaps there was no going as unique as a stop at the funeral home. Mourners in coarse smocks marched around the coffin which was then slung from a pole and hoisted into a hearse - a truck covered with flowers. There was also a band to play and it was common to display a portrait of the deceased.

The National Palace Museum lies behind a beautiful garden sheltered by mountains and reached through a tunnel. A few of its millions of historical and art objects are on display. Most fascinating is the section containing the miniatures. There was a group of eighty-eight small wooden cups, carved so as to fit within the other. The carved jades had been wrought so that there was a harmony between a particular part of the carving and the natural coloring of that part. Most unbelievable of all were the ivory balls which had been intricately carved, one inside the other and freely movable, from ONE piece of ivory. No wonder they took three generations to complete.

I was returning the handy guide book which gave English descriptions and Chinese directions to show to the taxi drivers. However, I asked if the drivers knew the word 'airport' and was answered that they did. So when I was ready to leave, I got into a taxi and said, "Airport." Nothing happened. "Airport." Nothing. So I pointed upward on a sign. Presently the driver copied my gesture and took me to the airport. Then I was on my way to Philippines - the focus of my trip.

TALK IT OVER with Gordon

I've been getting a fair amount of mail and phone calls from propane users requesting a propane subsidy. These requests were probably sparked by a pamphlet put out by the propane industry to their customers, that reads as follows:

To All Propane Users
Why not a propane subsidy?
Dear Customer:

You are aware that a government allowance is granted on the use of fuel oil and marked gasoline at the rate of eight cents per gallon, which lowers your operating costs.

City and rural natural gas users are subsidized by the Provincial Natural Gas Rebate Plan.

The only fuels not subsidized by the provincial government are coal and propane.

Since propane prices are no longer regulated by the Public Utility Board and cannot continue to be subsidized by the producer and distributor, a subsidy should be granted by the provincial government now.

We encourage you to contact your M.L.A. concerning this problem.

He can lend his support to an eight cents per gallon subsidy as he has done for the Farm Fuel Allowance which covers all farm and residential fuel oil heating customers.

Your immediate attention to this will further emphasize the necessity for government action to correct this disparity.

You: vote as a voter and consumer may result in obtaining the justly deserved subsidy on propane.

We urge you to call or write your M.L.A. now, to support this industry in our endeavors to continue to supply a low cost of propane for domestic use.

End of Quote.
Approximately two years ago and because propane prices had jumped from eleven cents per gallon to 22 cents or double ed depending where the user lived, the government then passed legislation bringing the pricing of propane to the user under the Public Utilities Board where the selling price of propane would be regulated.

Under the P.U.B., they, the industry, were allowed to make a fair and reasonable return on their investment, usually about ten per cent. But the propane industry screamed foul, free enterprise, government control, bureaucracy etc. and asked that they be deregulated from the control of the P.U.B.

This was granted last July and as of July 1977, the average price of propane was 38 cents. Now that the propane industry no longer comes under the P.U.B. the price is about 33 cents average. What gets me, the industry begs to be deregulated and as soon as it happened they jacked up the price 17 cents a gallon. And then turn around and ask the government to subsidize their eight cents a gallon.

As the government, we got burnt once before when we removed five cents provincial sales tax from car gas, hoping to cushion somewhat, the rising cost of gasoline.

Guess what, I never saw the five cents saving on the provincial gas tax because the gas retailer immediately bumped his price up a nickel. What I would like to see is public response demanding that the pricing of propane be once again regulated by the Public Utilities Board.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Landish returned to their Edmonton home last Tuesday. They were accompanied by their granddaughter Mrs. Laurie Goodrich and young son, who were flying to Kelowna to visit Laurie's grandparents, the Henry Rombochs.

Mr. and Mrs. Bernice Plande have returned from a visit to Victoria where they visited with Bernice's sister Mrs. Mabel Finley.

They also saw Donna (Oxford) Pratt who asked about all her old friends in the Roush area.

Bernice said it was quite a change to leave the snow behind and less than two hours later, walk on green grass.

Over 30 people attended the Drop-In Centre Tuesday night to view Elsie Parkin's movies of the various business places and items of interest, that Elsie has been recording for the last three years. She had to make notes and comment on the people as she showed the pictures which was not the easiest thing to do.

The pictures were lovely, very good of all the people involved but we were surprised to think that six of those in the pictures have since passed away. These were Mrs. Redman, Mrs. Thorp, Pauline Cavannah, Mrs. Jim Drever, Ray Van Aalstine and Mrs. Annie Nigley.

A plentiful lunch was served by the Strong Ladies, who next entertained at Flagstaff Lodge on March 5.

One of the pictures was of St. Mark's women's guild busy knitting in their Kist-A-Thon. There were Mrs. Hearn all dolled up in her costume, complete with dust cap, Adrienne Chart, knitting so fast, which reminds me that their Kist-A-Thon this will be on April 8 and any new knitters are very welcome. More about this later.

Elsie Parkin, accompanied by Isabel Nelson spent a few hours in Hugenden last Wednesday, where Isabel visited her old friend Mrs. Laverne Brunner. The Robert Almburg's were there also, so a nice visit was had by all.

Just received a letter from Myrtle Anderson in Illinois, who used to live where Gilbert Tillman lives now.

She says "Talk about Canadian weather! I've never seen it any worse in Canada than it has been here this winter. The wind and snow is terrible. We just get out and another storm comes along and begins to under the snow. I had not had my car out for a month until last Tuesday and now it will be another long time for it has stormed all day and looks like keeping it up for sometime yet." She finds this winter very frustrating. The letter was written February 13, just after our big storm.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Dodds of Lac La Biche visited at the Walter Kobitzsch home, to help Walter celebrate his birthday. They also visited with Mrs. Dodds' aunt, Mrs. Marie Kobitzsch and spent an evening with Mrs. Myrtle Elmqvist.

Keith Cherman from the Maple Creek Saskatchewan area has been visiting his brothers also Mrs. Margaret Cherman.

Mrs. Margaret Quilman of Chilliwack and Mrs. Anne Buckley of Edmonton helped their mother, Mrs. Marie Kobitzsch celebrate her birthday.

Claud and Ivy May were back in Hardisty for a few days and Ivy celebrated her birthday with a family supper before going back to Seba Beach.

We are glad to know that Virginia Johnson arrived home again and also her activities may be a bit limited. We are sure she will go laughing along at all the funny things she sees.

Glad that Larry Quast arrived home again but has to go back to Edmonton for another eye operation very soon. We sure hope that this operation will be the last of his eye problem.

By putting the item in the paper about him being rushed to Edmonton, it brought him letters from a sister in Creston and another sister phoned Graham Quast, so it seems that the paper is well read in Creston, B.C.

Rosemary Thompson had the misfortune to slip on the ice and break a bone near her ankle. She lay outside in the cold for a while before her husband found her, so we hope that she won't have to have the cast on too long.

Mrs. Joe Kent finds it easier using a walker than crutches so heres hoping she'll be able to go home before long.

We all send our sincere sympathy to Helen (Suzie) Ryber of Camrose on the sudden passing away of her only son at the arena.

He leaves a wife and family and was only 41 years old.

The Lou Reber family lived in the Irma area before moving to Roseland and we send sympathy to his wife and family as well as his sisters.

We see Myrtle Crone from the Parkland Manor in the hospital, with her arm in a cast so we hope she won't need it too long.

Mrs. Margaret Quilman is going to visit her daughter, Gail Quilman, who is at Fort McMurray before returning home to Chilliwack.

Raymond Reber's two sisters are Mrs. Florence Friend of Roseland and Mrs. Phoebe Reid of Enderley, B.C. He leaves his wife and children to mourn his passing and was predeceased by his father Lou Reber in 1968.

Your reporter will be in Camrose while the Great Old Timers go to Copenhagen to play hockey. Wainwright is going too, so I'm afraid that news will be short again unless someone else would like to send in something.

Information leading to the recognition of Alberta's Hidden Heroes

Last seen showing courage, initiative, selflessness, or responsibility in various ways in the community he or she lives in. Sometimes found as a group of young people contributing in a meaningful way to their community. Known to be between the ages of 6 and 18 years. For the 17th year, warrants have been issued throughout the province for their nomination. Be on the lookout! These special boys and girls may be difficult to spot when not actually performing a special deed. They may, in fact, appear to be like most other young people their age.

But don't be deceived! Help bring these hidden heroes to light! Send in a nomination today. Each winner of an Alberta Junior Citizen Award also receives Canada Savings Bonds. A just reward!

Alberta Junior Citizen of the Year Awards have been sponsored since 1961 by Alberta's investor-owned electric utilities with the active co-operation of community newspaper editors.

FRED

OF NORTHWESTERN
UTILITIES HAS SOME USEFUL HINTS
ON HOW YOU CAN SAVE MONEY AND INCREASE YOUR HOME HEATING EFFICIENCY

Fred Russell, Superintendent of Customer Service.

Forced-air heating system filters are designed to trap dust and lint from the air. When they become clogged, the flow of air is restricted, reducing heating efficiency, thus costing you money.

If your furnace filter is of the disposable glass fibre type, it should be cleaned monthly and replaced at least twice a year. Permanent type filters should be cleaned and the proper commercial spray should be applied. If in doubt, check with your furnace contractor, particularly before the onslaught of winter.

Besides checking your filter, be sure your furnace motor and fan bearings are lubricated according to manufacturer's instructions. Registers should be cleaned of dust and other objects. Furniture and rugs should not obstruct hot and cold air registers.

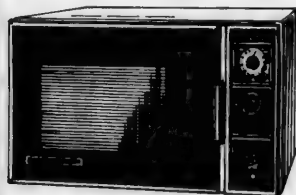

For more information pick up the free pamphlet, "Waste Watcher's Guide to Energy," at your nearby gas company office. When it comes to the wise use of energy, if you have the will, we have the ways.

Strome and District News Items

The Community was shocked and saddened by the sudden passing of Frank Robson at the University Hospital in Edmonton.

Deepest sympathy is extended to his family. The funeral service was held in the Strome United Church on Saturday.

Relatives here from out of town attending were Mr. and Mrs. Sheraton Robson of B.C. who stayed over to be with Mabel and family for a few days. Others were: Alastair Huddleston and family, Joe and Jackie Makowski, Lindsay and John Guild, Earl and Margaret
Adams, Bob and Jean Busse, Geoff and Shirley Buse, George and Norma Congdon, Stewart and Alma Seward, Keith Robson, Jean Rathwell, Bill and Dora Haberle, Mr. and Mrs.
Neil Hoyland, Isabel Hoyland,
Bert Robson, Mr. and Mrs. don Lindsay, Mr. and Mrs. Pearl
Gordon, Rita Olmick, Mrs. Bob Cieslak.

On January 24 the Strome Kindergarten class visited the Daysland Kindergarten. They entertained each other with nursery rhymes and dances.
The lunch was provided by the Strome mothers. On February 14 the class went skating then had a party afterwards and exchanged valentines.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Cram spent a week in Edmonton with their children and grandchildren.
rea.

Miss Debra White of Edmonton spent the weekend at her parental home.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Munro, on the birth of a baby daughter at Killam hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Cram spent a few days in Red Deer with a sister-in-law and her husband who had sold their jewelry store.

Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Wagner have returned from their holiday in California and have now moved into their new house.

Mr. Jim Cram returned home from Edmonton on Tuesday.
Mrs. Cram remained in the city to spend the next two weeks.
Mr. and Mrs. Harry Erickson of Sandy Lake visited relatives here at the weekend. Their plans are to return to Strome sometime in the future, to make their home.

A family gathering was recently held at the home of Mrs.
Dorothy Hawkins.

Maurice and Gwendolyn Stark and son Robbie were weekend visitors at the J. Butler home.
Mr. and Mrs. L. Weichertson had their daughter and son-in-law, and family visiting them over the weekend.

Visiting Mrs. Law Rowe and Orval and Doris Rowe from Edmonton, and James and Sharon Edgington brought the new baby for his great grandmother to see.

Keith Robson from Ryley visited Mr. and Mrs. Ernie Auburn on Saturday.

Strome Senior Citizens

The Strome Senior Citizens Club had a very active February.

During the month we had two open card parties which were very well attended. On February 9 we had our monthly business meeting but being bad weather no one from Edmonton attended. Mel and Ann Johnson offered to attend a P.S.S. meeting in Killam on February 23 as our representatives.

On Thursday, February 23, we had a very busy day. First we held a meeting in regards to a Senior Citizens Complex in which we had a size crowd.
M.D. Webb came down from Edmonton and showed an interesting film, then a discussion took place. Cookies and coffee were served. Then in the evening we had a potluck supper. Rev. Armstrong of Days-land said grace after which 36 people sat down to a very enjoyable supper.

Geo and Belle Crammon and
Rev. and Mrs. Armstrong of Daysland were our guests.

A film about Africa was shown by Geo and Belle, which we would like to thank them for.

The evening closed with a cup of coffee. Our next business meeting will be on March 9 at 8:00 p.m.

No More Bushels

On February 1, 1978, the grain trade went historic. After thinking in bushels all your life it may be a little rough at first having to think in tonnes. In a few minutes you will be as good as a pros.

We computed a small conversion table so you can at least get a feel for what a certain 5/tonne quotation means.

Nazarene Church News

An invitation is extended to the ladies to attend the World Day of Prayer service being held 2:00 p.m. this Friday,
March 3 in the Nazarene Church.

Several people from our area attended a lecture in the Jubilee Auditorium on the subject
"The Young Age of the Universe"
Dr. H. Shuster, lecturer and professor of physics and astronomy at the University of Texas was sponsored by the Creation Science Association of Alberta.

Music for Sunday was supplied by two trios, accordions and a first time soloist, Lynn Wallace. In Sunday School the annual Alabaster offering was received. This is used for building of churches and schools in mission areas.

Kinross auxiliary

The regular meeting of the Kinross Legion Auxiliary was held February 28th. President Barbara Kunst was in the chair. Thirteen members answered Roll call with 6 visits to the sick.

The President then turned the meeting over to District Commander Allison Barton for the installation of Oliver Grievé as Vice-President and Margaret Denham on the executive committee.

Minutes were read and adopted. Treasurer's report given and accepted. Business rising out of the minutes were the purchase of locks for the kitchen cupboards. Key will be kept by the executive committee.

Oliver Grievé and Jerry Johnson will act on the cupboard committee.

Roll call for March will be answered by everyone bringing a tea towel to replenish our towel supply.

Ralph Smith had donated two boxes of matches toward the Ditty (Hospitality) bags for Provisional Command. A letter was received with a report on the 21st Biennial Conference in Red Deer. Card reporter Edna Duffield had sent 7 get well cards.

Auditors Barbara Kunst and Eunice Loonen were given a vote of thanks by Margaret Denham and members. New face lift for Hut tabled until Kinsergarten is finished.

A suggestion was made by Allison Barton that a record be made of all members as to date, joining letters held etc. to be kept in filing box for future references.

Allison and Barbara volunteered to look after this.

Lougheed Rebekah lodge

The regular meeting of Lougheed Rebekah Lodge was held on February 22 with seventeen members in attendance. Noble Grand Sis. Allison Barton was in the chair.

The members were indeed sorry to hear of Sis. Marlow's misfortune, but were pleased to hear that to date she was progressing well.

A lengthy discussion concerning Canadian government grants being given for literature that was deemed of low calibre. The members agreed to write letters to Arnold Malone M.P. stating their views.

It was decided that the sisters would make posters depicting the work of Rebekahs. These are to be brought to lodge where they will be evaluated.

Under "Good of the Order", there was a question and answer period.

Sis. Verona Cookson and Sis. Ida Whyte were given birthday honors.

Lodge closed in harmony and a social hour over coffee brought the evening to a close.

LOUGHEED 4-H WOMENALIZERS

The Lougheed 4-H Homemakers had speakers. The first winner was Robyn Schmidt. The second winner was Ashley McNeilley, and the third winner was Marilyn Whyte.

All of the girls' speeches were very good. Our judges were Mrs. Jean Watts, Mrs. Hazel Swainson, and Mr. Harold Probst. On March 7th we will be going to Killam to try on clothes at Saunders Variety Store for our fashion show. We have decided to do Highway cleanup on May 15.

Central high bulletin

As spring approaches Grade Twelve students and others who are contemplating leaving school to begin post secondary education must get their application mailed in for the fall term. The application deadline for universities tend to be on January to mid-March. NAIT registrations should be mailed before March 15, especially for courses that are over-subscribed. Any students or parents who are interested in obtaining information about entrance requirements and application procedures are urged to contact Mr. Offord by calling 384-3817 as soon as possible.

Since entrance requirements vary so much from one training program to the next, students should always be considering where their high school programs can lead them. A senior matriculation standing which basically means that a student has completed university entrance requirements can vary from university to university or even from one faculty to another in any given university. Basically a matriculation standing means that a student has successfully completed English 30 and four of Social Studies 30, Math 30, Math 31, Chemistry 30, Biology 30, Physics 30, as soon as possible.

The boys team has also become a well rounded competitive team but was unable to get to the zone level, losing to Forestburg 58 - 55 and to Coronation 46 - 40 at the Regional. High scorers for the boys were John Chir - 27 points, James Ley - 25 points.

French 30. All marks for the above noted subjects must be at least 50 per cent with an overall average of at least 60 per cent. Students are advised to check carefully to be certain that they are taking the correct courses for the training that they hope to pursue.

The Central High girls basketball team has advanced to the zone level of provincial competition by defeating Coronation 37 - 24 and Forestburg 37 - 20 at the Regional competition which was held at Forestburg on Saturday, February 25. High scorers for Central in these two games were Jackie Coates with 35 points and Becky Johannesson with 19 points.

Hobby club

plans art show

On Wednesday evening, February 15 the Amalgamated Hobbyists of Flagstaff met in the Sedgewick United Church Hall with ten present.

Correspondence was received from the Alberta Horticulture Association. Plans for the Mini-Art Show which will be held at the March meeting were discussed.

The guest speaker was Miss Diane Bourne, the District Home Economist. She had a most interesting talk prepared on Canada's Food rules for healthful eating. There was also a tempting array of goodies which she had made to demonstrate things that can be done for Easter. We all got to sample the little bunnies made from bun and biscuit dough - the Ukrainian bread and a delicious jelly salad nestling in orange halves and the other tasty morsels Miss Bourne had made. We enjoyed the program very much and a sincere note of thanks goes to our District Home Economist, Lunch and social hour followed.

On Saturday, March 11 the Hobby Club will be holding a Mini-Art Show in the "Birds Nest" located on Sedgewick's Main Street from 2 to 8 p.m. There will be no business meeting during March.

SMOOTH AWAY LINES AND WRINKLES

Another breakthrough for cosmetic success! COCREMA Dry Skin Cream! A substance extracted from the bean of a tropical plant has proven to be extremely beneficial in the treatment of dry skin, and this ingredient, in COCREMA, is working wonders. Rough, lined facial skin and dry, chapped hands look years younger... quickly.

Use COCREMA tonight, and you will even notice a vast improvement by morning. Many small lines around the eyes and mouth may have disappeared overnight, and in a few days, wrinkles that have caused despair should be starting to vanish. See those unattractive, darkened "old-age" skin tones fade away.

Use COCREMA for just 7 days... satisfaction guaranteed or return for refund. You'll be delighted with the results achieved in banishing lines and wrinkles when you use COCREMA Dry Skin Cream.

DREAMS

Between laughter and tears
there is a world of golden castles and crystal stars

a world where hopes and promises and float live on clouds of fantasy between laughter and tears

there is room for tomorrow.... for believing....
for dreams....

it is a world we need for....
if dreams are gone, laughter dies and all that is left are the tears.

We hope that the various programmes and accented activities of Education Week will serve to publicize the broadening ideas and innovations that are constantly upgrading the quality of education, the interest and progress of all classes of students; and the enthusiasm and dedication of our teachers.

Yours truly,

Board of Education Chairman.

Education Week '78, a joint endeavour of the County Board of Education, the Flagstaff A.T.A. Local, and your children, attempts to provide you with a glimpse of school activities.

While Education Week '78 offers more than its predecessors, it does not describe the multitude of on-going school activities. Thus, I would encourage you to visit your child's school, not only during Education Week, but throughout the entire year. I am confident that you will find your visit to be most enjoyable. Above all, your visit and interest will be your child's greatest reward.

Yours truly,

Superintendent of Schools.

Alliance

Pinata Making

Pinata making and breaking is always an exciting time in the Alliance Grade 2 & 3 room. Following a study of the Mexican Christmas, the children make pinatas to hang in the classroom. Each child brings some "goodies" for a pinata and on the chosen day before Christmas the children act out a Mexican Christmas. After the religious ceremony the noisy-fun time begins. Each child, in turn, is blindfolded and allowed three whacks at the pinata. When the pinata breaks everyone scrambles for the "goodies."

Dinosaurs - Here We Come!

Grades 4, 5, & 6 journeyed to Drumheller in June on a visit that was both pleasurable and educational. Ferrying the river, and lunching on the banks of the river preceeded an exciting afternoon of visits to the two museums, Dinosaur Park and the Moo-doo. Oh! the fun climbing the Moo-doo. The swinging bridge proved a challenge to some of the more hesitant pupils. All arrived home tired but claiming that it was a terrific day.

A Christmas "Send Off" at Alliance

Christmas got away to a good start on Dec. 23, in the Alliance School Gym, where parents and grandparents watched a Christmas concert performed by the children of the school. 1 to Grade 3 entertained with a delightful operetta "A Christmas Fantasy". Grades 4, 5 & 6 followed with Christmas dramas, a melodica chorus and round dancing. The audience enjoyed the Grades 8 & 9 as they demonstrated skill in modern dance steps. The Grade 7 chorus entertained by singing two French carols.

A study of Early Alberta was culminated by a field trip for the Grade 4 class when they visited the Art Blumhagen residence. Here they could examine the Indian artifacts that had been collected, including a hitching stove, a tethering stone, petrified pemican and the stove "dish" it was made in, tomahawk and spear heads and countless arrowheads together with explanations, comparing war arrowheads with those used for hunting. The types of arrowheads used by different tribes and their gradual perfection from the crude weapons of very early days proved to be most interesting. A very special kind of stone, Apache Tears, verifies the Nomadic nature of the Indian, for this type of rock can be found only in certain parts of the mid-western States. The Blumhagens have visited a Sundance Ring in Southern Alberta and could answer the many questions about it, teepee rings and buffalo jumps. An enthusiastic group of youngsters left, anxious to show their friends a sample of petrified wood each received, and to tell about the complete buffalo heads they had seen - and even a bone from the spine of a dinosaur!

Central High School

The 23rd Edition

English 23, Typing 30 and Ind. Arts 108 classes at Central High have combined their special talents to produce a weekly school newspaper. Students learn journalistic skills as they interview, write and re-write their stories of student activities and concerns. Others learn design in creating special covers and practise their typing and printing skills. But perhaps more important for all of the students involved is their improved self-image and pride as they watch the entire school eagerly examine and read the 23rd Edition when it is distributed each Friday. They all feel that their newly discovered talents are very worthwhile.

EXCHANGE TRIP

Students in Mr. Meier's and Mr. Martin's Social Studies 10 classes are busily arranging an exchange trip with a school in Kincardine, Ont. The exchange involves a week long stay in Kincardine by 40 Central High Students in early April. An equal number of students from Kincardine will then return the visit to Central High School. The Central High Students will attend classes and tour important industrial areas around Kincardine during their week long stay. Similarly, the group from Kincardine will attend classes at Central High and will be shown points of interest in the County of Flaxstaff. The Exchange's transportation costs are expected to be funded through a travel grant from the Secretary of State's "Open House Canada" Program.

Monopoly

The classic game of "Monopoly" is here put to good use as Social Studies students examine the "Free-enterprise" Economic system. Although an element of "chance" is involved in the game, business skills such as bargaining, diplomacy and economic foresight are developed.

ATHLETIC PARTICIPATION

Students are involved in a variety of athletic competition on a Houseleague, County, Regional and Provincial level. A number of County students participated in the Provincial Cross Country Competition held in Grande Prairie.

Dec. 17-19, Central also hosted one of the largest boys basketball tournaments to be held in the province this year.

OIL SPILLS

Perry Lewis, a Biology 30 student at Central, prepared a very extensive, practical report on Reclamation of Farm Land following an Oil Spill. Information from the Department of the Environment and local farmers who have had spills on their property enabled Perry to reach conclusions that could assist farmers in their reclamation efforts. The report is available at Central High School.

50 YEARS OF LEARNING AND DOING

The Fiftieth Birthday

They tramp on me
They run into me.
They drop their books
And put their coats on hooks
Or on a person's footstool!
They kick the ball
At the wall.
I'm covered with dirt
And does it hurt
Because of that dirt!
They bring their bikes
They would have pie
Cake and cookies
Along with their bookies

by Colin Davis

The Daysland Elementary building celebrated its fiftieth anniversary recently with a cake baked in its honor. Each student had a sample of the cake. There was a display of old school pictures. Cupcakes and anniversary ribbons were given out on Parent-Teacher Day. To end the year, students took part in a very successful community concert organized by Mrs. Faranger. Our Nutrition Program has been most successful. We hope good habits learned at school get applied at home. Mrs. Wilson has done an excellent job preparing nutritious snacks. Students enjoy eating and serving the snacks.

This year, Kenton Lissack and Catherine Sedry took part in an Alberta-Quebec Exchange. It was the first time that students from Quebec came to visit with our students. It is through projects of this sort, that we can hope to better understand other cultures in our own country.

Forestburg Elementary &

The Grade II students are learning about their community. They have visited the local bakery to learn the bread making process and had the experience of making their own loaves of bread. In the picture they are watching the round shape the loaves of bread.

As bad as it is, nothing could have happened better than the falling of the Russiasatellite in our territory. The Grade III's of Forestburg have been able to correlate their social unit of the Eskimos with their space unit in Science and follow up this event with keen interest. (If you come across the Eskimo word for satellite, please let us know!)

The Grade V's in Forestburg have been studying the human respiratory system. To further enhance the study of the lungs and the heart, a field trip was taken to a nearby farm to observe the lungs and heart in a beef animal. In addition the students learned about some parts of the digestive system. Other areas that will be studied this year are the metric system in mathematics, plus orienting and compass work in science.

The Grade VI class illustrated a book jacket for their favorite book, and followed this with an oral book report.

Junior-Senior High Schools

On December 23, Junior High students at Forestburg presented plays for the enjoyment of the community at large. In the Grade VII play, "Captain Castaway's Captives," poor language students were made to walk the plank by an evil captain who could not stand people "murdering the King's English." "Christmas on Mars" was the theme of the Grade VIII presentation. It featured a seven-foot "venus" pencil and flying saucers mysteriously levitating across the stage. In the IX P play, "Please Call Teachers Names at Christmas," students took out their revenge on their teachers in a series of good natured and amusing parodies of the staff. The theme of the IX C play, "One to Grow On", was the necessity of growing in mind as well as in body. The plays were judged and a trophy was awarded to the best production. Because of the success of the event, it is hoped that the Pageant will become a yearly event at Forestburg High School.

The rigors of classroom presentation are not always confined to academic endeavors. Every year the high school students throw their books aside...in fact they throw everything in the room aside and present! Room Themes. This exercise involves the removing of all scholastic materials (books, desks, etc.) and replacing them with a room size adventure, constructed this year, Thursday, evening, December 22. Then on Friday each home room, costumed in accord with their particular theme, participated in animating each scene. Entering the GradeIX room brought one into an old Viking village where after dancing with lovely maidens, one passed the queen on her fur throne and was immediately enslaved on-board a full scale ship replica. Surviving this (or not), one enters "Heaven and Hell", the GradeII theme. After being admitted by an electronic gate keeper one visits notable persons in Heaven (angels, Abe Lincoln) or Hell (gamblers, Hitler), and then returns to earth in a visit to "Little Arabia" in the Grade XII room. After a refreshing walk across an actual sand desert populated with a full scale paper maché camel and palm trees, by an open pool of oil, one enters the Sheikh tent to be greeted by dancing girls and authentic decor. The tours precede fund raising lunches (for which rooms compete for customers) and respective room plays. These events are all judged giving one grade a victory which makes two of their students, the King and Queen of the school. (GradeXIII this year!) The participation and inventiveness made it worthwhile and a fitting end to 1977.

Galahad

We at Galahad pride ourselves on the parental interest and involvement in the school. An excellent example of this is the Annual Community Christmas Program sponsored by the School and the Lion's Club. The program is held on the last school day before the Christmas vacation. The day begins with a Walt Disney movie followed by a Community pot Luck Dinner for young and old. After the dinner the school children and "talented" members of the community provide a program of singing, skits and recitations. Then Santa arrives to hand out goodies to school children and pre-schoolers. The day culminates with a hayride.

From the staff and students of Galahad School, a special thank-you to the Galahad Community and surrounding district.

The Grade 7 and 8's became very enthused with their Life Science study this year. For a time last fall, our Science room took on the appearance of a "miniature Ark". Students were invited to bring animals (of a reasonable size, of course) and to care for them at school for a short period of time. Along with the animal the students were expected to provide the necessary cages.

Subsequently, a great assortment of animals arrived. An even greater variety of temporary homes arrived to house "our friends" in their stay with us. Our closeness to these animals and our observations of them made us realize the complexity and beauty of Mother Nature and the important niche each organism fills. While we hated to say good-bye to "our pets" we realized that they would be far happier in their natural environment and after a short time we released them to live their life as nature had intended.

Toys can be used for learning. The purchase of a Lego building set and a gear set for the grade five and six class has led to the enthusiastic study of many science concepts. Pupils used the Lego to discover the basics of simple machines such as levers, inclined planes, pulleys and gears.

Utilizing the concepts of simple machines the students constructed many ingenious examples of compound machines.

Through the use of this entertaining medium, the students attained a basic understanding of machines and their place in our society.

Grades One, Three and Four are once again involved Red Cross members collecting used stamps, Nabob and Blue Ribbon coupons, used nylons and popcans. We sell the pop cans to earn money for the Red Cross. We send the coupons to Red Cross which they redeem for health kits to send to other lands. The stamps are sold and the nylons are given to ladies' groups for use in stuffed toys.

Grades Three and Four have penpals in Palermo, Ontario. This was made possible through Red Cross Youth in Calgary. Some of the students are corresponding with the same penpal for the second year. The students anxiously await the arrival of their penpal letters.

Hardisty School

Yes, we really did have a musk ox in the classroom! The grade two and three study of the Arctic was vividly brought to life by a visit from Mr. & Mrs. McArthur of Sedgewick, former teachers in Inuvik, N.W.T. The children were fascinated by many artifacts, pictures, tapes of Eskimo songs, articles of clothing and animal hides, especially the full sized musk ox rug, horns and all! Community resource persons are appreciated and of great value to our school programs.

Grades one through four have been making good use of a community service by paying bi-weekly visits to the Hardisty Public Library. In place of a Christmas gift exchange, the children pooled their resources and donated books to the children's section of the library. These books will be enjoyed by many children, now and in the future.

Language Arts

A trip to the Edmonton Journal has proved not only interesting, but also very helpful to the Grade 9 students as they began to design and create their own "mini" newspaper.

A Junior High Language Arts option which is designed to develop oral communication skills is Puppetry. The students create their own puppet characters and use them in puppet plays and skits.

The Junior High Mini Options are being successfully continued for the third year. A number of new topics have been introduced including Ecology, Chemistry, Food and Nutrition and Library Skills. Handwriting was offered in two parts; an historic survey which included old English styles and illuminated lettering and a self improvement course which proved very popular and has already produced excellent results in the written work of students taking the course. The Physical Education options continue to be widely enjoyed and are improving standards.

Gymnastics Encouraged

Strength, flexibility, body awareness, skill and grace are all products of gymnastics.

The presence of travelling gymnastics apparatus has been felt more and more throughout the county over the last three years.

At Hardisty, the students use the apparatus at a weekly gym club as well as during their physical education program while the equipment is in the school.

Strength develops through work on the rings and bars. Flexibility is improved through bending the back and shoulders in tumbling exercises. The beam encourages balance and grace. Body awareness and skill develop as the students become more accomplished gymnasts.

Heisler Happenings

Students Becoming Nutrition Conscious

Heisler's elementary school children are partaking in "The Nutrition At School Program" sponsored by Alberta Agriculture. Students are involved in delivering nutritious and healthful snacks to the various classes prior to the afternoon recess with the aim of reinforcing and promoting good eating habits. Hopefully students will realize an alternative to the "chocolate bar, potato chip and pop syndrome".

Students Solve Problem

Last spring the Students' Union realized that new basketball uniforms were required in order to participate in the County extra-curricular program. They decided to hold a slave auction - offer themselves for sale to the highest bidder. They were astounded that they collected over $850.00 for providing a day of service to their buyer. With new uniforms purchased and money left over, they are considering the future purchase of some capital physical education equipment which would be nice to have. Hats off to an eager group of students.

Heisler Students are Writers

The Junior High Lang. Arts students have written and will be acting in their own one act plays. The students were given a list of characters, a brief description of each and, along with the basic acting rules, set out to write original plays of approx. 5 minutes in length. As well as the actual play the students designed their own stage sets and costumes. The best plays from each class will be presented for the enjoyment of all students.

Playground Additions

Heisler's school yard has two new pieces of playground equipment this year. The grade seven Phys. Ed. Option Class, under the direction of Mr. Nawrot, designed and constructed the equipment for their "junk playground" by making use of discarded items such as old tires. They were especially grateful to George Matheson for using his backhoe and to Allan Sommar for using his tractor to do some of the digging and drilling. As well as providing the elementary students with new apparatus to play on, the project allowed the grade seven students to gain valuable insights into equipment construction, playground safety, and economy.

This is a tackboard display of dinosaurs that was collected and made by the Grade 1 class while studying the "Long Ago" unit.

Grade 3 studied "Communities of the Plains". Here is a display of pictures, posters, and items brought by the children to enrich their study.

Primary mathematics can be fun! These Grade 2 students are using interlocking centimeter cubes for measuring lines.

The Grade 4-5 classroom has for a year subscribed to the magazine OWL for children. Two large posters featuring wild life of North America have been received as part of the subscription.

"FUN CLUB"

When school first started, Mr. Zettel talked to us about a Fun Club which would involve helping people, sales for making money, and other fun activities. We elected a secretary, president, vice-president, and treasurer. We have our meetings on Tuesdays or Thursdays. Our dues are 10¢. We have had a popcorn sale. At the end of the year we are going to use the money to get supplies for our year-end party. We really like our Fun Club.

Teresa Felgate
Secretary

Skillam

Our school-housed Community Library has constant activities to encourage students to borrow and read a book. Among the "fun" activities have been a Christmas poster contest, a mystery draw for students in grades one to three, and Kids Week.

Lougheed

The grade one and two class are enjoying skating and modelling this winter, in addition to their academic classes. They are avid fans of the Read-A-Long television series and have written stories and poems about Boots and his friends. One wall of our classroom is covered with a mural of "MAGICVILLE", a town they are building in connection with their Social Studies.

The Grade four social class began the year with a study of Lougheed. The projects included making a map of the village and a pamphlet listing village facilities and services. The Model Rocketeer Club is well underway. Boys from grade 4-8 are studying the principles of space travel and building models which will be launched in the spring. The elementary grades have been busy. All grades participated in the Christmas Concert. Grade 4, 5 & 6 have been saving money for the Red Cross as well as collecting coupons. They are planning a candy sale for February 3, 1978.

The Lougheed Junior High Students' Union has again been busy with various activities. They donated $80 to the telerama for crippled children, proceeds from a calculator raffle, held in conjunction with a tea and bake sale at parent-teacher interview. Our curling team brought home the trophy from the County Curling Bonspiel in Forestburg. The drama classes presented a successful cantata "The Christmas Jass" at the Christmas Concert and are busy working on two more productions for spring presentation to the public. This, along with school parties, and extra curricular physical education activities, plus academic study, constitutes a busy year for students, teachers and parents.

South Bend

I wake up in the morning at 6:00. Then I dress me up. And then we say our prayers. Then we go to breakfast. We eat apple sauce, bread, honey, butter. Then we have to go to German school. And we have to know the stories about the Bible. And if we don't know them we're getting the strap. When we know them we scribble in an scrap book. And we do that scribbling to see how nice we write.

We go home for and little lunch. We have somersault, celery, toast and icecream. We have everything we want. And we are very rich. We can buy us to eat what we want. If I'll have an chance I'll show you. Then we go to English school. We do reading in the morning and we do phonics. And at 12' o'clock we have dinner. We can have potatoes apples.

Then we go to English school we have math, language, and science. Then we have a little lunch. Then we go to German school. And we do the something. Then we have church and 1 half hour. Then we go to learn our German lesson; we have 70 people in our class. Then we go to play outside. And at twelve we go to sleep. Up at six clock.

Jonathan G. Hofer (Gr. 6)

Once upon a time there were two boys they were twins they had brown hair they were very nice they did as there mother told them there names were Sam and Pam One day Pam got into trouble He went in the garden and stepped on the corn and on the peas and Pam went to look for work he came back and had million dollars and Sam came back he stold 59 dollers and he went out in the field and burned the 59 dollers (Mary S. SEDGEWICK PUBLIC SCHOOL

What is the place of the rhythm band in the musical course of study? Work in the rhythm band develops a feeling for rhythm. It puts the child in step physically, mentally, and spiritually. Because of its teamwork, it teaches the child to contribute his best to the success of the whole. In this noisy and far from harmonious modern world, it gives an opportunity sadly needed - the chance for attentive listening.

The child learns to read a part intelligently, to care for the score and an instrument and respond promptly and accurately and for the enjoyment of music in all forms. Through this group work, those qualities which mean future happiness and success are instilled. The child learns one of life's great lessons - the preservation of the individual while contributing to the welfare of the group. What does the teacher get - the satisfaction of seeing her class keenly interested, enthusiastic and happy.

SPECIAL CLASS ACTIVITIES AT SEDGEWICK PUBLIC SCHOOL

Grade 4:

"On our field trip we went to see a planetarium. I learned alot from it. The man showed us all the stars and where they move to. We couldn't have learned all of that in the class, because we don't have the right instruments." (Dean S.) "...the most exciting was the trip to Wainwright. I liked the fire truck. It had lots of things to see. They had things like spot lights and at the other end they had a fire extinguisher, and a pair of fire pants...I found out that the fire truck can go twice as fast as we do. It was exciting to see..." (Patty M.)

"We saw how the beaver cut down the trees, and saw a trench they dug to get to the trees. There were lots of air bubbles and passages under the bridge. The beaver's teeth were about 6 1/2 cm long. Some beavers would come with a stick in their mouth and make the trap snap before they got in. This trip told me how traps work and how beaver live." (Kevin S.)

Grade 5:

"We studied about beavers and read about beavers but I think seeing is remembering. Like the trip we took out to the beaver dam. You know I had never ever seen a beaver lodge or dam. A real dam looks different than in a book. Now I know what a real one looks like." (Brent S.) "The part I liked the best was the beaver trap. It had 300 pounds of pressure on it. The smart beavers take a stick to be sure it is safe to go through." (Stephen B.)

STROME SCHOOL HAS A HIGH I.Q.!

Are you wondering what we mean by a high I.Q.? We mean Strome is a highly involved school with many different activities taking place each day. The student to student, teacher to student, and community relationships all play an important part in giving Strome a high Involvement Quotient.

Music - A Common Language.

The students attending Strome school appreciate the encouragement they receive from their teachers. Whether it is to supervise a sports activity or to assist a student with a problem, our teachers are friendly and helpful.

Noon-hour Story Time thrills youngsters.

Communally involvement in a school is an added dimension to the learning and growing process. There are many volunteers who help students obtain an understanding of sports, schoolwork, and other school activities. Both our teachers and our students appreciate this community effort.

A young gymnast on her way up - and over.

Our students work well together in a spirit of friendly cooperation which develops strong relationships. Whether it is a noon-hour story time, a fund-raising or sports activity, or acting as a referee for the house leagues, our students have a high involvement quotient.

Relationships between students, teachers, and the community is what a high involvement quotient is all about. So Raise Your I.Q. Get Involved TODAY!

Auxiliary caters to patients needs

We try to serve the hospital in any way we're able said Emma George, secretary of the Killam Hospital Auxiliary at a gown sewing session held at the Killam on Thursday, March 2.

About 44 women from the Killam area are actively involved in the Auxiliary and sewing for the hospital is only a small segment of the services performed by these women.

"We do more than just sit around having tea once a month," remarked Sophie Abel, president of the Hospital Auxiliary.

"One of our biggest items right now is the Canteen Cart," said Emma.

Once a week, the Canteen Cart makes the rounds to the Auxiliary and the General Hospital. The cart contains sweets, fruits, stationery and many other personal needs a patient might want but would otherwise find impossible to attain while confined to the hospital.

If a patient asks for something special that isn't on the cart, then we try to get that for them too if we can, explained Emma.

The ladies of the Auxiliary also cater to the patients needs by taking them out for drives and writing letters for them whenever necessary.

The Killam Hospital Auxiliary found its roots back in 1961, proudly stated Marguerite Gibb, one of the first members of the organization.

"We saw a need to serve the patients and we also started furnishing equipment for the hospital," said Marguerite, when asked what prompted the ladies to form the group.

One of the first pieces of equipment the ladies raised money for was a $1500 X-Ray table.

At that time, it was impossible to get government funding to supply equipment for a Catholic hospital so the ladies took it upon themselves to raise money for these needs.

STROME BONSPIEL HAD 24 RINKS

The Strome Ladies Curling Club held a successful bonspiel the last weekend in February with a total of 24 rinks. The winners were as follows:

- First Event:
1. R. Scheeler, Daysland
2. F. Boden, Camrose
3. A. Putnam, Strome
4. R. Jacobson, Bowf
Second Event:
1. J. Pritchard, Killam
2. St. Stephen, Killam
3. L. Nygile, Daysland
4. R. LeGard, Forestburg

More recently, the Hospital Auxiliary has provided a TV for the children's ward, humidifiers and a microscope for the laboratory.

A CLARIFICATION

Prizes for the Sedgewick Open Mixed Bowling Bonspiel held on the weekend of February 17, should have read 1st Event: 1st prize - $80, 2nd prize - $30, and 3rd prize - $20. 2nd Event: 1st prize - $40, 2nd prize - $25 and 3rd prize - $25.

Government presents throne speech

LEGISLATURE REPORT

The Loughheed government opened the year's legislature session with pledges of new home and day care plans, record spending on rural hospitals, overhauling the courts and work improving farm incomes.

Health, social services, housing, the schools and international trade and tariffs are assigned top priority in the 1978 throne speech delivered by Lieutenant Governor Ralph Steinhauser.

Continued restraint was promised for the budget due March 17. But the Conservative administration outlined stepped-up capital works and social and recreational programs.

The initial stage of a home care plan to be coordinated by the provincial government but performed through local health authorities with volunteer help will be unveiled soon.

"There will also be a major expansion of day care," included

Galahad 7 & 8 students enjoy ski trip

On February 14, the excited Grade 7 and 8's took to the ice for a tortuous two and one-half hours of skating. The sore feet and cramped muscles seemed less painful as we realized we had made $700.00.

Various prizes were awarded for most laps Darryn Geier and Paul Kueber, most money per lap Darrin Holben and Della Hunter and most money collected Darrin Holben. Cash prizes were given to two lucky skaters, Tim Groot and Gayle Blumhagen.

Wednesday, February 22, the enthusiastic "skiers" traveled to the ski hill for a memorable experience on the slopes. In spite of numerous spills and bruises everyone reported having an enjoyable time.

We would like to thank the parents and the community for their generous contributions and providing the necessary transportation and instruction. A special thank you to Mr. Art Blumhagen and the Valley Ski Club for their assistance. Finally we wish to express our thanks to the County School Committee who gave us this opportunity.

The money raised in the Skate-A-Thon that was not used on our ski trip will be spent on gymnastics equipment.

Most Galahad students had never experienced the thrill of downhill skiing. We wanted to go skiing and so we decided to raise the necessary money to enable everyone to go. A Skate-A-Thon was suggested as the means to raise the money.

Legion form "200" club

One hundred out of a total of 200 tickets have been sold by the Sedgewick Legion Bonspiel Club in their efforts to raise money for a new Legion Hut, renovating the present one or other community service buildings.

Each ticket is being sold for $100, giving each purchaser the chance to win any or all of the 12 monthly draws of $1000.

To accommodate people of the community, the Legion is accepting ticket purchases in lots of ten post-dated $10 cheques or four post-dated $25 cheques.

The draws will be taking place at various events throughout the year, with the first lucky winner being announced at the St. Patrick's Dance on March 17, 1978.

Tickets are still available at Hansen's Men's Wear, Beirato Bros., Scotty Jack, Tom Wilson Ken Schepensmeyer, Dick Matthews, Lyle Koblar, Holts and McArthur.

and further gradual withdrawal from rent control.

The year-old debate over the purposes of the grade schools will resume. But this time the government promises to establish the system's goals, and test achievement in English and Social Studies.

A long-awaited new Summary Convictions Act will be proposed to create a new system for handling traffic offences and minor violations. The objective is understood to be removing congestion from the criminal courts.

The government continues to place priority on negotiating better trade, tariff and transport arrangements for farmers in Canada and abroad. And a hint of more tangible assistance to come is offered.

"Significant steps" are promised in the throne speech "to ensure that Alberta farmers have the lowest farm input costs in the nation."

COME ALIVE

Robert Chappell

GOD IS REALLY SUFFICIENT
One of my deep concerns has always been for the welfare of these good people who struggle so valiantly to live the Christian way of life and to do what the Lord wants them to do. The reason that I am concerned for the welfare of such people is because many of them are trying to accomplish so much with their own resources and in their own strength. Now I have discovered that to try and live the Christian way of life in one's own strength and with one's personal resources is to entertain the possibility of defeat and, possibly, a break down in mental and physical health.

Surely, it is ironic, that a person can be broken simply because he or she wants to live the Christian way of life. However, the fact remains that there are many causes for this. Some of them are so instrumental in my spiritual growth and development have fallen away from the Church and the Lord that they once wanted so much to share with me.

A short time ago, I heard of a young man who was so instrumental in bringing others to Christ, now with his marriage gone, and held in captivity by drugs, he wanders through the streets of the inner city, a tormented and broken person; and now is but a shadow of that

4H CLUB Activities

MERNA BEEF CLUB
On March 1 the Merna 4-H Beef Club held their monthly meeting at the home of Mr. R. Fossan.

A discussion on tours was held but no final plans were made. There was a brief review of things learned at a previous meeting. The members then split up into senior and junior groups. The senior group studied the grading system. The junior group learned about showman ship.

Lunch was served. The next meeting is to be held April 5, at the home of Mr. A. Gamroth.

Reck is so weak. The Apostle Paul warned his people not to boast or think of themselves more highly than they ought.

Our beloved Master once said, "My yoke is easy and my burden is light Matt. 11:30. My dear friend, if the yoke is not easy for you, and his burden is not light, then it may be that you are trying to accomplish so much by yourself, with your own strength and resources. Let Him do all things through you. Do not become anxious and troubled about many things. Ask Him to fill you with the power and the beauty of his Holy Spirit. Let Him accomplish beautiful things through you. Let Him give to you that peace that only He can give. Relax and trust Him, and discover the power and beauty of the truth that "Your God is sufficient to supply all your needs."

Strome senior named good deeder

Happy there wasn't a "Good Deeder", reported for the first time of February, but I have a good deeder, not just for a month, but for every day of every month of the year. I'm sure you can guess who it is. It's more than one of our oldest St. Cuthbert's, Mr. Eddie Hahn. As I look from my window, almost everyday, I can see him, snow shovel over his shoulder coming or going to clear the snow from the walks of some shut-in or elderly lady who is unable to do it herself.

In the summer time he continues on, with cutting their grass or trimming their hedges. He is a very busy person as he still finds time to bundle the papers the St. Cuthberts collect. Eddie's good deeds will long be remembered in Strome, and you certainly are setting a wonderful example for you and your generation.

Related happy birthday to Alie Robbins who celebrated a birthday last week. A family gathering in honor of the occasion was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gary Robbins.

Newcomers welcomed

The Welcome Wagon has welcomed the following newcomers to Daysland: Kevin and Terry Warnock, Gilles and Helen Haden, Mr. Elmer Breen, Mr. Al Neiner, Ed and Theresa Welch, Walter and Hilda Traile, Don and Debbie Tunney, John and Nelda Anderson, and Mr. Melvin Boggs and Mrs. Anna Boggs spent last weekend at the new home of Florence and Oliver Boggs at R.R.1 Cochrane, Alberta.

HOW THICK IS BLOOD?

If you, as adoptive parents, answer "yes" to the following questions you are in for a gentle reassurance:

1. Do you fear that your child will become involved in a search for his birth mother and birth father?

2. Are you afraid that you will lose your identity as your child's "real parents"?

3. Do you ask yourself, "Is blood thicker than love?"

4. Are you afraid that you are going to lose at least one-half of the love and attention you have received in the past, when your child finds his birth parents?

Your strongest argument is "Why, when we have loved and cared for this child as our very own, would he even desire to find the two people who didn't want him enough to keep him and love him as we do?"

One must surely understand an adopted child. Many of them feel as though they are a middle with no beginning. Father Eugene Kennedy put it delicately in "The Trouble Book, Chapter 1 - 'And Lie Down to Peaceful Dreams'."

"It helps to realize that we are always living on top of our own history, on top of the spirits and genes of our ancestors. We have not emerged from nowhere; we are not without our personal collective histories. We do not understand the complexity of our inheritance on the stability of our social learning. But there is a lot there that has come out of our past, both remote and immediate. We may not be able to sort it all out, but we can feel its enormous power. We are not strangers on this earth. We come from tribes and traditions, all of which left their imprint on our spirit."

To have some mystery in one's beginning, leaves a question in his mind - "Who am I? Who are my birth parents? What were the circumstances of my birth and placement? Do I have any blood brother and sisters? Does anybody look like me?" Some adopted children are concerned about this question of identity, which occurs recently in Saskatchewan and California.

In many cases, an adoptive child will locate his birth parents, learn the answers to his questions which he has wondered about, and then go happily on his way to full growth and fulfillment, seldom, if ever, keeping in touch with his birth parents.

My concern is with the adoptive parents, who have nurtured and loved their child through the happy and trying times of growth. Should you help your child seek out his roots, if he wishes to do so?

The following are three similar reunions, with a few of fictitious names:

1. Geraldine McGavin searched for her birth parents alone, without the encouragement and knowledge of her parents. She had a feeling of guilt yet but the fact of having to search alone was the cause of her fear. She found her birth mother and heard from her the circumstances of her birth to a single woman during the war years. Her birth mother, who was alone, with no means of support for her child, placed her baby for adoption in the hope that she would have two loving parents and a home. The year later, the birth mother (the adoptive) was a fulfillment within the birth mother that her dream had come true. More important yet, was the release from guilt she had felt in seeing her relinquished daughter once again. The adoptive and birth mother met occasionally as friends. "Now I know who I am," says Geraldine. "I would very much like to share it with my parents, but it is a subject I cannot discuss with anyone."

I asked Geraldine: "Do you love your real parents any more or any less now than you did before?" She replied: "I love them as much as I always did, but this secret I am now keeping from them has caused a gap between us." If there is a gap of mistrust between Geraldine and her parents, whose mistrust is it?

In all the cases of search and reunion of which I am aware, that because one adoptive child loved his real parents any less than he did before he found his birth parents. Much to the contrary as you will see in the following case:

2. George Hill's parents sat him down in the privacy of their living room. They asked him: "Have you ever secretly wanted to meet your birth parents?" George replied honestly: "I have often wondered who my birth parents are and whether or not I have any blood sisters and brothers." George and his parents searched out and found George's birth parents. The first meeting with the birth mother was healthy for all concerned. The birth mother, now married, and the mother of two sons, was relieved to know that her relinquished son had attained adulthood. She stated: "Hardly has a day gone by that I have not wondered about you!" When George and his parents left, the birth mother took George's real mother by the hand and said "Thank you

Canada Council Grants

The largest single expenditure of the federal government is to pay for the interest on its accumulated foreign debt. That expense is presently $1.5 billion dollars for the past fiscal year. Such large amounts of money lose their significance since the vast majority of Canadians cannot comprehend how large a bill that is.

The third case is of a married female adoptive of 30 years of age, who has two daughters. Both adoptive parents are deceased. "Otherwise I could never carry on this search with a clear conscience," says Marjorie Stephenson. After a long and weary search, she found her birth mother was also deceased. In delving into the reasons for her birth mother's death, she found that her grandmother had died of a terminal kidney disorder when the birth mother was only 13 years of age. Alone on a farm during the depression, the birth mother had raised her 11-year-old brother. When she was 20 years of age, the birth mother became pregnant. After the birth of her daughter (the adoptive), she had returned to the farm with her baby, but she herself was very ill. She placed her baby up for adoption. One year later, the birth mother died of what was also termed "a kidney disorder." The adoptive mother does not have a severe illness, but her 14 year old daughter has had many kidney infections, which had never been treated seriously before receiving this very pertinent ancestral information. Marjorie had stated long before she began her search: "I have gone all through my parents' belongings, but they must have destroyed my legal documents in the fear that some day I might find them."

There is one fear which adoptive parents may have in mind before helping their child in a search for his roots, and that is the unfolding of a terrible truth. It is always possible that this could be the case. However, to say that all adoptive parents should deprive their children of locating their birth parents because of what one adoptive found, is also to say that because one adoptive child was raped by her adopted father, no further adoptions should take place. This is as highly regular in the latter instance as it is in the former. If your child is determined to find his roots no matter what they may be, then he will find out that terrible truth all alone?

Many adoptees have searched for their birth parents after their adoptive parents were deceased. At times they have felt discriminated against, second-class citizens, with no legal rights. When they found their birth parents they were filled with a guilt which could not be relieved by anyone except their adoptive parents.

The love which you have freely entrusted to your child is thicker than the ancestral blood which flows within him. If your adopted child is haunted by unanswered questions, you have nothing to lose in standing by his side while he attempts to unfold the particulars of his birth and subsequent adoption.

THICK IN BLOOD?

You, as adoptive parents, ever "yes" in the following questions you are in for a gentle surprise:

Do you fear that your child became involved in a relationship with his birth mother and father?

Are you afraid that you will lose your identity as your "real parents"?

Do you ask yourself "Is it thicker than blood?"

Are you afraid that you are too low at least one-half of love and attention you have loved in the past, when you find his birth parents?

Are you strongest argument is yes, when we have loved and for this child as our very own?

Do you even desire to the two people who didn't love him enough to keep him from us?

Do you must surely understand adopted child. Many of them are though they are a middle no beginning. Father Du-Kennedy put it delicately in his Trouble Book, Chapter And Life Down to Peace-ness."

Do you realize that we are living on top of our history, on top of the curled recently in Saskatchewan and California.

In many cases, an adoptive child will locate his birth parents, learn the answers to the questions which he has wondered about, and then go happily on his way to full growth and fulfillment, seldom, if ever, keeping in touch with his birth parents.

My concern is with the adoptive parents, the one who nurtured and loved their child through the happy and trying times of growth. Should you help your child seek out his roots, if he wishes to do so?

The following are three similar reunions, with the use of fictitious names:

1. Geraldine McGavin searched for her birth parents alone, without the encouragement and knowledge of her parents. She had a feeling of guilt yet but the fact of having to search alone was the cause of her fear.

She found her birth mother, and heard from her the circumstances of her birth to a single woman during the war years.

Her birth mother, who was alone, with no means of support for her child, placed her baby for adoption in the hope that she would have two loving parents and a home. The reunion was a fulfillment for the birth mother that she had come true. More yet, was the release she felt in seeing her daughter once again.

The adoptive and birth mother met occasionally as "Now I know who I was Geraldine," I would like to share it with you, but it is a substantial disclosure with anyone. Geraldine: "Do you real parents any more less now than you did?" She replied - "I love you much as I always did, secret I am now keeping in us." If there is a gap of at between Geraldine or parents, whose mis-it? the cases of search and of which I am aware, has an adoptive child has real parents any less did before he found his parents. Much to the contrary you will see in the case:

Mr. Hill's parents sat him in the privacy of their room. They asked him you ever secretly wanted to find your birth parents?" He replied honestly - "I am wondering who my parents are and whether have any blood sisters."

George and his searched out and found his birth parents. The meeting with the birth parents was healthy for all.

The birth mother, and, and the mother of was relieved to know her long-lost son had fulfilled. She stated - as a day gone by that I wondered about you and George and his birth mother by and said "Thank you for giving me a clear conscience after all of these years!" They are not close friends today, but they keep in touch.

Another George (I've loved his adoptive parents any more or any less than he did before he began his search. He replied - "I love my parents twice as much as I did before, because now I know how very much they love me."

The third case is of a married female adoptive of 36 years of age, who has two daughters. Both adoptive parents are deceased. "Otherwise I could never carry on this search with a clear conscience," says Marjorie-Stephenson. After a long and trying search, she found her birth mother was also deceased. In delving into the reasons for her birth mother's death, she found that her grandmother had died of a terminal kidney disorder when the birth mother was only 13 years of age. Alone on a farm during depression, the birth mother had raised her 11-year-old brother. When she was 20 years of age, the birth mother became pregnant. After the birth of her daughter (the adoptee), she had returned to the farm with her baby, but she herself was very ill. She placed her baby up for adoption. One year later, the birth mother died of what also was termed "a kidney disorder." The adoptive mother does not have the same illness, but her 14 year old daughter has had many kidney infections, which had never been treated seriously before receiving this very pertinent ancestral information. Marjorie had stated long before she began her search - "I have gone all through my parents belongings, but they must have destroyed my legal documents in the fear that some day I might find them."

There is one fear which adoptive parents may have in mind before helping their child in a search for his roots, and that is the unfolding of a terrible truth. It is always possible that this could be the case. However, to say that all adoptive parents should deprive their children of locating their birth parents because of what one adoptive found, is also to say that because one adoptive child was raped by her adopted father, no further adoptions should take place. This is as highly irregular in the latter instance as it is in the former. If your child is determined to find his roots no matter what they may be, should he be denied that terrible truth all alone?

Many adoptees have searched for their birth parents after their adoptive parents were deceased. At times they have felt discriminated against, second-class citizens, with no legal rights. When they found their birth parents they were filled with a guilt which could not be relieved by anyone except their adoptive parents.

The love which you have freely entrusted to your child is thicker than the ancestral blood which flows within him. If your adopted child is haunted by unanswered questions, you have nothing to lose in standing by his side while he attempts to unfold the particulars of his birth and subsequent adoption.

Keeping in Touch

by Arnold Malnor, M.P.

Canada's largest grant.

The current single expenditure of the Federal government is to pay for the interest on its accumulated foreign debt. That expense is present by 1.5 billion dollars for the past fiscal year. Such large amounts of money lose their significance when the vast majority of Canadians cannot comprehend how large a bill it is.

The following examples of Canada's current grants may or may not alarm you but I would submit that, whether we find it acceptable or not, they are of a nature where in error done with the B.N.A. Act they should fall within the purview of provincial jurisdiction rather than Federal.

$1,200 To study what people do with themselves when they don't have something to do.

$15,000 For research on the handling of books in Roman Catholic countries in the 16th century.

$2,392 For the study of the occupational histories of male and female librarians in Canada.

$17,000 To study air breathing fish of the Amazon River.

$3,000 For an evaluation of the effectiveness of sex education in Quebec secondary schools.

$109,436 To study the political culture of Quebec.

$2,200 For a semi-linguistic study of the French spoken in Montreal.

$31,140 To study the regional communication system in Piquet.

$11,500 To study husband-wife collaboration in management of their own and each other's business.

$11,750 For a history of the Consolidated Bathurst Company.

$13,892 To study situational factors in human sexual activities.

$29,363 For a comparative analysis of serial change in Yorkshire and Massachusetts from 1890 to 1911.

$12,711 To study patterns of hunting and trapping in Grand Cache, Alberta.

The above amounts obviously do not come close to totaling the $10 billion deficit presently experienced by our Federal Government. They do, however, demonstrate some questionable ways that can set the examples for a far too relaxed approach to keeping in touch.

Being aware of rape is important

Rape can happen to anyone, anywhere, anytime and it's important to acknowledge that fact yet not live in terror of the possibility, said two women from the Edmonton Rape Crisis Centre at a meeting held at the Catholic Church in Killam on Thursday, February 23.

To back up that statement, statistics show that over 50% of the rapes committed, are done by someone the victim knows and generally either in the home of the victim or the home of the assaulter.

Ginger Rostelchuk, an active volunteer of the Rape Crisis Centre and Mary Gregg, the Administrator of the Centre, came to speak to the women of the area about the controversial subject of rape in a continuing effort to increase public awareness of the crime in terms of its prevention and what you can do as a victim if ever raped or sexually assaulted.

The evening began with a film on the subject of rape after which Ginger and Mary went into a detailed discussion of what rape was, who the rapist is and as a victim or potential victim, what your choices are if ever involved in a rape situation.

"It's a very personal attack, not only physical but an attack on all your personal values as well," said Ginger.

Unfortunately, a large portion of our society still surrounds the crime with many myths and misconceptions, thereby often attaching unnecessary feelings of guilt and shame to the victim, pointed out Ginger.

It's important to remember, that when someone is attacked, it's a crime of violence, not one of overwhelming passion, and the victim's freedom of choice has been removed. The victim is not guilty.

"Sex is secondary, the attacker's main motivation is power and control," added Mary.

It's not always the provocative young female who is raped, age ranges of reported cases have started at six months to 80 years, male or female.

It is because of all these myths that surround the crimes of rape and sexual assault that concerned people saw a need of the formation of Rape Crisis Centres.

The Edmonton branch was formed in 1976 and one of its main functions is to inform the public about the crime and ultimately make victims feel no shame about reporting rape.

As a rape victim, it becomes crucial that the victim make informed decisions to know what her alternatives are.

This is another area the Rape Crisis Centre is involved in, acting as a referral agency for women in need of information or assistance before or after a rape has been committed.

Ultimately though, it has to be the victim's decision alone as to what course of action she's going to take.

If the victim decides to go to the police, she is doing what is legally called filing a complaint. Once the police establish the credibility of the complaint, they go ahead and lay a charge on behalf of the crown.

"Rape is viewed as a crime against society and not the individual," explained Ginger. "Immediacy of the report is vital," said Ginger, it means the police will have just that much more physical and emotional evidence to work with.

Don't destroy evidence, meaning don't clean or tidy yourself in any way or the side of the road if it takes place in your home for instance.

Police questioning can prove to be humiliating and embarrassing but it's not designed to be so, the questions have a practical purpose for the sake of future evidence.

Plus police questioning, the victim must go through a hospital examination and then possible trial.

In the event that the victim decides she doesn't want to go to the police, she can report the rape to the Rape Crisis Centre and the people there will in turn pass this information on to the police and the victim will remain totally anonymous.

"The question of self defense courses was also brought up at the session.

"They can teach you how to maintain thought when someone does catch you unaware," explained Mary.

It is questionable however, if these types of courses can really be effective in teaching you to overpower an attacker.

One of the most important things to remember, is to walk with an air of confidence. Look like someone who knows where she is going and where she is. This kind of attitude will probably make most attackers think, "she might cause problems," emphasized Mary.

If you decide that violence is going to be the only way out for you, then you've got to be effective the first time," said Mary. "Don't initiate violence, it's most likely he will react with violence in return."

Congratulations to the Bransden Steam Service Curling team in the Oltman Curling Bonspiel in Carleton Place recently who won the Grand Challenge. Skip: Bob Steadman, 1st: Brian Pilsworth, 2nd: Don Elliott, 3rd: Charles Livingston.

Sorry to hear of Ed Davidson's misfortune of breaking his leg while at a Convention in Medicine Hat. Hope you will be home again soon Ed.

Glad to hear that Bradley Storer is home again after his stay in the Red Deer hospital. Mrs. Daisy Jensen returned home last week from the Hardisty hospital.

Mrs. Virginia Johnson returned home from the University hospital. Nice to have you home again Virginia.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Buchanan and Karen from Leduc were visiting at the Danny Lawson's over the weekend. Sunday was such a beautiful day that the Skidoos were out enjoying their rides throughout the country side. Ebel McCracken spent Tuesday afternoon at the Dave Livingston home. Later Mrs. McCracken had supper at the Jensen home.

Mrs. Marlene Peterson from Gunn is visiting her mother, Mrs. Martha Nohelby, for a few days and is doing some housecleaning.

Mr. and Mrs. Nick Venema from Amisk visited Mrs. Martha Nohelby last Sunday.

Mr. Gus Johnson accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Ben Cibart to Lloydminster on business last Wednesday.

Nice to see Carmen out of the hospital and back home.

Parliament Hill Report

Over the past number of years many Westerners have expressed to me a great concern over railway line abandonment and railway line rehabilitation. I thought the rehabilitation program which is now taking place, that which is scheduled to be completed in 1978 and the proposed repairs which will be completed in 1979 and 1980 would be of particular interest to residents of the Prairies.

The Hall Commission dealt with this subject matter extensively and advocated a Prairie Rail Authority which the Minister of Transport will set up before the end of 1978. This will require legislation to designate the exact authority which will be handed over to this body which will have control over the abandonment or repair of some 2,200 miles of railway track in Western Canada. In the meantime, the Minister of Transport has set up a Prairie Action Committee which is spending $100 million in an attempt to upgrade some of the railway lines enabling them to carry the larger cars handling both grain and coal. In the Constituency of Crowfoot in East Central Alberta there has been active concern along the Lacombe-Coronation line which stretches into Saskatchewan. Repairs to the shoulder, ballast and bridges are being carried out on this line this year and further repairs will be completed next year.

Some time ago there was deep concern expressed over the railway line running from Fort Macleod. Repairs along this line on ties, bridges and culverts have been completed in 1977 and 1978. Concern over the movement of grain and coal has also been expressed over the Alliance Subdivision and extensive work is scheduled on this line next year.

If any of my constituents would like further information on these rehabilitation projects I hope they won't hesitate to contact me. —Jack Horner

Central high bulletin

This is the fourth year of school budgets. School budgeting basically means that the County Board of Education has decentralized part of its spending power to the Schools. Each School within the County if given a set amount of money based on a basic per School grant, a per pupil grant and additional monies for Industrial Education and Home Ec. This money in the case of Central is then budgeted for General Operations (paper supplies, library, equipment maintenance, transportation for extra curricular trips) and for the category of Subject Areas. The School Budgeting concept has made us much more aware at the School level of waste of material and loss of material. Since the School budget replaces library books and subject reference books in English, Social Studies and Industrial Education we are very conscious of losses in these areas. We therefore appeal to students and parents to return to the School any books or other materials that belong to Central (the School stamp will be on the inside cover and likely on page 35) or to the County text book rental plan. This winter, more than in past years, we are finding a growing number of students

Pioneer farmer passes

Nels Jensen

Battle Band district was saddened by the passing of Nels Jensen in the Hardisty hospital January 17, 1978 at the age of 70 years after a lengthy illness.

Nels Michael Jensen was born near Wetaskiwin, June 10, 1907. He moved with his parents to their homestead in the Battle Band district in the spring of 1908. He received his education in the Battle Band School.

At an early age he started farming with his father, later taking over the homestead and farming it with his family until his retirement two years ago. In October, 1988, he was united in marriage to Daisy Chave and to this union five children were born.

Nels was the best husband, father, neighbor and friend anyone could wish for.

He was always ready and willing to help anyone in need, day or night. He was a great blacksmith and machine repair man. If a repair couldn't be brought he would make it and get the machine working again. Many a plow share and cultivator shovel he sharpened for himself and his neighbors.

Nels was predeceased by a sister in 1908, his father in 1961, one brother in 1963 and his mother in 1965.

He leaves to mourn his passing his loving wife Daisy, his five children Nels Jr. from Medley, Alberta; Ebel Dale of Aklavik, N.W.T.; Alice Leake of Williams Lake; Helen on the farm and Robert in Calgary. Thirteen grandchildren, 4 sons, 4 brothers, nieces and nephews and a host of neighbors and friends.

Funeral services were conducted by Rev. Jackson at the Battle Band School January 21 at 10:00 a.m. with interment in the Battle Band Cemetery.

CARD OF THANKS

We would like to express our sincere and heartfelt thanks to all our relatives, neighbors and friends for their kind expressions of sympathy during the loss of our dear husband and father.

Thanks so much for all the floral tributes, memorial donations and cards also food sent to the house.

A very special Thank you to Dr. Cahill and the nursing and kitchen staff at the Hardisty Hospital, Rev. Jackson, Holbena Funeral Home, the Pallbearers and Ken Dufor for the lovely solo "Over Sunset Mountains."

A thank you also to Grace Reft, Corinne McCracken, the community ladies and all those who helped at the graveside. All was greatly appreciated.

Daisy Jensen and family, Nels Jr. and Leona, Ebel and Grant, Alice and Jay, Helen and Doug, Robert and Jenny.

Killam Snowflake carnival was a hit

February 15, 16 and 17 can be summed up in three words: "An Outstanding success!" It was an entirely local family affair and had something of interest for everyone, from toddlers to the most senior of Senior Citizens, either as event participants or as spectators and best of all, the "prize was right."

Thursday evening, Killam and district families started pouring into the Arena and it would seem that they remained there right through Friday until about 1 p.m.

Saturday for the awarding of the arena trophy, the ice sculpture trophy, and the crowning of the Carnival Queen.

The events held Thursday and Friday evenings and all day Saturday were many and varied - most of them were as hilarious to participate in as they were to watch; some were of a more serious nature, but none the less, were more enjoyable for all. The Pancake breakfast, held Saturday morning, capably cooked and served by our local volunteer Fire Brigade, attracted more than 250 hungry locals and their visitors.

The ice sculpture event must receive special mention because of time and work involved - All were master pieces and all were an attraction for local and visiting "shutter-bugs". It was most unfortunate that the weather was mild enough to ruin them so quickly.

The most popular spot for the three days was the area in front of the chart where the points for each event was tallied, simply because the competition between the four designated areas was most keen and best of all, good natured!

Saturday evening, when all events were finished and points tallied, it was extended to note that an award went to each area. Shide Child (red) was crowned Queen. The Ice Sculpture award went to the blue team. Clara Fortner (yellow) was the chocolate cake contest and the Green team won the trophy for overall points. Congratulations to each division.

Much organization and work was involved in providing these three days but the members of the Ice Road were most gratified by the response they received, however, that it is not my instinctive trait. It is my personal desire that I would criticize a government only in those cases where I believe the government to be at fault. Recognizing, however, that when a major attack is launched upon the government the question of credibility naturally arises. For these reasons the remainder of this column will be a series of quotations abstracted from a speech by Maxwell Henderson, the former Auditor-General of Canada for the years 1960 through 1973. Mr. Maxwell Henderson gave this speech at the Palliser Wheat Growers Association in Saskatoon on January 4, 1978.

Killam District News

Better correct some mistakes I made last week. Mr. and Mrs. Bob Clark and Lorraine Clark are the ones with the Hawaiian Tans, not Mr. and Mrs. Bill Clark.

Mr. and Mrs. Bernard McMahone attended Kay's birthday party at Prince Albert, Sask. Mr. and Mrs. Roy Ouliet of Edmonton spent the weekend with parents Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Hart. While here Sharon had to be hospitalized. We hope you are home soon.

Get well wishes to Mrs. Harry O'Brien who is having something of a crusade in the fight against too much government spending too many of our tax dollars to perpetuate itself in power." In speaking of the Education hospital. We hope you are home soon.

A bride shower honoring Miss Janice Lindseth will be held at the Killam Elks Hall on Thursday, March 16 at 8:00 p.m. Everybody welcome.

Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Bergson for the weekend with parents Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Hart. While here Sharon had to be hospitalized. We hope you are home soon.

Congratulations to Dr. Gerry Roman and Miss Janice McMahon who were married on Saturday, March 4 in Edmonton. They will make their new home in Calgary. Mr. and Mrs. Bernard McMahon, Mr. and Mrs. Bob McMahon, Mr. and Mrs. Tony Schweitzer, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Hilker, Mr. and Mrs. Sid James, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Damman, and Mrs. Mike DeBru attended the wedding.

Get well wishes to Mrs. Ina Busse who had the misfortune of falling breaking a wrist. We hope you are not in the cast for long.

The weekend of February 25 and 26 the Killam Recreation hockey teams held a hockey tournament. Teams No. 1 and No. 2 of Killam, Viking and Sedgewick and Fiberglass, a team from Edmonton were entered. Teams No. 1 and Fiberglass were in the finals, with Fiberglass taking the tournament. The boys of Fiberglass, turned their winnings of $50.00 back to Killam Minor hockey.

There were some real good games and we hope another year, they have a better turnout for crowd.

Sympathy goes out to Mr. and Mrs. Doug Kinner and family and all relations in their loss of Marie's brother of Viking.

It is interesting to note that Mr. Macdonell, the present Auditor-General, has stated that "he was deeply concerned that the parliament and indeed the government had lost, or was close to losing, effective control of the public purse".

Through the red tape jungle - part 1

Since I am a Member of Her Majesty's Loyal Opposition I must seem only natural that I would want to condemn many of the government's policies. I hope, however, that it is not my instinctive trait. Mr. Maxwell Henderson gave this speech at the Palliser Wheat Growers Association in Saskatoon on January 4, 1978.

one of our problems. It goes much deeper than the proverbial habit of blaming the government for everything that goes wrong."

Speaking about the lack of trust in government he stated that "confrontation after confrontation after confrontation has all the way from that disgraced shop affair involving the bribing of a senator, the dredging contract, the ways in which two cabinet ministers, Drury and Ouellette, interferred with the judiciary in Quebec, questionable payments by the crown corporations, the uranium cartel, cynical disclosure of wasted public money, and more recently the handling of the RCMP. The government never admits any guilt in these shabby goings on and has never been run in free times responsible. Instead each disclosure runs its course until the government is able to sweep it under the proverbial carpet. And the government loses more and more credibility each time and more and more people decide a pen on politicians."

When speaking about gross overpricing and the lack of established standards he stated "It is that public money is trust money taken from the taxpayers and appropriated by Parliament to the government to administer for all the people."

He went on to state, "It amazed me then and amazes me still why the government always moves to bury such cases in its red tape. I never answers the charges openly and frankly, never fires those responsible. Better, I think, to return to the day when the government presented a yearly bill and the taxpayer filled out a simple form, paid it and kicked out the day when he thought it excessive. Now he simply cannot know."

In next week's column I will continue about some quotations from Mr. Henderson's speech delivered last month in Saskatoon. It should be obvious, however, that our Auditor-General has severe reservations about the government's ability to keep in touch.

states that "there the government argues that our discounted dollar in the United States will offset the higher cost of manufacturing in Canada. Yet Canada right now is about to move in the direction of free trade with her foreign competitors under the Government Agreement on Tariffs and Trade to the point where it could be made at a worse time for most of Canada's manufacturing industries."

The result of a sluggish economy are predictable. As Mr. Henderson stated "bankruptcies in Canada for the first nine months of 1977 reached 12,324 - up 35 per cent from 1976 - and by all accounts they are going to increase substantially in 1978."

"The real danger we face is that our present political leaders, with an election coming up, will embark on more government spending with probably some tax deductions to stimulate consumption and buy votes if they do, this will be more of the same and the result is easily predictable: less investment, higher unemployment, and still a further drop in the value of the Canadian dollar."

In short, unless we learn to manage our economy nothing else will be left to be managed. The real keeping in touch starts with the basics.

The past Auditor-General warns that the present economic men could be dangerous to our economic development. He

Hardisty and District News Items

Here I am looking after the house in Camrose and this is Friday and my friend of cards, Mrs. Irene Lytster and I went to the Golden Age Club and it was a very pleasant afternoon that we had.

I was on the dining team and although there were only 3 of us on the team, we won three games, our last one being against Gerrie Gibson and her rink.

Then Irene, Gerrie and I had lunch together and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Barton were there, Mr. and Mrs. Art Widdake and Mr. John Peterson, whose sister nursed in Hardisty Hospital for eight years. Someone was just asking me the other day what he and I asked her brother about her.

She is now Mrs. Langston and they live at Naramata, B.C. She plays the organ in church yet and I last saw her at Edith Houcher's funeral in April, as they worked at the hospital at the same time.

Another lady that I met is a Mrs. Wharton who lives in Camrose and was a Miss Anderson who taught at Chole School a way back in 1921 and who sends greetings to one of her pupils, Mrs. Orma Thorp. This is for those who remember her way back when, as she boarded with Aunt Lil Lamb, bright, and she remembered the good times at the dances at Strong School.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Longman, Mr. and Mrs. Art Wagon, Ruth Longman, Eleanor Moody boarded the train at Wainwright last Thursday morning to attend a nephew's wedding.

It was a Longman wedding. Elsie Parkin spent a couple of days in Edmonton with her sister, Hilda Reason.

Mrs. Bud Bargholtz of Brantford spent a few days with her mother, Mrs. Nettie Johnson and helped her niece Kerri Blitzer celebrate her birthday, also Wally's birthday too.

The regular meeting of the Senior Citizens Social Club was held in the Drop In Centre on Tuesday afternoon with President Mary Goodrich in the chair.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved. The financial statement given by Treasurer Vera Hendricks, showing a healthy balance, was read and approved.

Vera, reported on literature received from several travel agencies regarding bus tours for seniors, and will have more information later.

It was noted that work has begun on the design of the center. It was reported that a dish. A delicious assortment of casseroles, salads, etc. were enjoyed. Following the supper, whilst was played, the winners being Ladies 1st Margaret Cherran, Ladies Cons. Nellie Scott, Gents 1st, Jayne Johnson, Gents Cons. Erma Matthews.

The draw was made for the "All seasons" quilt at this time, the winner being Betty Ganie of Irma. Congratulations! and many thanks to Mrs. Bev Elm who donated the quilt, and to all who supported the project.

We hope the old timers are digging up old memories for the forthcoming, Hardisty history book. More about this later.

Following adjournment, lunch was enjoyed by all. Among the team travelling to Denmark for the Old Times Hockey tournament were Walter Korok, Barney Matthews.

Bellshill community

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Markwart have been the "gadabouts" of the Bellshill Community this winter. First they spent nearly a month at Calmar, with their daughter. While there they visited other relatives in and around the city.

The blizzard week kept them on the farm, but they soon got out again and visited Bernard Markwart at Provost; from there to Wainwright where they visited with the Roger Lehrs and Harold Griggs. Last reports we had from Wainwright, told us that Mrs. Harold Craig was in the hospital. Her's hoping she is able to be out again soon.

The regular wheel drive was held at Bellshill on Friday, March 3 with 7 tables. Prize winners were: First - Mrs. Art Armstrong and John Adamson, Sweep - Mrs. Lawrence Kneeland and Dave Livingston.

Mystery Mrs. Emily Mackenzie and John Black, Travelling - Mrs. John Adamson and Will Johnson. Consolation - Mrs. Dave Livingston and Dorena Cameron. See you at Goose Creek on next report.

Sure to report that Edward Davidson broke his leg again, while attending a Fish and Game Convention in Medicine Hat. He is to be home for the following week and then go back for removal of stitches and a walking cast put on. Same place as last time!

The Pallbearers were: Ivor Cooke, Robert Jackson, Ivor Bowen and Murray Pines. Cremation took place in Edmonton on February 15 with interment to follow in April at Cheltenham, England.

E.L. Sharpe and Sons Funeral Home of Castor were in charge.

Cambridge community

On the afternoon of February 28, nine members of the Cambridge Community Association met at the home of Louise Wyle. This was our "Valentine" meeting, though a bit late.

We discussed more about making a quilt, and Ida gave a suggestion as to a pattern which she is designing herself. We decided that we would make this a future project, with no particular time limit as to when it will be completed. We did decide, however, to work on one now and try to have it completed to raffie next summer, as we did last year. We will use some of the material we have on hand and make a "Name" quilt, with each member embroidering their name and perhaps a design on a block.

Dorothy Lane asked if the club would serve lunch at their farm late in the spring, to which we agreed, and will discuss this further at our next meeting.

It seems most people were quite healthy the past month. Only one get well card was sent out, and this month there were no donations.

We opened our "Valentine" cards, gifts and articles from our Silent Sisters. This proved very interesting and in some cases, very comical. There was a good variety, from fancy cards, to cookies and chocolates, even pot holders. Some of our members were missing, so we were unable to see some of our imagination and talent were displayed in what we had.

Next month we will again have a chance to display our "artistic skills", as the roll call will be a decorated Easter Egg from each member. This meeting will be held at the home of Elsie Cookson in Sedgewick, with Ida Black as co-hostess.

Our contest this month was a "Love Letter" in which the blanks had to be filled in with suitable names of flowers, vegetables or trees. Rita and Dorothy were the top winners of this, with Valda, working at a disadvantage by herself, receiving low. Louise was the lucky winner of the raffie brought by Valda.

The meeting concluded with the Lord's Prayer.

NOTICE OF INTENTION

Area Subdivision around Hardisty

Land which may be reclassified (rezoned) for acreage development
Town of Hardisty
Roads

There appears to be a growing demand for acreages and country residences in the eastern part of the County. A study conducted by the Battle River Regional Planning Commission, identifying suitable areas for development, has been adopted by the County Council.

Council of the County of Flagstaff therefore gives notice as follows:

1. Council is prepared to amend the Land Use Classification from Agriculture to Country Residential on all the lands shown shaded on the accompanying map. If requested by landowners, once a subdivision proposal has been approved by the Planning Commission.

2. Until that time, the land will remain classified as Agriculture and zoned as such.

3. Council will consider regarding the area for acreages, as suggested in the Planning Commission study, only when the above noted area has been fully developed.

4. Landowners considering development should realize that they, and not the County, must bear all costs of subdivision and development.

4-H CLUB ACTIVITIES

KILAM 4-H LIGHT HORSE CLUB

Our meeting was held in the Auction Market on Wednesday, February 15. There were 16 members and 10 adults present. To begin the evening when all had arrived, Stan gave us a clinic in the sales ring and explained different types of bits to use on your horse. He demonstrated whip breaking a horse (not as bad as the phrase sounds), that turned his backside to you. (or as Stan says "A quick hand shake"). He went on to show us how to train a horse, starting with easy biting; turning to the rein, saddling and driving, mounting and riding. The meeting was then called to order and the pledge was recited. Roll Call and minutes of the last meeting were read and approved. Business arising from the minutes: that the club pay for our bowling game with Heister Dairy Club. We were again this year, a thank you letter sent to Mr. and Mrs. Len McCrea.

New business dealt with a letter from Bill Barnes of Hardisty regarding 4-H district crests or buttons for sale. These are to be worn at any 4-H activity and a sample of each were sent for viewing. It was decided that each member put their preference of crest or button on a list and we will order from this list. Rodie time again in Edmonton. After a discussion it was moved by Mimi that we go on Wednesday 29 of March and seconded by Gail and carried. Patti K motivated we buy $3.00 tickets (club rate) and Sharon seconded the motion and it was carried. Members are to let President Patti W. know by February 25 as to whether you are going for sure and if there is a vehicle available in your family for transportation, and the tickets will then be ordered. Thank you letter will be sent to Kilaam Swap for Photo-Copying, our monthly schedule. Stan is working on a possible sleigh ride. Adult members had a short discussion on future club activities, tonight, films and other demonstrations regarding horses and equipment.

The meeting was adjourned and distant leader Joan Djes (assisted by Mabel Wheeler and Mrs. Djes elder daughter) gave us yarn and showed us how to make a hay net for our horses.

Agriculture Canada Reports

MILAN GRAM DRYING
This spring in South Coast, scientists will launch a series of solar energy experiments that could have a dramatic impact on Prairie agriculture.

Dr. Harmon Davidson, an Agriculture Canada researcher at Swift Current, heads the study. It is being conducted in co-operation with the Saskatchewan government.

The scientists want to find out how easily built and less expensive solar collectors can be used to dry grains and heat livestock barns and machinery sheds. They also hope to produce a map of the Prairies, showing areas which could best use these solar energy structures.

Three solar heat experiments are planned. The first test aims to dry grain in a circular, 1,000-bushel grain bin, 4.27 meters in diameter and 2.44 meters high. The south-facing two-thirds of the bin is wrapped by a solar collector. Air enters the collect or from the north side of the bin and is warmed by air in eight degrees C. It is drawn towards the front by a fan and forced under the bin. The warm air passes through the mesh in the bottom of the bin and up through the grain.

The second experiment uses a square grain bin, with the south-facing side. Again, the warmed air is forced into the structure by a fan. This same sort of solar collector could be used for heating barns and machinery sheds.

The third experiment is similar to the second, but uses a rock pile to store heat, which is given off during the night. The experimental solar collector is relatively easy to build. It has an exterior of clear fiberglass. Then there's a three-quarter-inch "dead air" chamber. The other wall of the chamber is made of tin, painted black on the side facing the fiberglass. Behind the tin plate is a four-inch passage where the air is warmed.

The technology is still in its infancy. When developed, solar energy collectors could go a long way in reducing fuel bills for some Prairie farmers who are faced with drying moist grain.

Lougheed and District News Items

March 4, the Lougheed Arena was filled to capacity for the 2nd annual Ice Carnival. Presentations were made and the Skat-A-Thon money was presented to the Arena Building Committee president Tom Clouston. The total being $2,000.95 Brian Johnson, Tina Gruninger, Brian Thors were awarded trophies for bringing in the most money for the Skat-A-Thon. After 10 interesting numbers of figures and power skating Shelly Dixon, so great skater, ended the program.

Thank you to everyone taking part and helping to make this evening such a success.

Did you know there's a Fashion Show coming up in Lougheed? Well there is. The Lougheed Homemakers 4-H girls have really been busy practicing and rehearsing for their Fashion Show on March 11 at 2:30 p.m. No one realizes what a lot of work this involves, so hope the people will come out and support these girls. From all appearances, it will be different, and interesting. The styles modelled will all be new for spring "88", so come out and see for yourselves what these girls can do.

Mrs. Frank Cook of Edmonton spent the weekend with her folks the Peto Groves.

Recreation Hockey Team played last Thursday, from 4, Lougheed 3.

Mrs. Pauline Butcher spent a couple of weeks in Calgary visiting Roger and Mary Tins and others. Then Jack and Jimmy Butcher went by and got her and then on to Carleton Place to attend a Quarter Horse Sale before returning home.

Roger Riley was one in the Wheat Pool elevator here in town.

Mrs. Marie Kobitzsch and Bernice, Mrs. Margaret Quinlan, also Mr. Joe Saragis of Hardisty were dinner guests at Mr. and Mrs. Harold Probst a week ago last Sunday.

A week ago this past Sunday night Mr. and Mrs. Hunter White were supper guests at Mr. and Mrs. Bill Wallace's home in Sedgewick.

Seems as though everyone is so busy with the Carnival in town this weekend. By the time this news gets out it will be all over with. Then it's ladies curling bonspiel.

If anyone should happen to see or hear of an extra weather thermometer around town it belongs to your reporter. It was taken off outside my window frame one day last week.

Services held

When James Strutch William James was born to Clifford and Agnes Strutch at Pooka, Alberta on April 2, 1907. He passed away at the family farm at Killam on February 13, 1978. He was not blessed with a special talent and was incapable of accomplishing great things so lived his life in quiet solitude and in simple dignity.

Gentleness and humor were his cloak, which won him a place in the hearts of all who knew him.

He was predeceased by his father in November, 1945, and his mother in June, 1949.

He will be remembered by his three brothers: Roy at Camrose, George at Kamloops, Albert at Edmonton and his sister Hazel Shaw at Sedgewick and their families.

The funeral was conducted February 17 from St. Johns Anglican church at Sedgewick with the Rev. Richard Conrad officiating.

Honorary pallbearers were Harry O'Brien, Don and Archie MacEachern, Leslie and Art Anderson, Ivan Peterson. Active pallbearers were Henry Maschke, Edward D'Arcy, Henry Jacobella, Melvin Maccher, Harold Merchant, Eddie Usselman. Fee and Son were in charge of the arrangements. Interment in the family plot at Sedgewick.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to sincerely thank the honorary and active pallbearers for their help and support in the passing of brother Bill. Thanks to Rev. Conrad and Nora, Berghoff and to family friends for their flowers, cards, memorial contributions and to Mr. and Mrs. Don MacEachern who so kindly served lunch after the funeral.

George and Jean Strutch, Jack and Hazel Shaw and their families.

Sedgewick and District News Items

Among those present at a family get-together at the Brian Lee home on Sunday were Joe and Rob Lee from Calgary; Marvonne Lee and Cathy Pritchard from Sylvan Lake; Peter Wilson, Mrs. Feddens and Grace from Camrose; Father Tom Kretsch, Rob and Rebecca Kretsch and Pat Dewbury from Edmonton; Marg and Andre Borke from Villeneuve; Kai and Simone Probst from Leduc; Marvonne and Hilda Kretsch and family from Strathmore; Father Person, Father McCarthy and Ed and Owen Kretsch and family, all from Killam. Since the house was bulging at the seams!

Congratulations to Rhonda Tanton who won the trophy for the most improved Senior skater and to Denise Hagen who won for the most improved Junior Skater in the Sedgewick Figure Skating Club.

Sedgewick midget report

The Sedgewick Midgets have won their first round of the Midget D Provincial playoffs. They defeated Bashaw 21 to 0 in the two game total goal series. In the first game on February 22 they outscored Bashaw 8 to 0. On March 1 they travelled to Bashaw and completely dominated the Bashaw boys with a 13 to 0 victory. Sedgewick will now meet the winner of the Dayland, Killam series in the second round of the Provincial.

On Friday March 3, Sedgewick Midgets hosted Wainwright in the first game of the BM League semifinals. In a fast, hard hitting game Sedgewick emerged the victors by a score of 7 to 4.

Sedgewick motored to Wainwright on Sunday, March 5 and won the semi-final series two straight. Sedgewick took an early lead only to have Wainwright come back and knot the score at 2 all. The Sedgewick boys came back strong in the last half of the game with 6 unanswered goals to win 8 to 2. Sedgewick now play Dayland in the League final which will be the best of five series. Dayland defeated Provost in their semi-final series.

Gosse Creek Ladies

On Thursday afternoon, March 2 the Gosse Creek Ladies Club met at the home of Miss Vera Swainson in Sedgewick. There were 8 members and 2 visitors present.

Four Ball call information on a choice of topics was submitted. The topics were St. David's day or Wales - St. Patrick's day or Ireland and Easter. Several of the ladies had some interesting exhibits and information. Mrs. Hilda Simpson supplied the entertainment with a contest which was won by Marjorie Adamson and Margaret Simpson. The consolation was awarded to Pearl Simpson and Elsie Cookson.

The hostess served a delicious lunch.

Nazarene Church News

Missionary meeting was held on Wednesday with a slide presentation of Nazarene work in Hong Kong where the church is located on twentieth floor of a high rise apartment.

At 2:30 p.m. Sunday, March 12, Rev. Abel will conduct a baptismal service in the Killam Baptist Church.

An exciting and profitable weekend is planned for youth. Check "Coming Events" for details please.

W.M.S. study beauty

The WMS met on Wednesday, March 8 with 14 members and 1 visitor present.

Articles of used clothing were sorted in the work period.

Mrs. Ethel Black conducted an interesting contest in line with the devotional theme "Bonnet and Bonnet". She displayed pictures of lovely ladies dressed in the elegant hats and dresses of 1908.

She spoke of the outward beauty of women as mentioned in a number of Bible verses, and stated the importance of dressing to appear neat and attractive.

Prayer was offered by Mrs. Anna Whitehead.

Our guest speaker, Mrs. Powell of Forestburg, then spoke of the inward beauty of women, giving many helpful thoughts for our daily lives. If love, joy, peace, etc., are shown then it will be seen in the outward appearance.

A story of Missionary work in Nigeria was read by Carrie Storer.

A vote of thanks was extended to Mrs. Powell for her inspiring message. Mrs. Black led in prayer.

President Anna Whitehead conducted the business meeting. She welcomed our guest speaker, and also Mrs. Eva Jackson who has just returned from Arizona.

Reports were given. Bills to be arranged for the Bible College Choir members who will sing March 18.

Clara Wegman and Carol Jackson served a delicious lunch including sherry cookies and Easter candies.

HOURS

Town of Daysland council minutes

The February regular meeting of Council was held on Feb. 14, commencing at 7:00 p.m. with Councillors Damberger, Renney, Dickan, Wittenberg, Larson and Shank, Mayor Lissack reading.

Council was informed of some complaint concerning the effectiveness of the Creech dog catching service. Council recommends that Mr. Creech be issued an identification card indicating that he has been recruited by the Town of Daysland to assist with enforcement of By-Law G-240. Council's feeling is that the dog by law is being enforced at present more efficiently than in the past and citizens are encouraged to contact the Town Office for details about By-Law G-240 should any questions arise.

With regard to Senior Citizen Housing, Council was updated on the results of two recent meetings in Daysland with officials from Alberta Housing and Alberta Hospital Services. At the latter meeting a large assembly of Senior Citizens, Councillors and other interested parties were informed a Nursing facility would require the proving of need for a 75 bed facility and that the community ought to request, through the Daysland Hospital Board, for an "extended care" facility. Council approved a motion that a letter of firm support for this request be forwarded to the Mayor and the Senior Citizens Housing Committee.

Council was informed of the receipt of the titles to the lots of the new west end development and that several inquiries concerning purchase of lots have been received at the Town Office.

The new garbage disposal by-law (G250) was given third and final reading. All citizens will be receiving a copy of this new by-law.

Councillor Dickan, Council's representative at the January 30 Hall Board meeting reported that the Hall Board has approved a five dollar across-the-board increase in rental fees for Hall facilities.

Council approved the purchase of a 1978 Cat 1200 road grader to replace the old (1959) grader which had become too expensive to maintain and too unworkable in the face of this winter's snow removal load.

Council made note of the planned May 3 Zone and Regional meeting of all elected and appointed municipal government officials from the Central Eastern Zone. The Town of Daysland will host Councillors and Administrators from all of the towns ranging from Camrose to Fort Saskatchewan and Lloydminster to Peace River.

Council was informed of a letter from Constable D. Bangle of the Killam R.C.M.P. detachment suggesting that Daysland consider a community project undertaken at Sherwood Park to study the problems of youth and alcohol abuse. Council was informed that Flagstaff P.S.S. is, at Council's request, in the process of coordinating such a program.

Council approved a motion to inform the Minister of Trade and Commerce, the Honourable Mr. Jack Horner, that at his convenience Council would extend an invitation to all of the Municipal and County Councillors of the County of Flagstaff to attend in Daysland an opportunity to hear and discuss with Mr. Horner matters of joint interest and concern.

The committee established to look into the further development and perpetuation of Daysland's Park Areas reported that a five point proposal had been submitted to the Recreation Board with regard to Ansel Park (the Golf Course).

Daysland and District News Items

There will be a St. Patrick's in the United Church basement March 18 at 8:30 p.m. to get acquainted with all new comers in and around Daysland.

The Hospital Auxiliary meeting was held March 9 at the hospital. President Mrs. Ellen Pederson presided. Laura Graham read the Auxiliary Prayer and took down the minutes. There were 8 members present.

New business was the hospital and doctors are asking us to buy a heating unit light and table for the baby's room. We decided to have a sale at the Auction Mart March 31 or whenver they have time for our sale. Norma Hanrahan and Betty Stanners will sell cook books at the sale.

The meeting adjourned and coffee and squares were served. Helen Makarowski of Camrose was the lucky winner of a Coleman Cooler when her name was one of ten drawn at the A.C.T. Search for Talent show held in Vegreville on March 4. Her name now goes with the others drawn from 12 regular and three semi-final shows to be drawn on April 15, on the C.F.R.N.T.V. Televised Search for Talent.

Mr. Dick Dickau has been transferred by the Bank of Montreal to Wainwright. His position in Daysland has been filled by Mr. Grant Diamond of High Level, Alberta.

The February meeting of the Daysland and District Chamber of Commerce was held on the 20 with 9 members present.

Among matters discussed was the enforcement of the dog by-law, what the Chamber had accomplished in the past and new possibilities.

It was decided to hold a supper meeting at the next regular date, March 20. Tickets are available from most members. A guest speaker has been invited to address this meeting. Mr. Ken Kennedy and Mrs. Norma Wallace of Camrose and Mrs. Florence Niehaus of Daysland attended the Annual Multiple Sclerosis Convention in Winnipeg February 24 and 25. Interesting news items on the progress of Multiple Sclerosis research were explained.

Mr. and Mrs. John Kolodet and Vivian drew to Fort McMurray to visit son Benny and family last weekend. Vivian stayed on for a longer visit. They also attended a three day winter carnival in Fort McMurray while they were there. Glad to hear that Mr. John Dolan is home in Daysland.

Word was received here of the passing away of Arthur British who lived in his parents and took all his schooling in Daysland. He leaves to mourn his passing, his wife Alice, one son and one daughter. The C.W.L. held their regular and annual meeting March 2. The executive for a two year term is as follows: President - Mrs. Alma Daley; 1st Vice - Mrs. Laur Matheson; 2nd Vice - Mrs. Virgie Zurek; 3rd Vice - Mrs. Delores Dolan; Secretary - Mrs. Leona Lorenz and Treasurer - Mrs. Orlean Michie.

It will be catering to a few weddings during the summer, as well as Graduation May 5. Canvassing for the Arthritis Society will again take place in the fall.

Last Tuesday afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Ray Bromberg entertained about 30 of the Sunday Club members at their home. They played cards and other games, and enjoyed a delicious lunch served by Mrs. Bromberg. A very enjoyable afternoon was had by all.

Daysland O.O.R.P.

The March meeting of the Royal Purple members was held March 16. There were 21 ladies present, and H.R.L. Betty Karpovich presiding.

The past Supreme Honored Royal Lady Irene Francoeur was present and given a hearty welcome. Camrose H.R.L. Theron was also welcomed as were 21 members of the Camrose Lodge.

Correspondence was read and the 1977 district newsletter was given. Arlene Lichmidt gave a report on the Recreation Board meeting she attended. No one offered to attend the next meeting. H.R.L. Karpovich reported she had presented the 4-H club with trophies at their speak-off Monday evening.

The following nominating committee was elected as P.H.R.L. Elverson, Walderi, and Lady Vera Gustafson. In a slate of officers at our April meeting, Sunshine Committee reported several cards sent to the sick. A meeting of the Cancer Society will be held on March 20 in the hall sponsored by the Hospital Auxiliary. No one offered to go as a delegate.

The Red Cross Committee, Lady Kay Ekspeter said our objective was set at $700 and books were handed out to various ladies who will canvas town and country for donations. As this is Red Cross month do your best by helping the ladies meet this objective.

P.S.H.R.L. Francoeur was asked to speak which she did briefly. Camrose H.R.L. Theron along with several of her ladies presented a short skit in bringing the Gavel to Daysland, and she presented H.R.L. Karpovich with a gift. Several small gifts were given out by District Deputy Anne Zwack during the lunch hour.

Daysland girl joins National Ballet

Miss Emma Crowley, age nine, has been accepted by the National Ballet Company of Canada. She will be travelling to Toronto in July. Emma has been taking lessons in Camrose since the age of five.

The second semester Junior High school council are as follows: President - Joan Campbell, Secretary - Diana Branson, Vice President - Daisy Spiller, Treasurer - Murray Klitz, Sports Reps. - Jackie Walder and Clifford Branson.

On February 11, 84 students from the Junior High took part in a ski trip to Lake Eden. Vollebrink is underway. The girls hosted a tournament on February 28, they lost to Strome, tied with Heiler and Forestburg. Strome took home the trophies. Brenda Robbins was chosen most valuable player.

Other team members are: Captain - Audrey Loeach, assistant - Shanna Branson, Jackie Walder, Wendy Campbell, Jane Turney, Joan Campbell, Marcia Linnach, Lori Gabruch, Judy May, Crystal Lindstedt and Sharon Zwack.

Coach is Mrs. B. Beebe. There are no boys team this year.

An exchange trip to Quebec is in the future for grade nine students. This will take place in early July. The students will stay in Quebec for 10 days and will then return with their host or hostess for 10 days here.

Junior High reporters are Audrey Loeach and Joan Campbell. Gilbert and Sullivan Operetta held at Daysland School was a great success. The people who attended enjoyed a fun evening of entertainment. The play ridiculed the class system. Coffee was served and after the play the audience and cast shared thoughts.

A general meeting of the Senior High students was held at the February. Fund raising projects were again discussed. A slave auction is to be held on March 14, with headquarters in Daysland, Heiler and Strome. Students willing to give their services to towns residents and farmers alike, from 9 to 5, for cash donations for the Students Union, are the slaves. You can be a master. Need work done, get a slave.

Dancing lessons start soon. Plans were to attend school. Education Week was held March 6-10 with open house held at Daysland on March 7. Parents viewed a variety of activities ranging from art demonstrations, student plays to science experiments.

Europe 70 educational night-seers are leaving March 25. Spring vacation begins March 24 and ends April 2. The basketball team was very successful in raising money for the sports council.

DAYSLAND 4-H NEWS

The Daysland 4-H Clothing Club held their public speak-off on February 28. This year the Beef Club joined us.

"I've just been elected a director."

Who would have thought I'd ever be on the Board of Directors of a Canadian financial institution? Well, I am.

I joined my Credit Union when I started teaching, and I've been pretty active in it ever since. I like the way it operates. It's a people working together so we can all enjoy the good things in life. And because it's owned, controlled and used by the same group of people, we all benefit.

For instance, our interest rates on savings and loans are competitive with other financial institutions. The same goes for our mortgage rates.

There's no mysterious group at the top deciding to use the control in a Credit Union comes from the members. I like the idea of having my say — and with the "one member, one vote" system, I know I have as much influence as anyone else.

In any other financial institution, I'd be just a number in my Credit Union, I'm on the Board of Directors. I'm part of it, and it's a part of my life.

The Credit Union
It suits my lifestyle.

BEEF COWS REQUIRE PROPER NUTRITION AFTER CALVING

Beef cows not getting proper energy requirements after calving may suffer as much as a 50 per cent drop in conception rates, says Alberta Agricultural University nutritionist Ruth Berg.

"After calving, beef cows should be fed on an increasing plane of nutrition, to allow them to recover from calving stress and to improve their condition for the next breeding season," added Ms. Berg.

As well as providing energy for the cow's immediate needs, adequate feed is also necessary to maintain a cow's milk production. Studies completed by the University of Alberta demonstrate that each one-pound increase in milk production will result in an extra 10 pounds weaning weight per calf. Yet, the extra milk given by the cow does not produce a significant increase in the incidence of calf deaths.

As beef cows vary in both size and milk production potential, the feeding program for each herd should be considered individually. The following sample rations will give some guidelines to possible feeding programs that could be followed.

However, producers should also analyze feeds they will be using to ensure energy, protein and mineral requirements of the cows are actually being met.

Feed Required (lb. day)

On Ration A: Alfalfa Hay a 100 lb. Cow with Average Milk ing Ability: 22, a 1200 lb. cow with Superior Milk ing Ability: 31 lb.

Ration B: Grass Hay, Barley Grain, 32" Protein Supplement, 1000 lb. Cow requires 20 lbs. Grass Hay, 5 lbs. Barley grain as a 1200 lb. Cow requires 24 Grass Hay, 6 Barley Grain and 1 of Protein Supplement.

Ration C: Straw, Alfalfa Hay for 1000 lb. Cow - 15 and 16 lbs. for 1200 lb. Cow - 15 and 16 lbs. Ration D: Straw, Barley Grain, 32" Protein Supplement - 1000 lb. Cow - 15, 6, 2, 1200 lb. Cow - 12, 14, 3.

Ration E: Cereal Silage (85% Moisture), Barley Grain, 32" Protein Supplement - 100 lb. Cow - 57, 1200 lb. Cow - 62, 4.5 and 1.3.

Cows will also need cobalt iodized salt, a 1:1 mineral supplement and 60,000 IU/day of Vitamin A.

For more information about feeding programs for cows or for calving contact us in Sedgewick at 384-3737 or the animal nutritionists at the Agricultural Soil and Feed Testing Laboratory, 9909 - 118 Street, Edmonton.

HEISLER REMEMBERS

We decided upon going to the 4-H Rally in Dayland.

The achievement day that we decided on is going to be on Saturday, May 9. We are going to give out plaques or trophies on that day.

The last thing we discussed was that our club is going to participate in Highway Cleanup again this year.

During workshop we worked on our projects.

Teachers' convention inspiring

The 10 annual convention for the Central East Alberta Teachers' Convention Association began on Thursday, March 9 at 8:00 a.m. in the main hall of the Edmonton Plaza Hotel. More than 1000 teachers, superintendents and board members from the Counties of Beaver, Camrose, Claresholm, Flagstaff, Neutral Hills, Provost, Vermilion, and Wainwright were in attendance for the two day session.

Following the official opening, Mrs. Frances Louise assistant principal and Grade 8 teacher in Holyrood School, Edmonton gave an interesting presentation on "Recreation or Recreation."

Her excellent use of photographic slides, quotations and clips led the audience in a brief thirty-minute slide presentation from a humorous look through animal and plant "characterizations" of the fauna and problems of teaching, the contemplation of the natural awesomeness of majestic mountains, and of the dangers and rewards of living and teaching. In that brief thirty-minute

Frances Louise instilled in every member of the audience an awareness that this convention is a time for recreation in mind and spirit. As one teacher said, "The sessions started so early, more than 1000 teachers, superintendents and board members from the Counties of Beaver, Camrose, Claresholm, Flagstaff, Neutral Hills, Provost, Vermilion, and Wainwright were in attendance for the two day session."

Dr. Siegel concluded her address by revealing that "we are more than the sum of our parts and that it takes a good teacher to draw this out."

Mrs. Joyce Wilson, Camrose,

In his presentation of "Using the Subject Environment," Dan Stoker introduced "terrible," "inspiring," and "enthusiasm" into the vocabulary of the teachers.

The outdoors, he continued, is a justifiable environment for the language art, science, social studies, math and art. A teacher's imagination is the only limiting factor to using the school yard, hedge, or nearby woods as an environment to enhance student learning. Kids involved with vocabulary building, constructing sentences, recording experiences and sunny day exercises. Dan gave an excellent session and held the attention of a large number of teachers for the full time.

Youth have drinking problem

Close to 75% of all adult Canadians drink. That's the adults. What about youth who are under 18?

Tuesday, March 14, I interviewed Constable Eric Patching on the subject of drinking problems within this country. Eric said, "The greatest problem with drinking are the kids under 20 years of age." He said that within the last 3 or 4 years the drinking problem with kids has really increased. The reason for this is that kids under 18 are starting to drink younger. Kids just think they need liquor to have a good time, but that's not always the way it turns out. Damages, minor offenses and car accidents occur from drinking. Drinking too much. Constable Patching said close to 75% of the car accidents that occur are due to drinking. One or both drivers have been involved with drinking and driving. Also dances are a great problem in Eric's opinion. Kids go out and drink and try to prove they are really something. Eric said the day after a dance is really something else. There is a lot of work to do. There are usually damages like people running into fences, hot the all over the place etc.

What is the solution? You can't depend on the police to solve a big problem such as drinking. Eric said if there was no liquor in this world you wouldn't need so many cops. The only solution is up to public awareness and you.

There is a great difference between a social drinker and frequent drinkers. 75% of the adult Canadians drink alcoholic beverages to a certain extent. Those who are not aware of drinking are known as social drinkers. They can be divided into three general groups:

1. Occasional drinkers
2. Fairly frequent drinkers
3. Very frequent drinkers

Occasional drinkers are those who have a drink now and then, usually on some special occasion. They seldom have more than one drink, and rarely become intoxicated.

Fairly frequent drinkers are probably the largest group. They drink on many social occasions, and often keep a good supply of liquor in their homes.

Very frequent drinkers are those who use alcohol almost daily, regardless of amount or drink heavily on the weekends. Some often become intoxicated. A better type of drinker is able to quit drinking; that is to abstain completely, for periods of days, weeks or even months, but when drinking starts he will drink more and get drunker than he intended.

Central High News

This Friday several bus loads of students will be attending the Annual Open House at NAIT. Students are showing an increased interest and awareness of post secondary education opportunities that are open to them.

Fred Sparrow is busy at the school this winter during the snow hour with his table tennis program. This year marks the forty-first year of Fred's association with Central. His time here is greatly appreciated and I'll be there are many other older people in our community who have a great deal of knowledge, wisdom and skill to offer the students in our schools if we could only find the right incentives to have them with us.

Excitement is mounting for the two travel studies that Central students and teachers will participate in. A group of fourteen students and two teachers will spend the spring break in Paris and other parts of France and a group of forty grade ten students will be part of an exchange with a group of students from Kinross, Ontario at the beginning of April. There will be more on these stories in the next few weeks.

CHURCH GROWTH NOTED IN NEW GUINEA

"The Seventh-day Adventist Church is the fourth largest denomination in the South Pacific nation of Papua New Guinea," says Marvin Nicka, superintendent of the Sabbath School at the Loyalist SDA Church. With nearly 70,000 Adventist Sabbath School members in 184 locations, the people speak about 70 different tongues. Pidgin-English is the only unifying factor.

During the first quarter of 1978 we are studying the culture and needs of people in this remote part of the world," says Nicka. At the end of the month, members of the Loyalist church will join Adventists around the world in donating an offering to furnish mission aircraft and youth centers for the people of Papua New Guinea, as well as a new library for Sooma College, the denomination's higher education institution on nearby New Britain Island. This spring the college will graduate 27 teachers, nine craftsmen and 11 office workers.

At 11:00 a.m. services this Sunday, March 11, "Mission Spotlight," a slide-tape presentation, will show mission activities of the church. Every one is welcome to attend.

Ombudsman worried about power

LEGISLATIVE REPORT

Ombudsman Randall Ivany, alarmed by signs of skepticism, has appealed to the Legislature to abandon attempts to restrict his mandate as the watchdog over the provincial public service.

Ivany, in his 1977 annual report tabled by Speaker Gerard Amersong, also asks MLAs to give "serious consideration" to extending his office's authority to cover municipal governments.

The Ombudsman Act, which in 1967 created the country's first specialist in helping citizens extract a fair shake from civil servants, stands "opened for amendments," the Speech from the Throne announced.

The Loughheed cabinet has adopted a neutral role. Backbenchers are carrying the ball by debating a private members' motion to revive last year's report by a select house committee that reviewed the act.

Ivany writes, "I am concerned that, should recommendations of the select committee be implemented, the role of the ombudsman in Alberta will be less flexible."

He rejects a key suggestion that his office's help should only be available if Albertans having trouble with bureaucracy are unable to take cases to court.

Ivany warns that the committee, chaired by Don McCrimmon (PC Ponoka), "lost sight of the numerous circumstances where court action is totally inappropriate."

"No one would likely consider using the government if the legal costs would far exceed the amount of money involved in the suit."

"Furthermore, there may be circumstances where prolonged court proceedings could be inappropriate, through the relative urgency of the situation or possibly the advanced age of a complainant."

Ivany reports taking "a more legalistic approach" in declining to help in cases when, in the past, he has had "to go the extra mile" beyond the strict limits of his mandate in providing assistance.

Meanwhile, he suggests that services of the type his office offers, on principle, "should be available to all citizens for all levels of government," including municipalities.

Ivany writes that the Alberta Urban Municipalities Association and the City of Edmonton have sought the extension of his authority. A debate on the possibility is also in the works in Calgary.

The committee advocated separate ombudsmen for each city. But Ivany cautions against "a multiplicity of offices and ultimate confusion." He says his office could handle the cases without becoming big and inefficient.

The ombudsman seeks additional jurisdiction to set on behalf of the aged and infirm in nursing homes. He reports already helping some informally. Ivany warns that the elderly can be "vulnerable," and that experience is showing they need protection and independent help.

4-H CLUB ACTIVITIES

SILVER SADDLES 4-H

On February 5 our club had a toboggan party at Anderson's Hill.

We had hot dogs and hot chocolate for our lunch. There was a place for some of the kids to play hockey.

The adults had lots of fun on the curling rink with some rocks and brooms which were there.

Most of the kids went tubing on the big hill which had a low rope.

On February 11 our club had a bake sale held at the Hardisty memorial arena during the ladies bazaar. June Cross made a cake to raffle and Ralph Manning was the lucky one to win it.

On February 13 we had a public speaking clinic. We were shown how to stand, make gestures, and have eye contact with the crowd.

On February 19 some members in our club went to Stettler for the 4-H Funday. We left Hardisty at 8:30 and arrived in Stettler at 9:45. We registered and played volleyball for two hours, ate, went bowling for two hours and swam for two hours. We had a pretty funday and were tired when we got home.

On February 25 some members went to Stettler for a clinic. We learned the proper caring of our horses, tips on how to break a young horse, different types of faults etc.

On February 1 we had our monthly meeting. We started off the roll call with the height, breed, color, name and age of our horse.

We started to arrange our Rodeo plans and finished all the speak-off plans and set the date for March 2. We set the date of our Achievement day and ended the meeting.

Killam District News

Mr. and Mrs. Vern Nickson and family spent a few days last week skiing at Silver Summit.

Mr. Vern Erickson, Shirley and Cindy, Mr. Dennis Bane, Kerry and Steven spent a few days skiing at Banff.

Constantine and Mrs. Larry Erickson of Medicine Hat, Saskatchewan and Mr. Norman Erickson of Edmonton were weekend visitors with parents, Mr. and Mrs. Vern Erickson and family.

On Saturday, February 25, around 40 ladies attended a bridal shower honoring Miss Barbara Schow at the Killam Elks Hall. A very enjoyable program hosted by Irene Hart consisted of Tommy and Cheryl Weisberger singing "Country Roads" and "Let It Be", accompanied by Myrtle Roggenack. A most appropriate reading by Miss Lindholm (A Farmer's Wife), Teri-Lyn Morgan sang a couple of acrostic-verse songs.

After telling the ladies some of Barb's history, Irene Hart planned a corgie on Barb. Assisting Barb in opening her many lovely and useful gifts were Kathy, Emma Schow and Dot Morgan. Barb thanked all the ladies for the lovely shower. The ladies of the O.E.B.P. served a delicious lunch. Congratulations to Mr. Brian and Miss Barbara Schow, who were married on Saturday, March 11. Friends and relatives from near and far attended the large open house and dancing to the music of Roby Keen and orchestra of Camrose.

Mr. and Mrs. Terry Blotcher and family of Edmonton and Miss Maureen Hart were weekend visitors with parents Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Hart and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Nick Shepet of Calgary were weekend visitors with Mr. and Mrs. Orest Pederson and family and Mr. and Mrs. Bill Morgan and family attending Brian and Barb's wedding. Mr. and Mrs. Bob Pederson and family of Vegreville and Miss Lana Pederson of Edmonton also visited parents, Mr. and Mrs. Orest Pederson.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Cramton, Eldon Cramton, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Roemer of Edmonton and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Jensen of Camrose were supper guests at the Dave Cramton's on Sun day to celebrate Dave's birthday. Congratulations to Mr. Jack Larsoe (son of Len and Jane Larsoe) of Hinton and Miss Nicole Boutin (daughter of Emile and Rose Boutin) also of Hinton who were married on Saturday, March 11 at Hinton. About 40 friends and relatives attended from Killam, Sedgewick, Galahad, Forestburg and Camrose. After a honeymoon in Hawaii, Jack and Nicole will make their home in Hinton.

Born to Ivy and Dennis Compton of Upper Fraser, B.C. a daughter, Peggy Ann on February 21 weighing 8 lb. 2 oz. Bob and Blanche McGowan, the proud grandparents visited with their new granddaughter in B.C.

4-H CLUB Activities

KILLAM 4-H BEEF CLUB

Four day was the main topic of discussion at the meeting held at the Dave Prochard home on March 9.

After the opening procedure of the meeting, several topics were discussed. Suggestions for a judge to judge the calves on four day were made. The secretary, Fran Wilson, said she would make the arrangements. The date of the tour was discussed, but no definite plans were made.

It was announced that our Senior Public Speaker, Fran Wilson, did exceptionally well at the District Speak-off which were held in Heiler. Fran brought home the first place trophy, and earned the right to compete in the Regional Speak-off in Coronation this Sunday. It was also announced that the next meeting will be held at the Doug Wilson home.

BATTLE RIVER MEET

On March 7 the Battle River 4-H Multi Club had a meeting at the Battle River School.

Bruce brought the meeting to order. Lorraine gave the minutes of the last meeting followed by the treasurer's report given by Sheri. It was moved that the Club have their call tour on March 27 at 12:30 p.m. starting at Spady's.

It was decided that the Club meet at 9:00 a.m. at the Killam Elks Hall on March 29 to go to the rodeo.

On February 28, the club had its speak-off. Three juniors, three seniors and one pee wee spoke. Our judges were Mrs. L. Davidson and Mr. Holt.

First in juniors was Lorraine Bernes and first in seniors was Travis Spady. Following the speeches was a delicious lunch and the judge's comments.

Hugh R. Quinton passes

Hugh Robert Quinton was born on March 12, 1921 in Sydney, N.S. At an early age he moved to Theodora, Saskatchewan with his parents where he completed his schooling. At the age of 17 he moved to Killam where he worked for his Uncle Leonard on the farm.

In the early 1940's, Hugh moved to Viking and began working for Ronald Otto as a carpenter. In the late 1940's he became partners with Mr. Otto and finally took over ownership of the construction business in the late 1950's. From his efforts, the construction company of H. Quinton and Sons was established.

In 1950 Hugh married Miss Hattie Ryan of Viking. They were blessed with three sons: Blair, Murray, and Barry. A fourth son, Grant, died in infancy.

Throughout his life, Hugh played enjoyed sports. He played football and enjoyed curling. This involvement included his helping to manage both hockey and baseball teams for the youth of the community. Hugh also found

We will be serving the farmers within a 50 mile radius of Killam, Alberta. We will bring our own CHAMPION MOBILE FEED MILL to your farm on a regular scheduled route every two weeks and make off of your livestock feed for LESS MONEY AND DO THE JOB BETTER than you can process it yourself or haul your grain to a stationary mill —

SAVING YOU TIME AND LABOUR AS WELL
Thinking of buying a P.T.O. mixer mill. See us before you spend your money. We will not only make you BETTER FEED — we will do the job for the average farmer for LESS THAN HALF THE COST. Depreciation alone is probably more than we would charge you.

GUARANTEED BENEFITS:

- Much cheaper gains — more net profit in your pocket.
- Better utilization of your grain and roughage — both grain and roughage processing and blending.
- Much better feed conversion — better gain on less feed.
- Blending of Atramin Vitamin and Mineral Premix — fresh molasses, etc.
- No wasted feed — every pound is consumed.
- Much less risk — healthier animals.
- With the new grading system in effect — we can improve your grades with controlled ratios.
- No investment in equipment — put your money where it will do more good.
- No interest to pay on equipment.
- You are not hauling up on expensive trailer.
- We do all the work — leaving you free for other chores.
- We supply all equipment for the job as well as all the labour.
- If you have "Self Feeders" — We actually feed your cattle and hogs for you by keeping your feeders full of fresh feed.
- You haven't got expensive feed milling equipment sitting around idle a good part of the year.
- 10 years experience behind us.

Any ONE of the above 15 BENEFITS is worth more to you than what we charge for our service. How can you lose? — Call to-day.

P.C. speakers express discontent

About 300 people gathered in the Castor Hall on March 7 at a fund raising dinner at which Arnold Malone M.P. for Battle River and Fred McCain M.P. from New Brunswick were present. Cliff Downey, Castor was M.C. for the evening. Seated at the head table besides Mr. Malone and Mr. McCain were Sam Morie, mayor of Castor, Mr. and Mrs. C. Downey, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Bell, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Hallett, Rev. Simons. Jack Hallett, Rev. Simons conducted the blessing of the food and Jack Hallett proposed the toast to the Queen. Addressing the ladies of the Hospital Auxiliary with the serving of the food, were members of the Young Conservatives of Camrose.

During the dinner hour, Bud Marshall and Millie Chivri entertained with violin and accordion. At intervals during the evening, entertainment was provided by Marion Hick, Penny Zimmer and Gerald Lang.

Because much of Mr. Malone's speech was a duplicate of what was reported from the Chamber of Commerce meeting in Coronation, I will try to relate to you new aspects of the condition of our country, which was brought out at the Castor meeting. Arnold was very firm in his belief that Trudeau is at fault for all the misfortunes that beset our country and economy at the present time. The biggest government expense is the interest payment on our foreign debt, with 65 per cent of our tax dollar going to this department. In Arnold's estimation, what Trudeau has given us in ten years, is a United States government, a French cultured and a British economy. Mr. Malone pointed out many expenditures which could be curbed, among them were Canada Statistics. We were told of the number of Cabinet ministers who have left parliament. Since 1974, there have been 13 who have left. There have been 180 rollovers in the Cabinet in the last 10 years. We were also told that there have been 3,548 orders in council in the last 10 years, with none of them having been referred to Parliament. One very controversial one was the conversion to the Metric system. Parliament never had a chance to vote on it. Mr. Malone stated there would be an election this spring and that a budget would be coming out in March. He said it would be very juicy and full of good. He pleaded with us not to be misled by these goodies and to judge the Trudeau government on what they get up reports from them. He says the Liberals don't give a dam about people. He claims Trudeau wants to be the boss all times and only appoints people to the various commissions who will carry out his wishes.

If elected, Arnold promised that the Conservatives would bring in a Small Business Act, delete the Capital Gains tax, cut personal income tax, reduce the sales tax.

Mr. McCain, in his address compared the problems that we have in agriculture in the west to those they have in the Maritimes, in their economy. He informed us that when foreign fishermen were let in, the waters were like a city. Too many were let in and when they were gone, it was as if a vacuum had been there, they left nothing. The fish quotas are gone and now the fishermen cannot make a living. Mr. McCain stressed how very important our export markets are. He stated that in the Dept. of Industry, Trade and Commerce, there is only one person who is qualified in selling agricultural products. Mr. McCain for years were elected, they had a promotion for the sale of products abroad. We should be like other countries and take steps to increase the sale of agricultural products. It was pointed out that we have no buying commission in Geneva. Also, it was pointed out that the duty on our goods going into the U.S.A. is higher by 10 to 75 per cent than the American goods coming this way. Mr. McCain went on to tell us that assistance to agriculture is very difficult to get. In fact, he said, our agricultural ministers know as much about agriculture as a goose knows about God!

We were told of the high expense of the Prime Ministers staff. When Diefenbaker was in, he had a staff of 7 or 8. Pearson had a staff of 17 or 18 and now Trudeau has over 300. It was mentioned about the transportation problems, we have from coast to coast. This is a matter of mismanagement on the part of the government, said Mr. McCain. Our fruit growers are using the U.S. rails to transport their products because it is cheaper to do so.

Mr. McCain stated our present Government is a dam of silence. He claims it is impossible to get any reports from them. He says the Liberals don't give a dam about people. He claims Trudeau wants to be the boss all times and only appoints people to the various commissions who will carry out his wishes.

Going on to the subject of Joe Clark, he described him as a good Albertan and a good Canadian. Just an excellent man! He said that Albertans should be very proud of him and he will make a great Prime Minister.

Mr. McCain remarked that George Hees looked around the C. case table and then made the statement, that in all the years he had been around, never had he seen such ability. He finished his address with a plea to send Arnold Malone back to Ottawa and Commerce, then he was visiting her mother Mrs. Jean Watts.

Lougheed and District News Items

The furniture refinishing crew was a great success last week, the weather cooperated too. There was a wonderful display of old furniture being cleaned by a lot of hard work getting it ready for a new coat of finishing. It was all worth it because it looked beautiful after it was refinished. It shows not to send your furniture to the dump grounds.

I see Mrs. Rosemary Kampen and Mr. and Mrs. Cyril Tiep were home again after spending a holiday in Hawaii.

Lisa Watts from Edmonton helped out in the kitchen while visiting her mother Mrs. Jean Watts.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Clouston visited with Tom Clouston Jr. and Mrs. Bill Small at Car recently.

Mr. and Mrs. Orland Gougeon visited with Tom Clouston Jr. and Mrs. Bill Small at Car recently. Mr. and Mrs. Orland Gougeon brought a hockey game to Lougheed a couple of weeks ago.

Last Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Hunter White enjoyed a nice visit and afternoon tea with Grandma Adamson and family, and later were supper guests at Eddie Swainson's home and accompanied them to the evening Church Service at Merna. Melvin Bergan and family from Hays, Alberta were last weekend visitors with Melvin's sister and family Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Schmidt.

Chivalry is not dead, when Essee Drager was up town one morning last week there was a gentleman who offered to lay his coat down so she could walk on it and not get her feet wet. Edwina Albrecht, Orville Van Dewark and Keith Cameron left by plane on March 4 for ten days south of the border.

Nice to see the O'Reilly's back at the card parties after a month visiting in the U.S.

An enjoyable Whist Drive was held at the Lougheed Welcome Centre on March 9, eight tables played and the winners were: Ladies High - Mrs. C. Armstrong, Gents High - Mr. E. Freeman, Ladies Sweep - R. Netherland, Gents Sweep - R. Yates, Ladies Mystery - Mrs. R. Cameron, Gents Mystery - John Black, Ladies Low - Mrs. J. Johnson, Gents Low - Harold Probst, Ladies Travelling - Mrs. R. last Tuesday, also visited with Earl Oliver, who is a patient in hospital there.

Welcome home to Lloyd Schmidt after a few days in Killam Hospital.

The evening of March 4 was the night of the "Bungling Brother Circus on Ice". It was enjoyed by all. There was a lot of talk that went into it with all the practicing, making of the beautiful costumes. It was a great success when you saw the people that turned out for it. I'm sure Lougheed is not dead after seeing a great show like it was appreciated by all. Do it again next year. It was wonderful all the way through.

Mr. and Mrs. Gary Jeffery of Chavira were home visiting Mr. and Mrs. Harold Probst and family.

Mr. Orville Probst, Clay Clark, Mrs. Lillian Skoberg and Mrs. Rose Frewing of the Flagstaff Lodge were supper guests last Monday at Mr. and Mrs. Doug Niehaus, also Harold and Veronica and Molly. We enjoyed the lovely supper and evening very much.

Mrs. Brian Birchill is home again after a bus tour in the U.S. then a week in Calgary visiting her daughter and family.

The Lougheed Community was treated to something different on Saturday afternoon, March 11. A Fashion Show "The Splendor of Spring" was presented by the Lougheed 4-H Homemakers. Fashions modeled included sleep wear, sports clothes, casual dress and evening wear. All fashions were supplied courtesy of Saunders Variety, Killam. Advance ticket draw was won by Mrs. Rosemary Kampen. Cake raffle was won by Sheila Berge of Hays, Alberta. Sheila is Louise Schmidt's niece. Congratulations to the 4-H Homemakers Club and the winners of the draw.

HERRING GULL (Larus argentatus) - These large gulls are about two feet in length and have a wingspread of almost five feet. They usually nest on islands in lake colonies, frequently accompanied by other species such as terns and cormorants. Herring Gulls are omnivorous feeders and at times prey on the eggs and young of other birds. They haunt garbage dumps as well as shores of lakes, rivers and marshes, feeding on dead fish and refuse. The young are a dark mottled brown color and require three years to attain plumage.

CARDS OF THANKS

The Men of the Knox United Church take this opportunity to thank those who helped in any way at their recent Panchario supper. A special thanks to those who volunteered to do the table cleaning. We appreciate the support given us by Byers Ford Mills who supplied the necessary "Bunches". Panchario was a complimentary discount and at the Kilam Ström-Coop for their donation of syrup.

A sincere thank you to the Sedgewick Kiwanis Club for their Welcome Baskets and to the business places of Sedgewick for their gift coupons. Also a big thank you to all who have welcomed us back so warmly. John and Vera Hopkin

I would like to thank Dr. Chihl and staff of the Hardisty Hospital for the good care given me while under their care, also for cards and visits received while in hospital.

We would like to express our sincere thanks to our family and friends for making our 50th Anniversary such a memorable day. Thanks to all who took part in the program, also for the cards and gifts we received. It's a day we will always remember. Thanks to all.

Hilda and Johannes Christensen

The Ström Ladies Curling Club would like to take this opportunity to thank everyone who helped make our bonspiel such a success. Special thanks to the men's club for running the bonspiel and baking the good pies, the draw masters and caretakers. Also a special thanks for the refreshments at our banquet supplied by George Borgel and Dennis Loesch.

Sincere thanks to Dr. Meer, Sister St. Bride and staff of the Kilam General Hospital for the kind care they gave me.

James Davidson

I would like to thank Dr. Kerins and Dr. Kumar, nurses and staff of St. Joseph's Hospital for the rare and kindness I received while in Hospital. Also to my friends who visited me.

Muriel Wright

Thank you to all the skaters and sponsors who made the 4th Annual Hardisty Skate-A-Thon such a success. $4153.94 was pledged. Trophies will be awarded at the Annual Ice Carnival on March 18th. Pledges can be paid at Dan-Lyn Family Fashion Ltd., Hardisty. For further information contact Jeanette Rempel, phone 888 1888.

Keeping in Touch

THE STATUS OF WOMEN

During International Women's Year, 1975, the Federal government spent $19,857,000 on "Why Not" buttons. The promotional campaign was distributed to provide women and men with the equality for opportunity. The facts are that the women of Canada did not need promotional buttons but a commitment to action.

It is my personal belief that as a society we ought not to focus on the concept of "no men's rights" as such; but rather on "human rights" and then recognize that women are, in many ways, deprived of the same opportunities that are presently available to males.

The Federal government falsely argues that Canadian women are merely second wage earners working for luxuries rather than the necessities of life. While there are examples of such female employment, the facts are, in the aggregate, that the majority of women are employed for the reasons of necessity.

Today 4 million women are employed, comprising 40 per cent of the national work force. More than 1 1/2 million are single widowed, separated, or divorced. They do not have a husband's salary to support them or their dependents.

Moreover, as for married women, the Advisory Council on the Status of Women has found that 45 per cent of the married working women belong to families which, but for their earnings, would be living well below the poverty line.

Another myth that the Federal government attempts to perpetuate is that because of the number of women in the job market the unemployment rate has significantly increased but the facts are that between 1967 and 1977 the job participation rate for women increased by only 28 percent while the employment rate for both men and women increased 100 percent. Moreover, women continually tend to be held within a class ghetto. More than two-thirds of the employed women are in clerical, sales, or service jobs. Their income bracket is among the lowest in the employment field.

There is of course, that ridiculous tax law that prohibits one spouse from hiring their married partner in the operation of a small business. As an example, I know of many farm women who assist in calving, seeding, haying, harvesting and other farm chores. Each April they discover the Federal government's concept of their monetary worth: their husbands write them off as a $1,990.00 deduction.

A farmer could hire a farm labourer, pay his salary and deduct the salary as an operating cost but he cannot hire and pay his wife without very significant tax disadvantages. Alternatively, he could divorce his wife and live common-law and then pay his wife full salary and then include her wages as a part of the farm's operating cost. Obviously, something is wrong when these enterprises like the farming, small town cafes, the corner store and others are forced to operate with one married partner on a family member mission.

Then, of course, there is that other great inequity that occurs when women below the pensionable age find themselves in the double grief of adjusting to a new life after their pensionable husband has passed away: the adjustment of having to live without a spouse and also with the knowledge that their pension has been cut off.

Obviously, women's potential talent that is not being properly utilized nor encouraged. Women are human. For the sake of human rights the time has come to keep in touch.

Students study cultures

An archaeological dig in Kilam! It's not your ordinary dig, these students from the City of Patina School are working on a social studies project.

It's an exercise in learning about cultures, explained teacher Cecilia Boach.

"I thought that one of the best ways to learn what a culture is, is to actually make one up."

Cecilia's grade seven and eighth class each had to form a culture. Making artifacts that would have belonged in any culture such as dishes, language, religion and anything else that the students would have used in their daily lives to survive and progress.

Heisler education day

The afternoon of March 8, 1978 was devoted to Education Week at the Heisler School. Activities began at 1:00 p.m. at the School Gymnasium with approximately 50 parents and 145 school children in attendance.

Due to the late arrival of the M.L.A. for the area, Mr. Norrot and Mr. Baluk presented the Canada Fitness Awards to the participating students, among those who received Certificates of Excellence along with Certificates of Excellence: Janet Dietrich, Grade 5; Carol Walbeck, Grade 6; Karen Wheeler, and Norwen Volk, Grade 7; Norwen Badry, Grade 8; and Wendy Morimoto and Brenda Thomas, Grade 9.

Mr. Gordon Stromberg, M.L.A. then presented the elementary school students with certificates commemorating the 25 year centennial of Queen Elizabeth II. He then presented the students with an atlas of Alberta.

Mr. Stromberg concluded his presentation with the comment "With all these nice children, it would sure be nice to have your high school back."

Next on the agenda, Constable Gubrie of the Forestburg R.C.M.P. detachment presented the film "The First Year" dealing with the training and posting program of a first year member of the force. After the film he answered questions at the auditorium at School Program.

Stater Marie Grace Rusicks then gave an overview of the Christian Doctrine program being offered at the Heisler School and encouraged as many parents as possible to become actively involved.

Marie Valerie Pils gave an overview of the Nutrition at School Program and thanked Mrs. Lasso and Diane Bourse for making it all possible. She then presented cash awards to the various categories for their poster contest dealing with the nutrition at School Program. Results were: Category - Grade 1 & 2: First - Susan Smith, Second - Darcy Nelson, Third - Michelle Ann Badry; Category - Grade 3 & 4: First - Tammy Badry, Second - Mark Fisher, Third - Lori Seilerman; Category - Grade 5 & 6: First - Cheryl Seilerman, Second - Kristy Sullivan, Third - Vickie Sommer.

New herbicide discussed

On Thursday, March 2 local wheat and barley growers attended a meeting at Galahad to discuss a new herbicide.

The new product, Stampede, is a post-emergence herbicide for the control of green foxtail (wild millet) and wild buckwheat and other troublesome broadleaf weeds.

The meeting was hosted by Robt and Hans Company, who introduced Stampede in 1977. Growers who attended, viewed a film featuring several farmers who used Stampede in 1977 with excellent results. These growers reported yield increases of up to 44 per cent. At the meeting, the Robt and Hans representative, Don Lusty, stressed the importance of early application of Stampede and thorough spray coverage to achieve good results.

There will also be meals served at the Rec Centre with the big meal on Saturday evening. These meals are available to the general public as well as to the Hockey players.

During this tournament we as hosts are asking for your assistance in the billing of some of these Midget teams. Most of the teams have reserved motel and hotel but due to the lack of available accommodation, Hines Creek teams requested billing. We would appreciate any one with extra room and are willing to help us; welcome, the boys from the far north to show them the Sedgewick hospitality. Please call Mrs. Lorraine Ross at 384-3333.

CENTRAL HIGH STUDENTS GO TO ONTARIO

On April 3, 40 students from Sedgewick Central High will be flying east to Kingston, Ontario. They are participating in an Open House Canada exchange program, sponsored by the Federal gov't, promoting unity, travel and experience for youth.

After one week with their eastern counterparts, the Centralites fly home to have the Kingston students as guests at Central for the remaining week. Accompanying the students will be trip-coordinators Mr. V. Ocker and Mr. Greg Martin.

At each school, the visiting students will be billeted in homes, attend regular classes, as well as special events, tours and programs.

While at Central, the Kingston students will be touring South Bend Colony, Bergevin Park, Smith's Implements in Loughheed, Home Old and IPI in Loughheed, Black Angus Cattle Farm in Sedgewick, the plant and coal mine in Forestburg and the Alta. Game Farm.

Central would also like to put together 40 "Keepake and souvenir" kits containing items from various businesses, clubs, etc.

Annual county meeting interests few

It is the responsibility of all people to make sure they are getting all the services they require and attend meetings of this nature, said Charlie Hayes, who spoke at his 61 annual meeting representing the Municipal Financial Corporation at the annual County of Flagstaff meeting held Monday, March 20.

Approximately 65 people were in attendance at the annual meeting that began at 1:00 p.m. at the Sedgewick Recreation Centre.

Highlights of the meeting dealt with the School Committee Report, the School Superintendent's Report and the Board of Education's Report. The School Committee Report was presented by George Crampton who began by itemizing expenditures that various schools in the county have received during the past fiscal year in terms of renovations and upgrading. That included eight county schools.

Mr. Crampton also made those in attendance aware that a large amount of work is going to have to be done in the forthcoming year to keep up with fire safety regulations. A costly but necessary project that will be put into action as soon as possible, he added.

After this, Al Cleveland, Superintendent of Schools gave the Superintendent's Report in which he summarized 1978 cutbacks that tax payers will not see much directly.

All county schools will have to cut back on support staff such as teacher's aides, secretaries and library clerks, with minimum loss of five hours a week per school.

Another cutback will affect people of the Galahad area. Up till now this area has been serviced with three bus routes. In the near future, this will be reduced to two bus routes with the third one being absorbed by the remaining two.

In dealing with the 1978 education budget, Mr. Cleveland said rate payers in the County will see an increase of 1.5 mills with the exception of one group of people.

Senior citizens in the county will be able to avoid this tax increase, courtesy of an announcement recently made public by the provincial government, explained Mr. Cleveland.

Mr. Cleveland went on to stress that unless people of the County begin to re-examine this county's schooling system and make some changes, more of the tax burden will continue to fall on the individual tax payer.

Sedgewick Jr. High

On January 30 the grade eight class from Sedgewick Junior High enjoyed a day at Valley Ski Club. The success of this trip resulted in another trip to the ski hill on February 28 for both the grade eight and nine classes. Each of the participating students learned, at least, the basics of skiing thanks to the instruction provided by the club.

Arnold Malone and Flora MacDonald were at the school on February 28. The grade nine class attended this assembly and found the presentation both informative and interesting.

Citadel on Wheels presented their program at our school on March 13. Students from Hardisty, Loughheed, and Kilam were invited to participate.

Saturday, March 18, 9:00 a.m. will see Sedgewick Junior High hosting the annual County Volleyball Tournament. Eight teams will be participating in this event. Spectators will be welcomed; come out and support your team.

ALBERTA PROVINCIAL ELKS SPIEL

Alberta Provincial Elks spiel was won by Strome Lodge No. 449 with skip Pat Miller, third Don Hayes, second Dennis Leuch and lead Ron Borgel.

At the play-offs, held in Fairview February 25 and 26, the Strome team representing North Central Alberta, went through the round robin undefeated with wins over Beaver

Hawaiian Kaleidoscope
Blue Hawaii. Dark blue. Turquoise blue. Azure blue. Brown tinged blue. Ah yes, but many other colors too. Vibrant, vivid colors assail the senses.

Black lava rocks are scattered about the shore or flow into the sea. Tall palm trees, with yellow-green fronds sway in the wind. Clougy dark green bushes and vines grow in abundance in the chocolate red brown soil of the islands. And on these trees and bushes grow incredibly bright and beautiful flowers. The State flower, the hibiscus, grows in hedges or scarlet, pink and yellow flowers. Tall tulip trees glow red with their tulip-shaped flowers held high on the top of the spreading branches.

Delicate yellow, white or pink plumeria flowers that are often used to make the best-tasting fragrant leis, grow on the ends of the thick grey-green branches of their trees. The glossy dark green leaves come later.

No wonder that the people take these colors into their very being and produce clothes to match the flowers. It seems normal and natural for native peoples and visitors alike to wear the hot plaids, reds, bright blues, blazing oranges and sunny yellows. Materials are made into shirts and shorts for the men and short or long muses for the women.

Skin tones too come in all shades from the dark sun-kissed browns to the fair skinned visitors, the malahini. And all the shades in between from the hamburger red visitor who ignored the advice of the airline hostess who said, "Be careful. Don't stay too long in the sun," to the individual who has gone through the agency and is now elegantly peeling in patches.

Bright red cardinals flit in the trees to sing their morning greetings and the mynah birds, those yellow-billed grey saucy birds with the flash of white on their wings call loudly to each other to wake the sleepy heads to come out and enjoy themselves on the sand and in the sea. And as evening comes the sun sets as a red sphere on the blue horizon of the ocean only to drop like a ball into it and it is dark.

Even then the colors don't stop. A huge red L was cleared of vegetation on the side of the volcanic mountain by the graduating class of the Lahaina High School. It was visible for miles and when darkness fell their blazing torches lighted it and the illumination shone forth for all to see.

Yes, Hawaii is blue, but other myriads of colors glow like jewels luring you back to the islands.

He also presented to President Bovenkamp the Darwin Crook-hits Trophy which was won by the Club at the Convention. This trophy is for your Club's work in the area of Habitat and bird rejuvenation due to our Blue Bird housing project, goose nesting sites and pheasant rearings. The trophy will be on display at the Banquet.

We have received several requests for more Blue Bird houses but are sorry to report that they are not available. The Blue Bird House project was Federally funded and was not continued this year. If anyone would like to build their own it would be great.

The Club had looked into the possibility of raising some wild turkeys this year but due to the high cost of eggs or poulets it was decided against.

The plans for the Annual Banquet were finalized. The Guest Speaker this year is to be Tony Ferguson, president of the Alberta Fish and Game. The banquet and trophy night is to be held in Loughheed on April 7 at 6:30 p.m.

The evening ended with a very interesting and informative presentation and talk by Harry Armbruster, Wildlife Technician with the Canadian Wildlife Service. He is working at Camp Wainwright at the Peregrine Falcon Captive Rearing Facility. His slides were of his work in the past few years building falcon nesting sites along the cliffs on the Bow, Oldman, and South Saskatchewan Rivers. These sites are built by digging out small caves in the cliff walls. Another interesting thing is that Canada Geese will also nest on these small ledges in very close proximity to the falcons with no loss of eagles to the falcons.

Mr. Armbruster also had his pet Peregrine Falcon with him and we were able to see one of these birds up close. The bird that has for years been used in the Sport of Kings.

Coffee and draw for the door prize ended the meeting.

Next meeting, April 4.

THE DERAILED RAILWAY
For years western Members of Parliament have been telling the government of Canada that there is a need for greater equity in transport systems on the prairies and Alberta. Canada. In a move to stall action, the government some years ago initiated the Western Economic Opportunities Conference. It was an excellent Conference. Many of its recommendations were sound and valid. Had the recommendations been followed, there would never have been a need for a Hall and Shavely Report.

The recommendations of the Western Economic Opportunities Conference unfortunately were not acted upon. The hue and cry for a system of fair transportation on the prairies continued. The response of the government was to initiate the Hall report on the prairie rail system followed by the Shavely Report.

One of the principal recommendations of the Hall Report was to establish a Prairie Rail Authority so that a transport system would not be demonstrated by the eastern-controlled Canadian Transport Commission. The government, however, in its questionable wisdom implemented the Prairie Rail Action Committee to study the impact of the effects of the Prairie Rail Authority. What western Canadians are witnessing is a succession of studies to study the previous study.

Of the 96 major recommendations in Justice Emmett Hall's Report, only six have been fully implemented and five others have been partially acted upon. It should be of concern to western Canadians to note that all of the Hall recommendations those of that type which are implemented are the removal of branch lines.

On February 27, 1978 fourteen western Conservative Members of Parliament met with Justice Hall in Saskatoon for a full review of the recommendations contained in his Report. As Opposition Members, we were appalled to learn that neither the Minister of Transport nor any government official has contacted the chief Recently, the Minister of Transport, speaking in Regina announced that the government would extend another $75 million for railway upgrading. While that may sound like good news I hasten to point out that the total sum appropriated now are $175 million, but that is a considerable short fall from the more than $400 million recommended by Emmett Hall as necessary for basic and immediate upgrading of the prairie rail system. It is interesting to note that in the United States they spend approximately $1 billion every year on toll-free highways to operate the Missouri, Mississippi and Ohio Waterways System for the designated purposes of developing commerce in the mid-west. It is the American standard objective to move products to and from the centres of that country as cheaply as possible. The United States government's contribution to low-cost transportation makes our Crown Rate assistance look like a drop in the bucket.

We must never give up our statutory freight rates on grain, but likewise we must extend the benefits to other agricultural products. To do otherwise would be to fail to keep in touch with an increasingly diverse industry that is continually losing its competitive advantage for manufacturers and production to central Canada.

Daysland count

Notes from Daysland Town Council March Meeting.
The March regular meeting of Council opened on Tuesday March 14 at 7:30 p.m. immediately after a sitting of the Court of Revision entertaining complaints concerning taxation assessments.

Councillors Dambarger, Renney, Dickson, Wittenberg and Jaros were present. Deputy Mayor Hank presided.

Council was informed that the representatives of the Daysland Senior Citizens Housing Committee and Mayor Lisack have submitted a proposal to the Flaxstaff Regional Hospital Board calling for the establishment, in Daysland, of an "extended care" facility that would tie in with existing hospital and medical services in Daysland. The Publicity Coordinator reported to council that a letter indicating the commitment of all Councillors in support of the submission to the Hospital Board has been who was named the best defender of the league. Here he receives the trophy from Harold Cartier, league president.

Everybody welcome - Members and non-members alike

15th ANNIVERSARY MARKED

Fifteen years of service was marked by the Killam Royal Purple Lodge on Monday, March 20. The ladies pictured above have been members of the Lodge since it was chartered in March, 1963.

Another member, Irene Peters, who transferred from Three Hills Lodge, is also a deserving "15 year" member. Not present to receive their pins, but still members of 15-year standing are: Mabel Grant, Margaret Simmon, Irene Kautz, Mildred McKeage, and Ann Sagan.

Strome C.W.L. meet

The March meeting of Our Lady of Fatima Catholic Women's League was held Monday, March 13 in the Elks Hall with Mrs. Gordon Loeck as hostess.

Eleven members answered the roll.

Our President, Sharon Zimnel and Teresa Mazure will attend the Diocesan Convention in Lloydminster. We are still collecting used stamps for the Missions, please turn your stamps to the Killam Hotel.

Membership dues are due. Fr. McCarthy will be remembered with a Mass and card on his 52 anniversary to the Priesthood.

Annual reports were given by the Secretary, Treasurer and Convenors and reported a busy and successful year. A vote of thanks was given to the executive and members for their efforts throughout the year. The same executive will remain in office for another year.

Teresa Mazure won the attendance prize. Lunch was served by the hostess and her assistants, LaVerne Wisner and Teresa Mazure.

Thursday is report card day. Do you see your child's report card? Do you sign it? If you have any questions regarding your child's progress do you contact the school? We wish you would.

When we returned from convention we discovered that two cameras had disappeared from the Industrial Education lab.

Missing are:

1 - Fujica Camera, lens and case (serial No. 9073040)

2 - Practice camera, lens and case (serial No. 358191) value in 1978 $96.00

These cameras must be replaced out of our School budget since they are required to carry out our photography unit in Industrial Education. Both cameras are marked with a school marking.

On Easter Sunday our group of students and teachers leaves for Paris and will return on Thursday, April 6.

On Monday, March 20, Jack

Horner, Minister of Industry, Trade and Commerce and Liberal nominee for the riding of Crowfoot in the next federal election stopped at the school to give a brief presentation and field questions from the audience of Junior High School students.

Please leave the evening of April 10 open so that you can attend an open house and teacher interview evening at Central. There will be more on this in upcoming issues.

Excitement is mounting for our student exchange trip to Kinrossville. The students and teachers will leave Edmonton International Airport on Monday, April 3 and will return with their exchange partners on Sunday, April 9.

Nazarene Church

MEMBERSHIP NEWS

The incidents of Palm Sunday were vividly portrayed in Sunday School by Mrs. Abel, and everyone received palm leaves as tokens from the Holy Land.

Rev. Peter Campbell of Camrose gave the evening message. Following the service, the Campbells were presented with a surprise offering of foodstuff.

A weekend visitor at the Abel's home was Mrs. Leona Poonack of St. Albert.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Herta of Vining, Mrs. Joe Walker of Vining, Mrs. and Mrs. Greg Fisher of Maxville were guests in the evening service.

Holy Week services are being held in each church in town this week. The Tuesday evening service was held in Nazarene Church with Rev. Courd as the speaker.

During this Easter Season, may our thoughts turn to the Christ of the cross who can take the "if out of life" for you.

Killam Jr. High at play

On March 18 there was a volleyball tournament at the Sedgewick Public School. The Killam girls and boys played excellent games and they were victorious.

This is the second year in a row that the girls have won the trophy. The girls team consisted of Evelyn Young, Iva Hoffman, Isabel Chan, Karen Spaulding, Leona Wegest, Betty Bonnett, Shelly Link, Louise Craghton, Trudy Brodie and Cindy Erickson.

It took the girls until after the first match to get started but they finally managed it. In the first match they played Alliance, who won two games to one.

The second match was against Dayland. Killam won that match two games to one.

Then they played Loughhead and won two games to nothing. The fourth match was played against Heiler. Killam won by the same number of games-two to nothing. The fifth match was a little more difficult, when they played Strome. Killam finally won two games to one.

They played Alliance once more and beat them two games to nothing. Killam played Sedgewick in the finals which was the best three out of five games. Killam won although they experienced some problems against a strong and anxious Sedgewick team. Killam won three games to two to be awarded the trophy.

The boys team consisted of Glen Trotter, Trevor LaFountain, Blair Grant, Glen Costes, Denis Hanson, Bill Smolaki, Leighton Sorenson, Lee Hack, and Robbie Dammann also played excellent games.

The first match was against Hardisty. Killam won that match two games to nothing.

They won the second match by the same number of games over Forestburg. The third match was against Alliance and Killam won two games to nothing.

In the finals Killam had to play Hardisty again and Killam won 2 games to 1 and so a result, they received the trophy.

Reeve speaks to small group

COUNTY MEETING

This year, 75 per cent of the education revenue was provided by the provincial government. This figure is determined by the provincial funding formula which depends entirely on enrolment figures. If enrolment drops, so does government funding but individual taxes don't.

Enrolment figures in the county have dropped drastically in recent years with no change in sight for the future, leaving the county in serious trouble, warned Mr. Cleveland.

Pro and cons of possible alternatives such as centralizing schools will have to be weighed. If the county is to maintain a high level of education for its children.

Another highlight of the annual meeting was the Reeve's Report given by Alec Blatz. Mr. Blatz opened the report with discussion on the ambulance service provided in the county. The cost of ambulance service is currently set at $25 for the base rate and 75 cents a running mile and will remain the same for the coming year.

However, there is a possibility that the county may have to replace some of the ambulances in the near future.

NOTICE OF INTENTION

Area Subdivision around Hardisty

Land which may be reclassified (re-zoned) for acreage development
Town of Hardisty
Roads

There appears to be a growing demand for acreages and country residences in the eastern part of the County. A study conducted by the Battle River Regional Planning Commission, identifying suitable areas for development, has been adopted by the County Council.

Council of the County of Flagstaff therefore gives notice as follows:

1. Council is prepared to amend the Land Use Classification from Agriculture to Country Residential on all the lands shown shaded on the accompanying map. If requested by landowners, such a subdivision proposal has been approved by the Planning Commission.
2. Until that time, the land will remain classified as Agriculture and used as such.
3. Council will consider entering the area for acreages, as suggested in the Planning Commission study, only when the above noted area has been fully developed.
4. Landowners considering development should realize that they, and not the County, must bear all costs of subdivision and development.

Mr. and Mrs. Mike Niehaus of Camrose, Grande and Grasmere John Niehaus and guests Uciec Bill Poepping of Strome were supper guests a week ago the past Sunday night with Mr. and Mrs. Doug Niehaus.

Donna Horricks of Edmonton and Diane Barnes were visiting Ray Horricks, also Horricks. Belated birthday greetings to Mrs. Thos. Ness who was 82 years old on Sunday, March 12. Her daughter Ruby from Salmon Arm, B.C., Mrs. Bill Gilmore and daughter and friend from Edmonton also Conrad Ingvaldsen helped her celebrate.

In last week's news I forgot to congratulate Mr. and Mrs. Elvin Oliver on their first grandchild and also to Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Kelly, it is their second grandchild. Sorry about this.

Mr. and Mrs. John Cairns, also Miss Eunice Cairns from Toleda visited their aunt and uncle Mr. and Mrs. Ernie Wylie last weekend.

The St. Andrews U.C.W. had their Irish Stew Supper at the Community Hall on Friday, March 17. Not only our local people but those from other towns were there and made it a very successful supper which was enjoyed by all and the U.C.W. ladies are very grateful to those who provided, helped, and patronized this effort. Thank you to everyone.

Well Spring must be around the corner. The startings are here. I imagine it won't be long before someone will be seeing the old gopher and crows too. Mrs. Ernie Wylie told me last week that she has daffodils and narcissus on the south side of her house.

Welcome to our Loughheed district to Mr. and Mrs. Ken Skoberg and family from Calgary. They are living in Ken's Grandma's farm east of Loughheed.

Valda Probst of Edmonton was home visiting her parents Mr. and Mrs. Harold Probst, Janet and Doug Niehaus for a couple of days last week.

Loughheed RENEWALS

Months between Christmas and Easter have been active ones for the Kindergarten children. There have been weekly visits to the library for skating and to the library to borrow books and listen to stories told by the W.I. ladies.

During February the children were quite enthusiastic about puppet making and made puppets from various materials - paper bags, potatoes, sticks and remnants of fabric, some of the most successful were stick puppets with a head modelled from clay. We have been watching a weekly T.V. program at the school entitled "Here, there and everywhere" and this has inspired different arts and crafts activities.

There have been various outings to places around Loughheed and beyond. Many thanks to everyone involved in these visits we have been to the Hotel, Motel, Post Office, (where the children had a chance to stamp letters), the Alberta Wheat Pool Grain Elevator and the Seed Cleaning Plant. In Sodge which we visited the Community Press to see how the paper is produced and also the Flagstaff Lodge.

Last week Harry and Hazel Swanson treated - "one to a single ride with" - a team pulling at their farm. The children also enjoyed seeing the horses, cows and newborn calf and the hot chocolate which followed. Easter activities were highlighted by a visit from Verona Cookson who showed us how to make Easter eggs of different colours, also molded candy chicks and bunnies.

During February a meeting was held to elect the Executive for the next year. This is as follows: President - Sandra Rimechak, Secretary - Joyce Bargeath, Treasurer - Judy Wagner.

Please come out and support our Easter Tea and Bake Sale on Saturday, March 25 at the Community Hall from 2 to 6 p.m.

Hardisty and District News Items

This is taken from the Proven News, who in turn quoted from the Stettler Independent, and it was praising the rural community. Says that the rural weekly newspaper deals with the intimate things in its subscribers' lives and while this appears uninteresting to outsiders, it is read with great interest in the communities to which they belong.

The Proven's, "perhaps the realization that comes occasionally that she is helping to give her readers a sense of community." That should be enough."

The Browns and the others were to arrive Saturday night in Camrose, but owing to a five hour delay leaving Camrose, they missed the flight to Edmonton and had to stay in Montreal all night.

Montreal, Sunday morning, greeted them with a wicked snow storm.

The bus to take them to the airport didn't appear, so they had to get three taxis for the 12, then the plane was waiting for them, so they finally arrived in Camrose, tired out with the delays and also the change in time, nine hours difference, minus some luggage which they were sure were there.

So if you venture into the Bank of Montreal and see Mary Brown wearing the same outfit all week, you'll know that her suitcase hasn't arrived yet!

Was happy to meet up with Adrie and Ben Gilbert in Woonsocket on Thursday and we had coffee and tried to catch up on a few things.

Last Wednesday Irene Lytner and I visited with Edna Woodcock and as Iris was out for a little while, we just had a short visit with her. She enjoys shopping in the Mall as there is plenty of room for a wheel chair and she is able to go through the stores that way. We also called on Gertrude Gibson and had a nice visit with her.

Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Cox from Alliance were Wednesday evening visitors with Mr. and Mrs. Joe Johnson.

The Oldtime hockey team went to Germany after their games were over and they enjoyed it very much. Thought that the cafes and lounges in Canada should surely take a pattern from them in their public relations with tourists especially.

We were surely sorry for her about Martha Kante falling and breaking her leg. Here's hoping that you are improving Martha.

Sympathy goes out to the Savage families and Koste families on the passing away of Mrs. John Savage in Camrose.

Talking to Mrs. Koste's sister from Dayland, Mrs. Gabruch, and learned that Mrs. Koste is now at home in her home in Hardisty, using her walker. Hardisty some years ago, his mother Wilma predeceased him by a short time and his brother Eldon by some months, so that Earl is the only one left.

Just phoned Iris Drever and the latest about Marguerite Drever is that she is getting therapy in Glenora and is learning to use the walker and is more contented where she is now, but of course hoping to go home before long.

Kevin Brown, my 12 year old grandson, learned that he had won a ham at the Hardisty Stampede bingo. That is twice that he has won on a proxy card down there so is excitedly looking forward to getting it.

We know for sure that Lefty Lytner went to Copenhagen as my daughter saw him somewhere over there, as well as others from Hardisty.

Just looking through the last post part of the Legion Magazine and came across this item.

"Bones, Sgt. Clifford Cyril - M101447Cdn. Provost Corps, Canadian Army, WW II, Nov. 29, age 65, Sonoma R. Alberici, B.C." Although Cliff was in Hardisty some years ago, his mother Wilma predeceased him by a short time and his brother Eldon by some months, so that Earl is the only one left.

In the absence of the president of the Loughheed W.A., the vice-president, Mrs. H. Probst opened the meeting which was held on March 14 at the home of Miss M. Forsythough. Ten members were present, and the special welcome was given to Mrs. G. Marlow who, since the last meeting had had the misfortune to be hospitalized with a broken hip.

Minutes were read and approved, and various committee reports given. Three more "Verand Valley" books had been sold during the month.

A letter from Mrs. Dora Courtenay, district convener, stated she is hoping to be present at the next meeting, on April 11. It was approved that this meeting would start at 2:30 p.m., followed by a pot luck supper provided by the "Silent Sister" looms.

Members were reminded of the invitation to the potluck supper for the 60th anniversary of the Alliance W.I., and as many as possible urged to attend.

The Senior Citizens Centre has asked that all organizations interested in having a craft room write to the Centre. If there is sufficient interest, the information will be forwarded to assist in obtaining a grant from New Horizons.

A lunch of delicious muffins and cookies made by Mrs. Wm. Frost from home ground wheat was much enjoyed.

Considerable interest was aroused in regard to holding workshops in the fall, and suggestions such as sewing machine maintenance, crocheting, breadmaking etc. were made.

A draft letter regarding the Canada Council grants to literature and poetry were read, and copies are to be typed to serve as a guide for the writing of individual project letters to the Secretary of State in Ottawa.

Miss M. Forsythough, convener of handicrafts was in charge of the program and read an article entitled "The Year of the Dress." This gave highlights on fashions for '78, and revealed that apparently "anything goes," even to wearing a suit over a dress or slacks. She also displayed several handicraft articles of different types which proved that the ladies of the Loughheed district have many talents.

On March 7 the ladies held their meeting at Christine Armstrong's home, in attendance were six members, one client sister Fay Davidson, two visitors, Mrs. Diana Goddard, Mrs. Valerie Adamson and her sweet 16 year daughter Jennifer. Also after school bus time - Mrs. Joyce Armstrong came for coffee.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read and adopted and the sick convener reported having sent two cards, to Gail Rombough who had her appendix in at Kilham Hospital, and to Edward Davidson who had the misfortune to break his leg again, a way down by Medicine Hat.

Our President welcomed the visitors, and then the Roll Call was answered or shown. It was the making and wearing "Easter Bonnets". I'm telling you there was the greatest of great excitement of head gear you will ever see, from Crowns on their next to real goose eggs on a hat, an easter basket hat, garden suit shade hat, for cream pale as hats, decorated with jewels, anchors, flowers, plants, the Queen's crown, Red Cross buttons, paper cup cake carnations, bows and ribbons, another hat was made from posters, with the sayings - "Enter at your own risk, "Disaster Area" and other modern nite wit. We also had our pictures taken modelling our hats at the next meeting.

We judged the hats by ballot

The hostess then served a most delicious lunch, of open faced burger and the real old original Scotch omelette with butter and dainty cheese cutouts on them. Helen S was assistant. Co-Hostess, and as per usual she served the most delicious frozen raspberry and jelly with whipped cream dessert and Dad's coconut cookies. So over our large Coffee Pot of coffee we had a sociable half hour.

Helen S had a contest - "Old Proverbs." Mary A and Fay won by the most answers correct and Melba and Diana won consolation. Marlene won the hostess prize and Helen S the lucky tea cup prize.

Pat Kresch was the prize for the prettiest hat, with the Emma Eggs, flowers and black widow spiders on it. Helen Sutherland was the other prize for the funniest hat, two crows standing in their nest of twigs on a plate flat on top of her head, we all sang half an hour of hilarious fun.

After this distraction from our business, we settled down to discuss the entertainment we are to have at the Senior Lodge in Sedgewick on March 18. We are having a Banquet and other entertainment as the prizes and lunch was discussed and the final arrangements were made.

The next meeting to be at Helen O'Brien's April 12, the co-hostess Pat Kresch, the roll call is the exchange of "Bills and Bloomers" or Seeds.

WELFARE CLUB

Betty Lewis hosted our March meeting with a good attendance of members. Our president opened the meeting and welcomed all followed by a very interesting reading. Then our sang "Make Me A Believer" and then repeated the Creed and the Lord's Prayer.

In the absence of Georgia, Prudence read "A Redeemer by God" for devotional. Minutes of the previous meeting were read and adopted by the secretary, assisted by Alene Baker.

A list of older people in the community was made and we were to visit them this winter. Ruth Leslie reported she had presented a trophy to the 4-H club on behalf of the club, at their annual supper. Marlene moved we continue getting the our trophies succeeded by Ruth.

A discussion was held on a film for the Flagstaff Lodge next winter and the secretary was to get the catalogue on prices and films. Moved by Betty we were to pay the fee to $1.00 yearly to join our club, seconded by Pat Anderson.

After a lengthy discussion, Betty Lewis moved we donate $10.00 each to the club instead of having a tea or bake sale. This was seconded by Mrs. Baker.

Then Daisy Poppel got up busy cutting pieces for our quilt with a make a block for the next meeting. The meeting was then adjourned by Alene Baker, after which a delicious lunch was served by hostesses Gert, Betty and Edythe.

Sedgewick and District News Items

At last-spring has arrived! Isn't it fabulous? I don't even mind waiting down the streets these days.

Congratulations to Matt Kobner, lucky winner of the Legion's first $1000 draw.

Your faithful reporter, Betty Walsh is now a patient in Kilham Hospital, and we wish her a speedy recovery.

At the Wednesday, senior citizens' whist party, Jessie Clark won ladies high and low.

The Hon. Jack Horner, M.P., Minister of Industry, Trade and Commerce was a Monday morning guest speaker at Sedgewick School. He discussed the role of the cabinet in government and answered questions from students.

The school has had its share of federal politicians lately. Only recently, Arnold Malone, M.P. for Battle River, accompanied by Flora MacDonald, visited the school.

who helped Sedgewick natives put on a very successful 1976 Ladies Bousquet. There were many opportunities to renew old acquaintances.

Best wishes to Mr. Ernest Leach and Mrs. Lindelle who are confined to Kilham Hospital.

The Legion Zone Rally was held Sunday afternoon, with representatives from Camrose to Provost present.

At the Wednesday, senior citizens' whist party, Jessie Clark won ladies high and low.

The Hon. Jack Horner, M.P., Minister of Industry, Trade and Commerce was a Monday morning guest speaker at Sedgewick School. He discussed the role of the cabinet in government and answered questions from students.

The school has had its share of federal politicians lately. Only recently, Arnold Malone, M.P. for Battle River, accompanied by Flora MacDonald, visited the school.

In Legion bridge on Monday, Grace Robertson scored high and Jean Ferriar low. In cribbage, Maurine Humphreys was the winner.

David and Wendy Edey of Edmonton were Saturday visitors with Greg and Donna Martin and grandmother, Mrs. Elsie Cookson. The whole group enjoyed a meal at the Cookson farm at Lougheed for supper.

The lovely sound of church bells in the air last evening brought to mind the Holy Week services which are taking place in the churches of Sedgewick each night this week.

Mr. and Mrs. David Schlosser and little Catherine of Edmonton were weekend visitors with Cathy's parents, Rev. and Mrs. Richard Conrad and Bob by.

Mr. Ted Lister spent Monday in Edmonton visiting relatives. Johanna Louise, baby daughter of Ken and Linda Torpe, was baptized Sunday at the United Church.

David and Thelma Tanton returned last week from a trip through California, Arizona and other western states. They reported they saw plenty of water along the way, as winter gives way to spring. And a special happy birthday wish to Thelma from all of us, as she marks another milestone on March 28.

Related congratulations to Richard and Dorcas Conrad on the arrival of their third grandchild, a son born to Mr. and Mrs. Richard Conrad Jr. of Edmonton.

Schools close this weekend for Easter and spring recess. Bon voyage to Mr. and Mrs. Ken Ford and the group of Central High students who will be leaving for a visit to Paris and other European centres.

Welcome now to Sherry Mayne who has returned from Kilham Hospital.

Last Tuesday the newly expanded and revitalized Plagstaff Credit Union held its annual meeting and supper in the United Church basement.

With thanks to oil and gas revenue that still pays more than half the bills, the Conserver's budget took the lid off the budget and hiked it to $3.8 billion, nearly double the total three years ago.

Despite a 14.7 per cent jump in expenditure and about $124 million in revenue cuts, savings in the Heritage Fund plus general revenue accumulated surpluses are slated to top $6.5 billion.

Energy resource income will foot $3 per cent of the bad get. Counting the fund $5.3 billion now and growing $1.3 billion this year, oil and gas will finance 63 per cent of overall operations.

Effective midnight, March 31, taxes of 10 cents a gallon on gasoline and 12 cents on diesel fuel will be dropped. A three-cent levy continues on rail way locomotive and airplane fuel.

Leitch predicted that the reduction will be passed on to motorists, transit services, bus lines, taxi firms and truckers.

Gas drops 10c per gal.

creating savings for municipal ties and industry as well as consumers.

In addition, rebates to farmers to reduce their costs further increase 50 per cent to 12 cents a gallon. Savings this year are estimated at $164 a farmer.

Benefits for senior citizens under the five-year-old education property tax reduction plan are hiked about $15 million, to compensate for local school board supplementary requisitions.

The minimum school tax refund for the elderly doubles to $400 while their roster assist lance grants jump $100 to $250 and their minimum homeowner tax rebates double to $200, for older, smaller houses.

However, medicare premiums, raised for the last two years as well, rise July 1 to $183.50 for families and $91.00 for singles, with the exception of cuts for subscribers with no or very low taxable incomes.

Friday March 31, a four game draw is played as follows: 12 p.m. - 1st Game Dayland vs. Ekiville; 2:30 p.m. - 2nd Game Androsan vs. Gleichen; 5:00 p.m. - 3rd Game Lemond vs. Wabamun; 8:00 p.m. - 4th Game Sedgewick vs. Hines Creek.

The ticket prices will be as follows: 3 day - $5.00; 2 day - $4.00; 1 day - $3.00; 1 Game - $1.00.

Horner in Hardisty

These plans are tentatively to be located in Cold Lake (Lloydminster and Hardisty or Wainwright).

Up till now, backers for the plan proposed for either Hardisty or Wainwright, have indicated Wainwright as the favored site. However, Hardisty is considered the more logical location because it is situated on the major national pipeline system.

As a result of this meeting, Hardisty and towns from the surrounding area are planning to meet with Mr. Horner for March 30 to further discuss the likelihood of having Hardisty chosen as the final site of the proposed heavy oil plant.

Other subjects discussed by the group included the rape situation, federal money being spent on upgrading the rail lines and cattle imports.

Sedgewick hosts Provincial

On March 31, April 1 and 2 the Ag. Rec Board is very honored to have the opportunity to host the Provincial D Hockey Tourney. There will be four games played on Friday, March 31 with the Tourney beginning at 9:00 a.m. Saturday April 1 with five games scheduled. Sunday four games are scheduled so there will be a total of 18 games played in the three days of the Provincial Midgei Tourney.

Friday March 31, a four game draw is played as follows: 12 p.m. - 1st Game Dayland vs. Ekiville; 2:30 p.m. - 2nd Game Androsan vs. Gleichen; 5:00 p.m. - 3rd Game Lemond vs. Wabamun; 8:00 p.m. - 4th Game Sedgewick vs. Hines Creek.

Credit Union unique

All of our services are based on the Credit Union concept of service to the member as a part owner and not just a customer.

One of the most unique features of this new branch is the fact that it operates with the help of a computer. This computer, an NCR terminal, eliminates the use of ledger cards and records all accounts in the memory bank, explained Mr. Haynes.

The computer enables us to get total information about a member's account in just seven and a half seconds, so it's a real time saver for us and the member.

When a member comes in with a deposit, the teller gives the information to the computer and the deposit is immediately transferred onto the account.

When institutions go from hand posting, that is keeping track of accounts by hand, to machine posting, to a batch system, where accounts are sent to a central office and updated by computer there and then the final step is having the branch working with its own computer.

This spring one of the most important decisions many of you will make whether to summerfallow or continuous crop. As we gain more and more experience, it's beginning to look like continuous cropping has a lot of advantages.

For example, one of the traditional reasons for fallowing has been to conserve moisture. But, field studies are now showing that almost all the soil's moisture storage comes from spring runoff. That means that a stubble field has just about as much moisture available for re-seeding as a fallow field. A good rule of thumb is to re-crop if the soil is moist to a depth of 2 1/2 feet. By following that rule, you will probably find that you can re-crop in 9 out of 10 years, and produce at least average yields. Another traditional reason for fallowing has been to add nitrogen to the soil. Actually fallowing doesn't add nitrogen, instead it breaks down fibre into the form of nitrogen the plant can use. The problem is that summerfallowing breaks it down so fast that today half the fibre in many of our prairie soils has been destroyed. The result of course is soil drifting and lowering the soils ability to hold water. Many prairie farmers have been continuous cropping for over 20 years now. They say you have to fertilize heavier, but it pays. Most of them have found incidentally, the soil testing is the only accurate way to determine their fertilizer needs. Yields on continuously cropped fields are often as good or better than yields on fallow. That make sense, because continuous cropping puts more fibre back into the soil. That improves its water holding capacity and helps produce as better seed bed. It also cuts down on those white salt patches that summerfallow seems to be causing. Generally grain producers claim they are about 15-30 dollars for every acre they switch over to continuous crop. On the average farm, that probably works out to between $5000 - $10,000 per year. A good way to find out whether continuous cropping works is to try it on one quarter for 8-9 years. You may find yields are poorest in about the 3rd year, but by the 4-5th year they may be as high as yields on fallow. Most farmers who have tried continuous cropping have stayed with it. Not only has it improved their soil quality it's given them a better return.

REMINISCE:
It's a good idea to place your fertilizer orders now. If you wait you'll longer you may be faced with shortages in supply and costly delays. The same applies to seed cleaning - if you wait till April or May you will face road bans, long line-ups, and higher cleaning rates. Remember the old adage: "Why wait for spring - do it now."

TEENAGE SNACKS:

The following article appeared in the February issue of Connection, put out by Alberta Agriculture's Nutrition and Food Marketing Section.

Between meal eating or snacking has become a way of life for most Canadians - adults and teenagers alike. Almost twenty five percent of our daily caloric intake comes from snack foods and many of these snack foods provide only empty calories and little else in the way of nutritional value.

Snacking is not always considered evil or undesirable, especially with the teen group who experiences an increasing demand for energy to offset their accelerated physical and emotional development. The whole problem revolves around the selection of food items that add to the nutritional value of the daily diet.

Let's take as an example an eight ounce cold drink versus an eight ounce chocolate milkshake. The soft drink contains 106 empty calories as it adds no nutritional value to the diet. The milkshake, while being much higher in calories, 421, also contains one-quarter of the daily protein requirement, calcium, riboflavin, vitamin A and several minerals. A much better nutritional buy. If overweight is not a problem, teenagers need not worry about the milkshake's extra calories.

The snacking phenomenon is largely influenced by the prevalent advertising of potato chips, pretzels, soft drinks, candy and other items associated with between meal eating. A recent example of the impact of advertising on teenage eating patterns was the Alberta Dairyman's Association, "Wear a Moustache" milk campaign last fall. One Edmonton high school reported that milk sales increased to such an extent that help was needed to handle the sales. "Otherwise there would be a riot." The incentive behind drinking milk at school was the wear a moustache contest, which students were allowed to enter if spotted drinking milk. Milk is once again a prestigious food item. Perhaps further advertising would help to improve the image of other nutritious snack foods.

Snacking specials that make a positive contribution to the four food groups, milk and milk products, meat and meat alternatives, breads and cereals, and fruits and vegetables are excellent. Hamburgers, milkshakes, cheese, cereal and milk, fresh fruit, celery, carrot sticks, granola, nuts or puddings, even varieties of cookies made with cereals, nuts or raisins contribute to good nutrition. These nutritional snack foods also result in fewer dental problems.

Refrigerator raiders and cupboard commandos will never be stopped. But you can head off most of the detrimental effects of between meal snacking by encouraging good nutritional habits and having nutritious snacks available.

Bull sale success

The top quality bulls at the Dayland Bull Sale were well received by the capacity crowd of farmers and ranchers. The Grand Champion bull, Standard's Domino 007 H, contributed by Sam Klein and Sons of Viking brought $1300 from George C. Hobbs of Coar. This big May 17/78 bull sired by Double Jr. Outback 1A weighed 1700 lbs. and had a rate of gain of 8.1.

The Reserve Grand Champion was consigned by Eric Elliott of Dewberry, and sold to Jack Hampshire of Killam for $1250.

Robert Keifer & Sons of Unity, Sask., consigned the highest selling bull, and was purchased by Gary Sitter of Hardisty for $1225.

Murray Stauffer of Echville was the Alberta Herford Association selector and did an excellent job as ringman.

The average on the 5 year old bulls was $1022.21, and the total sale average was $970.16. The sale was sponsored by Dayland Ag. Society and managed by Warren "Tip" Henderson of Forestburg. Oscar Peterson of Marwayne acted as the Judge for the show.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Ken Jensen of Daysland, a son weighing 6 lb. 2 oz. The proud grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Chris Sather of Daysland and Mr. and Mrs. Jensen of Edberg. On Monday, March 8, 1978 Dorothy Spiller, Margaret Schmidt, Betty Koehl, Ruth Armstrong, Laura Graham and Betty Hill attended the Coronation Presbytery meeting in Stettin. This was a very enjoyable meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Armstrong and Mr. and Mrs. Ed Hill took in the Oatons Pancake supper. While there they visited with Pearl Lambert and Alice Sheets.

On March 21 about 15 relatives and friends came to help Carol Hill celebrate her 18 birthday. During the evening we took some family pictures. Mr. and Mrs. Jim McLean and, Holly McLean and Carol Hill left Friday morning to visit over the Easter weekend at Biggar, Saskatchewan, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne McLean and family.

There were 46 that attended the Cancer Seminar held in Daysland on March 20. Everyone reported it being very interesting.

Mr. Charlie Tulloch is now employed at the Revelstoke lumber yard.

Forestry man named UFA director

Mr. Glenn Lundy of Forestburg, has been elected to the board of Directors of United Farmers of Alberta Co-operative Limited. The election took place at the Annual Meeting held recently in Calgary.

A mixed grain farmer from the Forestburg area, Mr. Lundy has been active in agricultural and community organizations. He has served on several committees and boards and at the present is president of the Forestburg Co-op Store; on the United District board; C.I. delegate for the Stettin lodge; a member of the Masonic Lodge and Clerk of Session of the Rural United Church.

Prior to his election as Director of District 6F, Mr. Lundy had served as an UFA delegate since 1966.

New farm fuel allowance credited at pump

Alberta Agriculture Minister Marvin Moore announced in a statement to the provincial Legislature that the recent increase in the Farm Fuel Transportation Allowance will be credited to producers at the time of purchase rather than after they have filed a rebate application form.

The increase in the allowance was announced by Provincial Treasurer Merv Leitch in his budget address to the Legislature on March 17 and will reduce the present cost of purple diesel fuel and purple gasoline by 4 cents per gallon.

According to a March 20 release on farm input prices by Alberta Agriculture, the average prices for purple diesel fuel and purple gasoline are about 53 and 56 cents per gallon respectively.

The federal government levies a 10 cent per-gallon excise tax on gasoline which is refundable on application by farmers and commercial users," said Mr. Moore. "This system, while having the advantage of selective control over the use of fuel, has a number of disadvantages for our citizens.

Additional government levies would be required to administer the system. Farmers would be required to maintain receipts and to submit applications for refunds, and, of course, there would be a major disadvantage in the additional operating capital required by the individual.

"For these reasons we have opted to deduct the 4 cents at the time of purchase rather than return it to producers after a rebate application." Farmers will, of course still be required to demonstrate their eligibility for this allowance." The Minister also noted that, on the average, Alberta farms fuel costs will be 13 cents per gallon lower than those in any other province in Canada.

"When you spend so much on weed control, why let disease rob you blind?"

How much is smut costing you? Margins are slim enough. The cost of every head of grain affected by smut comes right out of your pocket - it's as simple as that.

Last year thousands of acres of smut-infested cereals were reported all across the prairies. And even well-established cereal varieties with built-in resistance to the diseases were breaking down. Also, there were the unseen losses from seed rots and seedling blights.

You invest a lot of dollars in weed control. This year take the added precaution of planting Vitavax-treated seed and beat smut disease. Applying Vitavax is quick and efficient with the Vitavax seed treater which bolts onto your hydraulic-drive drill fill.

THE HILL AT HOME

I climbed our hill today. Part of the way I followed the tracks in the snow made by our teenagers as they liked to the tobogganing slope. Sometimes I blessed my own trail. Often I was on brown grass. At times I was on trackless snow. Occasionally I sank knee deep as I stepped cautiously along the smooth white surface. I made it all the way to the top and as I stood on the crest black, installed on the top by a federal geophysical group several years ago marking it as one of the high spots of the area. I meditated on the numerous times I have climbed that hill in the last twenty years. I've climbed it alone, with family or with various visitors at various seasons.

We hiked up the hill most every spring when the crocuses begin to bloom. We have climbed it taking turns carrying the baby and slowing our steps to accommodate the short legs of the toddlers. We have climbed it when the youngsters ran gleefully ahead and beat us to the crocus patch, running back to present me with the purple posies.

You can see for miles from the top of the hill. The view is exhilarating at any season. In the spring the bushes are so green and the sloths so blue. In the fall the trees are gorgeous in their golds and reds. In the winter a mantle of white gives a different scene.

Many winter afternoons the hill has rung with laughter as a crowd of friends climbed the hill pulling toboggans. They slid swiftly down to climb again.

Life on a farm has its disadvantages. When cattle sell for less than it costs to raise them one wonders why we stay — but when I survey our world from the top of our hill I envy no one.

So, you think drunk driving is funny.

There's nothing funny about a person who drinks too much and then drives. But there is something funny about how surprised such drivers are when they're caught. In fact, you should see the look on their faces after we charge them with impaired driving. Because, once we charge anyone with impaired driving we take them "back to the station." And, like everyone else charged under the criminal code they have to arrange their own release. One more thing. Under the law licence suspensions are mandatory for impaired drivers. There are no exemptions, no "special licences" for driving to work. Suspension is always absolute. Sound tough? Not really. You see CHECK STOP isn't aimed at people who've had a couple of drinks while enjoying themselves. CHECK STOP is aimed at people who drink too much and then drive. A few of them are so drunk they can

You know who we mean. And you know how they act.

Please. CHECK STOP can catch fools who drink too much and drive. But only you can stop them before they turn the key.

Think twice.

CHECK STOP

It's really up to you.

Fertilizer supply and price good

AGRICULTURE CANADA

Fertilizer supplies for prairie farmers should be more than adequate this year as demand in the west is expected to hold steady or increase only slightly from the 1977 levels.

Fertilizer prices are expected to be the same or lower than last year's. Since 1974-75 when world shortages forced up fertilizer prices, they have steadily declined.

The supply situation is good largely because of new nitrogen plants that began producing in Alberta in the last two years. Any of the two Alberta plants could almost cover the Canadian market for nitrogen. High production this year could bring nitrogen prices down slightly.

The 10 potash mines in Saskatchewan continue to make Canada the number one exporter of potash in the world.

Despite the good supply situation there could be some problems in putting needed fertilizer in place for the coming planting season. A low demand for fertilizers last fall because of poor weather conditions and a low demand so far this year could cause problems both for fertilizer producers and farmers.

Because little fertilizer was put in the ground last fall, spring deliveries will be heavy. The transportation system this spring could be taxed in trying to meet orders.

Commitment of fertilizer to the United States market, which depends heavily on Canadian imports, could also put pressure on transportation facilities.

The earlier farmers order their fertilizer deliveries, the more assurance they'll have adequate on farm supplies this spring.

NEW EXPLOSIVES REGULATIONS

New federal regulations that will affect farmers buying or storing explosives come into effect on March 31, 1978.

The regulations state that anyone buying explosives after March 31 must have a special permit which is valid for 90 days and limits the size of the purchase. The Explosives Purchase and Possession Permit is obtained from the vendor at the time of purchase.

Any explosives now being stored must be used, destroyed in accordance with recognized safety practices or returned to a vendor before March 31 deadline. If any help is needed to get rid of existing stocks of explosives, the local police force should be contacted.

On March 19 with both teams experiencing difficulty in getting an attack going under very bad ice conditions, the score was deadlocked 4 to 4 at the end of regulation time. The teams played 10 minutes of overtime with Daysland scoring 2 goals near the end of overtime to notch the victory and force the series to a fifth game.

On March 23 the Sedgewick and Daysland midjets hooked up in the first game of the Zone 7 Provincial Midget D Championship. Sedgewick were trailing 3 - 0 in the second period before they got untracked and fought back to earn a 5 to 5 tie at the end of regulation time. The second game of this 2 game

The season will end for the Midgets on the weekend of March 31, April 1 and 2nd when the Provincial Midget D Championship will be staged at the Sedgewick Rec Centre with teams representing 7 zones throughout Alberta take part. See you there.

And we're doing more to help you go after these markets.

The Government has made several announcements recently that will boost exports of grain, oilseeds, coal and other bulk commodities from Western Canada.

Road and rail access and services are part of the proposal and will provide the necessary infrastructure for the grain trade to build all of the grain terminal capacity required.

"We've left out the two intermediate steps and its working out just perfectly," Mr. Haynes noted proudly.

Another beneficial and unique service the Flagstaff Branch is offering to its members is the Plan 24 Savings Account. With this type of savings account, interest is calculated on a daily basis.

For instance, even if a member makes a deposit in the middle of the month, interest is calculated from that day forward.

In most other financial institutions, interest is calculated on a minimum monthly balance and the customer isn't accredited for the interest on the deposit until the next time the bank calculates interest which is generally only quarterly or every six months.

Share savings are also offered at the Flagstaff Branch in which members are life insured to a maximum of $2,000. Then depending on the Credit Union surplus at the end of the year, a dividend is distributed to its members.

This branch is also equipped to sell Canadian or American money orders plus Thomas Cook or American Express travellers cheques.

Ms. Haynes added that the Flagstaff Branch will also handle Registered Retirement Savings Plans and a full scale loaning program for consumer, farm and residential mortgages. Other services include term deposits and safety deposit boxes.

The Flagstaff Branch has a full time staff of three and one part time staff member. Staff includes Mr. Jim Baker who handles the insurance, Lynn Flemming, the teller and general office worker, Helen Hampshire who will be a part time employee and Neil Haynes the branch manager.

TAKE NOTICE

That the County of Flagstaff No. 29 by virtue of the powers contained in Section 3 (8) of Development Control Bylaw (Bylaw No. 182) of the said County of Flagstaff hereby grants permission to Sedgewick Co-operative Association Ltd. of Sedgewick, Alberta to erect/construct an Ammonia Plant on the NW QUARTER of Section 5, Township 44, Range 12, West of the 4th Meridian.

AND FURTHER TAKE NOTICE that any objections to the above mentioned proposed developments may be made in writing to the Development Officer of the said County of Flagstaff at the County Office, Sedgewick, Alberta within 14 days of the date of this notice. Site plans for the proposed development may be inspected at the County Office during the regular office hours.

Signed D. Bergum
Development Officer
This 23rd day of March, 1978.

NOTICE OF INTENTION
Average Subdivision around Hardisty

Land which may be reclassified (zoned) for average development
Town of Hardisty
Roads

There appears to be a growing demand for acreages and country residences in the eastern part of the County. A study conducted by the Battle River Regional Planning Commission, identifying suitable areas for development, has been adopted by the County Council.

Council of the County of Flagstaff therefore gives notice as follows:

1. Council is prepared to amend the Land Use Classification from Agriculture to Country Residential on all the lands shown shaded on the accompanying map. If requested by landowners, once a subdivision proposal has been approved by the Planning Commission.
2. Until that time, the land will remain classified as Agriculture and zoned as such but the agricultural use of the land shall be restricted to the use of the land as a hobby farm.
3. Council will consider enlarging the area for acreages, as suggested in the Planning Commission study, only when the above noted area has been fully developed.
4. Landowners considering development should realize that they, and not the County, must bear all costs of subdivision and development.

Orville Likness
Secretary-Treasurer

AMISK HOTEL

Hardisty

Chris Clunfield of Ponoka is visiting with his cousin Garth Weathers for the Easter holidays. His mother Linda (Weathers) is Mrs. Gary Potter so his new grandparents are Albert and Millie Potter.

Chris' uncle, Ron Anderson, who played hockey for some time, coaches a Red Deer team now, went to school at Central High.

HARDISTY HOSPITAL A.U.N.
The February meeting was brought to order with the audit prayer and roll call was answered by nine members.

Correspondence was read and dealt with.

Hillary Gray gave a lengthy report on the progress of the new hospital.

It was reported that raffle tickets for the Afghan raffle were made and the Afghan is on display at the Sears office.

A motion was carried to donate $25 to the Allister Hospital workers. It was also decided that the Hospital Auxiliary make a Hasty Canvas as an annual project.

The March 8 meeting was opened in the usual way at the hospital.

Roll call showed 10 members present.

Final plans for the spring bingos were made, the date being set for April 3 at 8:00 p.m. It was decided to have a cash bingo instead of the usual miscellaneous bingo. Bingo tickets will sell for $1.50 each and will be available from the auxiliary members.

Members are reminded that the April meeting is the annual general meeting. It was decided to have a supper meeting at Seta's dining lounge at 7:00 on April 12.

SEDGWICK MAN RECEIVES MEDAL

Constable Dale Dips was presented with the jubilee medal to commemorate the 25th anniversary of her majesty's reign and the purpose of this medal was set by government house "to reward persons who have shown exceptional merit in the performance of their duties." Constable Dips has been in the force 9 years and employed on U.S. duties the last 5 1/2 years in Kelowna, B.C. The presentation was on February 15, 1978. At left, the head of the Kelowna detachment, Inspector or Graham George pins the medal on Constable Dale Dips, while Cpl. Bev Dodd looks on.

Sedgewick

Hope everyone had a lovely and joyous Easter and is enjoying the Easter break. If the news seems a bit brief this week, it is because Greg and I have taken the opportunity to visit in Edmonton for a few days. But we'll be home on Wednesday - even before you read this - so keep the news coming to Donna Martin at 384-3544, while Betty Walsh remains in the hospital.

While her parents are away, young Margaret Martin is making life interesting for her grandparents - the Don Cookson family, of Loughheed.

It was good to see many Sedgewick churchgoers attending the Holy Week services at the four different churches. A special thanks to the four clergymen for their efforts and co-operation.

Get well wishes to Mrs. Pat Zwack who is in the Kilham hospital.

Old timer opens Midget tournament

Sedgewick wins Midget D Provincials

The Sedgewick Midgets wound up a very successful hockey season April 5 by winning the Midget D provincial championship.

The tournament which was hosted by Sedgewick saw eight midget teams from throughout Alberta compete on the weekend.

To mark the official opening of the tournament Friday night, Mr. Frank Mayne, a long time Sedgewick hockey enthusiast, was called upon to drop the puck for Sedgewick's first game.

Mr. Jerry Beach, the A.A. H.A. Zone 7 Chairman also made a few opening remarks at the official start of the tournament.

While her parents are away, young Margaret Martin is making life interesting for her grandparents - the Don Cookson family, of Loughheed.

Taylor starts anew

LEGISLATURE REPORT

The opposition's legislature seats drop to five during the next federal election, expected this spring. But its voice will be clearer even if it fails to make up the loss in a provincial by-election later.

Alberta's longest - sitting M.L.A. Gordon Taylor, is going out in style to start over again with his now confirmed federal Conservative nomination for Bow River. He is required to resign to become an M.P.

The House stands to lose an idealist, not a critic, with the departure of the 67-year-old veteran of 38 years in it, including 21 in the former Social Credit administration's cabinets.

Taylor, who has been a teacher, summer camp operator and realtor, was first elected in 1940. During a long provincial government career he held the telephone, highways and youth ministries.

He unsuccessfully sought the Socreds' leadership twice after former premier Ernest Manning quit in 1968, and again in 1973, when they chose the outgoing and now all but forgotten Werner Schmidt.

Rebuffed, he still stayed with the Socreds during their first term out of power after Conservatives took over in 1971. As opposition house leader, he was aggressive enough to embarrass the Tory cabinet into holding a judicial inquiry.

But the ways slowly parted, until Taylor embarrassed the troubled Socreds by dropping them during the 1975 provincial election campaign for re-election as an independent in Drumheller.

Since then, he has vied with the government more often than not and has had bitter exchanges with one-time colleagues in the remaining four-member Social Credit official opposition.

"This session, Taylor has already drawn loud cheers from Tories by accusing the Socreds of 'insinuations and false statements' during a heated debate on the Red Deer River Dam."

But he needs little encouragement. Attributing his behaviour to partisanship would be a poor guess. His starting point in ideals which have little to do with parties or the adversary system.

"I believe in democracy. The people speak and ask for changes through their elected representatives," Taylor said in a debate on the ombudsman's mandate, criticizing the watchdog for suggesting new law.

"It's coming from the grass roots. That's the type of country we live in. We need the government of every province and of the country and of our municipalities reflects in their legislation and administration, and thinking of the mass of people."

Towns merge resources for new industry

We're going to compile and coordinate a resume of all the services available in our area, said Mayor Golka of Hardisty to representatives all the way from Czar to Kilham attending a meeting held March 30 about the heavy oil plant that may be built in Hardisty.

The mayors from all these towns plus numerous interested persons from these areas were in attendance at this meeting. Their future projects was to actively start coordinating efforts in doing a selling job of the infrastructure or even simply put, all the services and recreation opportunities the communities could offer as a group to any future organization with plans for large projects such as a heavy oil plant Hardisty is now vying for.

Heading all discussion at this meeting was the Honorable Jack Horner, Minister of Trade and Commerce.

The heavy oil industry requires three new plants in Alberta.

Imperial Oil of Canada will be building a plant in Cold Lake, Husky Oil in Lloydminster and Pacific Petroleum in either Hardisty or Wainwright.

Mr. Horner said he had recently met with all three companies to negotiate write-off agreements encouraging more immediate investment in the heavy oil industry.

In discussing the feasibility of building in Hardisty with Pacific Petroleum, Mr. Horner explained that their main concern was with the infrastructure and accommodation. Hardisty could offer as opposed to Wainwright.

Mr. Horner noted that representatives from Pacific Petroleum would gladly meet with Hardisty council for a complete tour so they could have a better idea of the amenities the area has to offer.

Plans for such a meeting are already being tentatively set, according to Mr. Pedlar, Municipal Administrator of Hardisty.

In this area, the actual site of the plant would be at least two to three miles from any town perimeter in the vicinity.

It is expected that about 600 million dollars will be spent on the establishment of the refinery, commented Mr. Horner.

"Pacific Petroleum told me that recovery costs in this area would be cheaper than in the tar sands."

J. Welliver, a Hardisty councillor asked what kind of a communications system would exist between the community and the company if the plant was built in Hardisty.

"I don't want to see another chaotic situation like Fort McMurray," said Mr. Welliver.

Mr. Horner voiced agreement with this statement, adding that the provincial government has already put one million dollars in the infrastructure of Fort McMurray and doesn't want to be in the same boat again.

Pacific Petroleum are very aware of their public relations image now and want to do a good job with the community. They realize that industry in the past has been somewhat lax in its dealings with the public and want to improve that image now, assured Mr. Horner.

Mr. Horner didn't know of a provincial or federal body that would act as a liaison between the community and the company so Hardisty would probably be dealing directly with the company.

The Grain Stabilization Act was another area that sparked interest with those at the meeting.

"This piece of legislation will in all likelihood be passed soon so grain growers should have the pricing information they require before spring seeding."

Other topics of discussion at the meeting included import quotas in various areas and federal government is trying to revive such as the textile, shoe and cheese industries.

Your suggestions could help us improve on the job safety.

The Occupational Health and Safety Division of Alberta Labour is developing and reviewing regulations associated with the OCCUPATIONAL HEALTH AND SAFETY ACT (R.S.A. Chapter 40, 1976).

Current regulations that are being reviewed are:

- occupational hygiene and medical aspects of work
- lead and lead compounds
- biological hazards
- lifting and requirements at work sites
- safety regulations covering general accident prevention; construction, petroleum, natural gas and lumbering operations and the use of explosives.

New regulations being developed include:

- sanitation at the work site
- ventilation
- standards for airborne contaminants
- standards for the use of explosives
- occupational hygiene and medical aspects of work
- substance, benzene, vinyl chloride monomer, carbon monoxide, mercury, temperature extremes, lifting

We are anxious to streamline and clarify our regulations to make them as manageable as possible. If you would like to submit your suggestions and concerns, receive drafts, or register further information, please contact:

"If you've got Double Trouble - Wild Oats AND Wild Millet"

I've got Hoe-Grass

Hoe-Grass - the post-emergence herbicide with the double punch: it kills both Wild Oats and Wild Millet in wheat, 6-row barley, rapeseed, flax, tame mustard and sugar beets. And you can apply Hoe-Grass any time that wild oats or wild millet (green foxtail) are in one to four leaf stage of growth."

Central high bulletin

School has resumed after the spring break with many sun-tanned faces after trips to the mountains, Hawaii or other warmer, sunnier climates.

We await the return of our students from France on Thursday, April 6. This group departed on Easter Sunday.

On Monday, April 5 midday great excitement over the Social Studies exchange group of forty students departed for Kincardine, Ontario. This group with their exchange partners will be welcomed back on Sunday, April 9 at about 9:00 p.m. with a welcoming reception at the High School.

On April 10 all parents of this year's students and parents whose children start High School in the fall are invited to attend an Open House at Central from 7:30 to 9:30. At this time you are invited to speak to individual teachers about concerns that you have about your child's progress and also to become acquainted or reacquainted with the staff and the facilities. Be sure to check out our new Industrial Ed. lab facilities. It isn't finished but will be a tremendous addition when completed.

Creation our true roots

PART OF OUR SERIES
The theory of evolution has been impressed on the minds of men for generations. The teschers of this unprovable theory have carefully protected their unique "baby" from any other alternative choice. The Christian or Biblical view of man's origin has been obscured by the simple method of never mentioning the possibility. The Christian or Biblical view of man's origin has been obscured by the simple method of never mentioning the possibility.

The theory of evolution has been impressed on the minds of men for generations. The test-chers of this unprovable theory have carefully protected their unique "baby" from any other alternative choice. The Christian or Biblical view of man's origin has been obscured by the simple method of never mentioning the possibility. The Christian or Biblical view of man's origin has been obscured by the simple method of never mentioning the possibility.

There is manifest around us the result of a dried up and dying Christian faith. Crime and selfishness are at an all time high in our present world. Man's "evolution" is downward not upward as the greed of man warms greater. There is no other alternative for a world turned from God, but destruction.

Man must turn back and place his feet once more on the solid rock of truth and fact not upon fanciful theories. Christians from all walks believe that God's word is inspired (1 Tim. 3:16). Also that God's word is truth (John 17:17). Why then do we stand idly by and allow a fallacious theory, totally contrary to Christian teachings, to be taught and unchallenged. Should not the only alternative to the "Evolution Theory" be the "Creation Theory"?

"The fall accomplish" of I Creation be taught on an equal footing. To this end, I set my pen to paper on behalf of the Flagstaff Ministerial. We shall present in a series of articles the clear fact that Special Creation holds our true roots.

Congratulations

to Sedgewick Midgets who won the 1978 Midget "D" Provincial Finals.

Edith Cookson did an excellent job as commentators as well. Mrs. Bradley spent much time teaching the girls techniques of modelling, and how to apply makeup etc. Mr. and Mrs. Saunders, Audrey Hobbs and Mrs. George from Saunders Variety, kindly spent many hours helping outfit the girls, as well as packing and bringing the clothes, and helping them to change. Mr. Eric Patching supplied the musical setting and Henry Lien kindly donated the use of his PA system.

Harold Probst and Doug Niehaus set up the staging and lights for the show. Veronica Probst also contributed much.

Miss Adrian Fankhael, Millie Heitmann and Roger Tetrault of Edmonton spent Easter with Irene Fankhael. Michelle stayed for the Easter week holiday with her grandmother.

The weekly Norwegian Whist Card party was held at the home of Mrs. Francis Fankhael. Prize for high score went to Anita Kroetach, second high to Helen P. Lasau.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis Fankhael drove to Edmonton on Friday where they accompanied their daughter and son-in-law Mary and Norm Twitcheil to Hinton spending the week-end with Anne and Hari Narayan and family.

Lucy and Don Berganek with Shawn and Shane of Edmonton were Saturday and Sunday visitors with Gary and Marcie Mattheissen and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Lasau spent Easter with Mr. and Mrs. Emil Fredrich and family near Forestburg.

Mrs. Frances Niehaus spent a week in Camrose visiting friends and relatives staying at the home of her sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Leslie. On Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. Matt Niehaus spent the day with Laura and Bill Mattheissen in Dyerland.

and to all those who call Special thanks to Saunders the beautiful bouquet of flowers presented to the club. Thank you all.

CARD OF THANKS

The Loughheed 4 H Home-makers would like to thank the following people for helping to make their Fashion show such a success: Saunders Variety Store of Killam, owners and staff: Mrs. Pat Bradley; Diane Boudreau; Jerry Johnson and the Women's Institute; Molly Fernyough; Violet Wylie; Eric Patching; Henry Lien; Harold Probst; Doug Niehaus; Veronica Probst; Club Leader Janet Smith.

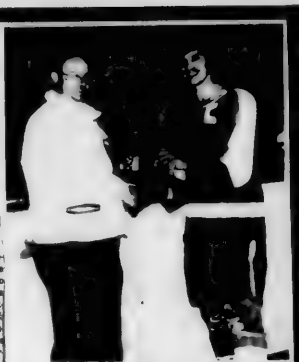

The senior citizens enjoyed a meagerboard supper on Sat. evening at the Club house, with 28 members in attendance. A meeting followed the supper, in which it was discussed to have a supper the first Friday of each month for all members 50 years and over. The most will be bought by the Club, and a charge of $1 per person to cover the cost. Also the club will have hostesses on Wednesday afternoons at the club house who will serve coffee and lunch. Hostesses for this month are Mr. and Mrs. Albert Kroetach, Mr. and Mrs. Matt Niehaus and Mary and Ronni Heiler.

Knutz were supper guests with Margaret and Paul Rasmussen and family at Gadsby on Sunday.

Del and Jeanne Kroetach with Michelle and Pam and Ralph and Rose Weller Monday through Thursday of Easter holidays in Banff.

Kate Kroetach spent Easter with Adolph and Verna Kroetach in Camrose.

Drs. Collins and Don Hauck and families of Waterbury and Mr. and Mrs. Stan Hauck of Calgary spent Easter with parents Mr. and Mrs. Philip Hauck.

Central high bulletin

School has resumed after the spring break with many tanned faces after trips to the mountains, Hawaii or other warmer, sunnier climates.

We await the return of our students from France on Thursday, April 6. This group departed on Easter Sunday.

On Monday, April 3 midday great excitement our Social Studies exchange group of forty students departed for Kincardine, Ontario. This group with their exchange partners will be welcomed back on Sunday, April 9 at about 9:00 p.m. with a welcoming reception at the High School.

On April 10 all parents of this year's students and parents whose children start High School in the fall are invited to attend an Open House at Central from 7:30 to 9:30. At this time you are invited to speak to individual teachers Rick Gultner, Captain of the B.R.H.L. champions, Irma Aces receives the Duff Layton trophy from league president Tony Schnettler.

Start of winning rally

Midjet tournament continued the tournament undefeated with 4 straight wins. They dominated every game they played with their fast skating, hard checking play, and once again their fine penalty killing prevailed as they allowed only one goal to be scored on them in the four games while they were short handed.

At the completion of the final game Mr. Jerry Bosch, A.A. H.A. representative, presented the Sedgewick team with gold medals and also a large trophy.

The boys played 42 games throughout the season winning 31, tying 2 and losing 9.

Congratulations

To Sedgewick Midgets who won the 1978 Midget "D" Provincial Finals

This was presented in the form of a fashion show, with ten young models, members of the club, modelling various fashions. These were all supplied by members of Saunders Variety Society of Killam.

The show began with a striking display of feminine lingerie, from gowns and robes, to pajamas and jumpuits. Following this, the girls presented a variety of jeans and tops. Then came casual slacks and pants, topped off with jackets or sweaters suitable for casual summer days. For those short on time, or casual alterations, the girls modelled short-sleeved dresses in a variety of colors and fabrics. Finally, the most stunning of all were the exquisite long evening gowns which the girls graciously displayed.

On in the "space" while the girls were changing, some of the mothers, also modelled clothes, while several items from the club were on display as commentators as well. Mrs. Bradley spent much time teaching the girls techniques of modelling, and how to apply makeup etc. Mr. and Mrs. Saunders, Audrey Hinks and Mrs. George from Saunders Variety, kindly spent many hours helping out the girls, as well as packing and bringing the clothes and helping them to change.

Mr. Eric Patching supplied the musical setting and Henry Linn kindly donated the use of his PA system.

Harold Probst and Doug Niehaus set up the staging and lights for the show. Veronica Probst also contributed much work.

The Mothers helped to supply the lunch, as well as some of the W.I. members and Jerry Johnson and Molly Fernyough were there to help serve and clear up after. Last, but not least, Club Leader Janet Niehaus did all of the arranging and organizing for the show.

For this reason, the government decided to set the stabilization level at 96 per cent of the average market price, instead for changes in the cash cost of production, rather than the 90 per cent level, promised when the program was announced. The total of federal co-payments across the country is expected to be $25 million.

Enquiries regarding the payment should be directed to Subsidy Processing Services, Agricultural Stabilization Board, Ottawa, Ontario, K1A 0G5, Phone (613) 964-9572.

It is expected that a stabilization payment will also be announced soon for slaughter on the production during part of 1977.

These payments will be made for calves sold last fall.

The government set its support price at $45.52 per hundred weight for calves. That price is 96 per cent of the average market price of good calves sold between September 1 and December 1 in the last five years, plus an adjustment for increased costs of production.

Nationally, the average market price for calves sold last fall was $47.50. These payments will be made for calves sold last fall.

Special thanks to Saunders, the beautiful bouquet of flowers presented to the club. Thank you all.

CARD OF THANKS
 The Loughheed 4-H Homemakers would like to thank the following people for helping make their Fashion show successful: Saunders Variety Society of Killam, owners and staff, Mrs. Pat Bradley, Diana Brown, Jerry Johnson and Women's Institute, Molly Fernyough, Violet Wythe, M. Patching, Henry Linn, Harry Probst, Club Leader Janet Niehaus, Doug Niehaus, Veronica Probst, Club Leader Janet Niehaus, and all those who came to help support us. Thank you.

Lougheed 4-H show spring fashions

On Saturday afternoon of March 11, spring arrived in the town of Lougheed. No, it wasn't the official first day of spring, but the weather was very "spring like," but inside the community hall, the Lougheed 4-H Homemakers were presenting their version of the "Splendor of Spring."

This was presented in the form of a fashion show, with ten young models, members of the club, modelling various fashions. These were all supplied courtesy of Saunders Variety Store of Killam.

The show began with a striking display of feminine nightwear, from gowns and robes, to pyjamas and jumpersuits. Following this, the girls presented a variety of jeans and tops. Then came casual slacks and pantsuits, topped off with jackets or coats, sweaters suitable for school summer days. For those afternoon teas, or casual afternoon wear, the girls modelled short-sleeved dresses in a variety of colors and fabrics. Finally, the most stunning of all were the exquisite long evening gowns which the girls gracefully displayed.

To fill in the "spaces" while the girls were changing, some of the mothers, also modelled clothes, while several items were displayed by Mrs. Pat Brady of Killam, a suit by Audrey Hobbs, pantsuit by Edith Cookson and a dress by Diane Bourne.

District Home Economist Diane Bourne spent many hours writing the commentaries for these fashions, and she and Edith Cookson did an excellent job as commentators as well. Mrs. Bradley spent much time teaching the girls techniques of modelling, and how to apply make-up etc. Mr. and Mrs. Saunders, Audrey Hobbs and Mrs. George from Saunders Variety, kindly spent many hours helping outfit the girls, as well as packing and bringing the clothes and helping them to change. Mr. Eric Patching supplied the musical setting and Henry Lien kindly donated the use of his PA system.

Harold Probst and Doug Niehaus set up the staging and lights for the show. Veronica Probst also contributed much work.

The Mothers helped to supply the lunch, as well as some of the W.I. members and Jerry Johnson and Molly Perney-hough were there to help serve and clear up after. Last, but not least, Club Leader Janet Niehaus did all of the arranging and organizing for the show.

returns for their production. For this reason, the government decided to set the stabilization level at 95 per cent of the average market price, indexed for changes in the cash cost of production, rather than the 90 per cent level, promised when the program was announced. The total of federal cow-calf payments under the temporary is expected to be $38 million.

Enquiries regarding the payment should be directed to the Subsidy Processing Services, Agricultural Stabilization Board, Ottawa, Ontario, K1A 0C8. Phone (613) 994-6572. It is expected that a stabilization payment will also be announced soon for slaughter cattle production during part of 1977.

These payments will help beefmen meet their costs of production thereby ensuring a continuing flow of beef to market.

Smolski shower has large turnout

Almost one hundred guests enjoyed an evening shower of gift presentations and community visiting March 31 in St. Joseph's Hall, Killam. The occasion to honor Miss Shelly Dawn Smolski, bride-elect of John A. Kueber, included Mrs. Connie Smolski and Mrs. Ellen Kueber, mothers of the bride and groom to be and her attendants the Misses Leona Thompson, Margo Smolski and Toni Smolski.

A short wedding word so-ramble game tested the knowledgeable ladies present. - The prize for perfect score going to Dorothy Feigao.

A brief family and personal sketch of Shelly's career was presented by M.C. Evelyn Kueber and then Miss Smolski was adorned with a "bride's crown" of ribbons and bows made by the creative and artistic C.W.L.

Special thanks to all those who assisted in any way with the preparation, decorating and seating arrangements, to Pat Lang for organizing and advertising, to the ladies of the C.W.L. who provided and served the delicious and abundant lunch and to the all-important clean-up committee.

A lovely heart-shaped bridal shower book was given by Aunt Margo Smolski, unfolded anecdotes and photo remembrances for all to see and enjoy as the pleasant evening came to a close.

Hardisty and District News Items

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Elmquist and their twins from Wadsworth, Sask., visited Gordon's mother, Mrs. Myrtle Elmquist and other relatives over the Easter weekend.

Ruth, Earl and Darryl Allen of Edmonton visited at Ruth's parental home over the week end. Also visiting the George Matthews was daughter Joyce, husband Wayne Nordstrom and boys of St. Albert, who spent a few days in Hardisty.

Mr. and Mrs. Boesman and family from Rainbow Lake planned to spend Easter with Fay's mother, Mrs. Margaret Thibault and Charlie. However Fay landed in Dayland hospital so unfortunately had to spend Easter there. We hope that she will soon be well enough to return home.

The Dave Hoopers and Dennis Schmidt's are spending the Easter holidays at Fairmont Hot Springs.

Grant Sim is in Hardisty again for the summer. The Perry Powells visited their daughter Carol and family at Oyars for Easter.

Lloyd Deibel's funeral was on Easter Monday. A service in Camrose and interment in Amisk occurred.

Hazel Stratie of Camrose who has not been too well for some time was going to spend a while with his daughter Marilyn in Edmonton. Kind greetings are sent to him by his relatives and friends down Hardisty Amisk way.

Mr. and Mrs. Allen Nelson, Aaron, also called Nelson called at Playfair Lodge on Monday and visited with Cliff Nelson, also met again Mrs. Margaret McLeod. Had a chat with Mrs. White, Mrs. Brownson and Mrs. Cookson.

Then on the way home stopped at Orland Markwita's to visit Miss Joann's aunt. Home for Easter at the Joe Johannesson home were Randy and family of Rocky Mountain House, Aaron from Rocky town and Dennis and family from Calgary.

The Mack Mackenzies had Shirley's sister and husband and family of Calgary. Mr. and Mrs. Hank Dykman for Easter.

Then her sister, Mrs. Mary McDonald and family, with Karen Mackenzie have been with Shirley, also from Calgary.

Seen at a distance in the bingo crowd was Mrs. Rogers from Calgary. She always enjoys bingo while visiting her family around Hardisty.

Mr. and Mrs. Bud Carl of Coronation were in Hardisty last Wednesday. After 10 years of commuting back and forth from Coronation to the farm, Bud has sold the farm and is having an auction sale soon. It's been a long time since we've seen him in Hardisty.

Sherry Bechtold stayed over to be with her grandparents the Bob Quasts for the holidays. He returned to Calgary last Friday.

Mrs. Marlene (Cavanagh) Giesler and children of Calgary spent part of the Easter holidays with Marlene's dad, J.C. Cavanagh.

Camrose has had a hockey tournament with quite a few teams involved. On phoning my 12 year old grandson Kevin, he was really excited over his team winning 12-3 over Tisdale. However I think they lost to Sylvia. Lake in another game.

Congratulations to the (Korth) and Ken Carter on the birth of a little daughter.

Congratulations too to Bob and Mary Jane Devore on the arrival of a young daughter. The U.C.W. tea and bake sale was not too well attended April 3.

The weatherman must have realized it was April Fool's Day as the snow was really coming down.

Anyway we tried to help Adella Goldsmith enjoy her birthday. Freda Blackwell travelled her to the tea and Adella, Mrs. Coallan, Joyce Johnson and Isabel Nelson all enjoyed tea together.

Many more happy birthdays Adella.

The Drop-In Centre card party was Saturday night with 5 tables. First prizes were Lillian Sherlock, Bertha Chapman, Lloyd Gravett and A. Parsons, Low Mrs. Rita Hays, C. Terry, Ruth Longman and Mrs. J. Stappard.

We were pleased to see John and Mabel Housher, Rita Hays and J. Stappard from Amisk attended the party, also of course our faithful attendant, Bertha Chapman.

Neal Nelson, his mother, Ginny Pregitzer, Doreen and Meredith, also Leona Kent went to Camrose on Sunday. Neal did not want to stay long as the roads were not good and coming home, were getting slippery near Hardisty.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Kitchen of Camrose and Mrs. Jack Everett (Kitty) of Vancouver visited at the Lukens homes and enjoyed seeing our ice carnival while here.

Mr. and Mrs. David Wood and son Philip and Mrs. Lou Westwood of Birmingham, England have spent the past three weeks at the Lukens homes.

they enjoyed the Rockies via Jasper and Banff, and were amazed at our vast open spaces and straight wide highways.

Mr. and Mrs. Bud Young spent last weekend in Camrose and family of Calgary. Mr. and Mrs. Hank Dykman for Easter.

The meeting held in the Legion Hut last Monday night with Arnold Maleno, M.P. was well attended and very informative.

Adella Goldsmith received this heavy parcel at the post office and wondered what it could be.

On opening it she discovered that it was a book by her son David, an indepth study of St. Bartholomew's hospital in Lytton, B.C. This hospital is the only hospital in Canada owned by the Anglican church and was first built in 1883.

Her son, on asking several people where they preferred to be hospitalized, the majority chose Lytton, one reason being that it was close to home.

This book is a thesis submitted in partial fulfillment of the requirements for the degree of Master of Science, Hask Service planning.

This thesis has been accepted by the University of British Columbia January, 1978 and is by David-Walter Goldsmith, a graduate of the Health Services in Lytton, B.C. A study of the relationship between the hospital and the Rural Community. Prior to the preparing of the thesis David held various positions such as Social Worker, Dept. of Social Services, Sask., Education Consultant, Alcoholism Commission Saskatchewan, Research officer, Dept. of Health, Sask. Hospital Administration analyst, Dept. of Health, Sask. He received his B.A. in 1968 and is working on his Master of Science now.

What your reporter found so interesting was the relationship of the hospital to the community. When we are all coping for something new in the line of a hospital, we feel that there is greater relationship in the smaller communities which should be kept alive.

Whist report

WELL-KNOWN

There were 11 tables playing at Bell-Hill Whist Drive on Friday, March 31 and the prize winners were: First - Mrs. Lawrence Kneeland and Joe Cameron; Sweep - Mrs. Severa Kempen and Edwin Albrecht; Mystery - Mrs. W.A. At the Cris tables Mrs. Mary Cameron was the highest score winner and Mr. Eldon Ferrier received the consolation prize.

Mr. and Mrs. Gerry Miller and family left on Sunday afternoon to return to their home in Calgary after spending a week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Rod MacKinnon. They reported bizarre conditions by the time they arrived in Calgary.

Guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. Morken during the Easter weekend were Mr. and Mrs. Brian Richter (nee Eunice Marken) and son Jason of Calgary. Mrs. Donald Richter of Red Deer and Mr. and Mrs. Les Carlson of Outlook, Sask. Craig Alan, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Ken Jacobson was christened at Bethania Lutheran Church on Easter morning. Sponsors were Mr. and Mrs. Brian Richter of Calgary. Following the service a family dinner was enjoyed in the Church basement.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Bilyk (nee Ann Korth) on the birth of a son at Dayland hospital on April 1. Dennis Eugene weighed 7 lbs. 6 ounces on his arrival. Proud

Sedgewick and District News Items

Mr. Sherman Lane of Calgary spent a few days visiting his parents Mr. and Mrs. C. Lane of Sedgewick and his sister Mrs. Dennis Fisher of Hardisty.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Harris of Camrose had dinner on Saturday at the Lanes and also attended the Davidson anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Fisher and boys of Hardisty spent Easter week with her parents Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Lane.

Mr. and Mrs. Steve McQuire of Edmonton and Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Lane of Sedgewick at Well, March promised us warmly that spring would only be a breath or two away. But, as of this writing, April reminded us sternly that winter hasn't quite been conquered yet. The farmers are bound to be pleased with the moisture. It is good to see Ernie Leah home from hospital and out and about once again.

I hear the Flagstaff Credit Union held a successful open house on Saturday. Congratulations to the manager and staff.

Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Beirsto are enjoying a visit from Eleanor's mother, Mrs. Verson, of Vancouver.

Mr. Ken Affolder and daughter Jennifer and Natasha made a trip to Edmonton during the Easter break for visiting, shopping and sightseeing. Congratulations to Richard and Doreen Conrad on the occasion of their silver wedding anniversary on April 3. A surprise party in their honor was held at the Anglican church following the Sunday evening service.

Young Colin Tanton is convalescing after a short stay in Viking hospital.

A group of noly and excited high school students assembled Monday morning, accompanied by teachers Greg Martin and Volker Meier, to begin their journey by plane to Kincardine, Ontario, where they will be guests of students and their families in Kincardine. It should be an interesting week for them.

Elaine and Monte Keith, Nancy and Bill were Red Deer visitors on the weekend. Elaine remained to assist at the bedside of Monte's mother who is seriously ill.

Margaret and I will try to behave ourselves quietly at home while Greg is away. Margaret seems to be coming down with a cold — her own special way of saying goodbye to winter, I guess.

Spending some time at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H.L. Beirsto during the Easter break were daughter Phyllis (Mrs. D. Westhara) of Abbotsford, B.C. with her daughters and daughter Janet and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Keith Hansen with their son Jamie of Calgary and Mr. and Mrs. Len Korth and daughter Patricia were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Gord Freeman (now Korth) of Calgary over the Easter weekend.

Hardisty's local telephone crew (left) recently received congratulations from Alberta Government Telephone Manager, Mr. Parker upon presentation of his 25 year service award.

Nicknamed by neighbors, the "trouble man", Orv has been the AGT combination man in Hardisty for nearly 20 years now, installing telephones, testing and repairing "troubles" on customer lines and equipment.

Prior to his move to Hardisty in 1955, he was plant inspector for two years in St. Paul and lineman on an Edmonton Construction crew.

Married to Ruth Amelia, Orv has four children, David (34), Debbie (32), Gary (30), and Stephen (16), with the two youngest still at home. Former President of the Hardisty Legion, Orv is a skilled carpenter, although in the summer Orv's fishing takes precedence over his basement workshop.

Awards banquet held

The annual Iron Creek Fish and Game banquet was held Friday, April 7 in Loughheed.

Seated at the head table were Fay and Ed Davidson, vice president; Paul Mark, Secretary Manager of the A.P.G.A.; Tony Ferguson, President of the A.P.G.A. and Lorne Beauchamp, President. Irene and Ray Yelle, Secretary and Henry Lena who acted as Master of Ceremonies for the evening.

Following the banquet, Leo Marquart made trophy presentations.

Brian Johnson of Delburne received a trophy for a trout weighing 2 1/2 lbs. taken at Tay Lake. James McClements of Loughheed received his for a jack fish from Bruce Dam weighing 19 1/2 lbs. and Kirby Whitehead of Sedgewick got a trophy for a 7 lb. jack he caught at Elbel Lake.

To present Education One

A long-awaited codification of the grade schools' purposes their local subcommittees and teachers across the province would have to follow has been presented to the Legislature.

Education Minister Julian Kniskall said that while the proposed "goals of basic education for Alberta" are general, changes for courses and studies are possible after the House raises the statement.

The government code follows lengthy debate in the Legislature, within the Conservative party and elsewhere which Premier Peter Lougheed triggered more than a year ago.

The plan is modelled on recommendations last October by the advisory Curriculum Policies Board, created in 1975 amid widespread skepticism over the schools' performance in restructuring the basic.

Objective of grades one through 12 are split into goals of school that directly affect the curriculum and the classrooms, and broader aims of education that have to be kept in mind.

The school system would be expected to impart competence in reading, writing, speaking, listening, viewing, mathematics, practical and fine arts, science and social studies.

"Learning skills" of finding organizing, and analyzing and using information are sought along with the knowledge and habits which schools can contribute to students' social, physical and mental health.

Training is expected in the responsibilities of citizenship and in skills, habits and attitudes "required to respond to the opportunities and expectations of the world of work," the code says.

On the other hand, "achievement of the broader goals of education" — such as a sense of right and wrong — "must be viewed as a shared responsibility of the community."

Schools are only one agency. "The home, the church, the media, and community organizations are very significant influences" so practical limits to the roles of teachers and classrooms must be recognized.

The broader goals range over assessing curricula, tolerance, respect for law and the family, efficient use of money and leisure, interest in culture and recreation, and acquiring moral values.

"The ultimate aim of education is to develop the abilities of the individual in order that he might fulfill his personal aspirations while making a positive contribution to society."

However, the schools are assigned "primary and distinctive responsibility" for programs which can be "planned, taught and evaluated."

Adoption of the code by a house resolution is expected to clear the decks for decisions by the year on possibly restoring province-wide examinations, tightening the curriculum to reduce options and improving Canadian content.

COME ALIVE . . .

Robert Chappell

LET US BE THANKFUL.

If anyone should give me a dish of sand and tell me there were particles of iron in it, I might look for them with my eyes, and search for them with my clumsy fingers, and be unable to detect them, but let me take a magnet and sweep through it, and how it would draw to itself the most invisible particles by the mere power of attraction. The unthankful heart, like my fingers in the sand, discovers no mercuries, but let the thankful heart sweep through the day and as the magnet finds the iron, so it will find in every hour some heavenly blessing; only the iron in God's hand is gold.

The prayers we have made with our poor requests have not been the measure of God's giving. Our very desire to pray is His gift to us. So when we thank Him today for all His loving care and material blessings, we include countless unasked mercies.

You know it is well that our Pilgrim Fathers installed the day of Thanksgiving. It gives us a special time in which to take stock of our many blessings and to thank God as a nation. Let us make this Thanksgiving Day one of recognition of the many and care of our Maker, not merely a holiday occasion. May the work and business of preparing the Thanksgiving feast be made easier because of our feeling of God's nearness. Unless our preparations for the day are shot through with genuine gratitude, it is not true Thanksgiving.

Hobby club

No formal meeting of the Amalgamated Hobbyists of Flaxfield was held during the month of March. Instead a Mini Art Show took place on Saturday, March 11 at the Birds Nest, Susan Sparrow's Shop located on the main street of Sedgewick. The little show was well attended and the Hobby Club would like to thank all those who contributed to its success.

The next Hobby Club meeting will be held in the Sedgewick United Church hall on Wednesday, April 19 at 7:30 p.m. This will be the annual business meeting of the Amalgamated Hobbyists of Flaxfield please attend.

The guest speaker will be Mr. Bruce Campbell of the Camrose Photography Club. Mr. Campbell has been a guest of the Hobby Club on previous occasions and always provides a fine program. Everyone is welcome to attend.

Captain M.F. Brunson was doubly honoured during ceremonies recently at the Royal Military College of Canada at Kingston, Ontario. Marvin received the Canadian Forces Decoration as well as the Queen's Silver Jubilee Medal for outstanding service in the Canadian Forces from the Commandant of RMC, Brigadier General A.J.D. de Brabant.

Captain Brunson is the son of Mrs. Alvina Brunson of Sedgewick, Alberta and is undertaking post-graduate training at RMC working towards his Bachelor of Arts in Math.

Daysland District News

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Norman Wentob of Strone on March 12, a son, weighing 8 lbs. 3 1/2 oz. The proud grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Doug Kelly of Viking and Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Wentob of Strone, Alberta.

Murray Huseby and Dale Kuntz of Edmonton spent the Easter weekend with Esther and Eddy Slavik of Port St. John. Butch and Leslie Koehli of Daysland have returned from a four day Alberta Wheat Pool tour of Vancouver and Victoria. They had a very nice time.

George Heck, Tom Blake, Fred Rittman and Gerald Vos of Daysland took second in the first event in Camrose men's open bousquet. Mr. Bill Wynnyk is home now after undergoing surgery in the Daysland hospital and is doing fine.

Mr. and Mrs. Mike Cherenchuk of Mundare were visitors last Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Pat Saraga. Gary McDevitt is in Edmonton taking a mechanics course at N.A.I.T.

The April meeting of the Royal Purple Lodge was held Monday night the third with 20 ladies present and HRL Betty Karpovich presiding.

Correspondence was read from Supreme Lodge and a letter of thanks from the Elks Purple Cross. A dinner was granted to Lady Ellen Colman. A slate of officers was presented for the coming year by P.H.R.L. Jean Elvinsen. Lady Eahpeter gave a report of our trip to Camrose with the Gavel. No report was given on the Red Cross Canvass as some of the ladies haven't finished canvassing yet. Several cards and gifts were given to the sick during March, and flowers given for Anniversaries. And many thank you notes were received.

Election of officers will take place at the first meeting in May and it was decided it would be a closed installation. A motion was made to send a donation in the Purple Cross fund. A delicious lunch was served.

Agnes and Sylvester Kuntz spent the weekend in Edmonton with relatives and friends.

The birthday club gathered at the club house to celebrate the birthday of Rose Krostsch. Margaret Sunderman and Lorraine Krostsch. The afternoon was enjoyed by all. The party was hosted by Esther Wolberk and Emma Heuther.

Weekend visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Lasu were Leslie and Lenora Lasu with Donna of Leduc and Michael of Edmonton. Sunday visitors were Roseanne and Herman Pradrich with Jade of Forreburg.

Mrs. Kathy Nelson is a patient in the Daysland hospital.

4-H CLUB Activities

The club had our last meeting and talked about a number of things.

First of all we talked about the highway clean up. All of the members wanted to have clean.

Achievement day is coming up (May 9) so we thought we should decide what we would do.

First we had the nominations for a committee.

Next we voted for a chairman.

Last of all we decided what to do for entertainment.

Our 4-H is almost completed.

Your Holiday Passport will be delivered right to your home in the next week or so. And it's yours to have fun — Stamping Around Alberta.

Just take your holiday passport with you no matter what you want to see or do. There are 14 tourism zones in Alberta. Each has its attractions. Each has its own stamp. And each zone will be placed to help you find the exciting places where you can get your passport stamped.

With stamps from only six zones, you can start on your collection of medallions. One stamp per zone is all you need. Then send your stamped passport to Travel Alberta. We'll send you a bronze "Mini-grade medallion in a presentation

The main idea is to discover just how exciting every part of Alberta can be. You'll be hearing more on radio. To help make it easier, you'll find calendars of events in newspapers beginning in May — what to see and do and where you can get to use your passport. Mail the coupon in your passport for stamp locations and other valuable Stamp Around Alberta information.

This year, for weekends and your vacation, Stamp Around Alberta.

ONE WINTER EVENING

I hurriedly slammed the door on the wild force of the biting wind. The snow was blasted in after me by the blast of the bitter north gale. The blizzard was raging with every bit of strength it could muster.

I stamped my feet to get the circulation going. The blast of warmth after the bitter cold left my muscles tingling. I shook the fluffy white snow off my parka and hung it by the blazing fireplace. I left my coat over by the door to dry. It was a cold, blizzardy, Alberta night. I had just come in from doing chores. I had to shovel two feet of soft fluffy snow across the yard to feed our calves and milk "Buddy" our family milk cow. Buddy wanted to stay in the barn and the five calves were all huddled together and shivering.

The aroma of a freshly baked apple pie tingled in my nose. Always, when I step into this house I've felt a sensation in me that I could never understand. This was home. My three rly poly brothers were like always waiting to ambush me as soon as I stepped through the doorway.

Jim, who was four years of age and Bob, who was five rushed at me from the left and right and tackled me with flying fists. When they managed to knock me down, my youngest brother, Joey, jumped on my chest and clamped his strong teeth on my neck until I cried "Uncle". Then the trio would run and try to hide. As soon as they started running away my three sisters pounced on them. Terrific squealing and howling from the turmoil brought mother to the scene. Her yell went over my head carrying in a down direction.

By the time I washed up for supper I was thinking of my mother's delicious cooking rather than avenging my nose. Supper after the food was vanished before our family of nine. Juicy cattle tongues with a hot, savory sauce was placed before us. Then came baked potatoes, hot rolls, lush green beans and big orange carrots. For dessert was homemade vanilla ice cream. We ate heartily.

After supper my brothers and I played dominos and checkers. My sisters helped Mom do dishes. After all the supper chores were completed we sat around our radio and listened to programs such as "Gang Busters," "Uncle Hal and Jo Jo," but not at least was "Fibber McGee and Mollie." We laughed a lot at Mollie the parrot. Everyone enjoyed the programs.

Dead turned off the radio and we gathered around the great brick fireplace. I threw a log in the fire and watched as sparks leaped into the air and vanished before our eyes. Then we watched the fire dance and twirled like fire flies in the night.

The wind moaning and howling beckoned Joey, Bob and Jim to come along into dreamland. Dad carried them into their beds and silently took out his harmonica and played a soft melody.

My eyelids felt heavy as the harmonica relaxed my senses. I got up and sleepily borrowed into my cozy bed. I soon fell into deep slumber to the soft notes of my father's harmonica and to the moaning wind.

In the second game Viking defeated Dalhousie 14-5. Scoring for Viking were D. Arychuk 2 goals and 2 assists, R. O'Neill 1 goal and R. Graham 1 goal. C. Cookson scored the only goal goal assisted by J. Davis.

In the final game Viking was supposed to meet Foreburg, but Viking refused to play on Foreburg's soft ice. Finally it was agreed to meet at a later date on neutral ice. However, Foreburg ended up travelling the 4-H farm safety photography contest. It is a province wide competition, and is part of the Farm Safety Program that is sponsored by Alberta Agriculture and Forestry. Since farm safety involves avoiding many hazards, entries should reflect this wide range of hazards, and they should place special emphasis on the human side of farm and home accidents. They should also show the factors that contribute to an accident and any actual mishap that may occur.

4-H members may enter single photographs in either color or black and white. Clubs may enter group competitions by entering both color and black and white photograph collections. All photographs will be evaluated at the club level, and the best in each class will be sent to the Farm Safety Program for final judging. Judging will be based on the contributors age and photographic experience.

The idea of the contest is to encourage 4-Hers to illustrate clearly their concerns about farm safety. These concerns will be used to help formulate programs for rural youth.

Above average entries will be used to promote farm safety throughout the province. Those that are outstanding may appear on posters, brochures and

I'd like to share two pieces of information I got from Mary Guise, DHE at Rocky Mountain House. LAWYER REFERRAL SERVICE

The Lawyer Referral Service is a program offered by the Law Society of Alberta. It is designed to aid those people who can afford to pay a lawyer but don't know where to find help.

All interested lawyers are placed on referral lists. When a caller requests, he is given the names of three lawyers in the specific area he is concerned with. Cost of the service for the interview is $10.00. During this time, the person decides whether to continue using that particular lawyer, and also the fee. The lawyer's regular fee will be charged for any service provided after the first half-hour.

You can obtain more information about this service by calling Calgary 1-800-353-1101. RELIABLE NUTRITION REFERENCES With the number and variety of popular nutrition books available, choosing a reliable one can be very confusing. The Toronto Nutrition Group is a volunteer group composed of dietitians, nutritionists and home economists suggests that if a book contains one or more of the following characteristics, it should be considered unreliable:

- * Claims that certain dietary practices will dramatically cure arthritis, rheumatism, heart disease, cancer and a host of other baffling diseases which at present have no known specific remedy.

- * Makes blatant statements without reference to well-documented scientific data and misrepresents already well-known nutrition facts.

- * Advocates a miracle or wonder food or a secret formula.

- * States that organically grown foods are nutritionally superior to those grown by modern agricultural methods.

- * Endorses that the loss of valuable nutrients due to sophisticated processing is a prime reason for our present health problems.

- * Jeerces that the chemicals added to our foods are poisonous.

Contact my office if you'd like a list of reliable nutrition books.

NEW FERTILIZER PLANT

CUSTOM BLENDING

A healthy crop requires nitrogen, phosphorus, potassium and sulphur as well as other elements — in the right amounts and the right proportions. Sometimes these proportions can't be found in stock fertilizers. Our modern bulk plant is equipped to custom blend bulk fertilizers to exact soil test requirements.

Service from the word grow

12 MONTH CUSTOM SOIL SAMPLING

The value of a soil test for increasing crop yields has been proven time and again. Our truck is equipped with a Lion probe, the latest in soil sampling equipment. The probe features an hydraulically driven auger which enables us to take samples in frozen ground.

CUSTOM SOIL DRYING

Soil drying is as important as proper sampling. We use a scientifically designed drying cabinet to quickly and accurately dry your samples. We will interpret your soil test results for you using the latest information on soil fertility and fertilizer use, help you set TARGET YIELDS, and advise you on how to get the most for your fertilizer dollar.

SPREADERS

If you wish to broadcast your own fertilizer requirements but not tie up your money in equipment, we have 4 - 5 ton Wilmac spreaders for 46-0-0 and 1 - 35' Barber for granular Avadex and Trelan available.

We offer all of these Services plus a complete line of Herbicides & Seed Dressing

Hardisty and District News Items

IN MEMORIAM

HANSEN — In memory of Art Hansen, who passed away April 16, 1977.

As I loved him, so I miss him
From Marilyn

WINDOVER — In loving memory of my husband Bruce Windover, who passed away April 14th, 1977.

Angels in God's beautiful garden
Away from all sorrow and pain
Some day when life's journey is ended

We'll be together again
The heavenly gates to open
He called you to His side
To dwell in His beautiful garden

Amid clear blue skies
And to me who will always miss you
Where peace brought me great pain
Will treasure your memory forever

Until I meet you, dear Bruce, again.
Sadly missed and lovingly remembered by wife Beryl

JOHANSEN — In loving memory of our dear mother Kala, who passed away suddenly April 3, 1977.

Your helping hand was always good
To render any aid you could
Your voice was always raised in praise
In words were wise and good

Dear Mother, since you've gone away
The ones you've loved so true
Try hard to carry on the way
We know you'd want us to

Sadly missed by all her family.

BAKKEN — In loving memory of a dear father, Andrew Bakken, who passed away three years ago, April 21, 1975.

Tonight the stars are shining
On a lonely silent grave
Where slumber is dreaming
One we loved, but could not see

In sadness we saw you sinking
We watched you fade away
Our hearts were almost broken
You fought so hard to stay

But when we saw you sleeping
So peaceful, free from pain
We could not wish you back again
To suffer that again

Ever remembered and sadly missed by his wife Betty, daughter Anna and sister Karen

CARDS OF THANKS

I would like to thank Dr. Kahil and staff of the Hardisty hospital for the excellent care I received while a patient there. Also many thanks to those who sent cards, flowers and visited. All was greatly appreciated.

I wish to extend my thanks to my family, relatives, and friends for their cards, and visits, while I was a patient at the University hospital. It was all greatly appreciated.

CARDS OF THANKS

Thank you to Dr. Amin, nurses and staff at the Kilham hospital for the attentive care I received while a patient there.

My Lappage
38-1p

The Hines Creek Midgert Kings wish to thank the people of Sedgewick who bled them during the Midgert 20 Tournament. Special thanks to Jack Alexander of the Plagiat Lodge for his daily support and encouragement. Congratulations to the organizers for a job well done.

Herman Wolke, Manager
Hines Creek Midgert Team

Toni McNabb (Leach) would like to thank all who contributed towards her community silver gift. It is very much appreciated. Thank you. 38-1c

I wish to thank each and every one of you for the fantastic support I received for the Cameron "Winkler" Rodeo Queen Contest. Ticket sales accounted for 50 percent of the judging and without your support, I could never have made it.

Our club, The Happy Riders 4-7 Light Horse Club, is a new one made up of members from both the Sedgewick and Lough-wood. A percentage of my ticket sales will come back to the club and so I give you a special thank you from the Happy Riders as well.

I received a beautifully toiled saddle made by the Stockman's Stall in Kilham. I wish to congratulate them on their excellent craftsmanship.

Thank you everyone.
Angela Doodly

I wish to thank Dr. Amin, Sisters and Staff for the wonderful care I received during my stay in hospital. Thanks also to my many friends and relatives for your flowers, gifts and cards and especially the visits. Your thoughtfulness was greatly appreciated.

South Hardisty District News Items

About 50 people attended the shower held in the Bella Hill school for Karen Kells last Friday evening. The shower was hosted by the Sunshine club. Mrs. Grace Kells gave a reading. Lynn Kells played a piano selection. Pearl Beebe gave a reading and Barbara Hayes presented a soap contest. Many lovely gifts were received by Karen who shyly thanked her many friends. A lovely lunch was served by the ladies ended a very nice evening.

Glad to hear that Mrs. Marion Drager is home from the hospital and feeling better. She accompanied her daughter Freda to Wainwright on business one day last week. Sorry to hear that Mrs. Nettie Johnson and Mr. Joe P. Flannigan are patients in the Hardisty hospital. We wish you both a speedy recovery.

Mr. Kenny Kluger is home from spring work after his winter on the oil rigs. He visited Mrs. Martha Nokesley one day last week.

Mrs. Martha Nokesley accompanied Wayne Heisberg to Hardisty last Friday and had afternoon tea with Mr. and Mrs. Jim Beils.

Sure nice to see Mr. Arthur Witko and Mrs. Marion Elm for a few minutes when they dropped in on their way home from attending the 45th anniversary party on Mr. and Mrs. Robert Birbeck.

A host of neighbors and friends dropped in at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Barnes to wish Mr. and Mrs. Robert Birbeck well and pass along anniversary greetings. Mr. and Mrs. Robert Birbeck celebrated their 45th wedding anniversary last Thursday.

Mrs. Oriana Lear is a patient in the Camrose hospital where she underwent surgery. We wish you a speedy recovery.

Many people are concerned about Mr. Daryl Livingston who has been hospitalized since last August. The family is very happy to report that Daryl is making progress. He is improving slowly but steadily. He is recognizing his visitors, able to hold a glass in his hand and drink by himself. He is in a wheel chair and will be for some time yet. He enjoys watching T.V. and played a game of crib the last time the family visited him.

Mr. and Mrs. John Gibson from Edmonton were visiting her cousin Mr. and Mrs. Gus Johnson last weekend.

Mrs. Daisy Jensen recently visited her daughter Alice Leach and family in Williams Lake.

Her son Nels and family at Medley and then was down home by her son Nels last Wednesday morning. Her daughter Helen Sakalak met them at the Hardisty airport.

Very glad to hear that Mrs. Marguerite Drever is home again after her lengthy stay in the University and Glenora hospitals. Hope you will soon get rid of your crutches.

Mr. Roger Oliver is home from spring work after spending the winter on the oil rigs.

Mrs. Daisy Chomyshen visited Mr. and Mrs. Danny Lawson last Friday and then accompanied them to Karen's shower in the evening.

Mrs. Eleanor Lawson is giving Mr. and Mrs. Ernie Renshaw a helping hand with renovations at the cafe.

CAMBRIDGE COMMUNITY ASSOCIATION

On Tuesday afternoon of March 28, nine ladies gathered at the home of Elaine Cookson in Sedgewick. One young visiting granddaughter of Irene Potter, was also present.

The usual preliminaries were dealt with, then we got down to the business section. We again discussed Lane's sale. There has as yet been no date set, but the club will provide sandwiches, cake, coffee and koolaid in those who wish to purchase it.

Blocks for the quilt were distributed to those present. Ida brought a sample block on which she had embroidered her name, birth month and flower of that month. Each member will make one like this and will bring it to the next meeting, if possible. Dorothy kindly donated more sugar bags for blocks.

Irene asked the club if we would serve at the Open House for Jack Potter and Ruth Borge which will be held at 7:00 p.m. on May 6 at the Elks Hall, Killam. It was decided we would do this.

This month $5.00 will be donated to the Polo fund. We also decided to send "Thinking of You" cards to some shut-ins, since we didn't send Easter cards this year.

Following our business, each displayed a decorated Easter egg which we brought for the roll call. These were very colorful and interesting. Next month's roll call will be a poem for spring. This meeting will be held at the home of Violet Wylie, with Vesta Cookson as co-hostess.

Violet donated to the Birth Day Box this month. Ida was the winner of the raffle. Hostess prizes went to Rita and Irene, high, and Dorothy and Valda, low, for a contest in which we had to do some thinking about towns in Alberta. It's surprising how, when one wants them, you can't even think of the names of some! Dorothy adjourned the meeting, we repeated the Lord's prayer and Elaine and Ida served a delicious lunch.

Last year's heavy crop losses demonstrate the worth of crop insurance. The 20,000 farmers insured under the All-Risk Crop Insurance Plan filed about 9,000 claims for full or partial crop failure. They shared nearly 39 million dollars in cash benefits.

For uninsured farmers, there was no such compensation. If you want to protect against the kind of losses which could re-occur this year, call the District Office of Alberta Hail & Crop Insurance Corporation now before the April 30 deadline.

"This is the history of the people who had the courage, ambition and hope to build a country that undoubtedly exceeded their fondest dreams", is written by Mrs. Ben Weber of Sedgewick in her introduction of the Memories of Fairgrove District book she helped compile.

Pictured above are members of the committee who spearheaded the publishing of the book, from left to right: Mrs. Eldon Ferrier, Mrs. and Mr. Ben Weber, Mrs. Harriet Wilson and Mrs. Betty Gallely. Other members of the committee not shown are Mr. George Jackson and Mr. Eldon Ferrier.

This book dedicated to all the early settlers of the Fairgrove district, was started on in 1967, our centennial year, by Mrs. Weber, one of the original homesteaders of the area.

The cover of this unique book is an original drawing by Mr. Weber.

Premiers to review B.N.A. act

The Western premiers fired an opening shot for negotiations over patriating and reforming the British North America Act expected to begin this summer at their 1978 annual conference in Yorkton, Saskatchewan.

Provincial governments must unanimously approve any new Canadian constitution, declared Bill Bennett of B.C., Peter Lougheed of Alberta, Saskatchewan's Allan Blakeney and Manitoba's Sterling Lyon.

All 10 premiers, including Quebec separatist leader René Lévesque, are to review the constitution at another annual meeting this August, also in Saskatchewan.

Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau has already called a federal-provincial meeting on the constitution for September. Provincial officials were expecting proposals for revisions from him momentarily.

In a communique, the Westerners said "the federal government must seek and obtain the unanimous consent of all the provinces on proposed constitutional amendments affecting the powers of provincial legislatures."

They stated the doctrine in warning Trudeau against trying to use the proposed federal Canada Referendum Act to bypass the provinces in changing the B.N.A. Act.

They reported that even though the bill, introduced in Parliament recently, is avowedly a weapon against Quebec separatism, it permits polls on questions arising out of any proposed constitutional change.

The doctrine covers provincial powers over property, civil rights, local matters and education, as well as ownership of natural resources and the royalties generated by exploiting them.

But Blakeney also said the principle applies to introduction of any formula for future amendments to the constitution, the key to federal-provincial agreement on patriation from England and changes planned to counter separatism.

The Saskatchewan premier, conference chairman, indicated that the Western leaders did not agree on future amending methods, or try to work out how they could before the sessions later this year.

Lougheed's position, adopted in 1976 negotiations and ratified by the Legislature, remains that the B.N.A. Act amending method must require provinces' consent to changes affecting their jurisdiction or property.

Ottawa and a majority of the provinces back a 1971 "Victor's charter." It proposed an amending formula allowing changes by votes assigned according to provinces' shares of Canada's population.

Despite the lack of agreement on any future amending formula, the Yorkton statement was a major advance for Lougheed over divided positions among the provinces during the 1976 talks in Edmonton, Banff and Toronto.

Flagstaff 4-Hers plan Quebec exchange trip in July

This summer 34 4-Hers and 2 escorts from Flagstaff District will be going to Granby, Quebec.

At the Flagstaff District council meeting on April 11 at Sedgewick some of the details were discussed. Carol Arstman had talked to Mr. Gilles Poirier from Comité Hospitalité - Canada. He is organizing the group from Quebec. The Quebec group will arrive here on June 24. The Flagstaff group will return to Quebec with them on July 14. Arnold and Arlene Gamroth will be going with the Flagstaff group as escorts.

Two men from the Dept. of Highways were at the meeting and mileage was given out for the Highway clean-up which will take place on Saturday, May 6. It was also decided that Happy Face Camp at Hardisty Lake will be held again this year from July 31, to August 3. Francis Davidson

Central High students relate Ontario experiences

Ontario was nice but we wouldn't want to live there, were sentiments of four of 40 Central High grade 10 students who recently spent sometime in Kincardine, Ontario on an exchange programme.

These four students plus many of the other 40 students who travelled to Ontario found outlandish to be too compact and they preferred the more open spaces that Alberta has to offer.

While in Kincardine, the Central High students saw a nuclear power plant and a sugar maple factory which turned out to be a fairly simple process using a wood stove said Kim Rempel of Hardisty who was surprised.

The students also viewed some about northwest Ontario and toured southern Ontario on a last leg of their trip where they saw the Niagara Escarpment on the outskirts of Hamilton.

One of the hardest things to get used to in Ontario was the sales tax and all were glad that they didn't visit in Alberta.

The Central High students didn't find the people of Ontario very different from Albertans but found that the Ontarians expected them to be a lot different.

For instance, the Ontarians were surprised to hear that the Albertans had no noticeable accents, said Debbie Ley and Rita Spiller both of Killam.

One girl from Central High was asked by her host family if Alberta was just starting to use electricity as a form of power.

Many of the Ontarians they met thought of Alberta strictly as an oil producing province with very little agricultural activity, according to Kim Rempel.

Ontario farmers keep their cattle in barns a lot of the time not in the pasture like in Alberta noted Margaret Davidson from Killam.

Some people from Ontario were a little confused on Albertan geography as well, thinking that the mountains stretched clear across the border from Saskatchewan to B.C.

By the time the Central High students left Ontario, they felt the people had a better idea of what Alberta was all about and they thought Ontario.

Shown are the exchange students and escorts.

THE FARMER'S MONEY

Many farmers have planned their money in the Western Grain Stabilization Act and are now realizing a crop failure. Two Government Ministers have indicated that they will now be making a payout to western farmers of $60 million. The fact that the payment is coming is welcome news. However, one must certainly ponder why the interim payment was limited to $60 million.

To this date, the western farmers have already contributed $52 million to the Western Grain Stabilization Act and when interest is added it becomes obvious that what the farmers are receiving is simply the return of their own investment. However, they are receiving dollars back that have less value today than they did when they were originally invested and also at a time when input costs are considerably higher.

In essence, what the farmers are receiving in return is no more than they have originally contributed in spite of the fact that the amount due them has been estimated at between $100 and $140 million.

Moreover, one must question "why is the payment being made in two phases?" Is it because the government does not presently have the money, and is waiting for western producers to contribute for the balance of the crop year in order to make the final payment in the fall when the new crop year has commenced. When that question was put to Agriculture Minister Eugene Whelan he refused to answer it. Also, one must ask why the payments are being made in two separate intervals, one in the spring and one promised later next fall, when in truth all of the information to calculate the full payment under the Act is now available. Moreover, operating costs for farmers is very high in the spring of the year and if there is to be a payout then the Western Grain Stabilization Act should assist the farming community by ensuring that farmers have a working capital in accord with the principles of the Act.

Worse can be expected. We are now 35 million bushels behind in our grain exports, mainly because of our problems at the west coast. Farmers know that the selling price for top-grade grain is $4.50 per bushel plus, but still the government says there will be no further payment on the initial price of $2.75 a bushel received by farmers. It means that farmers were sold out at below the cost of production for the full calendar year of 1977.

At a season when close to $1 billion dollars will have to be spent to plant the prairie grain crop which requires seed, fuel, chemicals, equipment and wages, the cash is required now. Consequently, I believe the initial payment should have been at a minimum of $40 million dollars more. This would still have been a safe level because the total stabilization payment is expected to be between $100 and $400 million dollars. The $60 million payment announced by the Minister of Agriculture and the Minister of Transport is a return of the premiums already paid by the farmers. As such it smacks too much of political engineering. That is a crass way of keeping in touch.

PGC in A POKER?

The increase in cattle and hog prices has resulted in farmers paying high prices for feed and breeding stock. Never has, no one would pay a high price for a pig in a poke or would one?

The old "Pig in a poke" may not always be a pig. It could be the seed in a bag, that you plan on planting this spring. Now that I've got you confused let me explain.

Recently our Agricultural Fieldman, Brian Lee, showed me a copy of the "Seed Testing Certificate" issued by Plant Products Division. This copy resulted from a sample taken out of a bag of seed being made available to farmers in our county for this spring's planting.

I must point out here it was not pedigree seed, that is it was not certified or better. Just a sample taken in a bag, sold as seed. The results were disturbing. The 25 gram test (which is a sample of Argentine parentage) had 1,624 Polish parentage seeds in it. This sample further contained 88 other crops and weed seeds and 20 wild mustard seeds for good measure.

According to the standard of the Canada Seed Act it would be rejected.

Nevertheless, this product called seed was being supplied to farmers. Not only was it contaminated by wild mustard, but over 80 other weed seeds were present to infect fields. The fact that the parentage was not pure also poses all sorts of problems.

We may ask, what is the lesson we can learn from this? One very basic one! Be sure you know what you are buying when you buy seed. Foreign products are sold and called seed when in fact they are not seed at all. In order for grains and oilseeds to be called seed, they must meet a standard.

The standard established is spelled out in the Canada Seed Act. Herein are minimum requirements for seed, weeds, other crops, germination and variety purity. Seeds from seeders to certify have a guaranteed variety purity, and those along with commercial No. 1 and 2 have minimum grade purity guarantees. These although will be excessive in many people's minds provide at least some protection.

If you have, or are purchasing seed this spring, make sure of what you are getting, re-your grade on it. Take nothing less than No. 2 in fact No. 1 should be your minimum choice. Further to have peace of mind that you need meets a variety purity standard take nothing less than certified for a "pig in a poke" or would one?

Finally, if the above seed would have been advertised in the usual manner it likely they appeared like this:

FOR SALE - quantity of Argentine Rapeseed for seed, 8700 from certified Tractor, germination 80+, yielded 36 bush per acre, $25/ hundred, contact Sound farmers may be a pig in a poke here, BEWARE of the Canada Seed Act is there to protect you - use it!

Central high

Central High is back to normal this week after hosting thirty-nine students and their chaperones, Mr. and Mrs. John Gates from Kinardine, Ontario last week. April 19, 1978. These young people, who hosted our students in their homes during the week of April 38 stayed with hosts from our School and were housed to our local lights. The Kinardine students visited the Hutterite colony, Simon's Implement, Bergert's farm, Jim Clark's farm, Home Oil, Interprovincial Pipe Line, Big Grade Feeders, Power Barter River Station and the Alberta Game Farm. It is our hope that they enjoyed their stay, learned first hand about western hospitality and returned home with an increased awareness of the western part of our nation.

Each day, as the weather improved, an increasing number of students took school. This continues to be a concern to the School. Fifteen to twenty student vehicles are parked in front of the school each day. To attempt to reduce cruising during the noon hour and an authorized leaving of the school grounds, April 20, Sue was to be turned in at the office. Although this has undoubtedly helped to reduce the movement of vehicles in and out of the school, because key collection is not supported by students and judging by some telephone calls from the school, they will, however, continue to ask for keys.

Of greater than students driving to school are the number of students who catch rides back and forth to school. If all of the students who rode to school were on one bus, the school could reduce one bus route. Do you know how your children get to school? Do you expect them to be on the bus? Is this whole matter of any concern to anyone or are we wasting our time with their leaders.

Flagstaff Lodge News Items

Rose and Mavis Danielson took Mrs. Danielson up to St. Paul where they are going to visit Val and Eugene Ferguson. The Hardy Auxiliary Ladies were at the Lodge on Tuesday, April 11 to entertain. We had a lovely sing song and sang all the old times that brought back memories of their good old school days long ago.

The Lodge guests had their Strawberry Tea and White Elephant Sale on April 14. Harry Anderson and one of the Jones boys to help him. They alone were very good, we had a nice crowd and Harry sang a couple of songs for us. We drew for the Afghan and Gertie Leirahl was the lucky winner and Mrs. Fink of Forestburg won the doll.

Mrs. Hilda Christen of Sedgewick and her daughter Darlene Jans of New Norway and her family were in to visit Tillie Knutson.

Elmer J. McFadden of Prince George, B.C. and his daughter of Rimby, Alberta were down to visit Beatrice McFadden and her son Everett McFadden of Edmonton went to get her from Alliance.

We were talking about the weather it was so gloomy and Tony Swack said the weather boys was on holiday and the kids were playing with the weather and upset the whole apartment.

Norm Angus of Devonshire Southfield, Michigan, U.S.A. and Lorraine Beirato of Sedgewick were in visiting Mr. and Mrs. Peter Lindhult.

Marie Martin and Clifford Cookson and family of Lougheed were in to visit Mr. and Mrs. W. Cookson.

Barb Bratland of Lougheed was a recent visitor with Flo Barton.

Charlene and Brandi Glenn Heffel of Alliance were in to visit Carrie Costall.

Carl and Julie Beirato of Swan Hill and Reg and Connie Grant were visiting Joe Grant.

MEALS AWAY FROM HOME

If we consider a balanced meal to be one that includes food from all four Food Groups, we know that many "fast food" and restaurant menus cover only the Meat Group and the Bread-Cereal Group. Forgetting or ignoring the other two Food Groups - Milk and Fruits and Vegetables, may deprive us of some essential calcium, Vitamin A, C and D.

Here are some tips to improve your away-from-home meals.

- * order a hamburger with cheese, extra lettuce and tomato.
- * order milk instead of a soft drink or coffee which have no nutrients. Milkshakes are okay for active people who can afford the extra calories.
- * order extra vegetables and cheese on a pizza. Or supplement with a tossed salad and milk or yogurt.

- * substitute baked or mashed potatoes for French fries.
- * ask for a tossed salad in place of limp vegetables that you know have been overcooked or sitting for hours on steam tables.
- * substitute whole-grain bread or rolls for white ones.
- * order a bran muffin instead of a nutrient-poor donut.
- * bring a fresh apple from home and skip the pie or turnovers.
- * don't overeat with too many courses. Save money and calories with a meal of an appetizer, soup, salad and cheese tray.

With a little thought and some persistence, you can enjoy balanced meals in restaurants as well as at home.

4-H CLUB ACTIVITIES

MERNA 4-H LIGHT HORSE
Highway Cleanup, films and a trail ride were a few of the topics discussed at the meeting of the Merna 4-H Light Horse Club on the 10 of April.

The meeting started off by Wm Whitbeck leading the plaid. Teresa Leslie read the minutes. They were adopted as read. Members decided to have films on certain nights of the month. The first film will be on the 28 of April, starting at 7:00. Club leaders are inviting two clubs, Killam and Forestburg.

Highway clean-up was discussed but nothing was decided. Club members want to have a club trail ride in late spring or early summer. No certain place was chosen to ride.

Killam section citizens' report

April 13 meeting was called to order by President Emma George with 25 members and several visitors present. Two minutes silence was observed in memory of Mabel O'Brien who passed away recently.

After minutes of March meeting were read and adopted, Treasurer Lackey gave a financial report and presented bills which were voted to be paid.

The proceeds of Killam's share of the salvage papers was $31.00, a very worthwhile effort. Another share is being filled which is stationed north west of the Post Office. Reported the Spring potluck supper was a big success, the first attempt in new lounge with 55 enjoying the delicious food, followed with games of cards, pool and shuffleboard. Three members attended opening of Castors Drop-in Centre in March which is beautiful and fully equipped was reported 16 members assisted in disaster program.

On request the Senior Citizens decided to cook the pancakes for the Killam Redwood supper. Committee appointed for arrangements.

Visits to sick and shut-ins were reported and Happy Birthday was sung especially for Chris. On the April 27 card party 500 will be played at 2:00 p.m. Next meeting will be held May 11 at 2:00 p.m. President encouraged members to get discing every Wednesday afternoon at 2:00 p.m.

IN MEMORIAM

MECKLER - In loving memory of our beloved wife and mother Emma, who passed away on April 19, 1972. Beautiful memories woven in gold.

Edwin Joe and Hazel Cockbain. 34-1p

Those are the memories you left us to hold: You were a Mother with a heart of gold.

You meant more to us than wealth could.

You were a Mother so very rare. When needed, you were always there.

Never selfish, always thoughtful and kind. Treasured memories you left behind.

You shared our life, our joys, our sorrows and tears. Thank you for the wonderful years.

Ever remembered and sadly missed by her family. 34-1c

Loughheed and District News Items

Mr. and Mrs. Hunter White were Sunday visitors at the Ed Swainson's, also accompanied them to the Merna church service and enjoyed coffee and lunch with friends there.

On the way home they called at the Marvin Bombough home to pick up Grace and had a nice visit also more coffee and cake before leaving.

Mr. and Mrs. Alex Cairns from Creston, B.C. were visiting in his sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Ernie Wyke. Then they were going to Irma to attend the 50th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Jackson.

Harold Hagen and his mother have returned home after spending six weeks of visiting in Norway. They had a wonderful time. I'm sure visiting their relatives and driving around seeing the beautiful scenery again.

Ted and Teddy Darg and Albert Deering of Wetaskiwin called in to visit Edna Darg a day last week.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Ricky Berghoff on the birth of a son on April 8. We must congratulate the new grandparents Mr. and Mrs. Norberg.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Roth (see Iona Johnson) who were married recently in Red Deer were dinner guests with her parents Mr. and Mrs. Hunter White, also helping them celebrate their 49th wedding anniversary on April 10.

There were quite a lot of people on sick lists: Verona Cookson, Tom Kenny are in the hospital, Mr. Albert White in Hardisty hospital.

Whether you are in hospital or home sick, we wish you all a speedy recovery.

By the time the Community Press is out Gary Smith and Karen Kells will be married. Congratulations to you both.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Swainson treated her parents to a Chinese supper at the Soto dining lounge on Monday night, April 10. The occasion being Hunter and Helen's 49th wedding anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Wright of Toronto were visiting Warren Waites a couple of days last week, before going on to Consort to visit Mrs. Wright's brothers and family.

When I see the snow on the ground again, it makes me think of the new I heard last week. There are plans in the making of a ski hill east of Loughheed next winter.

Mr. and Mrs. Alex Belfus of Killam called on Edna Darg one afternoon last week.

The Loughheed Women's Institute held their April meeting at the Social rooms of the United Church with eleven members and six visitors present.

Mrs. H. J. Johnson had the report that new books had been purchased for the library, also that the Cax history book had been ordered.

The Women's Institute Convention in Oda from May 29 to June 1 was discussed. Also the conference to be held in Health Centre hall May 10.

After the meeting we had our Silent Sister Supper. Our president Mrs. J. Johnson had the table cloth and serviettes boasting spring flowers, a centre piece of roses and a beautiful centerpiece that she had made beside each plate as a gift from her. In spite of the wild storm day it really looked as though spring had arrived. Of course there was ample food to which we all did justice. The next meeting to be held May 8.

Starting Thursday, May 4 the Library will only be open one day each week that being Thursday from 2:30 to 5:00 p.m.

We like to live nicely with nature.

Calgary Power is concerned about your energy and your environment.

We all need electrical energy — but we also need clean air and water to meet Alberta's high environmental standards. Calgary Power has invested over seventy-five million dollars in the past few years on electrostatic precipitators, cooling ponds and other safeguards. It's a worthwhile investment — so that you can have the energy you need and still live nicely with nature!

Hardisty and District News Items

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Yushik have just returned from a trip to Cuba. They found many Canadians there too, enjoying Cuban hospitality as tourism is one of their important resources.

We are glad that Mrs. Nettie Johnston has returned home from a stay in the hospital. She had most of the family home at Easter and went back to Lloydminster with her daughter Doris Bliz. However on returning home she soon entered hospital but is feeling much better now.

The Legion ladies, Dorothy Krouner, Dolly Hearn, Ruby Bronson, Marianne Thomson and Isabel Nelson went as a guest to the Playfair Lodge on Tuesday.

Albino is cold and windy it was a very enjoyable afternoon. To begin with a sing song was held with Dorothy at the piano.

Then a lovely lunch was served with homemade cookies and cakes enjoyed by the guests. The rest of the time was spent in visiting and getting acquainted. All seeming to enjoy the mixing of Legion members and guests of the Lodge. Gladys Seltsman had to check with her Edmonton doctor on Tuesday too, and we are glad to hear that the doctor was very pleased with her improvement.

Mary and Reiny Griebel of Castor enjoyed the come and go party at Bill Barnes last Thursday, to honor Mr. and Mrs. Bob Birbeck on their 45 wedding anniversary. Mary met many of her old friends and then came to Hardisty to see Nettie Johnston in hospital and Ernie and Lois Benshaw.

Mrs. Freda Blackwell, Mrs. Bob Quast and Isabel Nelson attended the auction and strawberry tea at Playfair Lodge last Friday. A good crowd attended and many things were auctioned off by Mr. Harry Anderson and his helper. Mr. Anderson accompanied by his wife Fredella on the piano sang "April Showers" and the older folk "Wagon Wheels" enjoyed very much by all.

Then it was time to draw for the lovely Afghan and Mrs. Gerie Lardahl was the lucky winner, the doll being second draw went to a lady in Forestburg.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Cullum (Vicki Devere) a baby girl.

Visitors to Hardisty were Mr. and Mrs. Don Kirk of Lethbridge. They were reviewing acquaintances with Herb Brickers in Wetaskiwin and Ken Dreviers in Camrose, all former friends when we knew Don as Constable Kirk.

Gladys Goodrich was pleasantly surprised when company called on her recently and they were Virginia Johnson's twin sisters Anna from Smithers, B.C. and Margaret from Marquette Island, Ontario. Gladys had gone to school with these ladies so they had a great visit.

HARDISTY GOLF BINGO

The Hardisty G.O.R.P. bingo held on April 7 was a big success with special thanks to Elsie, ticket sellers, proxy players and all who bought tickets.

Winners were: 1. Gladys Abbott, 2. Vera Hendricks, 3. Carol Granger, 4. Gladys Abbott, 5. Carol Granger and Dorothy Anderson Killam, 6. Phyllis Manning, 7. Vera Hendricks, 8. Gwen Baumgartner, 9. Joseph Ciberi, Mrs. Mikkelson, Josephine McClements and John Orr.

Door prize won by Dawn Smoke.

HARDISTY HOSPITAL AUXILIARY

The Hardisty Hospital Auxiliary members met at Sunday evening lounge on April 12 for a lively supper of Chinese food and later went to the hospital for their regular meeting and their annual meeting.

Around 20 members answered the roll call. New business discussed was to increase the price of pop from the pop machine as it has increased in price since the machine was here.

Brenda Lukens had made some ornaments for the cupboard which were priced. The new slate of officers elected were president Hilary Gray, Vice-pres. Erna Matthews, Treasurer Jeanette Cronin, Sec. Bev Hahn, Treasurer Marion Elm, Press Isabel Nelson, Phyllis Manning in charge of the cupboard with saleable articles in it.

A vote of thanks was given to Doris Yushik, our retiring president and the others retiring at this time.

We were glad to have Rosemary Hopson's mother as guest and the next meeting will be the second Wednesday in May.

HARDISTY AUXILIARY
Legion and Auxiliary members and guests enjoyed a social evening at the first in Hardisty on Saturday evening. Cards were played, with winners being: 1st Marquette Timbolen, Orma Thorp, Don Campbell, Norma Thorp, Consolation Signa Provost.

Don McPayden, Bev Sehnas and Russell Benaville. Following this a couple of short skits caused a great hilarity. A delicious lunch was served by the members of the Auxiliary completed a very pleasant evening.

On Tuesday members of the Legion Auxiliary visited Playfair Lodge in the afternoon. A sing song was much enjoyed and lunch was served. The Legion Ladies promised to return at a later date with one of their programs.

The first regular meeting of the newly formed garden club was held at the Drop-in Centre on Tuesday afternoon. Vera Hendricks, Erna Matthews and Mary Goodrich reported on the horticulture talks given at the Uniform session in Wainwright with emphasis on greenhouse building and handling. It was decided that an exchange of plants would be held at the next meeting, May 9. Each member is to bring a friend. The club membership is open to anyone interested, garden trips will be planned later and possibly a flower show in August. Anyone preferring an evening meeting is asked to let members know, if interest warrants it some evening meetings will be planned.

HARDISTY ST. MARK'S WOMEN'S GUILD

St. Mark's Women's Guild knits then proved a real financial success again. Held in the Parish Hall on April 8, there were seven knitters taking part. The winner knitting most rows was Mrs. Adrienne Ciba with Mrs. Betty Blitzer coming second. The Guild is most appreciative of the support given by both knitters and sponsors. Thank you all.

A number of Legion and Auxiliary members attended the Legion and party at Hughenden on Friday evening. No prizes, but a most enjoyable evening.

Honour Corby cup curlers

The evening of April 14 found a packed hall, and requests for more admissions, when the Strome community and members of neighboring Elks Lodges gathered to honor the Pat Miller rink for representing Alberta so ably at the Dominion Curling Club playdowns held at Estevan, Saskatchewan. The Miller rink had advanced to the final of the Dominion competition by winning District 8 in Round Hill, the North Central Zone in Wainwright, and Alberta in Fairview.

After an early evening banquet, the team was led on to the stage by pipers Eric Beddoes and Ed Blake where skip Pat Miller, third on Hayes, second Dennis Loeber and lead Ron Borgel were introduced. In their replies, all four curlers were grateful to Corbys for making it all possible and thanked Estevan Lodge for the hospitality shown as well as the competent handling of a Dominion playdown.

Following a warm welcome to everyone given by councillor Jim Mohler, the Alberta Corby curling coordinator, Ed Koubek, presented the team with the Alberta Cup. The cup will remain with the Strome lodge for the remainder of the year, after which it was up for grabs again in next year's provincial curl-off.

Each curler in every game had been scored in Estevan, and the curler with the highest score was selected to make up the Dominion All-Star Team. The first Exalted Ruler of Strome Lodge 449, Mr. C.P. Hayes, had the pleasant duty of presenting the trophy for Dominion All-Star third to his son Don.

Gordon Hilker, who has had Dominion experience in Legion Curling was loudly applauded when he noted that small towns are capable of representing Alberta at Dominion level, but it is only when a team is from a metropolitan area that the news media gives any coverage.

Mr. Ernie Cameron of Calgary brought congratulations to the team on behalf of Corby Distilleries. Since he resides in Alberta himself, Mr. Cameron was both pleased and proud to have such capable ambassadors representing the province.

The same sentiment was expressed by Alberta Elks lodge member to Corby, Mr. Bob Empey. In past years Mr. Empey skipped an Alberta rink that won the Corby cup.

District Deputy Don Sweney, Elks Klinton from Provincial Elks and Charlie Quail representing Grand Lodge, presented the team with a cheque of a substantial amount.

To help in defraying expenses, Mr. Herb Robinson, on behalf of Daysland Elks Lodge, presented the team with a cheque of a substantial amount.

After "thank you" tributes were paid in Ken Pilon for setting up the banquet, Eric Weischofer for organizing the refreshments, and Kurtis and Bonnie Hill for work done on a T.L.P. ledger sent to the team in Estevan, the evening was rounded off with a social and dancing to Storkbakken's orchestra.

Ken now TOPS king

Did you know that we have a King in our midst? On Saturday, April 22 Ken Pilon of Sedgewick was crowned "Provincial King of the Alberta Tops Club".

He is a member of Top No. AR2294, Sedgewick, and will reign until P.R.D. (provincial recognition days) at Edmonton on May 10 and 11, 1979.

Our local chapter leader Joy Berngeth, co-leader Mary Ann Lewis, secretary Gail Robinson and members, Thelma Tashon, Gudrun Barker and Brenda Lee Storkbakken were at Grande Prairie to support our king. We were accompanied by Mary Bombach, who is our "most helpful" and "most appreciated" non-member.

Locals present play

Sweet old ladies aren't always what they appear to be as demonstrated in the light hearted mystery, Arsenic and Old Lace, a play being presented by the Flagstaff Community Theatre April 28 and 29 at Central High.

Set in Brooklyn during the 1940's, the two delightful ladies portrayed in this play dispose of poor, homeless old gentlemen and even give them burials in accordance with their particular religions. How and where they dispose of these bodies is as intriguing as the motivation of their seemingly humanitarian gestures.

Other characters in the play include the ladies' three nephews. Teddy, who thinks he is none other than Teddy Roosevelt and at first glance there is a definite resemblance. Mortimer, who fancies himself to be quite suave and debonair but becomes amusingly flustered at the tirades of his aunt, Elsie, the young woman in love with Mortimer. The third nephew, Jonathan, is totally devious and sinister in his role, not the type of fellow you'd want to meet in the dark.

The combination of all these characters who find themselves in a Victorian house scattered with bodies throughout, makes this an extremely amusing situation that is certain to give way to more than just a few chuckles.

The play, written by Joseph Kesselring, is the second production being attempted by the Flagstaff Community Theatre under the direction of Ken Atkinson. Jonathan, is totally devious and sinister in his role, not the type of fellow you'd want to meet in the dark.

Artistic talent is flourishing in the Battle River Art Club as is evident by the pieces on display at the art show given by the club on Tuesday at the Elks Hall in Killam.

Among the art on exhibit were oil paintings, water color, pen and ink drawings, pencil drawings, pottery and ceramic projects.

Art groups from neighboring areas such as Rosedale and Daysland also contributed to the show.

The Battle River Art Club has been in existence for about 20 years and has 15 current members said Dorothy Damstra, president of the club.

In the past year, the artists have been active with visits to Edmonton galleries, a previous art show in Sedgewick and a workshop in Daysland with two visiting Alberta artists.

TRY TO HOLD ON

"I do not think that I can hold on much longer." Such are the words of someone who is feeling that he or she is falling apart. Often we hear the expression "I went to pieces." And this implies that someone broke down and was no longer able to cope with the circumstances of their life. Pressures of many kinds are being experienced by many people in all walks of life and many are reaching that point of breaking beyond which they cannot safely pass.

It is for the benefit of such people that I write these few words, because I know something of the mental pain which so many are enduring. Perhaps the I would like to share that most of us become more familiar with our problems than we are with Him who is the solution to all of them. In the Book of Job are verses which speak of the circumstances of their life. Pressures of many kinds are being experienced by many people in all walks of life and many are reaching that point of breaking beyond which they cannot safely pass.

Yet supposing that we could know for certain that surrounding us constantly there is a love so beautiful that it surpasses all our understanding. Suppose that we could know as a reality that available to us there is a power of such immensity that it can endure and overcome all things. Supposing we could know for a certainty that everything is going to work out, and something good will emerge from the debris of our problems. Supposing that we could know for sure that incredible help is available to us and that the darkness will pass, and that it will be light again. Suppose that such things could be known for sure, then would it not be possible for us to "hold on for a little longer?"

All the things I have mentioned can be known for sure, once you become acquainted with Him who is the Solution to All Problems. You if for a moment we could lift our eyes above our present darkness and distress we would be able to see with sons

The Killam Boy Scouts and Cubs held a father-son supper on April 14 in the United Church basement and was attended by thirty-two dads and sons and their fathers. The function was also attended by invited guests including the District Vice President. All the boys were sold to auction for eight hours and we would like to thank Ed Knechtel for an entertaining auction. Also a special thank you to the mothers for the preparation of food and clean up. Funds collected from the auction will finance a field trip to Edmonton to visit the museum and archives, the parliament and parliament buildings.

KEEPING IN TOUCH

THANK YOU! IT WORKED!

Early in 1978 I wrote in this column about obvious abuses in the allocation of Canada Council grants. In that column I pointed out that a significant number of taxpayer's dollars were being used to support the printing and publishing of a newspaper literature.

Your response was overwhelming. Letters poured in by the thousands. Churches and other citizens' groups organized petitions to the Secretary of State pleading for reasonable guidelines for the awarding of Canada Council grants.

I am sure that many of you pondered as you sat at your kitchen table drafting a letter to either myself or John Roberts, Secretary of State, when deriving whether or not you were participating in an act of self-interest. You may have questioned, "will this letter do any good?" "Will this letter just become off of the deaf ears of the government?"

If those were your thoughts let me assure you that you had good reason for concern. After the early stages of the campaign for more sensible guidelines for the awarding of Canada Council grants, the chairman of the Council appeared before a Standing Committee of Parliament. He was arrogant and aloof. He refused to be open with many questioning members of Parliament. He told them that the guidelines for awarding Canada Council grants was an internal document and that of no outside Canada were including members of Parliament or government ministers would be allowed to see them. He had a total disregard for the stated opinions of many many citizens and was divorced from the representation of members of Parliament. However, your letters continued to pour in. One newspaper ran my column as a front page banner head line story. As a result it was picked up and reprinted by many other week ly newspapers across the prairies. The exposure of that column became the subject of conversation on numerous radio talk back shows in western Canada.

More letters continued to pour in, but by now they were not just from the citizens of British River or the northern area of present Crowfoot; but rather from people who saw themselves in many communities in western Canada.

I now realized the need to bring this matter before my Party Caucus. I told them of the deep concern that was felt for the issue. Many other M.P.s borrowed my column and the supplementary bill respecting abuses of the Canada Council grant system. New stories about these abuses began to appear in every region of Canada.

The mail containing the opinions of outraged citizens from across the country began to flood upon the National Capital. The letters came from young and old, from church groups and individual efforts. But they kept coming and, to the date, they are still coming. The most recent meeting with the Chairman of Canada Council before a Standing Committee of Parliament reflected a new man with a renewed attitude. He confessed that the award system was too liberal that more control and accountability was needed. He gave evidence of the appearance of high by embarrassed. He knew that so many Canadians could not be ignored. Most importantly he promised an internal review and a redesign policy.

On the 19th of April there was a debate in the House of Commons a unanimous committee recommendation for legislation that would crack down on harmful pornography on specially the abusive use of child pornography. You, who have been protesting about Canada Council grants using taxpayer's money to support pornographic literature should know that you also had a tremendous influence on the Parliamentary committee's final recommendation to Parliament.

To all of you who wrote I want to express my deep appreciation. In the original column on this subject I pleaded for help. You have done a job that I alone could not do. In spite of the postal service your message got through. You have kept in touch with democratic process and most important, you have established that it still works. (It may be rusty but it still works.)

May I express a big thanks to you and the weekly newspapers collectively you did what needed to be done. Thank!

Arnold Malone

Creation
our true roots

More and more the evidence indicates that "fossil man" was the result of degenerative rather than of upward progression. What is referred to as early man is in fact intelligent human living in a world of stone tools by the great catastrophe, with many handicaps to be overcome before they could build a civilization.

Investigators find a regular sequence of events, paleolithic culture is followed by neolithic. In each case a refined industry in the latter period points to the implementing of a known technology. An advanced technology is evident in weaving, woodworking, metallurgy and the work of obsidian. Agriculture and stock raising were a flourishing and there was a flourishing trade in raw materials. These facts do not speak of a brutal background, but rather a people fighting to survive in a ravaged world.

In the Mesopotamian valley and the Nile valley the culture have been there according to their word. P. 119-8.

THE PUDDLES OF SPRING

The puddle lay there - long, black and inviting. I peered furtively at the kitchen window to make sure that my mother was not watching me, then placed at my feet and in high topped rubber boots.

"As long as she doesn't see me, she will never know if I go walking," I assured myself. "I'll be careful not to go in too deep."

I took one cautious step. The water barely covered my heel. A second and it flowed around my ankles. A third and my boots began to feel cold against my legs. Then I lost count. The water came higher and higher until finally it was an inch or two from the top.

"One more step is all I'll take," I promised my mother silently. "Then I'll turn around and go back."

The mud at the bottom of the puddle had been getting slicker. Now it was sticky and hauling at my boots. I tugged and tugged, almost losing one before the mud suddenly let me go, throwing me off balance. I lurched forward and an icy flood surged down my leg and squished between my toes.

"Oh, Boy! Mom's going to be mad - again," I thought remorsefully.

Such scenes were an every year occurrence when I was a child and Mom had many occasions to lose her temper although she was often more philosophical than really angry. I guess she understood the deep fascination that spring puddles hold for every child and most certainly for me.

As soon as I was old enough to know the signs of spring, I waited for them eagerly. When the air began to lose its winter bite, warming to a soft caress under the newly strung tented glory of the sun I knew the puddle season was just a breath away. Then the sparkling white snow would begin to fade to a shaly gray and small trickles of water would seep from beneath the sinking ditches.

Even before those trickles could form, building dams to divert their flow, constructing bridges and reservoirs, and day by day the trickles would grow until small rivers raced down our driveway, through the yard and tumbled towards the pond below. They carried twigs, straws, paper canoes and tiny rafts along their rushing paths and I watched with sheer delight. But even these were not as wonderful as the puddles left behind.

There were days when I could walk all the way to school without once stepping on dry land - when puddles lay in every ditch and below - long black and inviting.

Oh, to be a child again!

Gretna Goodwill club

On April 12 at the home of Mrs. Helen O'Reilly in Sedgewick the ladies of this club gathered together.

In attendance were eight members. The previous minutes were read and adopted.

The Treasurer gave her report which was in very good standing, as our Treasurer Rita was away in the Sunny South for three months.

A discussion was in progress regarding music song sheets in larger print for the senior citizens Lodge. So the dear old folks can use the words better, and therefore be able to sing out loud and clear.

The roll call was answered by the exchange of "Slips and Bloomers". There was a great assortment of plants which were all very pretty and each one of us were very happy with our choice. Mary A. had a reading, read by Helen O. entitled "Should God go on Strike". It was a very touching poem and we all certainly enjoyed it.

The next meeting May 10 is to be held at Melba Cameron's. Rita will be co-hostess, the Roll Call - "Come dressed as you were all forenoon."

The meeting adjourned, then while coffee was being prepared, Christie held a contest - "Name as many 'Indian Tribes' as you can remember. Helen O. remembered the most and Mary A. the least, both receiving useful prizes.

The hostess and co-hostess Pat then served a most delicious lunch.

Pat Kretsch was the hostess prize and Melba the lucky tea cup prize. Then a half hour of social time and the tea dishes washed up.

Strome and District News Items

Mrs. Ruele Auburn sent in my news report last week, as I was away at Sherwood Park for a few days. Thanks Sue for your kindness. It was greatly appreciated.

Ken and Dayle Johnson, Alan and Greig of Sherwood Park spent the weekend with the Stig Johnsons. Ken gave brother Orland a hand with shingling his house and Dayle, Alan and Greig, did the spring yard clean up for Grandpa and Grandma.

The senior citizens card party held on Thursday evening had four tables of coast whist in play. Prize winners were as follows: Ladies high Lois Rowe, Low Connie Hahn. Gent's high Peter Curtis, low Don Johnson.

Strome Curling Club letter draw for the month of April was won by Don Hayes.

Sympathy is extended to Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Edgington in the loss of Loretta's grandfather. They drove to Saskatchewan to attend the funeral.

Harvian Rowe drove to Vermilion to bring Tim home for the summer. He is enrolled for another term at the school there in the fall.

Mrs. Sharon Edgington was hostess for a Tupperware party at her home on Thursday evening, April 13. Ladies from Strome and district and also from Kilham were in attendance.

Ronnie Steel and family have moved into their trailer home on the east side of town between the Bob Grahams and Rusty and Don Robinsons.

Mrs. Dave Hill (nee Valerie White) and Miss Debbie White of Edmonton spent the weekend at their parental home.

A very successful and enjoyable evening of crib was held at the Elks Hall in Strome Saturday, April 15. There will be another Cribbage Tournament on Saturday, April 30. This tournament is for the family, and children who play crib are encouraged to spend a night with Mom and Dad and teach the "Oldies" how to play crib. Keep this date in mind and plan to attend, April 30 in Elks Hall, Strome, 7:00 p.m. Win tournament of the air tournament were: Table one First Lynn Mann and Marvin Kunz. Second Michael Kueber. Ole Johnson. Table Two First Bill Nyuli, Don Hayes. Second Curtis Hill, Paul Froehner. Table three first Cheryl Allery, Larry Gehring, Second Elsie Mann, Gary Carr. Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hore and son Robert drove down from the city on Monday to spend the day with Judy's dad, and also visit her mother in the Dayland hospital.

Last week an appreciation night was held in Strome honoring four of our men carriers. This week I'd like to congratulate three of our lady heroes, Carol Kamman, Betty Wachter, and Estella Robinson who along with Tina Buhagen and Verna Schultz, two ladies from Kilham took first in the Kilham Ladies Bowling League and were presented with trophies at the banquet held in Kilham on Friday evening.

Mr. Robbins spent the weekend with her parents Mr. and Mrs. C.F. Robbins, and also attended the Robbins - Christensen wedding on Saturday.

Among other relatives from out of town here to attend were Mr. and Mrs. Harry Erickson, Mr. and Mrs. Archie Robbins, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Laseby, Brian, Robin and her boyfriend, and Mr. and Mrs. Glen Robbins.

Congratulations and best wishes to Judy Robbins and Lee Christensen who were married on Saturday at Strome United Church.

Avis Steiger enjoyed a surprise visit last Monday afternoon by her sister from Denver, Colorado, who was accompanied by another sister from Sherwood Park. She returned to the city with them where another sister joined them for a holiday visit.

This will be my last week as your news reporter. Due to a change in circumstances I find I can no longer represent the Strome or district as your news reporter. I sincerely thank all those that have been such a big help to me in reporting the news, also a special thanks to Mr. Keith for his co-operation. It was all greatly appreciated and made the work so much easier. Marie Butler.

WE'VE GOT TO STOP GIVING CRIME A CHANCE.

Crime is costing Albertans millions of dollars every year. And sometimes, it's costing lives.

All we have to do is take some simple precautions.

But we don't. What's the matter with us?

What does it take to lock your car?

How much time do you lose out of your vacation by taking time to stop deliveries and lock up your house?

What does it cost to report a shoplifter or vandals, or anything that looks a little suspicious?

It costs nothing. It costs millions of dollars.

If we want to stop crime, we've got to start by not giving it a chance to happen.

LET'S NOT GIVE CRIME A CHANCE!

Miss Vickie Sallee of Oliver, B.C. was a guest of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Winters this last week.

Mr. and Mrs. David Gamroth and Janet, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Gamroth, Mr. Gerard Gamroth and Miss Loretta Rader of Edmonton are guests at the home of their parents Mr. and Mrs. Dominic Gamroth this weekend.

Mr. Bill Wise was a Forestburg business visitor on Friday.

Mr. Gilbert Swann of Blue Ridge was a visitor on Wednesday with his father Mr. Bill Swann.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Wideman of Kingsman were visitors with Eleanor's father Mr. Bill Swann on Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Gene Whitehead had as their guests for the weekend, Gene's parents, Rev. and Mrs. Seth Whitehead and Greg, also Gene's grandmother and a friend all of Yohima, Washington.

Mr. and Mrs. Pete Willis were visitors at the Paraglen home in Camrose on Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Herschel Jackson returned home after spending the winter in Arizona. Spring must be here. The tulips are up and some even are blooming. The men folk are raking the lawns and the children are out on their bikes and in many of them are new. Thanks to August Borgel and Willard Washburn who are willing them and also plan to maintain them.

Our congratulations to two young couples Anna and Scotty Blumhagen and Sharon and Irvin Kuebler who have taken over Andy's store and will be having their Grand Opening next weekend.

Hazelwood Good deed club

Our April meeting was held at the home of the hostess, Hazelwood, with eleven members and seven visitors. Mrs. Swanson Sr., Verda Walton and Trevor, Vera Henke and two children, and Connie Sutter.

The meeting was called to order by our president, Kay Cox. Visitors and members were welcomed. Roll was then called.

Minutes of the last meeting were read and the treasurer's report approved.

Material for tea towels was handed out to be finished for our fall bazaar.

Kay handed in a pair of finished pillow cases. All of the signed a card to be sent to Vi Copeland. Meeting was adjourned.

Orma was the birthday girl, and Kay got the hostess gift. Happy birthday was sung to Orma, when Doris brought in a delicious birthday cake. All enjoyed a lovely lunch.

Hockey in Copenhagen exciting

The third annual Old Timers International Cup Ice Hockey Tournament in Copenhagen, Denmark began on March 4 with the Opening Night Ceremonies and C.O.I.A. Officials Team Canada playing the Denmark National Team. Wainwright Battle River defeated the team from Macleod played with Team Canada and Canada won the game by a wide margin of 9 - 5.

On Sunday, March 5, the Japan National team played the Denmark National team in an exhibition game. Very fast skating and outstanding passing by the Japanese resulted in their winning the game 4 - 1.

On Monday, the first game for the Battle River Buffaloes against Timmins, Ontario was a very close game with Timmins winning the game 4 - 3, one goal being disallowed for Battle River. The second game which started at 8:30 p.m. Wednesday was Battle River vs. a very defeating Barrie, Ontario 3 - 0.

Two days later, Battle River played the Red and Whites, Finland and needed a six minute lead to obtain first place in Group 2 in the C division. They won the game 9 - 3. Thus achieving first place and being able to play the second place team in Group 1. Group 1 in the C division consisted of Finland.

Ontario, Goderich, Ontario, Red Deer, Capri and Basle, Switzerland. Red Deer placed second in Group 1 thus being Battle River opposition in the semi-finals. This game was played at 8:00 a.m. Saturday morning after a 35 minute drive to Harbourn arena. A Danish Farwell dance for all the teams happened to be the night before! Needless to say, Red Deer came out on top with a score of 2 - 1. We then watched Red Deer defeat Timmins, Ontario 1 - 0 to win the Gold medal in the C division, Timmins getting the Silver, and Battle River the Bronze.

The tours were able to view in between games consisted of: a) The Great Copenhagen tour, the little mermaid and the changing of the Royal Guard at the Amalienborg Palace being the highlights.

b) The Swedish delights tour with a 50 minute ride across to Linköping in Sweden, a city tour of Malmö, shopping and the exciting Hydrofool boat to Copenhagen, a 35 minute ride in luxury. c) a day with the Danes to a modern part of Copenhagen, the community of Lyngby, with the most advanced modern shopping centre in Northern Europe and a visit to Carlsberg

Brewery ending with a couple of free beers.

The Vikingland tour to visit Roskilde Cathedral where Danish Kings and Queens have been buried since pagan times, and the Viking Ship Museum seeing the latest salvage of 5 different Viking ships sunk 1,000 years ago in the fairway of Roskilde Fjord to cut off the enemies and were taken up in 1962 in fragment to be preserved.

After the tournament, 31 of the Battle River group hired a bus driver and his Vikingbus for a tour through Northern Germany and into Amsterdam, Holland. Leaving Sunday, we spent Sunday night in Hamburg, Germany and reached Amsterdam Monday evening. Two interesting tours in Amsterdam were the diamond cutting factory and the Rijksmuseum, the National Arts Museum, where paintings of the 17th century by Rembrandt and other famous artists are exhibited. That evening 29 of us dined at the Indian Restaurant costing us $29.00 each. It not only burned a hole in our stomachs, but also our wallets! Twenty different dishes to try including shrimp, corn, potatoes, bananas, roast pork on sticks and fruit in sweet sour sauce.

Wednesday was a very long bus ride to a different route driving across a 30 mile dike dividing IJsselmeer lake from the North Sea. They have been pumping the lake into the North Sea since 1945 and still all you see is water. We stopped in Lubeck, Germany for the night returning to Copenhagen Thursday and returning home on Friday. As well as bringing home the bronze medal, we all have fond memories of good, clean hockey and lovely sight seeing tours.

Central high

In the High School we tend to consider that we have a responsibility to make students aware of various training programs that are available for them when they leave school. We provide some career guidance and invite representatives from colleges, universities and technical schools to present what their institutions have to offer. About one third of our students continue with their education in a formal way by attending one or another of the many training facilities available to them.

What of the large majority of our students? Where do they go? What on the way to the school do our students enter directly into the work force. The school does very little to help students find jobs and potential employers very seldom come to the school looking for employees.

Each year Central has between seven or hundred and one hundred and fifty part time and full time potential employees with varying skills and abilities and unlimited energy to provide needed services.

Employers could look upon the school as a large pool and Born to Diane and Lorne McLaughlin of Edmonton and son Shaun David April 14 weighing 7 lb 4 oz. A brother for Candace who is staying with her grandparents Fern and Ed. Mrs. Twitthell of Daysland.

Mrs. Ray of Medicine Hat is visiting her sister Ruth Armstrong and Rev. Armstrong for a few weeks. She attended the Friendship meeting on Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. Caroline Robinson of Kerrobert, Saskatchewan is visiting her daughter Betty and Ed Hill and family.

Agnes and Henry Erikson from Springbrook, Ont. were visiting at Mr. and Mrs. John Koford's home recently. Agnes is an old schoolmate of Lita and they had not seen one another for 40 years.

The Sunbeam club met in the hall April 19 with 28 members present. There were seven tables of whist played. The high score went to Mrs. Mary Sather with 32 and low to Mrs. Laura Mathieson with a score of 6. The next card game will be May 3 at 2:00 p.m.

The Friendship club met in the United Church Social room April 18 with 18 members and 5 visitors present. The Vice President Mrs. Esther Worth took the chair in Mrs. Lydia Wendt's absence. The devotion was read by Mrs. Margaret Schmidt with the theme being Joy. The hymn sung was This is My Story.

Two cards were passed around for us all to sign. One 50 Anniversary card for Mrs. Brown and one get well card for Mrs. Lydia Wendt who is in an Edmonton hospital. A motion was made that we should buy 2 dozen juke glasses for the Hardyist Camp. Those on hand for May are Anne Koshli, Alma Koshli, Serna Muthu, Bertha Olson. Devotion is to be by Mrs. Christion.

For the program Kay Grimes and Laura Graham showed slides from their trip to Hawaii, which was really nice. A lovely lunch was served by Kamille Kauden, Rose Kinkiewicz, Janet and Emily Hill.

The Daysland 4-H clothing club held their achievement bid awards night banquet on April 14. The evening started off with a delicious supper. Then the girls modelled what they had sewn during the past year.

After that, the following awards were presented: Efficiency Award Bonnie Larson, Achievement Award Kim Meyer, Special Award Zurek Award Leslie Lorenz, Miss 4-H Meriel Lorenz.

Valerie Wiklund and Meriel Lorenz have been accepted at Selections. They will also be heading two Quebec girls and then will travel to Quebec in early July.

The Daysland Kindergarten had their monthly meeting April 18 with 22 present. This included new mothers of next years class. The teachers and aids explained what they had done during the year to give the new mothers an idea of what to expect next year.

A new slate of officers were elected for 1978-79 year. They are as follows: President Carol Walder, Vice President Helen Sather, Secretary Treasurer Donna Spiller, Co-ordinator Kay Reist, Reporter and Historian Anna Hood, Field Trip committee Ruth Koford chairwoman, Anita and Wendy Markovic, Communications Maxine Dyker, Chairmen Eleanor McMurphy and Margie Smith.

Our next meeting will be held May 8 to discuss graduation and work on good outfit.

The Daysland Agricultural Society meeting was held on April 18. Letters were read from companies confirming prize donations for the fair. Kay Walbeck read the Treasurer's report, followed by open discussion regarding the Hereford Sale and Bull Sale was concluded at a great evening.

Decisions regarding trophies for 4-H gate signs, Bull Sale and Beef club sale were tabled till the next meeting. Tom Blake reported that a Rodeo will be held this fall.

A letter was read regarding appraisals on Hall, Arena and Curling Risk for Insurance. The town administrator is to be contacted to see if appraisals have been done recently. A letter from the Agriculture department was read and it states that "All Breeding Stock 6 months and over are required to have a Brucellosis test within 60 days of the show. Please have the results by August 1 if stock is to be shown at the Daysland Fair on August 12 and 13.

THE HARD FACTS ABOUT WATER SOFTENERS

With many of us having hard water problems, I felt this article by Linda St. Onge, Home Economist with Alberta Agriculture would be of interest. What is HARD WATER?

Hard water is characterized by dissolved minerals which cause a build-up of scales in pipes, plumbing, and kitchen utensils. The minerals found in laundry water, requiring use of more soap or detergent, but often with poor results. This irritation may be a problem.

WHICH MINERALS CAUSE PROBLEMS?
Calcium and magnesium are the two most common hardness minerals. The hardness of water is expressed as mg/litre of calcium carbonate, with levels over 100 mg/l considered hard.

Iron causes many discoloration problems. Sodium is the "softness" mineral. However high levels can be detrimental to persons with heart conditions.

HOW CAN HARD WATER BE SOFTENED?
There are three major products which are used to soften hard water:

1. Tank-type, mechanical softener. Alberta Agriculture's water specialist recommends the fully automatic mechanical water softeners for hardness levels over 100 mg/l. These are connected to the water supply and achieve results through ion exchange. In the tank, a resin bed is "charged" with sodium ions (from ordinary salt). As water passes through the tank, the "hard" calcium and magnesium mineral ions are exchanged for "soft" sodium ions. Depending on the water's hardness and amount used, the water softener must be backwashed and refilled with salt every few days.

If the water is high in iron, the resin bed will become clogged with rust particles unless it, too, is cleaned regularly. Products such as "Percol", "Iron-out", or "Lyphosol" etc. should be used regularly.

2. Packaged water softener (space-saving). These are most often added to laundry and bathtub water. The product combines with the "hard" mineral ions to form a visible solid (precipitate). Such products are very alkaline and will help to boost the washing ability of soap and detergent. Commonly known as "washing soda", examples are Borax and Sul Soda.

3. Packaged Water Conditioner (non-precipitating, non-alkaline) these products surround and lock up the "hard" mineral

Rev. and Mrs. Les Smith and family from the Children's Bethany Home at Gwyn were seen visiting last weekend at Mr. and Mrs. Ernie Wylie's.

Rev. and Mrs. Bert Nieuwenhuis and family from Edmonton were Sunday dinner guests with Mr. and Mrs. Eber Wailes.

Mr. and Mrs. Andy Steinhilber were to a World Book Conference at Banff on the weekend of April 15.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Beaton and family from Victoria were home visiting the Graham Beaton's.

On April 16, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Rombough and Mr. and Mrs. Hunter White were dinner guests at the Elvin Oliver home on the occasion being Elvin's birthday. Annie prepared a delicious meal with the addition of a lovely angel food cake baked and decorated by Mary Rombough. To add to Elvin's special day, two pretty girls dropped in during the afternoon with humorous birthday cards. By all reports, the dinner into supper topped off with a chocolate layer cake that daughter Theresa brought from the city. All in all it was a very enjoyable day. Our best wishes for many more Elvins.

Quite a number of Bellhills people and some from town attended the funeral in Camrose of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Harris' son, Paul Harris who was a fire victim in a resort cabin at Pelican Point near Bashaw a little over a week ago. There were two others burned too. Sympathy is extended to these families.

Mrs. Pauline Butcher is home from Dayland Hospital after spending a while in there with her back. Welcome home, Pauline.

Darryl and Elaine (Seethun) Lario and son D.J. of Fort McMurray are moving into the house on Jim Pope's farm soon.

Clemmie Horrieks had her nephew visit her last Sunday. Michael Nims from Stettler.

On Sunday night the Lougheed Hotel Staff with her hands and wives had a farewell supper at Wally's Dining Lounge in Hardisty for Mr. and Mrs. Tom Bitts and family. They also presented them with a departure gift. Tom and Fran Bitts are moving to Olds Hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. Gary Jeffrey of Charlton visited Sharon's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Probst last weekend, as did Derek Probst of Edmonton.

Mr. and Mrs. Gary Smith are home from their honeymoon. They have been busy moving into the house that Mr. and Mrs. Bill Cookson used to live in.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Davidson, Mr. and Mrs. Ronnie Robertson and Mr. and Mrs. Hunter White attended the Stank and Hards in Hardisty on Saturday night. Thanks to Ed and Fay.

Don't forget the Lougheed Women's Institute Luncheon on Thursday is open starting May 4 on Thursdays, 5:30 to 7 p.m. It will be closed on Saturdays.

Mr. and Mrs. T. Hertel from Edmonton spent last weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Graham Beaton.

Mr. Robert Drager and Kelly and Esch Drager went to Edmonton on Thursday to bring Shirley home after spending a few days in the University Hospital undergoing surgery on her ear last Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Porter O'Reilly, Mr. John Brunner, Mrs. Mary Albrecht and Mrs. Helen White were among the many local friends attending the Paul Harris funeral in Camrose, on April 26, 1978.

18 QUESTIONS FARMERS ASK ABOUT ANHYDROUS AMMONIA

Anhydrous ammonia isn't really new. It's been used by farmers in western Canada for over 25 years and in the United States for about 50 years.

Even though it is one of the most cost-effective forms of nitrogen, it hasn't been widely used on the prairie for anhydrous ammonia.

It requires high-pressure storage and application equipment.

* To keep costs competitive with granular fertilizer, distribution was limited to reasonable distances from the factory or distributor—usually 20 to 30 miles. Therefore, there are many areas of the prairie where it has not been available until recently.

This article will answer some of the most common questions farmers are asking about this relatively new form of nitrogen fertilizer.

1. Do the soil test laboratories recommend it?
Soil test recommendations in all western provinces are given in pounds of actual nitrogen required to be added for the particular soil and crop. Source of the nitrogen or other nutrient is not specified.

Farmers must make their own management decisions on costs per pound of nutrient, application costs, labor and equipment required.

Yes—anhydrous ammonia is recommended equally with other sources of nitrogen for most soil and crop conditions. Exceptions may be highly acidic soils or soils deficient in sulphur.

2. Is it a liquid or a gas—have been told both?
Anhydrous ammonia is a colorless gas that produces a very pungent odor. Do you remember the odor of a leaking gas can in the spring? It is much the same. When stored or delivered in a tank, however, anhydrous ammonia is under pressure and, as such, is a liquid. It becomes a gas when released into the air.

3. Has it been in the air all winter? Is it not per pound of nitrogen?
At point of manufacture, anhydrous ammonia is and will always continue to be the lowest in cost-per-pound of nitrogen. All other forms of commercial nitrogen fertilizers use anhydrous as their starting point and have one or more additional manufacturing processes which cost money.

4. What is its analysis?
Anhydrous is made by combining natural gas with nitrogen from the air. This produces a product 82% nitrogen and the balance hydrogen. Its analysis is 82-0-0 and has the highest possible nitrogen content.

5. What are the advantages of high analysis?
To get pounds of actual nitrogen per ton of fertilizer from the analysis of a grade, we simply multiply the percentages by 20.

The table gives some comparisons.

The advantage is—your handle much less bulk material both in shipping and on the farm to apply the same pounds of nutrient—the parts per cent can be.

6. Do you use it as a liquid under pressure—is it sold by the gallon or by the ton?
Usually by the ton—that's the way U.S.G. sells it. You hear reports of it being metered and sold on a gallon basis. But, then, you have to be careful, as temperature has a marked effect on weight per gallon. It weighs 2.26 pounds per imperial gallon at 10°C (50°F)—much less at higher temperatures. One strictly unimpaired report stated it was being sold on a 10-20-20-gallon basis—the same weight an water.

U.S.G. thinks it is best to deliver and sold by the ton as farmers are accustomed to the ton, and temperature does not make any difference.

7. How is it applied?
The applicator is really a cultivator frame with narrow, usually flexible, shanks spaced at about 1 foot to 16 inches apart. A motor/pump unit is connected to the pump to needed. It flows under its own pressure to a metering device and then there is a distributor behind the metering device which releases the product to an opening immediately behind each shank. The product becomes a gas when released from pressure behind the shanks and ties up immediately with soil particles. The shanks are run at 4-6 inches deep to apply the fertilizer in bands across the field at this depth.

8. Would this not leave stripes in the crop?
Ammonia first ties up with the clay and organic matter and is held in ammonia (NH₄). Next it is converted by soil organisms to nitrate (NO₃)—the main form in which plants use nitrogen. As nitrate, it becomes part of the soil solution and moves freely in the soil filling in between the stripes.

9. Can I apply anhydrous in the fall?
Yes. Anhydrous is quite safe for fall application. As it first ties up with the soil particles as ammonia (NH₄), it is quite immobile and not easily leached or lost. The conversion to nitrate (NO₃) takes place when soil temperature is above 10°C (50°F); in mid-October and so not warm up again until mid-May.

Research work generally shows equally good results from spring or fall application and there are many advantages to getting this part of the year's work closed up then.

10. Does my field have to be worked before applying anhydrous?
Normally, it is preferable. The trick is to get shallow penetration to 4-6 inches and to have a soil that will close in well behind the shank.

11. What about losses if the soil does not close in behind the shank?
You will very quickly realize it, if you are having losses from this cause. It is a colorless gas. It produces a very pungent odor when it reaches air. It loses are accurate, you will immediately see puff of condensation. In effect, the product has a built-in warning system to detect poor sealing and physical losses.

Under best conditions, you will see the occasional puff of white condensation, but such losses are negligible. Two ounces of product released into the air are said to produce 13 gallons of vapor. Hence, apparent losses are always greater than actual.

12. Have trouble getting an even application spreading granular—how about anhydrous?
Accurate rates and even application seem to be one of the features of... drive. There are several different meters in use, but all seem to give amazingly accurate results. For example, a farmer wanted 80 lbs. actual nitrogen on a large field. After it was applied, and weighing back the unused fertilizer, he had applied 59.6 lbs. "You can't do better than that!"

Some meters adjust rate to your speed, but with others a uniform tractor speed must be maintained. Overlaps and corners can result in errors. A good operator makes a difference as in any other farm job.

13. A neighbor says we need anhydrous like all the farmers and will know us with a usual soil. Is this true?
It is probably true that the quick climbing and deterioration kills soil organisms at the immediate point of release of product into the soil. However, remember that points of release are really small "tunnels" across the soil as shank spacing closes from one another. The soil organisms immediately outside this area use the added nutrient supply to speed up multiplication and population will be equal or greater very quickly after application.

Good research work is available on this point and it must show all farmers.

14. Can I read immediately after application in the spring?
This is a question of which research work is sorely needed in western Canada. Based on U.S. work at rates much higher than normally used here, and at much spacings wider than are used and on more susceptible crops, early recommendations were to wait 5-7 days after application before reading.

Farmers in western Canada are simply not prepared to wait 5-7 critical days in seeding time and have been seeding much earlier with good results. Looking good research under our conditions, we usually suggest waiting at least 48 hours. Experience to date has not shown germination damage.

15. Can I apply anhydrous after seeding?
This is not a recommended practice. If anhydrous ammonia comes in direct contact with seed, that seed will be killed, damaged and destroyed. In emergency cases, some farmers have successfully applied after seeding, going somewhat deeper and counting on the layer of soil between seed and injection point to provide a barrier. It is a risk one might take in an emergency, but it is not recommended as a general practice.

16. Same day is it dangerous to use. Is this true?
The gasoline, propane, insecticides and many other common products, anhydrous ammonia must be handled with care. It is not poisonous. However, due to its high affinity for water, it will "burn" the skin by causing blisters and quick freezing, and in the eyes, can cause blindness if not immediately flushed with water.

Rubber gloves and goggles are a must in every operation, and a good water supply must always be with the equipment.

17. Is it highly flammable, has propane or gasoline?
No. It is classed by the Department of Transport as non-flammable and gives the green color designation. (Propane and gasoline are given the red designation.) It can ignite under narrow and specific conditions but these conditions are extremely difficult to achieve, under normal agricultural operating conditions.

With propane and gasoline, the main danger is fire and explosion—with anhydrous, it is contact with eyes, skin and lungs.

18. When can we expect to get service to our district?
For the past few years there has been a shortage of product and new storage installations have been at a minimum. Costs of a storage unit with equipment will run over $85,000. Hence, new units will have to come gradually.

A unit can only be economically viable in an area of high nitrogen usage and service only to a limited area around the storage unit.

Distance from a source of manufacture is another consideration. Highway tanker truck service seems more satisfactory than rail tanker service in most areas, but this must be within reasonable hauling distance of the manufacturing plant.

There are several manufacturing plant outlets in Alberta—only one in Manitoba and none in Saskatchewan. Developments of the future may see large storage units away from manufacturers' distribution centers, but this will be very expensive installations.

We would expect gradual but continuing expansion of areas of service into the higher nitrogen use areas.

Hillard Cass of Edmonton spent last Saturday evening at the home of Mrs. and Mrs. Dave Cramton and Mary Simmon were supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Currie of Aniak, Eldon and Jim Cramton of Edmonton visited their parents during the week.

Mrs. Betty Erickson and Mrs. Anita Dobbin left April 18 to attend Miss Diane Erickson's graduation and banquet. Mr. Herman Erickson came on Friday for the graduation exercises on Sunday at Briarcrest Bible School at Caronport, Saskatchewan. Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Al Dibben (nee Anita Erickson) of Rimby, who are the proud parents of a chosen daughter, named Nicole Catherine. Proud grandparents Mr. and Mrs. Herman Erickson and great grandmother Mrs. Catherine Webster of Courtney, B.C.

Miss Maureen Hart of Valley View spent the weekend with parents Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Hart and family. Mrs. Valerie Hill (nee White) of Edmonton and Mrs. Valerie Kraushar (nee Weeks) of Calgary spent Thursday and Friday with parents, the John Whites and Jim Weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Weisgerber and family and Mr. Doug Morgan of Edmonton were visitors with parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Morgan and Brian and Barb Morgan. Doug stayed down to help with the farm work.

On Saturday, April 22, 40 neighbours surprised Doug and Barb Gibb with a housewarming in their lovely new home. A purse of money was presented to the couple, on behalf of those there. Everybody had a most enjoyable evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Hart had a pleasant surprise when Mr. and Mrs. Tom Mac Regina, Saskatchewan (nee Marge Henricks) stopped in for a visit. Marge and Ilene had not seen each other for 23 years. They were neighbours here then. They had a most enjoyable visit.

Get well wishes to Mr. Mel Fossen who is in the Colonel Mewburn hospital MP2 in Edmonton.

A discussion on uniforms followed. The Rec. Board recommends that the teams do not solicit from several businesses for uniforms but rather from one only. The policy has been that if the team can raise half of the money the rec board will supply the other half but the Rec Board is short of funds at the present time. A complete uniform of six pieces will cost $25 to $30.

R. North moved and V. Coates succeeded that each team learn after getting their own uniforms. At least a jersey and a cap.

Sunday, May 30 will be clean-up for the ball park from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Game night will be Tuesday and Friday for Bantam and Midges and Monday and Thursday for Mosquitoes and Beavers. All teams to start practice on Thursday, April 27 at 7:00 p.m. A coach is required for the Bantam team.

Anyone interested in Umpire or Coach clinics to contact Dennis Boutin at 385-2361.

Lois Pritchard moved and Vern Coates succeeded the meeting, adjourned. L. Brodie called in for a visit.

Doris Adolph passes

Mrs. Doris Adolph was born Doris Alberta Smith on June 13, 1908 in Oberon, North Dakota, U.S.A. She went to be with the Lord on April 16, 1978 at the age of 69 years 10 months in Edmonton, Alberta.

At an early age she came with her parents to Castor, Alberta. Later they settled in the Consort district where she grew up and received her education.

In 1927 Doris was united in marriage to Alfred Edwards. This union was blessed with eight children. The family lived in several Alberta towns but most of their years were spent in the Coronation and Veteran areas.

In 1971, Doris was preceded by her husband Alfred, after 44 years of marriage.

In 1976 Doris Edwards married Henry Adolph of Killam, Alberta. She was welcomed and loved by his 9 married children and their families. Doris then moved to Killam where she resided until her passing.

She leaves to mourn her loss besides her loving husband, Henry, four sons and four daughters: Gerald of Medicine Hat, Leonard of Lethbridge, Kenneth of Balzar, Ronald of

MINOR BALL ASSOCIATION

The meeting of the Killam Minor Ball Association was held at the school on April 24 at 8:00 p.m. Election of officers as follows: Pres. Dennis Boutin, Sec. Ida Mae Brodie, Treasurer Lois Pritchard. The teams will be Midges (17 and under) coaches Vern Coates, Sam Smolki, Bantams (15 and under) no coach at time of meeting. Beavers (13 and under) coach Walter Frendrich and Mosquitoes (11 and under) with coaches Robert Borth, Dennis Busane and Ken Lang. League meeting to be held at the County office on May 3. Recommendation to be made that the league lasts till mid July.

A discussion on uniforms followed. The Rec. Board recommends that the teams do not solicit from several businesses for uniforms but rather from one only. The policy has been that if the team can raise half of the money the rec board will supply the other half but the Rec Board is short of funds at the present time. A complete uniform of six pieces will cost $25 to $30.

R. North moved and V. Coates succeeded that each team learn after getting their own uniforms. At least a jersey and a cap.

Sunday, May 30 will be clean-up for the ball park from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Game night will be Tuesday and Friday for Bantam and Midges and Monday and Thursday for Mosquitoes and Beavers. All teams to start practice on Thursday, April 27 at 7:00 p.m. A coach is required for the Bantam team.

Anyone interested in Umpire or Coach clinics to contact Dennis Boutin at 385-2361.

Lois Pritchard moved and Vern Coates succeeded the meeting, adjourned. L. Brodie called in for a visit.

Hardisty and District News Items

News from Mrs. Lizzie Ritchiehouse was that she had gone with her daughter Grace and husband to see son Dick in Lethbridge. While there she fell but was fortunate not to report that he came home on Tuesday.

Helene Busk did her good deed by staying in Wataki with Bradley and Maxine's young son, so that they were free to go to Edmonton.

While in Edmonton, Isabel stayed with Mr. and Mrs. Howard Stoeer. It was nice to see them again after over a year and Howard will be a young 90 in October.

They always ask about the people down here and what changes are taking place.

Also went to Moose bingo with Mrs. Stoeer and Mary and had a real thrill of winning a blackout of $600.00. That was a real thrill I can tell you.

Thursday Isabel and Mrs. Bob Quast went to Hanna to visit Mrs. Lydia Quast.

Isabel phoned her friend Mrs. Dick Clark and we are so sad to think that Dick has just about run his course on this earth. He was well known in Sedgewick and then moved to Vegreville and later to Hanna. Having known him as a young boy it is sad to know he is so sick.

Mrs. Alex Cameron met the Rev. A. Edworthy in Edmonton recently and he talked about his many friends down this way and especially Leo Tennie.

Rev. Edworthy was St. Paul's United Church minister away back in 1939.

Mr. and Mrs. John Sherlock have just returned from a two week stay in Calgary with their daughter Muriel and family.

This line amused me as we grandmothers are often called "Built in Babysitters". Just about the time a woman thinks her work is done, she becomes a grandmother.

A few familiar summer faces are seen around Hardisty again.

Anna and family called at the Royal Alexandra to see Helene Robinson but are glad to report that he came home on Tuesday.

Best in town were Peter Guenard and Lloyd McNamee, both with a nice tan.

With the Free Press report of Farming changing their format and to come only once a month now, what do we see on the Old Home Loving Hearts page, now known as Rural Living, but a picture of Mrs. F. Canham.

Get well wishes go to Mrs. Shatz who has been in the University hospital and to Mrs. Marguerite Thibault in the Dayland hospital.

The Jim Vowes are back again too and it seems that those coming back from the empy south find it cold up here. We are not as cold as Calgary.

Barry Elliot who worked at the C.P.R. depot has got a more permanent position at Lloydminster.

We are glad that Marguerite Dreyer is home now but still has the cast on. Sunday her little great granddaughter came to see her. Vicki's little girl is named Jodi Pay Ann.

I understand that the music for the Curling Club dance was lovely and was a hand from Mervin.

Mr. and Mrs. Milt Sim and Danny Sim who are presently working at Rocky Mountain House were home for the week-end.

Get well wishes to Roland Vandewark who is in the hospital again.

Government asked to check rights

The Loughheed government has been challenged to enforce its civil rights law when honoring awarded guarantees of fairness, equality and liberties carried a case to court.

The showpiece of the Conservatives' first term, the Individual Rights Protection Act, may be changed to ensure auto insurance companies can discriminate according to sex in setting premiums.

The Alberta Auto Insurance Board, which regulates rates for compulsory coverage, suggested the amendment in a report tabled in the Legislature by Consumer Affairs Minister Graham Harvie.

Harvie, questioned by NDP leader Grant Notley, said he expects an opinion from the Alberta Human Rights Commission whether setting fees according to sex violates the 1972 protection act.

The rights charter is supposed to take precedence over all other legislation, a claim the government restated in the recent debate on taking Mennonite schools' separation from the public education system.

But Harvie, pressed by Notley refused to assure the house that a commission finding an auto insurance will be accepted. The rights act condemns discrimination in providing accommodation, services or facilities widely available to the public due to would be users' race, religion, color, sex, ancestry or place of origin.

The insurance board reports young male drivers are asking if their rights are abused because they are routinely charged more for coverage than women the same age.

Experience and actuarial statistics support industry arguments that young men pose higher risks than women, and according to sex violates the 1972 protection act.

As well, "experience involved in establishing rates, when identified by sex, reveals not only a lower frequency of claims involving vehicles operated by females, but also a lower average cost of claims."

Harvie, Jack McEwen, Larson and Catherine Chubb (PC - Edmonton Norwood) warned that women and older drivers would face higher premiums if the rights act is invoked on behalf of young men.

But Notley warned that little may stop insurers from hiking premiums according to drivers' ethnic background if they can charge their rights on the basis of sex.

Earlier this spring, he questioned the practice—common to be standard among some firms by the Insurance Bureau of Canada - of varying rates according to marital status, residence and frequency of job changes.

Young male Indians might be found to be more accident prone than other groups, when face very high premiums just because they are Native, the NDP leader predicted.

"Our obligation is to define acceptable classifications as narrowly as possible" to honor rights, and because the government makes Alberta's public liability and property damage insurance, Notley said.

Hardisty area shows combined infrastructure

Provincial government representatives were the target of a presentation about combined infrastructure from Czar to Killam inclusive to promote construction of a heavy oil plant in the Hardisty area at a meeting in Hardisty April 17.

Mr. Getty Minister of Energy and Natural Resources, Mr. Russell Environment Minister and Mr. Kroeger, M.L.A. were familiarized with the total area in terms of services by the mayors and a councillor from each of the concerned communities.

The Reeve of the County of Flagstaff was also present. The ministers told the group that this area had three things going for it in regards to having the heavy oil plant located here.

The first being that the involved communities seemed to be in favor of the construction. Being located on the oil corridor was also considered a plus for the area. The oil corridor is a route proposed by the provincial government to implement the decentralization of industry to smaller centres in the province.

Third, Hardisty is presently situated on an oil transmission line that could be used in conjunction with the new plant in the foreseeable future.

It appeared that we made a favorable impression on the ministers, said Rick Sunjens, deputy mayor of Hardisty.

I think we accomplished what we set out to do at this meeting. Now the ministers are fully

CARDS OF THANKS

Our most sincere thanks to everyone who helped to make our 25 Anniversary a happy and memorable occasion. To our family who planned and organized the celebrations and to all who came to share them with us, also for the many cards, contributions and flowers. We are truly touched by your thoughtful gestures of remembrance and good wishes. Doreen and Irving Bell

The Battle Bell card players wish to express their sincere thanks to Daisy Jensen for organizing the card parties during the winter months. They were enjoyed by all. 35-1c

We wish to thank the Sedgewick Midwives for the lovely plaques presented to us for the past season. We have enjoyed working with the team and commended them for the excellent hockey they displayed throughout the year. The plaques will always bring back memories of a fine group of guys and a very successful hockey season.

Jim Tindall, Manager
Verion Simpson, Coach 35-1c

I would like to express my sincere thanks to all the good people who sent flowers, cards and visits while I was a patient in St. Mary's Hospital, Camrose. A special thanks goes to Ervin and Margaret Pederson for helping care for my boys and to my staff doing such a good job and caring for my business during my absence.

Thanks again Mrs. Gladys Carvill 35-1c

Winnie and Jim Jackson wish hereby to express sincere thanks to every member of their staff for arranging and carrying through the delightful 50 wedding anniversary celebrations on Saturday, April 15. Thanks to the ladies of Strawberry Plains W.I. for the efficient manner in which they catered to such a large crowd at the open house.

Many thanks to my friends in the community for their donations to the fund which Donald Gunn presented to us on their behalf, in his usual inimitable style.

Many thanks to those who sent the really beautiful flowers also those who sent cards, gifts in kind and money, congratulations and good wishes. A sincere "thank you" to Keith Collins, who so efficiently handled the duties of M.C., and to those who so kindly donated the music for dancing.

We very much appreciate the nice plaque from the Red Deer "Irish Canadian Society" which was so expertly presented by our good friend Jim Teal. Thanks to Jim and all the others who spoke for their many kind words. A sincere "Thank you" to all who contributed in any way (and so many ways) to make this such a memorable occasion.

IN MEMORIAM

ARBUCKLE - In loving memory of my daughter Colleen who passed away April 26, 1975. Three years since the sad day The one I loved was called away.

God took her home, it was His will. But in my heart she liveth still.

Sadly missed and lovingly remembered by her mother.

ARBUCKLE - In loving memory of our sister and aunt Colleen, who passed away April 26, 1975.

God only knows how much we miss her. Never shall her memory fade. Loving thoughts shall ever surround her.

To the spot where she is laid. Sadly missed and lovingly remembered by Lyle, Donna, Shelly, Bruce, Lynn and Darren.

ARBUCKLE - In loving memory of our dear wife and mother Colleen, who passed away April 26, 1975.

The depths of sorrow we cannot share.

Of the loss of one we loved so well. And while she sleeps a peaceful sleep Her memory we shall always keep.

Sadly missed and lovingly remembered by Bill, Danny and Leola. 35-1p

CANADIAN NAZARENE COLLEGE CHORALE TOUR

The Canadian Nazarene College Choral will appear at Nazarene Church, Sedgewick on Friday, May 5, 1978 at 7:30 p.m. The Choral under the direction of Dr. Larry Patter son, Chairman of the Division of Fine Arts at Canadian Nazarene College.

The 30 voice organization is selected by auditions from students across Canada. It has travelled extensively from Newfoundland to Vancouver Island and as far north as Thelon, R.C. and south to Chicago. In May 1977 the Choral was selected as one of eight choirs in performance at the Canada Music Educators biennial convention in St. John, Nfld. Singing many different musical styles in their "Praise Celebration", the Choral utilizes a variety of accompaniments as well as with acappella singing. The current tour will take the Choral to major cities in Western Canada from Winnipeg to Victoria, as well as many rural centres.

Ken and his wife Vi made the long drive by car and the others by chartered bus from Wreaki.

Our chapter was doubly honored, as not only did we have the king, but our banner with the theme "Take Off Pounds With A Smile", made for us by assistant vice recorder Elsie Keith, won second place over all other entries from around the province.

We all found the entire convention most encouraging and inspiring, and hope that a large delegation can attend next year. Attendance this year was 1200.

We ask your support to our "Walk a Thon" coming up soon, a portion of which will go to wards partial funding for delegates.

Ken was crowned by 1977 King, Paul Maure of the Hardisty Tops Club. We feel the accomplishments of these two men will be an inspiration to all members.

Our 1978 Tops King achieved his honour with a weight loss of 38.5 pounds to goal, and will attend I.R.D. international re-education days in Montreal during July, and will have three KOYS members, Thelma Tait, Gudrun Barken and Elsie or Tweedy to support him at that convention. We wish Ken all good luck in his hope of becoming I.R.D. King.

Sedgewick and District News Items

Mrs. E. Muirhead has returned home after spending a month in Yellowknife, visiting with son David and his wife Pat.

Hal and Donna Sparrow were in Calgary Sunday and Monday to view 1978 Polaris snowmobiles. Trevor and Carla stayed with grandparents Tom and Viv Sparrow.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Muirhead were in Brooks on Friday. They stopped in at Hanna to call on Mr. and Mrs. Dick Clark, who are former Sedgewick residents. Unfortunately, Dick is ill and is now a patient in Hanna Hospital. We wish him a speedy recovery.

Frank and Mollie Hooper of Qualicum Beach, B.C. are renewing friendships in the Sedgewick area. They are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. Alexander.

Ken and Allen Martin of Penhold were weekend guests with son Greg and family. Ken is still convalescing from recent surgery. They visited at Kilham Hospital with Mrs. Verona Cookson.

Mr. and Mrs. David Edey of Edmonton visited briefly on Saturday with Wendy's sister, Donna Martin and family. They had driven down to visit Wendy's Mom, Verona Cookson in Kilham Hospital.

There seemed to be quite a crowd in town Saturday to take in the Coastal sale.

The drama club is very busy this week, preparing for their performance of "Arsenic and Old Lace" which will take place Friday and Saturday at 8:15

Mr. and Mrs. Ken Dufor visited with friends in Grande Prairie over the weekend, and took in the TOPS provincial conference.

Mr. Ken Dufor was crowned TOPS King of Alberta for 1977, at the TOPS provincial conference in Grande Prairie. Congratulations, Ken and happy dining.

Mary Rombough, Gail Rombough, Brenda Storkbach, Thelma Tanton, Mary Ann Lewis and Joyce Bergsheit went by bus to Grande Prairie for the TOPS conference. Sounds like they had a great time.

Mrs. Annie Hagan returned home from Edmonton Saturday following a stay in the Royal Alexandra Hospital.

Welcome home to Misa Trudy Hagen who has been a patient in the University Hospital.

There were 6 tables of whist players at the Senior Citizens Card Party at the Legion Hut on Wednesday afternoon. Prizes for the highest scores were won by Mrs. Rose Fella and Mr. Steve Potage while consolation awards were received by Mrs. Lorraine Bevan and Mr. Harry Potage.

Welcome home from a stay in Kilham Hospital to Mrs. Gonda Storkbach, Mrs. Edna Mae Kinnon and Mr. George Anderson. And get well wishes to Mrs. Leta Gerts, Jennifer Barclay, Carmen Lamb and any other folk from the district who are in any hospital.

Nazarene

Dedication of two babies, David Gordon Graft and Jennifer Lynn Leedholm took place Sunday morning. Also seven new members were received into the church fellowship, namely Herb and Grace Reel, Medley and Glenda, Sonya and Dale Potter, and Donna Poleg.

A time of testimony and sharing preceded the pastors message on subject of temptation in the evening service.

Congratulations to Chris Robinson who was a new three speed bike for his entry in the "Kellogg's Stick-up-for-Breakfast contest."

Sophie Abel and Sonia Potter are travelling with crutches these days and Terry Leslie has a sprained wrist. Hope you are all soon improved.

Courtney Fischer came home from hospital on Monday.

Don't forget to change your clocks Saturday night as we can see you in Sunday School.

Drama club's efforts well received

Two sweet old ladies with a disconcerting habit of serving their gentlemen callers potent elderly beer instead of tea, and their three nephews, unconventional to say the least captivated large audiences Friday and Saturday evenings, when the Flagstaff Drama Club presented "Arsenic and Old Lace" directed by Ken Afford, the play was staged at the Sedgewick Public School auditorium.

The performances were a culmination of many hours of hard work and dedication. The participants insist that occasional mistakes occurred, few flaws were evident to the audience who went home feeling that they had been well entertained.

The two aunts, Abby Brewster played by Pat Brody and Martha Brewster played by Agnes Wright were exceptionally good as were the three nephews' parts played by Lex Newsworthy (Teddy), Ray Nibergal (Merimor) and Richard Conrad who was the sinister Jonathan.

Other members of the cast especially Linda Hebert who was Elaine in the play and George Christensen as Dr. Einstein can also be commended for a fine effort.

The attention to detail supplied by stage crew and behind the scenes supporters was also evident and made the performance that much more believable.

The Drama Club now plans to hold play readings, and in the fall it is hoped that another play will be ready for presentation. More participants are always needed, and anyone who would like to take part is cordially invited to join the group. For further information, please contact Jim Walsh at 884-3576.

HARDISTY NEWS

At the home of Gerry and Clair Metz of Hardisty on Sunday, April 30 to celebrate Gerry's 64th birthday, Dennis and Pat Devitt, Sedgewick, Nova, Dave Rubs and Marion Ferguson of Camrose, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Harris and Bennie and Thelma Harris of Camrose, Leonard and Danny Harris of Hardisty

Local gymnasts compete

An impressive show of gymnastic ability was displayed in the County of Flagstaff mini olympics in gymnastics held at the Kilham school April 27. Competitors were from elementary and junior high level representing the Sedgewick, Hardisty, Strome and Kilham schools.

The six areas of competition included the box horse, rings, floor exercises, balance beam, parallel bars and uneven bars with three judges judging in each event.

The students were judged in three categories: floor exercise, precision, execution and composition.

On the balance beam solo Beverly Bagdan of Kilham was gold, Tracy Bradburn of Sedgewick was silver and Bonnie Blake, Strome was bronze. On the balance beam duo, Lana Sander and Judy Overman of Hardisty were gold, Shirley Pettum and Susan Hayes of Strome were silver and Karen O'Reilly and Teresa Parsons of Sedgewick were bronze.

On the girls box horse, gold was Roxanne Makarowski of Strome, silver was Corinne Ziel of Strome, and bronze was Gloria Pfeiffer of Strome. On the boys box horse, Glen Trotter of Kilham received gold, Sidney Lockhart of Strome received silver and Duane Powell of Hardisty received bronze.

The solo floor exercises of the girls saw Gloria Pfeiffer of Strome take gold, Beverly Bagdan of Kilham took silver and Brenda Clausen of Kilham took the bronze. In the floor exercises duo Lana Sander and Judy Overman of Hardisty were gold, Corinne Ziel and Brenda Luech of Strome were silver, and Chris Rombough and Lori Halls of Hardisty were bronze. The solo exercises for the boys saw Kerry Bower of Kilham take gold with Roddy Lewis of Kilham taking silver and Duane Powell of Hardisty taking the bronze.

The rings saw Neil Beathland of Sedgewick take first place followed by Shanna Devey of Hardisty second and Roger Chervak of Kilham, third.

The parallel bars had only three competitors. Glen Trotter of Kilham took gold, Sidney Lockhart of Strome silver and Raymond Wierhorster of Strome bronze. The last event was the uneven bars. First was Shanna Devey of Hardisty, followed by Corinne Ziel of Strome and third went to Roxanne Makarowski of Strome.

The competition was well attended by fans from the four schools.

WHEN HEARTS ARE

CHANGED, WHAT THEN?

Savior, that the finding of the Christian gospel is all about starting over again in a new direction: transferring loyalty from the old to the new, and off the letters in order to live the life of Jesus Christ.

The good news of the gospel is that the flooding in of the forgiving grace of Christ and the flowing out of his love changes the hearts of men and brings the Christian community into being.

Then let God change our hearts and all hearts. But when hearts are changed, what then?

When the turnabout has been completed: when we have allowed the forgiving love of God to flood into our hearts; when we have chosen to serve Christ instead of lesser values, and to call him Lord, when our hearts are changed, our new commitments made what then? Will there be no more failing? No more mistakes? Does our experience contradict the experience of the apostle Paul, who with a changed heart was all the more aware of the continuing struggle with powers of inhumanity and darkness? "I do not the good I want to do indeed, I do the evil that I do not want to do... it is the sin that lives in me." (Rom. 7:19-20)

He speaks the truth for us all.

But a man with a changed heart has more to face than his own inner struggle, for the world around him has not changed.

The world is still filled with troubles. The patterns of life developed through past years are still present. The political task, the inter-dependency of human relationships, the cultural influences and problems - they are still there.

But here is the crucial question: Are people with changed hearts going to take the next step? Are they going to let their change of heart make a change in the way they live together? Are they going to let their new understanding of life shape the way they work with people and issues around them?

Are they going to listen to one another's experience and seek the will of Christ for their society?

If Christ has a purpose for the whole world, shall we not submit every dark corner of our life together to the bright light of his judgement and mercy?

Shall we who profess changed hearts and transformed loyalties not seek to understand the problems of our land in the light of God's will in Christ? Shall we not set aside and together to bring about his will for our whole society? There was a time when people talked about "social gospel" as contrasted with the gospel of "personal salvation". But the Bible has put an end to that dispute. The Bible has brought us to the realization that there is only one gospel and it is both personal and social. It is social because it is personal. It is just

Wednesday, May 3, 1978

The great challenge that faces us today is to be the people with changed hearts. To live as people with changed hearts is to struggle, as men and women whose hearts are bound to Christ, with all the complicated issues of our time, and to work individually and corporately to create patterns of life and re-define the new life in our hearts.

Changed hearts change men, changed men, changes the world. All the while, we ought to sing and shout that something has happened to our lives. That this direction we have chosen, this commitment we have made, these new values we have found are things that we have found in Jesus Christ who is renewing our hearts and making us complete. He is our Lord and Savior. He is the Word of the Lord and Savior, too.

Creation
our true rootsFifth in series by Flagstaff Minister

In today's system of education, human philosophy has replaced the concept of divine revelation. Truth, honor, integrity, confidence, compassion are departing from the earth. Wealth and power, man and self indulgence are sought as the highest good. Today, concepts drawn from the natural sciences are expanded into a world view which denies the supernatural and holds that observable natural phenomena are adequate to account for all that exists and happens in the universe. This world view is known as naturalism, and is basic and permeates contemporary education, thought and attitudes.

God asked Job (Job 38) certain questions which had touched on mathematics, physics, astronomy, biology, agriculture, zoology, botany, ecology, etc. Indeed these questions run the gamut of human knowledge, suggesting most areas of current education. Today man has answers to these questions, but ignores the God who asked them. We have glimpsed something of the natural's view of the world and the universe. What does man become in such a context?

In view of the biological sciences man is a complex animal evolved from simpler forms and essentially like them in physical and emotional behavior.

To the chemist a man is a complex, fluid system of chemical substances in continuous interaction.

The British scientist, Sir Arthur Eddington, said a mathematical physicist would probably define man as, "a rather complex differential equation."

To an economist, man is a commodity. His labour, capabilities, desires, and aspirations are commodities to be bought, sold and bargained over like so many other commodities in the commercial marketplace.

To the psychologist, man's natural desires form the core of his true self, and any moral restraints which inhibit the fulfillment or satisfaction of these desires may prevent his achieving self understanding and worthwhile personal growth.

What then is the result of such teaching on the developing mind of the young person?

It is a student learns that he is an animal, he is being encouraged to act like an animal.

SHAMBLER

Since being elected to Parliament on the 8 of July 1974, I have never felt so discouraged or disappointed about the leadership of my nation as I do at this point in time. The country is like a ship without a rudder being tossed about upon high seas.

The reason for this dismay emerges from the fact that the Prime Minister has obviously led Canadians, including the members of his own cabinet, to believe that a Federal election was imminent. The results were natural. In the belief that there would be a federal election in the middle of June and

by Arnold Malone, M.P.

that Parliament would be dissolved by the second week in April, many Members of Parliament accepted speaking engagements in their home ridings. The result is now a national disaster.

I find it embarrassing that important business and labour leaders are taking time out of their busy schedules to appear as witnesses before Standing Committees only to find out that there are not enough Members of Parliament available to attain a quorum.

The decum of the House of Commons has totally broken down. Question Period is no longer Question Period but rather an opportunity for speech making by both those asking and responding to questions.

The Speaker of the House, the Honourable James Jerome, recognized the severity of the problem and in effect chastised the Prime Minister for playing cat and mouse with the mood of the Canadian electorate. The Speaker pleaded that he hoped the present uncertainty that prevails in the House of Commons would be removed in a couple of days.

I, as all Members of Parliament, fully respect the fact that the Prime Minister has the prerogative to call the election within his five year mandate at a time of his choosing. With that point I have no quarrel. I do, however, bitterly protest the present game plan that continually signals that the election is just around the corner but fails in fact to call the election. His tactics have caused an atmosphere of tension that have destroyed the workability of Parliament. There are 31 Committees that have great difficulty in acquiring enough manpower to operate and Parliament itself is adrift at a time when leadership is required.

If the Prime Minister wants to hold an election at a later date that is his prerogative. Nevertheless, if this plan he ought to make an announcement to that effect so that it is abundantly clear. Problems of the country are too many and too serious to continue to engage in this charade of political manipulation for the purpose of destroying the psychology and motivation of Opposition Parties.

The point I am making is short and simple. The Prime Minister should either call the election or indicate definitely that it will not be held for quite some time. The present situation makes a mockery of Parliament and leaves me embarrassed by the fact that games are being played with the functioning of our most important national institution. Obviously, the Prime Minister is completely out of touch.

EGG ON SUMMER

Pack a picnic and make it extra good with easy-going Alberta fresh egg! Pack 'em pickled, Pack 'em sliced, Pack them hard-cooked or stuff them with ham. Devil a dozen or toss a salad, right on the spot, and dress it up with eggs. Or pack a stack of everybody's favorite egg salad sandwiches.

However they go along on your picnic, be sure that they're properly prepared. Improper roasting of hard-cooked eggs will cause them to become tough and rubbery and to have black circles around the yokes. When cooking eggs in the shell, why not conserve energy and prevent unnecessary heat buildup by simply placing the eggs in a saucepan with enough cold water to come at least one inch above the eggs. Cover and bring rapidly to a boil. Then turn off the heat and let the eggs stand for approximately 25 minutes for large or 20 minutes for medium eggs. Chill eggs immediately and then dunk in cold water. This makes the shells easier to remove and it is less likely that a dark ring will form around the yoke. An added bonus, because of the gentle cooking, this method produces eggs that are tender rather than tough. Remember too, always hard cook the oldest eggs on hand, the air cell in older eggs is larger and makes them easier to peel.

For affordability, versatility, portability and great fill-in goodness - you just can't beat an egg on a summer picnic! Get an extra dozen! Pack a lunch and, Get Cracking! FOR THE SUMMER... and for a new experience attend Alberta's Women's Week at Olds. The dates are July 10-13 inclusive. Accommodations are at Olds College and habbiting is available. The theme of this year's program is "Life in our Living". Afternoon speaker sessions deal with a variety of interest areas like: English smoking, parenting, advanced painting, car mechanics and a "Dinner of Alberta" local products. Brochures will be available in the latter part of May.

INBARS - The Rural Education and Development Association (REDA) is once again sponsoring co-operative seminars for teens in Alberta. Teens need not belong to any club or organization to participate. For teens aged 14 and 15, the seminar is July 7-8. For youths aged 16-18, the seminar is July 18-19. Information and application forms are available from the Women's Week at Olds. Tel. 384-3737 or writing Box 270, Sedgewick.

LAND OF THE MORNING

China Air Flight 811 brought me down out of a sunny, blue sky to land at Maslia International airport on Thursday afternoon, July 21, 1977, nearly two years after the invitation that led to my trip. By early evening I was welcomed into the home of longtime friends who were teaching at Philippine Union College and living on the campus inside the guarded gates. A guava tree outside the back door, a coconut tree in the front yard, and mango in which bananas, pineapples, papayas, and mangoes were prominent helped to establish a sense of tropical locale. The cheerful little lizard crawling over the walls and ceilings helped too.

The Philippines, named for the man who became Philip II of Spain, is unique in the Far East. It is an English-speaking nation of Malaysian ancestry with a Spanish background. Its over 40,000,000 people speak nearly 90 languages but while English is the language of instruction in schools, Filipino is studied as a national language.

Maslia is a kaleidoscope of sights, sounds, smells and experiences. There's the Divisoria market where you can buy anything from a live chicken to a sculpture, and a bushel of mangoes to an inexpensive yard of beautiful fabric. There are the traffic jams that are so restrictive that you really don't know how long it will take to go somewhere but while you sit and wait to travel a few more metres across the streets, there are modern super-markets with high-priced imports. The Plaza del Village with its courtyard fountain and waiters garbed as monks is a delight in dining. Heat and humidity keep you constantly wet but on a cool night you can sleep with the fan off. The Maslia zoo displays the tiny deer that actually has the appearance of a mouse. San Agustin church with a painted interior finish so skillfully done that it appears sculptured is the resting place of Legazpi who followed Magellan. Fort Santiago lies in Intramuros, the remains of the walled area that survived from Spanish times until the Second World War. In the soft evening air which is neither warm nor cool, you can sit and watch a play of dancing lights while listening to the accompaniment of music. In the Quiapo church you see the Black Christ which is annually paraded through the streets as well as Brown Christa waiting while continuous lines of people kiss or caress their feet. The Las Pinas church houses the unusual bamboo organ. Outside the city on the new college campus also young boys clear vegetation with bolo knives and a man plows a furrow at a time with the traditional caraba in contrast to the heavy equipment also available.

A heavy rain - a foot on a weekend - can set the city awash, prevent a trip downtown, and cause employees to be sent home from the office. (to be continued)

Galahad and District News Items

The Galahad and District Lions Club held their 4th Annual Charter night on Saturday, April 22.

Lions from Forebush, Alameda, Stettler and Daysland were guests of the Club. Lion Grant Jackson was the Master of Ceremonies.

The guest speaker was introduced by the Zone Chairman Lion Richard Dierwast. Lion Lloyd Gillespie, Deputy District Governor of Region II, spoke on Lions and how it works through units to towns, regions and districts. He also spoke on the Charters that Lions have adopted and addressed for.

At the close of his address Lion Gillespie was given a standing ovation. The evening closed with a dine and dance held in the "Upper Hall".

Welcome home is extended to Mr. and Mrs. Jim Dea who returned home after spending the winter in Camrose. Congratulations are extended to Mrs. Katherine Rittenhouse of Alliance who won the Senior Citizens Bingo Jackpot of $185. On Monday night.

Mr. Bill Wise accompanied Mr. Herb Dietz to Forebush on Sunday.

The ladies ball club, mens ball club and the Galahad Lions club each donated a $100 to a deep freeze. This will be for the use of any working in town and will be another community project completed. Thanks to these clubs for their community spirit.

Maria Marian Davidson and Mrs. Holly Quon of Calgary were weekend visitors at the W. Washburn home.

Mrs. Gail Ponto accompanied her parents to Edmonton last week where she visited Mr. and Mrs. Ted Washburn and Michael and then left Sunday morning for Victoria, B.C.

Miss Bonnie Ferguson and a friend of Rimbey were weekend guests of her mother Mrs. Elvyn Ferguson.

Mr. Bill Wise and Mr. Gerold Oberg, accompanied Mr. Herb Dietz to Forebush on Wednesday evening where they attended the Masonic meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Washburn were guests of their son Mr. and Mrs. T. Washburn and Michael of Edmonton. They also visited Mrs. Blanche Davidson of Stony Plain.

Mr. Bill Wise visited his daughter Mrs. Betty Donald of Ponoka and his granddaughter, Mrs. Debbie Whitney of Baseline on Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Padowski and family of Daysland, Mrs. Ottilie Badry and Norman of Hester, Mrs. Marsha Badry, Mr. and Mrs. Allan Dietz and Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Kuefler were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Dominic Camroth last week helping Dominic celebrate his birthday on Monday.

Mrs. Lawrence Dunkle of Castor was a visitor at the home of Mrs. Eva Dean and Mrs. Muriel Wright. She also visited her mother Mrs. Harber of Castor who is a patient in the Galahad Hospital.

Mr. Howie Dean of Camrose stopped for a short visit on his way home from Taber. Mr. Dean is now working at CFCW.

Miss Iva Kuefler of Edmonton is home for the weekend visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Freddie Kuefler.

Seven ladies from the Missionary Church WMS were in attendance at the WMS Convention in Red Deer on April 25-28. They were Dorothy Jackson, Maggie Feisler, Carrie Bowmes, Clara Weyenast, Anna Whitham, Carol Jackson and Ethel Black. They drove to Castor and joined the Castor ladies in the church bus from there. Wayne Snyder was the bus driver.

Sympathy is extended to Mr. and Mrs. David McEwen on receiving the sad news on Friday, April 28 that their nephew Steve Johnson of Winfield, B.C. had passed away suddenly on Friday morning. Mr. Johnson is well known in the Galahad area having lived in the Pleasanton district for a number of years.

Mrs. Ruth Granger of Killam and Mrs. Eunice Lindsay of Provost were dinner guests at the Charlie Matier home, later in the day they and Mr. and Mrs. Matier visited the Bill Jamieson home in the Halkirk district for supper.

Mrs. Linda was on her way to Edmonton to celebrate the 50th anniversary of the Nurses' Club that she graduated with at the Royal Alexandra Hospital.

Mr. Russell Crenay of Halkirk is doing carpenter work for the Charlie Matier home, adding a porch and carport.

Mr. and Mrs. Herschel Jackson spent a few days in Edmonton with their daughter Sandra and family Mr. and Mrs. Trevor Jackson of Hinton were also guests at the Brigher home.

OPERATORS
POWER GENERATION

Alberta Power's expansion and anticipated growth in thermal power generation is creating excellent opportunities in Steam Engineering. Numerous positions at our existing plants, located near Forestburg and Grande Cache, have been opened for competition in our comprehensive training program.

The program, scheduled to commence July 1, 1978, emphasizes practical competence and will provide you the necessary skills to participate actively and knowledgeably in the operation of turbines and high pressure boilers at the 4th Class Certificate Level. Beyond, additional training will be available to encourage development of skills, knowledge and responsibility of plant operators and systems to the 1st Class Certificate Level.

A continuing salary program consisting of semi-annual reviews paralleling increased proficiency and ability, complements our attractive starting salary and comprehensive benefits.
Applicants best suited to this program will have completed high school within the last five years, including Grade 11 or 12 Math, Physics and English, and have sustained interest and/or demonstrated ability in a mechanical or related field.
If you feel challenged by what has been described we would like to hear from you in writing stating full particulars to the address below or by contacting your Canada Manpower Center in Camrose or Stettler.

the ONCE-OVER with a Butril M - Avenge mix

"Yes, once over your fields really does do the job of killing wild oats and broadleaf weeds. But only if you use the right combination of chemicals.

As I see it, that's Butril M, tank mixed with Avenge, a wild oat herbicide. The combination is effective:
you save time and money because the job is done in just one pass. And it allows you flexibility in timing the application, a real plus in bad weather.

I have what you need:

Daysland District News

On April 15 Mr. and Mrs. Jim Brown celebrated their 50th anniversary in the Daysland Community Hall. They had a family and relatives supper for 60 people served by the U.C.W. ladies. All of their family were home for the occasion.

Open house and dancing was enjoyed afterwards. The Pig Band played their music into the hall followed by all their family. Jim and Gertie danced the first dance with the family just as they got on the second dance. The hall was packed with a lot standing at the back of the hall, for all relatives, neighbors, and friends all came to help them celebrate the happy occasion.

About the middle of the evening the Daysland Community Choir went up and sang about five of the old songs. Then they called Jim and Gertie forward and presented them with a gold wrist watch, a gift from all the old friends. A plaque with all the grandchildren's pictures on it. There was a bouquet of flowers from the Royal Purple and a basket of fruit from the U.C.W. also a set of bottles from her sisters, and a large box of cards and letters from all her friends and neighbors. They both thanked everyone for the gifts and their friends for coming. They then sang two of his old

The staff of the Heisler School fully supports the Junior High School Students Union in their endeavor to make the students of this school aware of the hunger situation of numerous countries (the third world countries). To this end they will hold a "mugger" lunch on May 3 for all the students of the school. The lunch will consist of a portion of rice, beans and water. They propose a charge of 50 cents and the money collected will be forwarded to UNICEF and its contributing agency - Canada Food Bank. They hope that the students will have enjoyed their lunch on May 3 and let their contribution be forwarded to help the needy.

Do the parents feel a need to have religion taught to their children? If so, which is what we presume, then we would ask parents of children attending Heisler school to take part in the teaching of catechism. Some as has been the case for the past three years. It is our understanding that there is some difficulty in obtaining enough parents to teach. School time is being provided so that parents would not have to drive to parish.

Christians congregate

David and Julie Grovet attended the Festival of the Word workshops at Hope, B.C. from April 12-18 as delegates from the Sedgewick Seventh Day Adventist Church.

About 870 delegates from western Canada attended the eight workshops in such areas as Better-Living, Communication, Music, and Christian Witnessing.

The first full day of workshops concluded with the highlight of an evening feast - a candlelight supper followed by the communion service.

David Grovet, in reporting to the church during the April 22 service, pointed out that Christ's contact should not be stereotyped. It takes place in one's home and by personal example.

Rick Winters, a visitor who had also attended the Festival, was out and the people he spoke up to young Christians and also that one should take time with others. It's not a matter of "run up their children after school hours. With seventy some families and only nine grades there should be enough families to make the distribution for at least eight years' work co-operation to participate in the teaching of catechism would be greatly appreciated. All supplies donated by the C.W.L. It is imperative that all students in grades three and nine be present at school during the morning of May 17. Their attendance is necessary for the Minister's Advisory Committee on Students Achievement (M.A.C.S.A.) (Science Assessment test) May 22 is Victoria Day, no school attendance this day. May 24 (alternate May 26) is the Junior - Senior High School Track and Field competition at Dayland. Elementary classes as usual with no junior high school instruction on this day.

Mr. and Mrs. Matt Niehaus and Shirley were Sunday visitors with Joyce and Lloyd George and family in Killam. Rev. Father Ben is a patient in the Royal Alexandra hospital in Vancouver.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Lass were Friday evening visitors with Roseanne & Herman Fries.

Dr. and Mrs. Fred Lass were Sunday visitors with Roseanne & Herman Fries.

Mr. and Mrs. Stan Badry and family spent Sunday visiting Mr. and Mrs. L. Wolbeck and girls in St. Albert.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Reuther spent several days visiting their daughters and families in Lillian and Kay Hutchinson and Vivian and Frank Hansen in Fort Saskatchewan.

Marlene and Valon Lass and Tom visited for the weekend with Dwayne and Diane Lass at White Court, also with David who is employed there.

Winners of the Heisler C.W.L. Bingo which was held on April 24 in the Elks hall were as follows: electric drill - Wilfred Friedrich, Comforter - Adeline Kueffer, Galt, toaster - Karen Heiser, blanket - Mrs. Breeding, Dayland, jig saw - Vera Schults, Kinn, two pillows, pillow slips - Irene Faust, mixer - Nora Knecht, confector - Ruth Friedrich, can opener - Agnes Knecht, Camrose, blanket - Joanne Loesch, hair dryer - Trent Sullivan, and spread - Pat Faulkner, slow cooker - Agnes Knecht. Lougheed and District News Items

Mr. and Mrs. Porter O'Reilly, Mr. and Mrs. John Bejaul and Mr. and Mrs. Hunter White were Sunday supper guests at the Mary Albertelli home to help Edwin celebrate his birthday.

Mary served a lovely meal with the addition of a birthday cake and salads from "Auntie" Helen O'Reilly and "Auntie" Helen White.

A number of friends and neighbors dropped in during the evening bringing more birthday cards and good wishes to add to a auspicious lunch before leaving. Needless to say a good time was enjoyed by all.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Barton of Camrose were recent visitors around town one day last week. Correction on one of the news items last week: Daryl and Elaine (Sheehan) Lario and D.J. of Fort McMurray moved into the old Andy Sheehan farm west of town and not the Jim Pope house. Sorry about this.

Mrs. Brita Birchall had a few ladies in last Thursday afternoon. Mrs. Lillian Stoberg, Mrs. Rose Freewing, Miss Flo Barton, Mrs. Margaret McLeod from the Flagstaff Lodge in Sedgewick, also Hazel Skoberg, Margaret Denham and Molly Fernebaugh. It was a lovely afternoon with a very delicious lunch. It was enjoyed by all. Thank you Brita.

Joan Wright from Edmonton was home visiting her mother Mrs. Agnes Wright last week-end.

Mr. Tom Clouston and Mrs. Ella Clouston were recent visitors in Provost visiting the Oyen Cloustons and Mr. and Mrs. Gail Wilson and family. Mr. and Mrs. Mike Niehaus and daughter Veronica were last Saturday afternoon visitors with Doug and Janet Niehaus and daughter Kresha Lynn. They went down to Harold Probst's for supper. Sharon and Gary Jeffery were home from Chauvin and Valda from Edmonton. We all enjoyed a lovely steak supper. The occasion was Sharon's birthday.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Todd and daughters from Calgary were visiting the past weekend with Todd's sister and family. Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Schmidt and family.

Welcome to Lougheed and district Mr. and Mrs. Rick Irvin of Olds. Rick is the new manager at the Lougheed Hotel. Mr. and Mrs. Tom Boltz and family have taken over the hotel in Olds.

Pat and Curt Hildebrand from Plum Coulee, Manitoba were visiting their aunts and uncles, Mr. and Mrs. Warren Waite and family, also Mr. and Mrs. John Wright one evening last week. Also Marianna Yarns who is an aunt of two boys. Vern Libens of Sedgewick has moved into the house that Victor Lindquist lived in for a while.

Don't forget Women's Institute members that it is our meeting on Tuesday at 2 p.m. May 9. Then on Wednesday, May 10 is the conference at Heather Brea. Visitors are always welcome at these meetings too. Don't forget also that the Lougheed Women's Institute Library is only open on Thursdays now starting May 4, 2:30 to 5 p.m.

Welcome home from the hospital to Mrs. Sadie Marlow after a stay in the Killam hospital.

There will be a shower for Tara Lee Forberg in Lougheed Legion Hut, May 4, 8 p.m. Welcome to Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Frost from Sedgewick, they are now living in a new house on Wesley's parents' farm. Also to Mr. and Mrs. Jackie Johnson and Brandee living in the Don Cookson trailer at Cooksons, and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Ramdani who are back in Lougheed. The last two families lived in Edmonton. Also welcome Mr. and Mrs. Dale Grieve and family who have moved into their new home up on the street by the water tower.

Mrs. Judy Wagner and Jerry Johnson were recent visitors with Mrs. Marie Ness in Edmonton.

Mrs. George Potter, Mrs. Helen White and Mrs. Jerry Johnson attended the shower for Ruth Borgel in Killam last Friday night. Ruth is the bride-to-be of Jack Potter on May 6.

Earl Oliver passes

Earl Leonard Oliver passed away on March 22, 1978 in the Wainwright Hospital at the age of 82 years.

He was born on September 30, 1896 in Mason City, Iowa. Earl came to Canada in February, 1915 from Yanton, South Dakota.

November 15, 1917 he married Ella Korh. They worked and farmed in and around the south Lougheed and Hardisty districts, later settling on their own farm in the Park Hill district. After losing their home by fire in 1963 they retired and moved to Hardisty in 1965.

Earl was predeceased by his loving wife Ella in June 1974 and leaves to mourn three daughters: Mrs. Lee Smith (Myrtle), Sharwood Park, Mrs. Ellen Whitehead of Edmonton, Mrs. Roger Lehr (Myrna) of Wainwright; three sons, Everett of Edmonton, Elvin of Lougheed and Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Schmidt and family.

Also surviving is one sister, Mrs. Henry Romboough (Vera) of Kelowna, B.C. and a brother, John of Edmonton.

Palbearers were his eldest grandson, Leonard Smith, Kenny Oliver, Roger Oliver, Wayne Whitehead, Roddie Oliver and Donnie Oliver.

Funeral services were held in St. Paul United Church in Hardisty with Rev. Jackson officiating. Interment was in the Lougheed Cemetery with Dakota.

The many floral and memorial tributes paid to Earl, showed the high esteem in which he was held by family, neighbors and friends.

CARD OF THANKS

We want to thank Dr. Foster, nurses and staff at the Wainwright General Hospital for the care given to Dad while he was a patient there.

Thank you for the many donations made in his memory, the sympathy cards, the lovely flowers, food and visits to our homes at the time of our bereavement. We wish to express our thanks to Rev. Jackson, Doreen and Doris, the choir, organist, Fred and Ross and those who helped at the cemetery.

Thank you to the Senior Citizens of Lougheed for the use of their Drop-In Centre, the Bellhills Ladies, Greta Ladies and Cambridge Ladies for serving lunch during the service. Your thoughtfulness and help is greatly appreciated and will always be remembered.

Mrs. Hearn spent a few days visiting her old friends Mr. and Mrs. Jim Jackson who celebrated their 50 wedding anniversary April 15.

We are glad to hear that after Mrs. Rosie Landis's surgery, she is up and around a bit, and is doing as well as possible.

Rev. Gerald Hutchison, who had a service in Wainwright last Sunday, came around by Hardisty to visit his sister Mrs. Barrie Matthews and Barrie.

Among those families who hosted Kiwanidean young people were the Ed Watkins, Gatelys, Bromby, Rempeks, Greasy, MacFadens and if I've left some out, I didn't mean to.

Anyway it was made up for time so the Alberts young people saw how it was made.

We must welcome Mr. Robert Hobbs of Saddle Hill Plumbing, etc. to Hardisty, Robert is from Edgerton and will be welcomed by many as he has our need for a plumber is great.

Sympathy is extended to the Fred and Paul Drager families on the passing away of their brother Edgar, known as Swede, on April 26.

He is survived by his wife and immediate family, also brothers Fred and Paul of Hardisty, sisters Elsie Wells, Mahel, Bertha and Lillian of Edmonton and Nora Lidberg of Olds.

The Sportman's dinner was well attended and Randy Hope was the lucky winner of the collector's rifle.

On April 25, well over 35 ladies surprised Mrs. Nellie Scott on her 86 birthday, at the Hardisty Manor. Mrs. Scott graciously greeted her guests as they arrived, among them friends from Camrose and nine ladies from Irma, including her daughter Mrs. Lois Jack.

Mrs. Scott was escorted to the table by Dorothy Kroszer and with all friends together grace was sung as well as "Happy Birthday."

Assisting with all these arrangements were Gerlie Terry, Olive Snook, Dorothy Kroszer and Doris Powell. Vera Hendricks, who baked and decorated two lovely birthday cakes.

Mrs. Scott's friends from Irma presented her with a beautiful bouquet of flowers, also gifts and cards from other friends were received.

An autographed tablecloth received from the ladies in 1962 was much admired as was a friendship quilt given to her by the O.R.P., many years ago.

To ensure that Nellie may more happy birthdays.

Then to finish the day some of the manor residents came in to wish Nellie the best and to surprise her. An enjoyable lunch was served to these residents for their kindness in wishing Nellie many more birthdays.

Latest reports from Mr. H. Ekund are that he appears about the same.

Congratulations go to the Gyn club. They competed in Killam, April 27 in the County of Flagstaff Gymnastics competition.

In the eight events they competed in they won 3 gold, one silver and 3 bronze medals. This sounds like a very successful evening for the club.

"This year investigate tank mixing"

"Why not use a weed killer you mix yourself? The formulations can vary:

- Banvel with Pool 2,4-D
- Banvel with Pool MCPA Amine
- Banvel with Pool MCPA K-64

but the result is a highly satisfactory tank mix you can adjust to suit your own weed control and cropping program. It costs less per acre than pre-mixed combinations.

I can help you make your own tank mix: I'll sell you the basic chemicals for it, and I'll give you a brochure that tells you how to do it."

Killam Lions honoured

The Killam Lions Club held their annual Charter Night on April 18 with District Governor Gus Jantz present. New members sworn in were Wally Purrell, Don Stavin, and Dwayne McChesney. Carl Shuster was presented with his 15 year Lions pin and Laurie George and Jay Pritchard received perfect attendance stars.

The usual $1,000 was presented to the Agricultural Society which President Robert Borth accepted.

YOUTH LEADERSHIP COURSE

Leslie Neal, youth director of the Alberta Conference of Seventh-day Adventists, directed a senior youth leadership course at the Sedgewick S.D.A. church on April 28 and 29.

Nine people completed the course which is one of the requirements in qualifying as a Master Guide, the final level in the church's youth program. The course, which considered the characteristics of a leader, types of leadership, ways of working with youth, and planning of youth activities, stressed involvement.

Neal pointed out that the most important thing is a genuine interest in the young and a desire to do something with them; the course helps. Neal will return on May 8 for the evening investiture service for those who have completed classes in the church youth program.

Strome

Avis Stogier drove Gen Prater, Sylvia Edgerton, Marie Niehaus and Marion Stogier up to the Lodge in Viking to help Mrs. Lizzie Dunton celebrate her 82 birthday on Tuesday, May 2.

The Staff at the Co-op spent a box of candy which Lizzie appreciated and enjoyed along with Gen's cake. Tea was served by the matron of the Lodge for her special celebration. Lizzie showed her rug for which she won a first prize ribbon at the County of Beaver arts and music festival this year.

Quite an achievement considering her failing eyesight. Lizzie misses Strome and wishes to send greetings to all her friends here.

CORN Facts & Fancies

According to legend, cornmeal "hush puppies" were so named because they were fed to noisy dogs—to make them quiet down.

The pilgrims were the first colonists to taste popped popcorn—a gift from the Indians at the first Thanksgiving dinner.

GYMNASTS IN ACTION

Galletly-McPherson wed

A pretty spring wedding took place February 25 at Sedgewick United Church when Marguerite Galletly and Bill McPherson exchanged marriage vows. The Rev. Robert Chappell performed the double ring ceremony.

The bride was escorted up the aisle by her brother David Galletly. She wore a simple white jersey dress with train and a matching picture hat that had an attached bouffant veil. Her bouquet was pale pink roses and white shaggy daisies.

Mrs. Patricia Erickson was her sister's Matron of Honor and wore a satapeau sheath of burgundy color, accented with pink. The bridesmaids Wendy Johnson and Maureen Cheram had satapeau sheaths of pink color, accented with burgundy. Their flowers were sprays of burgundy and pink carnations.

Stephanie Erickson, niece of the bride was the flower girl and wore a floor length dress of burgundy and pink and carried a basket of matching carnations. The groom was attired in a navy blue pin stripe suit. His bestmen, all close friends, were Robert Wold, Kenneth James and Kevin James.

The ushers were Herbert Smith and John Cheram. Guest pews were marked with pink and burgundy flowers. The mothers of the bride and groom wore gowns of rose pink to compliment the bridal party. Mrs. Harry Anderson played the wedding music. Mr. Harry Anderson sang as the bridal attendants took their place at the altar and again while the register was being signed.

A reception, open house and dance was held at Sedgewick Community Hall for the many relatives and friends of the bride and groom.

Later the bride changed to a dark beige three piece suit and the groom to a casual blue tweed jacket.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill McPherson are making their home in the Alliance area where the groom farms.

Agriculture Canada

BEEF OUTLOOK

Prices for all classes of cattle have risen dramatically to date in 1978 and Agriculture Canada economists expect further price strengthening as the year progresses.

The major reasons for this trend are declining beef supplies in Canada and the drop of the Canadian dollar, combined with improved U.S. cattle prices.

Prices for A1 and A2 steers should increase steadily. At Toronto, they are expected to advance to $54 to $58 per hundred weight in the second half of the year.

Cow prices are likely to remain very strong, reaching $50 to $55 per hundredweight for D5 cows at Winnipeg during the summer.

Feeder cattle prices should gather proportionately more strength than finished cattle prices. Feeder steers, 600 to 700 pounds, are expected to bring prices in the mid-$60s per hundred weight range at Edmonton while 800 pound steers are likely to average near $50 per hundredweight.

The critical factor in Canadian cattle prices will be domestic supply. This is particularly true for heifers and cows.

Over the last few years, a good deal of Canada's fed beef production has come from the slaughter of heifers. However, with beef prices on the upswing, the demand for feeder stock is rising and more females will be kept for breeding. As a result, heifer slaughter in 1978 should be down at least five to six percent from last year.

Cow marketings are running slightly behind year-earlier levels and the decline in cow slaughter should be in the range of 10 to 15 per cent in 1978.

There is also an active demand for cows in the United States and only modest increases are expected in low-grade beef imports from Oceanside countries.

These factors explain why cow prices are now averaging $10 to $12 per hundredweight more than a year ago.

Bigfoot on the move!

The rolling hills of southeastern Alberta have a new kind of bigfoot stalking the horizon. Bigfoot, which took its first step last week, is the name of a 3,500-ton dragline owned by Alberta Power Limited. It was

Alberta Power's newest dragline is on the move as it is being prepped to be transported to

named after the legendary being that roams the foothills.

The huge Bucyrus-Erie dragline, erected during the past 18 months at a cost of $25 million, will be used to scoop overburden off coal south of the power company's Battle River generating plant. 16 kilometres southwest of Forestburg.

The dragline's 68 cubic yard bucket and 545-foot boom will enable fast and efficient recovery of coal for use at the coal fired plant.

"The main advantage of a dragline over conventional coal handling equipment," says John Murray, Alberta Power project engineer, "is that it can dig deeper and has a higher spoil pile. Draglines are in use all over the world including South Africa and Australia."

A walking dragline, Bigfoot moves 15 by 70 foot lowering shoes that grab the earth similar to a child crawling. The dragline, which takes a six to eight foot step, travels at a top speed of about one-quarter of a kilometre per hour.

Power to the massive machine is provided through a four-inch diameter electrical cable. The cable, which can be extended from 1,000 to 5,000 feet, is plugged into a movable switchhouse connected to a distribution line running from the Bigfoot substation. The substation was built to power the dragline which requires an average 4,500 kilowatts of electricity per hour when dragging.

INSIDE THE DRAGLINE
"The inside of the dragline reminds me of being on board ship," says Mr. Murray. "The space is confined and the area is filled with ladders and motors."

But unlike a ship, the dragline does not require extensive manpower. Only one operator and one or two others to maintain the equipment are needed while the machine is in operation. A crawler operator is also required to level the surface the dragline walks on.

The equipment inside the dragline is impressive. Two 3,000 h.p. motors convert alternating current to direct current power a series of motors within the machine. Four motors drive each of the hoist and drag spools, four motors cause the body of the body Bigfoot to swivel, and each of the shoes are driven by two other motors. The dragline will be operated by Manalco Coal Ltd. which is under contract to mine coal from the utility's lease on the south side of the Battle River near the Alberta Power plant.

The Battle River Generating Station was opened in 1966 and currently has four units which produced more than two billion kilowatt hours of electricity for Albertans last year. Foundation work began last fall on a fifth unit which will more than double the station's output.

Whereas litter pollutes our parks, recreational areas, beaches, highways and school grounds by defacing them to our sight; and

Whereas litter can be dangerous by causing physical harm to man and animals; and

Whereas thoughtlessness and negligence are the main contributory factors in the occurrence and spread of litter; and

Whereas the litter can be reduced by modern technology, education, streamlined enforcement and updated litter by-laws, and responsible packaging; and

Whereas the Town of Sedgewick is concerned with the problems caused by litter and to bring it to the attention of the public it is deemed appropriate to appoint the week of May 8 to 14, 1978, as the start of the "Pitch-in '78" campaign in the Town of Sedgewick, and urge all citizens to co-operate with the Town of Sedgewick in the elimination and reduction of litter and littering:

Now therefore I, Ernest J. Koehl, Mayor of Sedgewick do hereby declare the week of May 8 to 14, 1978 as Mrs. Thelma Tanton, Mrs. Elsie Cookson, Mrs. Doreen Conrad and Mrs. Marie Martin drove to Toilets last Wednesday morning to attend the annual meeting of the Battle River region of the Anglican Church Women. Mrs. Conrad was elected vice-president of the region.

The Vern Booth family visited relatives in Lacombe and area over the weekend. Rev. Richard Conrad left Monday morning for Calgary International Airport, from where he boarded a flight to London, England. Rev. Conrad is among several clergymen selected to spend a four week sabbatical, studying in Britain. It appears that a large number of people thoroughly enjoyed the two performances last weekend of "Arctic and Old Lace" by our local drama group. The performances were highly successful, except for a minor injury to one of the actors, Mr. George Christensen. Although George graciously declines to show his wound in public, he assures us that five stitches were required to close it.

Mrs. L. Truss and Kevin drove to Edam, Saskatchewan on Saturday, and Mrs. Truss's mother returned with them for a visit.

Mr. and Mrs. R. MacKinnon have gone to Calgary to visit their daughter and her family. Miss Valerie Cox, the daughter of Mrs. Robina Cox of Edmonton and a former Sedgewick resident, was married in Red Deer on April 22. Our best wishes to Valerie and her new husband. Mr. and Mrs. R. Muirhead attended the ceremony, and Mr. and Mrs. J. Hampshire attended the wedding dinner. Miss Fran Anderson and Miss Margaret Hampshire were the bride's attendants. Happy to report that I'm back home and will be writing for your news anytime. After having spent 5 of the past 7 weeks in the hospital I hope I'll stay home for awhile now.

Many thanks to Donna Martin who made sure the Sedgewick news got in the paper.

There were 5 tables of whist players and a couple of crib players at the Wednesday afternoon Senior Citizens' Card Party held at the Legion Hut. Mrs. Christine Davis and Mr. Jim Walsh won prizes for the highest scores while consolation awards went to Mrs. Jessie Clark and Mr. Neil Dyer. Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Pitats are spending 2 weeks in R.C.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Hunter of Bentley were guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Hallum for a couple of days last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Baker were in Edmonton last Saturday to meet Mr. and Mrs. David Alderton on their arrival from New Zealand. Jim and Alice with daughters Janice and Betty took the Aldertons to supper. On Sunday Mrs. Jeanie Baker with sons John and Bill were in Edmonton to meet the Aldertons and all enjoyed dinner at Janice's apartment.

Mr. Ben Chaplin of Australia has taken up residence at the Wayne Lundy home. Ben is employed for the summer months through an Agricultural Exchange Programme. Hope you enjoy your stay in Canada. Ben, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Bradley (nee Cameron) and children of Rocky Mountain House spent the weekend at the home of Mrs. Mary Cameron. On Sunday evening they attended the christening of Elizabeth Rae, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. Bradley, at the Anglican Church in Loughheed. Also present were Mr. and Mrs. Alan Bradley of Rocky Mountain House who spent the weekend at the R. Bradley home in Loughheed.

Mr. and Mrs. Lindsay Jacobs and children of Pine Point, N.W.T., visited his grandmother, Mrs. Tillie Knutson at Flag staff Lodge one day last week. Mr. and Mrs. Art Falls drove Mrs. Tillie Knutson to Viking on Sunday to visit with her nephew in Valda Lodge.

Get well wishes to Mr. Cliff Page who is in the University Hospital in Edmonton who he underwent surgery last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Sparrow of Edmonton visited with relatives and friends here on Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Don Sparrow of Red Deer spent the weekend as guests of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Sparrow.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Simons returned on Sunday from 3 weeks spent in Valleyview helping Mr. and Mrs. John Hopkins prepare for their sale. Mary said that they had rain, rain and more rain while they were there.

Mr. and Mrs. Rod MacKinnon non left on Monday to spend a while in Calgary with daughter Peggy and family, the Gerry Millers.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hooper of Quillem Beach, B.C. were visiting around the district last week.

Donna and Ken Muehlhiser stopped in Sedgewick on Saturday enroute to their new home at Vermilion. Donna's working at the hospital in Calgary and Ken will be doing general contracting.

Horner to contest Crowfoot

The popularity of Jack Horner was very much in evidence on April 18, when over 1000 people jammed the Southern school auditorium to select the Liberal candidate for Crowfoot in the next Federal election. Doug Herbert, M.C. for the evening kept things steadily humming along, putting every one in a happy mood. Eugene Kush of Hanna brought out many a laugh with the Mexican outfit in which he was dressed. Reporters and TV cameras were much in evidence, stressing the interest there is in the riding of Crowfoot. Several of the officers of the Liberal party from Edmonton were present, as well as many of the other Liberal candidates in the province already nominated for the expected election.

Police warn of things to come

Efforts to penetrate the province by organized racketeers are in the offing, the Alberta "K" Division of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police has warned. Violations of the national immigration laws, narcotics abuse and commercial crime are all key on the rise, the RCMP says in its 1977 annual report on Alberta operations, tabled in the Legislature.

"Because of the significant economic prosperity in the province, it is anticipated that organized criminal activity will be attracted here. White-collar crime including gambling, narcotics, prostitution, the smuggling of contraband and other illegal activity on an organized basis can be expected to rise to a foot hold."

The division, commanded by Assistant Commissioner Peter Wright, reports mounting concern over illegal immigration across Canada - "and Alberta will not be exempt from that trend."

Its report records a 34 per cent jump in known offenders last year over 1976 in 717

WIN SUMMER TOUR SET FOR KELSEY BAY

In an Edmonton Executive Coach Tour advertisement in last week's issue, a departure date for a Kelsey Bay tour in B.C. was omitted. The ad listed only September 11 as a departure date for the 12-day tour. Reservations are also being accepted for a July 3 departure.

DA trainee impressed with area

This area seems to be very self sufficient, said Dave Piet, the new District Agriculturist in training, about his first impressions of communities in the county on Monday.

Dave has only been living in Killam for two weeks but noticed that the communities provide ample services for the people of the area and they don't seem to find it necessary to run outside the county.

Having grown up in a farming area located in the Red River Valley in Manitoba similar to the Flaxburg area, Dave doesn't think it will take him long to adjust to his new surroundings.

As a DA in training, Dave assists Glen Werner in all aspects of the job as District Agriculturist.

At the moment, they are concentrating their efforts in work about fertilizers and weed control chemicals.

Dave describes the role of District Agriculturist basically as an intermediary between the government and the farmers.

He also sees himself as a resource person for the farmer. "If I don't know the answer to a question, then I'll take the time to research it until I can find an answer for the farmer."

Having just graduated from the University of Manitoba majoring in agriculture, Dave estimates that approximately 10 per cent of his work will deal directly with animal sciences because the position of DA covers a fantastically wide field.

In his short time here, he already received questions from people about fairy rings to advise about the best kind of rot-tiller to buy.

This is Dave's first permanent position. He was employed with the Canada Agricultural Research Station for two summers and has also managed a horse race farm near Winnipeg.

Clean up underway

The Pitch-in 78 campaign is officially underway in Sedgewick and Loughheed from May 8-14 due to proclamations made by the mayors of these two towns.

The Battle River Tourist Association is also urging all community members to take part in this clean-up litter campaign. Several youth groups in the area have already been scouring the highways in an attempt to rid the roadside of some of the unsightly litter and debris so noticeable once the snow is gone.

This is the sixth year that the Pitch-in campaign has been undertaken in Alberta.

In 1977 more than 1,425 organizations in western Canada organized clean-up and beautification projects in their communities. Projects included: neighborhood clean-ups by school students, tree planting and parks development by community groups and yard clean-ups for senior citizens by high school students.

The aim of the Pitch-in campaign is symbolized by the Pitch-in symbol which depicts, within a green circle, a person depositing litter in a litter receptacle. This symbol is in 23 countries around the world.

With short time here, he already received questions from people about fairy rings to advise about the best kind of rot-tiller to buy.

This is Dave's first permanent position. He was employed with the Canada Agricultural Research Station for two summers and has also managed a horse race farm near Winnipeg.

The Sunbeam Club met in the Daysland hall May 5 with 33 members present. There were 6 tables of whist played. The high score went to Mrs. Bertha Olsen with 50 and low to Mrs. Kamille Knudsen with 13. The next game will be May 17 at 1:30 p.m. From now on we will meet at 1:30 instead of 2:00. Friends of Chester Patroquin will be sorry to hear that he is very ill in the Royal Alexandra Hospital in Edmonton.

We are sorry to hear that Mrs. Lydia Wendt took very sick again and is in the Daysland Hospital. Mrs. Haire was accompanied by her sister-in-law, Florence Boggs of Cochrane, returned from visiting at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Jack Cottrell at Mill Bay, with Mr. and Mrs. Marc Sousa on Salt Spring Island and with Mrs. Haire and daughter Laura in Victoria. Mrs. Haire was a former school teacher at Leik school east of Daysland in the twenties. She is now 90 years old and quite active.

After returning from the visit Mrs. Boggs spent a few days in Leduc with her daughter Mrs. Irene Curhan and went to Vermilion on April 27 to attend the wedding of her granddaughter Kathleen Boggs to Eugene Joseph Way on April 28 in the Vermilion United Church.

The May O.R.P. meeting was held Monday evening with 22 members and 3 visitors present and H.R.L. Betty Karpovich presiding. Past Supreme Honored Royal Lady Irene Francesor, P.H.R.L. Rose Zwick and Conductress from Camrose Lodge were welcomed. The Secretary Treasurer and Trustee gave their semi-annual reports. Susan, Committee Lady Orlean Micka gave her annual report. H.R.L. Betty Karpovich presented lecturing Lady Francis Leeb with her 15 year pin. Application Comm. selected were Helen Helen Palsgaard, Orlean Micka and Mary Louise Volozin. To Cayagan de Oro City of Slog on the northern coast of Mindanao. A bus on a dusty road beside a tropical shore took me to Hagan City. The next day a hospital chaplain took me to the Museum City of Marawi. We traveled in a hospital vehicle which was well-reorganized since the hospital treated casualties from both sides in the Muslim-Christian conflict. Soldiers were stationed at frequent intervals along the road. Marawi boasts a beautiful state university attended by both Muslims and non-Muslims, a modern mosque, and a downtown area where you wonder if it is advisable even to drive. On our way back, winding through the hills scenic with crotonas, bananas, and carabans, we stopped at the beautiful Maria Christina waterfall.

Following a return bus trip and a night in Cayagan, I left by truck for Mountain View College which is located on a plateau in the mountains. After some time we came to the sign reading "The School of the Light" and proceeded on to the campus. The college has its own hydro plant and in several years it was the one place in the area that was lighted at night. So the name had a literal as well as symbolic meaning. The college has definitely been chartered as Japanese Maple, Crimson King Maple, Red Maple, Tree of Heaven, Rose of Sharon, Flowering Dogwood, Ginkgo, Flowering Quince, Austrian Pine, Lombardy Poplar, Babylon Weeping Willow, Smoke Tree, Silver Fir, Blue Hydrangea, American Yew, Rhododendrons, Japanese Yew and tender grapes.

Agriculture report

ORNAMENTAL BUYING FOR THE PRAIRIES

Many trees and shrubs that are advertised nationally are not suited to climatic conditions on the prairies. Alberta residents should keep in mind that many of the plants appearing in newspaper and magazine advertisements and in mail brochures are adapted to regions more favorable for plant growth and will die during a harsh winter.

Some commonly advertised plants not recommended for the prairies are Japanese Maple, Crimson King Maple, Red Maple, Tree of Heaven, Rose of Sharon, Flowering Dogwood, Ginkgo, Flowering Quince, Austrian Pine, Lombardy Poplar, Babylon Weeping Willow, Smoke Tree, Silver Fir, Blue Hydrangea, American Yew and tender grapes.

Agriculture Canada scientists are conducting regional trials across the Prairie Provinces to find out the suitability of a wide range of plants for their climatic conditions.

Lists of recommended plants for the prairies are available free of charge from the Alberta department of agriculture, or from any Agriculture Canada research station in the province. It is advisable to purchase ornamental plants from local nurseries whose operators are in a position to recommend plants adapted to prairie conditions and in provide reliable guarantees.

NEW SEED GRADE: A new seed grade, Canada Certified Substandard appears on the market this spring.

Certified Substandard seed must meet the same purity standards as Canada Certified No. 2 seed, but it may have a lower germination rate.

The new grade was created because of a possible shortage of pedigreed seed of some varieties. Farmers would have had to substitute with varieties they did not want or use non-pedigreed seed if the new grade had not been created.

The new seed grade applies to seed sold both in bags and in bulk.

ved from the wilderness but its camp was attractively land-ramped and groomed. Covered walkways connect the buildings a boom during the prolonged rainy weather. About twelve hundred students work toward degrees in a number of study areas. The choir sings bravely in the auditorium. A radio station broadcasts to the surrounding area.

Students work on the college farm to produce food for consumption on campus and for sale. This is a great benefit to many students who come from extremely poor, and unusually large, families. By alternately working and studying, they are eventually able to obtain a college degree. But the campus is so remote that it does not have telephone service.

My well-laid plan to spend only a day on campus fell through when I was enjoying my stay so much that when someone called to take me to the bus, I said I wasn't going. I then visited a number of classes and on the weekend walked with a teacher and group of students up the slippery mud path to a barrio (village) church. I felt both ways in the mud but had a wonderful day that even included my first horseback ride while in recent memory. I was told that the horse spoke Visayan - and dinner in a local home with partially open walls. The next morning I took a bus back to Cayagan, got my ticket up-dated, and was on my way to put my luggage on the boat when I heard my name called. There was the chaplain who had taken me to Marawi the week before! The boat sailed in the early evening, leaving behind the ships but lined shore and the fish corals standing out of the tropical sea. (to be continued)

Diabetic workshop good

On April 30 the diabetics as well as hospital workers and nurses attended a workshop sponsored by the Flagstaff Continuing Education Council.

Every hospital in the county was well represented by staff persons; and the diabetics in attendance equally balanced the group.

Dr. Gordon Brown, a specialist in this field, and himself a diabetic, gave an enlightening, candid and humorous talk with slides about diabetes. He talked of the disfigurement of the pancreas which leads to diabetes as well as the strains and stress of modern day living. He stated that while no diabetics could be termed exactly the same, still there are similar problems that arise.

Olive Gerrard, the dietitian who accompanied Dr. Brown, talked about diets and exchange.

A special time was set aside for nurses and hospital workers to question Dr. Brown and Mrs. Gerrard.

A lovely lunch of cookies, juice, cheese, carrot and celery sticks, tea and coffee was served at 3:15 p.m.

Before the afternoon ended a suggestion was made that an Association for diabetics be formed in this County. It need not meet any more than once every two months, but the exchange of ideas, hearing tapes and looking at slides would help many. If you are interested in this endeavor please or write Shirley Forster in Killam at 385-2181.

Jacksons celebrate 50 wed years

On Saturday, April 15 approximately 300 relatives and friends converged in Irma Legion Hall to help Minnie and Jim Jackson celebrate the 50 anniversary of their marriage which took place in the Irma United Church Manse in April, 1928, with Rev. M.L. Wright officiating.

Open house from 2 - 5 p.m. was efficiently catered to by Strawberry Plains W.I. The nicely decorated hall was filled to capacity as people came and went offering congratulations and best wishes to the happy couple.

The guest book was capably handled by three granddaughters Joyce Bartholomew, Barbara and Loraine Smith. The delightful display of donated flowers added much to the festive atmosphere of the hall.

The beautiful two tier cake which centered the head table was made by Minnie and decorated by Stella Glasgow.

Congratulatory certificates were received from Joyce Leeger, Governor General of Canada, Joe Clark, MP leader of official opposition in the House of Commons, Arnold Mahone MP, Ed Broadbent, MP leader of Federal N.D.P., T.C. Tomney Douglas MP, Peter Lougheed Premier of Alberta, Bob Clark M.L.A. Leader of official opposition in Alberta legislature, Grant Notley leader of Provincial N.D.P., Ralph Stinson Lieutenant Governor of Alberta, Charles Stewart M.L.A. Wainwright constituency.

Phone calls were received from Toronto, Calgary, Edmonton, Vernon, B.C., Hughenden, Hardisty and Sedgewick.

Daniel Gunn on behalf of the Irma community congratulated

Minnie and Jim, and made some very flattering remarks and presented them with a substantial sum of money, this was well done in his usual inimitable manner.

A variety of gifts and other sums of money were received also.

At approximately 7:00 p.m. 175 family and friends enjoyed a sumptuous banquet at which the grandchildren served.

Keith Coffin very capably fulfilled the role of Master of Ceremonies.

John Money for Fort St. John, B.C. was called upon for a few words as he had cooked the wedding dinner for the bridal party on that memorable day, he also told how he and Jim first became acquainted at a fete about 10 years ago, also related how he and Jim had ridden the range together after coming to Canada.

Eddie Jackson was then called on and gave an outline of his Mom and Dad's birth place in Gloucestershire, England and Tipperary, Ireland respectively, also how they became acquainted, shortly after they met, Minnie came to housekeep for Jim at a salary of $10 per month, he only paid her for one month, and still owes her for the next month, then he married her to save on salary.

Dr. G.T. Cabill of Hardisty (the couple's Dr.) was called upon and added much to the enjoyment of the evening by his jovial comments.

Jackson's long time Irish friend, Jim Toal from Red Deer gave a paper which he composed and which was well received, he then presented Jim and Minnie with an inscribed plaque from the Red Deer "Irish Canadian Society" (of which Minnie and Jim are honorary members).

A very dear friend Kenneth Long of Cardston, Alberta being unable to be present recorded Jim's favorite Irish song "Danny Boy" on a cassette which was played at the banquet and loudly applauded.

Out of town guests were from Penticton, B.C., Creston B.C., Fort St. John, B.C., Sundre, Red Deer, Wetaskiwin, Sedgewick, Loughhead, Chauvin, Provost, Hardisty, Wainburg, Edmonton, Sherwood Park, Viking, Kinross, Wainwright, Laval, all of Alberta, also from Winnipeg, Manitoba and Bengough, Sask.

At the conclusion of the banquet all joined hands with Jim and Minnie in the centre song, "For they are Jolly Good Fellows." Dancing followed, music being supplied by Ernie Rae, Marjorie Barnes, Lorna and Beverly Jackson and Lillian Coppeland.

In 1977, intensive Carbyne yield trials were made on farms, and managed by farmers. Carbyne-treated and untreated plots were planted side-by-side at the same time, and harvested with field combines. No special treatment.

Check out the yield results in the chart above. Multiply the extra bushels in Carbyne-treated plots by current crop prices. You see that Carbyne made money for these growers.

Money maker, and money saver.

Carbyne's low product cost produced yield increases at minimum cost. And Carbyne doesn't need incorporation. That can save about $2 per acre, per trip.

You know Carbyne is going to work, because you spray the wild oats, not the soil.

Rain won't wash away your investment. Fifteen minutes after application, it can pour rain without washing Carbyne off the wild oats. Yet Carbyne doesn't need moisture to activate it.

Easy to apply.

Carbyne is not only easy to apply, but what you save on Carbyne's price could pay for custom application. Check this out with your farm chemicals dealer and your nearby custom applicator.

See your farm chemicals dealer for your supply of Carbyne. See him early.

Creation our true roots

Evolutionary concepts and Biblical testimony just cannot be poured into one mold. The only way to combine evolution and Christianity is to submerge one into the other. One denies the validity of the other. And of course evolutionary thought is basically non-Christian, because it contradicts the Bible, the source-book of all Christian teachings, and its clear concept of the God of Special Creation. A major source of controversy among Christians lies in the interpretation given to the first chapters of Genesis. Do they present historical fact of symbolic legend? It is a well established hermeneutic principle that the later inspired writers are the best interpreters of previous inspired material. How do other Biblical authors treat the record of Genesis one?

In discussing the foundation of marriage, Christ said, "have you not read, that He which made them at the beginning made them male and female?" Matt. 19:4. Luke 8 presents a serious genealogical record of the ancestry of man, listing Adam as the son of God. In Romans 5:12 Paul refers to the fall of man in historical terms. In speaking about the relative place of men and women in the Christian Church, Paul bolsters his point by referring back to the record of Genesis two regarding the creation of woman. "For man was not made from woman, but woman from man" (1 cor. 11:8).

Chapter 18 refers to the creation of Adam in exactly the tone and the fall in Genesis two: "and so it is written, the first man Adam was made a living soul; the last Adam was made a quickening spirit." (1 cor. 15:45) "The first man is the dust of the earth, verse 47". 2 Corinthians 11:3 and 1 Timothy 2:13 and 14 also describe the creation and the fall in Genesis terms. Peter also states his belief in the historicity of the Genesis version of Creation and the flood: "For they willfully ignore the fact that long ago there existed heavens and an earth, and the world was destroyed, through being flooded with water" (2 Peter 3:5, 6, Goodspeed).

In addition to these examples, it can be demonstrated quite easily that other Bible writers, as well as Christ and writers, as the new Testament authors considered Genesis one to be historical, factual record of creation.

Therefore when we deny the Genesis record as it appears in the Bible we destroy the whole book as a source of truth given by God by inspiration. Anything but the full truth is the devil's lie and we have assurance that God's word is truth, the Christian then must accept the Biblical record of creation or cast away his belief in God.

Evolution is the devil's counterfeit of the beginning. Our true roots are in Special creation. God spoke and all things appeared complete and mature. Curtis Johnson

MEKNA WELFARE CLUB

Betty Lewis welcomed all to our May meeting on May 2 at Marilyn Anderson's. Betty chaired the meeting in the absence of our president Fredella Anderson. Betty then read a beautiful poem on "Friends." Then we sang "All The Way My Savior Leads Me," then the Lord's Prayer and the Creed were repeated by all. Minutes of the previous meeting were read and on motion of approval by secretary, seconded by Marilyn May Munn read a very inspiring reading for devotional entitled "Day by Day." Roll call was answered by some exciting or interesting places we'd visited recently. Some very interesting experiences were related. A discussion was held on our quilt and Alene Baker moved we raffie it off and the draw to be made August 20 at April Days, in Sedgewick.

Betty then read a poem on "Mean Mothers," and I think we can all be thankful for our mean mothers! Moved by Dorothy Heartberg we have a barbecue at Nels and Margaret Eideys on June 8 seconded by Daisy Toppe. Moved by Georgie Anderson our annual picnic be held at Sedgewick Lake on "Preparation Day", date to be phoned around later, seconded by Gertrude Weiss after which a nice time of visiting and a delicious lunch was enjoyed.

Killam brownie and guide banquet

The annual mother-daughter banquet was held on Monday, May 1 at 6:30 p.m. at the Killam Elks Hall.

The evening began with everyone standing to sing grace. Following this a buffet supper was enjoyed by all.

A toast to the queen was given by Lisa Loy.

Beverly Baplan toasted the Legion to which Bernard McMahon ably replied.

Debra Tiffen gave a toast to the Royal Purple with Joanne Forster replying.

A toast to the Presbyterian church was made by Christine Grant and Ed Fee gave the response.

Elaine Bastarsh toasted the Mothers with Joanne Bastarsh giving the reply.

A toast was made to the Leaders by Karen Grant to which Diane Bourne ably replied.

Ellen Tiffen thanked Bonnie Fredrich, Marj Simmon, and Stan Hobbs for badge testing this past year.

Commissioner Dorothy Feigate was introduced. She gave a brief report on how she enjoyed being involved with our girls and their adventures. She hopes to be able to visit them occasionally although she is handling down her Commissioner position this past year.

Dorothy introduced our guest speaker, Deputy Commissioner, Pam Mykityshyn who gave a very interesting speech on Buy Bee Brownie and Guide movements and the value of being a good member of each group.

Sandra Grant presented Pam with a gift of appreciation for speaking for us.

Brown Owl, Joy Rott presented collectors badges to Maureen and Sharon Fleck; and housekeepers and cooks badges to Anna Christensen and Theresa Tiffen.

Bonnie Fredrich received a gift and a certificate of appreciation for having done such a good job in working with our girls in the past years. Bonnie has resigned as Brown Owl.

A letterfold post was presented to Pat Gair and a gift of appreciation was presented to each of our right leaders.

Our new officers for the coming year are: President Joanne Forster, Vice President Ellen Tiffen, Secretary Ruth Fredrich, Treasurer Joy Rott, Badge Secretary Dorothy Feigate.

A discussion was held re: Brownie Camp June 10, a visit to Camrose May 27, Brownie Rally at Forestburg June 3 and a Buy Bee visit to Story Land Valley Zoo on June 4.

The windup of the evening consisted of Brownies and Guides singing a few campfire songs

POWER GENERATION

Alberta Power's expansion and anticipated growth in thermal power generation is creating excellent opportunities in Steam Engineering. Numerous positions at our existing plants, located near Forestburg and Grande Cache, have been opened for competition in our comprehensive training program.

The program, scheduled to commence July 1, 1978, emphasizes practical competence and will provide you the necessary skills to participate actively and knowledgeably in the operation of turbines and high pressure boilers at the 4th Class Certificate Level. Beyond, additional training will be available to encourage development of skills, knowledge and responsibility of plant processes and systems to the 1st Class Certificate Level.

A continuing salary program consisting of semi-annual reviews paralleling increased proficiency and ability, complements our attractive starting salary and comprehensive benefits.

Applicants best suited to this program will have completed high school within the last five years, including Grade 11 or 12 Math, Physics and English; and have sustained interest and/or demonstrated ability in a mechanical or related field.

If you feel challenged by what has been described we would like to hear from you in writing stating full particulars to the address below or by contacting your Canada Manpower Center in Camrose or Stettler.

Lougheed District News

On Wednesday afternoon of May 3 a nice time was had helping Hans Skoberg celebrate his birthday. Mrs. Lillian Skoberg, Mrs. Rose Frewing of the Lodge, also Mary Pope of Sedgewick, Brenda and baby Jenna, Bertie and Eric, Veronica Probat, Molly Fernyhough and Norma Probat. Many more happy birthdays Hans!

Mr. and Mrs. Randy Davis and daughter from Edson were home last week for a few days visiting with the Keith Davids. Roger Krotzsch had a bad accident on the farm last Thursday and had to be taken to the Camrose Hospital. We wish him a speedy recovery.

Seems like everyone is busy farming and gardening also other cleaning up and don't have time to make news these days.

See the Lougheed 4-H Homemakers as well as all the 4-H clubs in Alberta were busy cleaning up along the highways and by ways last Saturday, May 6. It will look nice after it is all done. Lets keep it clean from now on.

There was a lovely bridal shower in the Legion Hut last Thursday night for Toralee.

Cambridge community ladies busy

On the afternoon of April 25, the ladies of the Cambridge Community Association held their April meeting at the home of Violet Wylie. Eight members attended, with two "little" visitors.

Our correspondence this month consisted of two thank you cards, and a generous donation from the Oliviers.

We finalized plans for serving lunch at Lane's sale on Wednesday, April 26.

Some of the members turned in their completed quilt blocks.

It must have been a busy month, as only two had their dues.

A list of bedding plants from Grace Kelly was passed around for those interested in purchasing these.

We all signed a get well card for Verona Cookson who is in the hospital.

Roll call was answered with a poem about spring, and these were very interesting.

Next meeting will be held at the home of Donna Martin in Sedgewick. Roll call for this meeting will be a recipe for the use of spring plants (e.g. rhubarb, asparagus, etc.).

Elsie Black donated to the birthday box this month.

Valda was the lucky winner of the raffish.

Some of us had a difficult time with the contest in which we had to guess what kind of foods certain people should be served. Rita and Vesta came out on top with this, while Valda and Elsie got low.

We adjourned with the Lord's Prayer

"LOROX" Stops Hard-to-Stop Weeds

Get it at

"Tank mix Lorox linuron weed killer and Pool MCPA Amine 80, and use it in wheat, oats, or barley crops.
It will stop the tough-to-stop weeds: chickweed, corn spurry, cow cockle, green smartweed, hemp-nettle, stork's bill and the buckwheats.
"I'll help — with instructions and supplies.

Central high

The Central High School Scholarship awarded to a Central High student, was started in 1964. Many organizations agreed to make yearly contributions to bring the total to $100. During the past years, many of these organizations have disbanded and therefore the scholarship has lost much support. The Central High Students Union have found themselves donating for most of the scholarship. This year we plan to revive it. We will be writing letters to different organizations and societies in Sedgebrook, Killam, Hardisty, Longbeek and Alliance for their contributions toward the school scholarship. We hope that these organizations will plan to donate and help to keep this scholarship alive.

Next week is report card week at Central. All report cards should be out by Tuesday, May 16.
Registration for the 1978-79 school term will begin soon and should be completed by May 26. Any people who are presently not attending school but wish to register for next term are urged to visit the School now to determine if the courses that they require are available.

CAMP SLIM TEEN
Think summer ... think fun ... think Slim! Camp Slim Teen is for teenagers between the ages of 15 - 16 years who seriously want to do something about their weight. The camp will be held at the Yarmouth Centre, 45 miles west of Calgary. The centre has comfortable beds, modern dining and sleeping facilities, an activity lodge, a swimming pool, tennis courts, row boats and riding corral. The camp staff will be composed of camp director, camp counsellors, a dietitian, a psychologist, and a registered nurse.

Camp Slim Teen '78 will run from July 7 - July 16, 1978. Cost is a $155 per camper. For more details contact my office at 384-3757 or write Box 270, Soudgewick.

IT'S AN AG FACT
It costs more in labor to move a half of bread from the bakery to the grocery store than the farmer receives for the wheat that goes into the bread.

SUGAR
Keep sugar in a large salt shaker to serve on breakfast cerel. Children tend to use less this way and there are fewer spills.

TOMATO PASTE

Is expensive, especially when major retailers call for less than half of the smallest can available and the left over paste is often wasted. Buy the large economy size and freeze the paste in an ice cube tray, then store the cubes in plastic bags. One cube is usually enough for most recipes.

MICROWAVE OVENS

According to Ellen Harwood, Microwave Oven Home Economist, with Panasonic, it's best to use two phases when cooking a cake in the microwave. For example, when cooking a cake in a 9" round glass pan, start with the medium low setting for about 4 minutes! finish with the medium high setting for about 3 to 3 1/2 minutes. In this way, the cake rises slowly and evenly on the medium low setting and then is "set" on the medium high setting. In addition, the texture of the cake is much better.

Heisler District News

Dayland High School year end exercises and banquet was held in Dayland on May 5, year end dance on May 6. The graduates of the Heisler district were Cathy Badry, Dale Congdon, Joie Congdon, Patricia Fankhanel, Cindy Heisler, Mickey Heisler, David Hihn, Joanne Hihn, Blair Kroetch, Theresa Leeb, Linda Martz, Greg Moenauer, Schulte, Brent Sun, Jr. Len, "Underman, Floyd Volk, Ken Walbeck, Dan Zimmer, Larry Zimmer and William Zimmer.

The grad ex. ex. who sang "Teach Your Children," "You've Got a Friend," "Can See Clearly Now" were under the direction of Betty Heisler. Guest speaker at the year end exercise was Arnold Malone, M.P. Battle River Constituency.

Leo and Lillian Mathieson and family of Fort Smith were recent visitors for a few days at the home of Gary and Marcie Mathieson and Aaron.

Visitors at the Francis Fankhanel home over the weekend were Jean and Leo Fankhanel and girls, Ed and Brenda Fankhanel, Betty and Ken Mourits with Lisa and Chad, Donna and

TALK IT OVER with Gordon

Some items left over from the last column, I thought were worth mentioning, was when I was last over to Forestburg at an airstrip meeting I delivered a cheque for $8,000. to Jack Kirschman President of the Forestburg Ag. Society. This cheque was the remaining portion of the $50,000 Ag. Soc. grant and was to be used to clear up the last of the Society's indebtedness.

About two years ago, when there was a Cabinet tour through our constituency, the Camrose Kinsmen Club asked me if they could have the Min. of Recreation, Al "Boomer" Adair for an hour to look over the location of the proposed Kinsmen Athletic Park, and discuss if there could be Government funding to their proposal. I recall how difficult it was to break Adair loose from an extremely tight schedule plan and almost to the minute, and Adair was impressed by the potential of the Athletic Park and of last Friday, April 28 at an enjoyable informal reception by the Kinsmen and their wives I presented on behalf of the Minister and his Department a cheque for $55,000, being one half reimbursement for hard earned dollars already spent by the Kinsmen on the Athletic Park.

And this weekend, to be delivered, some good news for Camroisians that curse and swear including myself at the annual spring break-up of Camrose streets. Two cheques from the Dept. of Transportation to the City of Camrose, one for $390,000 which is an advance of 50 per cent approved 1978-1979 funding under the urban transportation arterial road system.

And the other cheque of $24,294 being the final payment to the city for work done last year under the same program.

Now back to the Legislature. John, M.L.A. for Cardston introduced a private Members Bill to raise the age of majority to 19 or in other words raise the drinking age to 19. I took part in the debate with the intent of my remarks to getting alcohol out of the schools. Space does not allow for me to deal with the pros and cons of such legislation but anyone interested in the debate contact me and we'll send you a copy of Hansard.

And back on the farm, I came home this weekend and took a look around and was amazed that so far by head count, Ardele's cats have produced more progeny than my cows.

Nazarene Church

Heartfelt sympathy is expressed to the Ribert and Metz families in their recent loss and to Mrs. Gary Clark of the Playfair Lodge in the death of her husband in Victoria.

Annual meeting of the church was held May 8 with election of officers and of delegates for assembly to be held in Winnipeg in June.

A good crowd attended the concert of Canadian Nazarene Choir on Friday evening, and many homes were visited to bid the choir members and get better acquainted.

A spontaneous testimony service was held on Sunday morning.

Caravan Awards were presented Sunday evening. Thank you to each leader and congratulations to each member on your achievements. Winners of a week at camp were Darren Metz and Gernot Wahlund, with Troy Rott as alternate. Michelle Wahlund received the most wishes in the girls class.

Get well wishes are sent to Courtney Fisher and Orville Probst in Killam hospital. Visiting at the Kirby home were Sharon's sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Dick Flannod of Edmonton.

Even if you're on the right track you'll get run over if you just sit there.

ALLIANCE NEW CENTRE ACTIVITIES

There was a good attendance at the May meeting of the Fun-For-All held in the Rode Centre May 4. Roy Ranc president, Nettie Clough acting secretary in the absence of Mrs. Scott. The Club was pleased to welcome back Toots Lear after her illness and also Smith McLennan from his winter holiday in the south.

Mrs. Johnson reported she had purchased a new thirty cup percolator for the centre. 1000 pounds of re-cycling paper had been collected and taken to Killam by Harry Towne.

Members continue to dine at the Rode Centre Mondays and Thursdays each week. A friendly cup of coffee and lunch is always enjoyed after dining. Literature containing Alberta Tours which was read showed interest and willingness to take part among members. Refreshments were served by C. Anne Johnson and Margaret Blumhagen.

Horner to represent

Barbara Cossigan of Stettler was the one chosen to nominate Mr. Horner as the Liberal candidate for Crowfoot. She did a splendid job of it, stating how much more Jack could do for us as a Cabinet minister, rather than as a cattle breeder. Being in agriculture and the cattle business himself, he is well qualified to know what the West needs. She also pointed out many of the accomplishments Jack has been responsible for, among them being the guarantee of $3.00 a bushel for our wheat and the lowering of air fares within Canada. It was with pleasure that Mr. Horner's opponent, Jim Smith and his supporters were very disappointed. Rather than telling us about his candidate, Maurice Shank gave us a sermon on the virtues of Liberalism. Mr. Smith, in his reply criticized the way things were done in Ottawa, stating he was worried about the power the Cabinet has. He said we would not be voting for a Cabinet minister, in voting for Mr. Horner as the head of a Cabinet minister in the Trudeau government was only 2 1/2 years. He asked those present to vote for him which would mean a vote to change the government to true Liberal tradition.

In his reply, Jack stated how happy he was to see so many of the same faces that were also at his nominating meeting 20 years ago. He explained his reasons for switching to the Liberal party, the main reason being that he could serve his constituents and the west to much more advantage than he ever could before. He made it emphatic that he has no regrets about his decision. After telling us of the expected improvements in the economy which would affect our three main industries, agriculture, oil and tourism, he asked for the support of everyone for now and for the future.

The speeches of Mr. Horner's opponent, Jim Smith and his supporters were very disappointing. Rather than telling us about his candidate, Maurice Shank gave us a sermon on the virtues of Liberalism. Mr. Smith, in his reply criticized the way things were done in Ottawa, stating he was worried about the power the Cabinet has. He said we would not be voting for a Cabinet minister, in voting for Mr. Horner as the head of a Cabinet minister in the Trudeau government was only 2 1/2 years. He asked those present to vote for him which would mean a vote to change the government to true Liberal tradition.

Ballots were then passed out and voting commenced. After quite a wait, Returning Officer Bob Willis announced that Jack Horner was the winner. He gave a standing ovation. Jim Smith then announced that he wished to make the decision unanimous. In his acceptance speech, Jack thanked everyone for their support and promised to work for us to the best of his ability. He now faces Arnold Malcom, whenever the election is called.

Coronation and surrounding districts were well represented at the Stettler meeting. With Jack Horner bearing the Liberal banner and Arnold Malcom bearing the Conservative banner, we are assured of a very keen and exciting election in Crowfoot, as both men are very well known to many of the electors.

Dear Monte:
Please renew my subscription of the Community Press. We check for the mail every day from home and when we receive the Community Press, it is read immediately from cover to cover. After we are finished reading it, it is passed on to the other Albertans in our building. We appreciate receiving your paper regularly as it is a link to home.

Thank you

ROUND-UP DAYS

Watch for further details

Boy Scout district council meet

District Council of the Boy Scouts of Canada called their meeting to order at the Carsons on May 4. This was the first time that a district council meeting has been held in Viking.

Attending were District Commissioner John Frank, three representatives from Killam, two from Forestburg, three from Viking along with Cub Master Gerald Wadley, Beaver Leader Brenda Wietnick, and Group Committee President George Roddick.

Business discussion centered around the District Cubaree which is usually held on the Farmers' Day weekend in mid June. John Frank reported that the Hardisty Lake facility was not available that weekend. Bar Harbor, a second alternative location, was available but beyond budget. July 1 weekend was available at Hardisty but the ensuing discussion revealed that this weekend is often a family outing which could easily result in poor attendance. Therefore, it was decided to cancel the District Cubaree for this year.

Gerard Wadley extended an invitation to the other towns to join the Viking Group Campout on the weekend of June 24. He stated that although our facilities were far from modern, the primitive setting was rich and rewarding experience for the boys. He advised the meeting that the facilities would be available at any time, should the others wish to use them. The invitation created interest and should the towns decide to participate, the idea of a District Cubaree may be revived.

Of major importance was correspondence from Central Alberta Regional office outlining their future aims and objectives.

Agricultural Canada

The 1978-79 federal program recently announced in Ottawa will mean higher returns for Alberta dairy farmers.

The combination of a higher target and a lower in-quota levy will result in a net increase to producers of 78 cents per hundredweight compared with returns on April 1, last year. For a producer of 800,000 pounds of industrial milk, that will mean an additional $2,300.

The new target price is $1.42 per hundredweight. The in-quota levy has been reduced to $1 per hundredweight from last year's figure of $1.20.

However, farmers will benefit from the levy reduction only at the end of the dairy year. A new contingency of 20 cents per hundredweight will be collected on all industrial milk and cream deliveries within quota. The contingency levy is refundable to individual producers at the end of the dairy year if they do not produce in the sleeves five per cent margin above anticipated domestic requirements.

jectives. The first objective is to increase the capacity to provide a much larger portion of Central Alberta youth with active involvement in quality scouting programs. The second objective is to improve the calibre of several experienced leaders, scout members and to train, educate and assist those who volunteer their time as leaders. This will be attained by providing workshops, more personal communication, and educational materials for District Councils, sponsors, and Group committee members.

If their province does not produce within the sleeve or if the sleeve production is needed to meet Canadian requirements. Fluid milk production will be subject to a levy of 20 cents per hundredweight compared to last year's levy of 35 cents. This levy covers surplus cream diverted from the fluid market to industrial uses.

The over-quota levy for 1978-79 has been increased 50 cents to $7.50 per hundredweight. Another important feature in this year's dairy program is a change in the quota period.

The Canadian Milk Supply Management Committee has recommended switching to a quota period of August 1 to July 31 rather than the current April 1 to March 31 quota year. This year's total market sharing quota remains unchanged at 103.7 million hundredweights. Next spring farmers will be given a special quota extension to cover production from April 1 to July 31. Then, the 12 month quota period will begin on August 1, 1979.

In 1978-79, all provinces will administer quotas in four month allotments.

These two changes will allow producers to plan their production further in advance and ensure that they do not run out of quota and have incomes reduced for long periods of time.

THE ROYAL HUDSON NO. 2880

Steam engine stops in Hardisty

When your Hardisty reporter, Isabel Nelson first learned of the passing through in Hardisty of the Royal Hudson No. 2880, it sounded very interesting, although it was to arrive in an hour when most of us are in bed, about 3:45 a.m.

It is possible that it may be the last steam engine to pass this way, at least for many years.

It took on water at Hardisty, the hoses having to be connected to the fire hydrant by the Hardware store and strung all the way to the tracks. In years gone by the water tanks were available but not any more.

One tender held 12,000 gallons of water and there were two to fill.

If I remember right this was the locomotive that carried the King and Queen across Canada in 1929. It was the same make only a different model. It had the Royal Coat of Arms on the side with the Latin inscription "Splendor Sine Occasu".

It is now a museum train stopping at the larger centres and left Vancouver on March 30 to go across Canada to Ottawa, Quebec City, Montreal, Trois Rivières, Toronto, London, Windsor, Chicago, Minneapolis and other points include Winnipeg, Regina, Saskatoon, Edmonton, Red Deer and Calgary and on to Vancouver again.

This tour is to promote the Bicentennial celebrations in B.C. of Captain Cook.

There are 3 exhibit cars from the B.C. provincial museum in Victoria and when this tour is completed, the 3 display cars will tour B.C. as part of the museum's train and the Royal Hudson will be an usual pull the excursion trains from North Vancouver to Squamish.

It was a real thrill to climb up into the cab with a boost and the engineer who brought it in, kindly gave me the names of the crew from Wilkie: Hugh McKenzie, Mike Kasperik, the two top men with John Eremko, Jim Huber and Robbie Grier, the remainder of the crew.

Those taking the Royal Hudson out were engineer Al Simpson and Ralph Moriseno from Red Deer, road foreman L. Matheson, Calgary and locomotive foreman, J. Carmichael of Vancouver.

Ron Bergenth from Lougheed was hopefully taking pictures but it was pretty dark as the morning.

Lawrence MacIntyre kindly went up into the cab to get the names of the crew taking it out and I must say we got a real thrill, out of going over the locomotive as he had helped service many locomotives when he worked at the Round House.

Another interesting observer was Stan Hinde who also worked at the Round House for many years and Joe Johannsen was also on hand.

Shirley Campbell, Pauline Gately and myself were the only women there but we all had a look in the cab.

One I wish to thank Lawrence for picking me up at 3:30 a.m. and bringing me home again and also lending me his copy of "The Markers" where I gained much of this information.

It was well worth seeing I can tell you, even at that time of the morning.

A COST OF EXPORTING GRAIN

Demurrage. It's a word that has expensive connotations to the grain industry. It is the cost paid by grain exporters for failing to load grain aboard vessels within a specified time period. Both Canadian Wheat Board grains and non-Board grains can be subject to demurrage payments.

Demurrage payments by the Wheat Board are a matter of public record and can be ascertained. The board utilizes the services of export agents to arrange vessel contracts for export grain shipments. These contracts specify the amount of time permitted for loading a grain cargo. Typically, the loading period is five to seven days, excluding weekends and holidays.

Vessels do not qualify for demurrage immediately on arrival in port. The vessel must be certified for seaworthiness and cleanliness by Canadian government officials. Once certification is complete and terminal elevator berths are available but the required grain is not on hand, counting of the loading day begins. No demurrage is paid during this period. It is only when the loading period is exceeded that the vessel owner qualifies for demurrage. Rates for demurrage are based on the vessel size and applicable freight rate expressed in terms of dollars per day. If vessels do not arrive within a specified delivery period, the Wheat Board assesses the buyer the carrying charges incurred in keeping the grain in store terminal elevators.

Wheat and barley shipped from Vancouver have accounted for most of the Wheat Board's demurrage payments in recent years. Ambitious and aggressive grain sales programs are part of the reason for demurrage. Rail transportation has often been at its westward movement apogee. Winter and spring weather affects the railways' ability to move grain on the prairies and through the mountains to terminal elevators. Labor disruptions at the port of Vancouver have resulted in many vessels waiting for grain once the disruption is over. While demurrage is not paid during a labor strike, the accumulation of many vessels in port results in loading congestion and possibly demurrage when operations return to normal. Additional terminal elevator capacity now under construction at Vancouver should provide surge capacity for times when the flow of grain is interrupted.

From 1973-74 to 1976-77, the Canadian Wheat Board paid $24.4 million in demurrage. Wheat accounted for 88% of the claims and barley 14%. Demurrage of $24 million is a sizeable, but it must be put in context. During that four year period, the Board purchased 2.4 million bushels of wheat and barley from producers. The $24 million represents less than 9/10 of one percent per bushel. Board sales of wheat and barley generated $10.5 billion. Demurrage of $24 million represents less than 1/4 of one percent of the grain sales proceeds. Even in 1975-76, the year with the largest demurrage bill, payments on wheat were only about two cents per bushel.

If demurrage is a cost of exporting grain from Vancouver, what are the alternatives? One might be to export less grain and thereby reduce the possibility of vessels arriving before the grain is ready. That is not an attractive choice. Another alternative might be to export more grain through the Lakehead. However, rail freight rates from Alberta to Thunder Bay are about four cents per bushel more expensive than in Vancouver and this cost is paid by the Wheat Board. In addition, there is a cost for using lake freighters to move the grain through the St. Lawrence Seaway to ocean ports. This cost amounts to about 25 cents per bushel, considerably more than the demurrage costs at Vancouver, but tends to be recoverable from the export market.

Since many of the markets for Canadian grain are Pacific Rim countries, ocean freight rates favor Vancouver over eastern ports. Canadian Wheat Board offering prices for wheat at Vancouver in late April were 50 cents per bushel above those at Thunder Bay and 17 cents above those at St. Lawrence ports. Demurrage payments in Vancouver grain shipments are small compared to the grain price advantage which west coast shipments warrant. This advantage justifies continued and expanded west coast grain exports, in spite of demurrage.

More aggressive grain marketing sought

With a warning that Ottawa is "defensive and complacent," Premier Peter Lougheed has stepped up his campaign for measures he says would make Canada a tougher competitor on world grain markets.

Much Alberta production is sold abroad, experts depend on uncertain international economic and climatic conditions and failure to have aggressive salesmanship would be "irresponsible," Lougheed says.

He pledged determined pressure on the federal government, presented a nine-point plan and tabled correspondence with Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau during a special legislative debate on marketing.

He repeated findings of his trip last year to the U.S.S.R. and the Middle East that Canadian sales are losing out to tougher marketing by France, the Soviet Union except when it has crop failures, and the U.S.

Lougheed wants observer status for the province at international wheat agreement negotiations and a full time federal minister overseeing the Canadian Wheat Board and exports.

He requests quarterly reports from the board to prevent farmers wanting them and seeks a new governing body for the agency, with up to 40 per cent of the members appointed by provinces which its work affects.

Lougheed wants a national conference on grain marketing, incentives such as trade breaks to potential customers and separation of grain dealings from General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade.

Lougheed announced creation of a task force of himself, Agriculture Minister Mary McCreary, International Affairs Minister Lou Hyndman and Transport Minister Hugh Hornor to press Alberta's case.

Jack and Mary were married on May 8, 1908 in the Russian Ukraine.

Two children were born there, first one died as an infant and Paul was the second child, born in 1911.

Jack spent one year in Siberia, looking for greener pastures, but was not happy with it, so he came to the Ukraine, and in 1912 went to Canada with intentions of making enough money as soon as possible and bring Mary and Paul over.

He worked for C.P. Railway and by the time he paid for his ticket coming to Canada and started to save money for Mary's ticket, disruptions of World War I and the revolution in Russia cut off communication.

His son Paul and his wife Beanie are farming the same farm. They have 6 boys and one daughter, Sonia, all were present except Sonia who lives in Australia.

So, Stanley and his wife Jessie have two daughters living in Edmonton and work for Syncrude at Fort McMurray.

His oldest daughter, Gloria, came all the way from Albany, New York for this occasion.

Jack and Mary's 70th wedding anniversary was held on May 6, 1978 in the Elks Hall, Hardisty. At the head table with Mary and Jack were Mrs. Steve Kouri, Mrs. Kathleen and Mr. Leo Tennie.

COME ALIVE

FLYING TOO LOW

Coming in for a landing at the Greater Camrose Airport, a Trans World Airlines jet with seventy-five passengers and seven crew members crashed on a gravel and one-half miles away. Sixty-seven of the eighty-two perished. A committee of the Aerobatics Department said that the plane was way below normal flight path when it crashed into a hill. It should have been about one thousand feet above the hill at this point. The cause of the crash was simply that the jet was flying too low.

So today, many people have their attitudes and goals in life too low and are on a crash course without even realizing it. The emphasis is upon the accumulation of great possessions and the enjoyment of all the comforts and conveniences of this advanced age. God has imparted great wisdom to man making all these possible, but if our flight pattern is for these alone, we will never land safely on the runways of heaven. Our visibility is obscured and confined only to the temporal with little or no thought for the eternal. We see only the things around us that appeal to the eyes and desire them as if they were of most importance and would belong to us forever. If this is our flight pattern, we must increase our altitude sharply if we are to avoid a spiritual crash. Without Jesus as our savior and pilot we will never land safely on yonder.

God's word says in Colossians 3:2 that we should set our affections on things above and not on the things of this earth. In II Corinthians 4:18 we read that the things that are seen are temporal, but the things that are not seen are eternal. Paul begins where our human vision and wisdom ends. When we are willing to let go of the controls of our life and let Jesus into the cockpit, our attitudes in life will completely change, our altitude will sharply increase, the things of this earth will fade from our vision, and our course will be far above the dangers of the obstacles below. With Jesus as our pilot we will never crash spiritually, but rather will inherit eternal life that he made possible when he died on Calvary as an atonement for all of our sins. Even many Christians today are living in spiritual defeat because they have taken over the controls of their life from Jesus, are losing altitude sharply, when they should be mounting up with wings as eagles (Isaiah 40:31) and living radiantly with Christ in heavenly places. (Ephesians 1:3) We must only leave our flight confidently in his hands.

Are you flying too low? Why not give Jesus the controls of your life today?

Lougheed Rebekah lodge

On Wednesday evening, May 10 22 members of Lougheed Rebekah Lodge met for their regular meeting.

Lodge opened in regular form with Noble Grand Sis Allison Barton in the chair. We were glad to hear that Vice Grand Sis Verona Cookson is now home from the hospital.

Sisters reported having visited hospitals in the area. Some kind of record was set at this meeting, as there were no bills and no correspondence. It was decided that posters depicting lodge work would be posted at special lodge functions.

Plans were finalized for entering a wedding later in May. Noble Grand Sis Barton expressed the feelings of the members when she welcomed Sis Marlow back in our midst after a lengthy stay in hospital.

She also welcomed those members who for various reasons had been unable to attend recently.

Under Good of the Order Sis Rosemary Kampen read a thought-provoking article entitled "Treasures of Life".

Sis Ida Black read her report of Rebekah Assembly held last March in Banff. She and Sis Hazel Stokberg, Gayle Grove, Donna Dolanay and Stella Kiewitall.

Lodge closed in harmony, after which a delicious lunch.

The only things that evolve by themselves in an organization are disorder, friction and malperformance.

Central region scouts celebrate 70th birthday

Beavers, cubs, scouts and their leaders from Flagnaff District took part in the 70 birthday celebration of Scouting held recently. The event was held in Red Deer on Saturday, May 6.

They joined approximately 1,600 other Beavers, Cubs, Scouts and Venturers, and 200 leaders and parents for a gigantic Central Region party. The group arrived just in time to participate in a parade through downtown Red Deer, signifying the event. After they returned, they were treated to lunch, with the Red Deer Optimist Club handling the "chow line".

Nearly 4,500 hot dogs, and as many cupcakes and donuts, along with gallons and gallons (or is it litres and litres?) of juice were consumed by the hungry crew.

The lunch was followed by games for the different groups then by two hours of entertainment, including a band, stunts, magicians, rope twirlers (or is it whipper snappers?) and an enthusiastic group of cheerleaders, all of whom helped to make the day complete.

After the show, the various groups climbed aboard the vehicles and started the journey home.

Fleabettle infestation forecast as problem for east central Alberta

Fleabettle infestation in Alberta rape crops is expected to be worse in the northeastern and east-central parts of the province and in the area east of Calgary, said Michael Dolinski, of Alberta Agriculture.

Mr. Dolinski, entomologist and pest control specialist with Alberta Agriculture says although risk of damage is greatest in those areas of the province, it's recommended that all rape growers check their fields for fleabettles.

No problems with fleabettles have been reported in the Flagstaff area, says Dave Platt, the Flagstaff D.A. but no problems are really expected until the emergence of the rape crop and this will depend on the weather, he explained.

Based on surveys made over the winter and talking to farmers, Glen Werner, District Agricultural estimator that in excess of 100,000 acres in the county will be planted in rape this season.

That's a 40 to 50 per cent increase over last year's figures, a large amount according to Mr. Werner.

Fleabettles are tiny, shiny black insects that jump vigorously when disturbed. Because they overwinter as adults, they are ready to devour rape seedlings as soon as they emerge. The beetles start by eating small holes in the leaves and if unchecked will gradually enlarge these holes until the plant is completely denuded of foliage.

Treatment of rape seed is very strongly recommended by Mr. Dolinski.

Glen Werner added that farmers sometimes get a false sense of security once they've treated their seeds. It's important to continue checking the fields even after treatment.

Treatment reduces chance of loss substantially but is by no means a guarantee, warns Mr. Werner.

There are two drill but treat ment chemicals that can be used to protect rape seedlings against fleabettles. They are lindane, which is dust, and furalan 50, which is a granular formulation. Lindane will protect seedlings until they are four to five days old and can be mixed with insecticide to protect them against damage as well.

Since this disease caused heavy losses in some crops in Saskatchewan last year, it is a good idea to treat seed for blackfly if its origin is unknown.

Furalan G provides excellent fleabettle control when the seedlings are three to five days old, depending upon weather conditions. Although seedlings that have been treated with Furalan G are not protected against fleabettles for the first few days, once the protection takes effect it lasts for 10 to 12 days.

Mr. Dolinski stresses that even when rape seed has been treated in the drill box, the crop should be checked every day until it reaches a height of six to eight inches. In the case of seed treated with Furalan G, it may be necessary to spray with a foliage spray when the seedlings first emerge if fleabettles are numerous because the Furalan does not take effect for three to five days. With both lindane and Furalan G there is always the possibility that the seed treatment will not provide adequate protection if the weather is abnormally dry. Under severe drought conditions, the Furalan granules may not dissolve and release the insecticide.

The products recommended for a foliage spray are Guthion, Furadan, Flowable and malathion. Any of these products will do a good job, but it may be necessary to spray the crop several times because they all have a very short residual life.

Daysland church turns sod

Sunday, April 23 was a joyful and meaningful day for the pastor and congregation of the Daysland Alliance Church. In a ceremony at 1:00 p.m., it marked the sod turning for the new sanctuary on the new building site located on the south side of the road leading to the Daysland Hospital.

Present for the happy occasion was Mayor and Mrs. Stan Lisack of the town of Daysland who gave words of congratulation and encouragement from the town. Following a few brief words by the pastor, the chairman of the building committee, Harvey Benke, took the shovel and had the privilege of turning the first sod. Then two of the oldest members of the church, Mrs. Meyer and Mrs. McCarrall, who have been part of the fellowship from its beginnings, took the shovel and turned a sod also.

A good number from the congregation also witnessed the event. A high spirit of enthusiasm prevailed as the entire building program was committed to the Lord. Pictured left to right are: Mrs. Ragnhild Meyer, Mrs. Kathleen McCarrall, Harvey Benke with the shovel, Mayor Stan Lisack, and pastor Mel Dietrich. Until the completion of the new sanctuary, the services of the church are being held in the school auditorium at the usual times.

Flagstaff Lodge News

Mrs. B. Arlene McFadden's son from Edmonton came down and took her to Alliance. She is to meet her other son, Stuart and then she will go to Medicine Hat for a week holiday.

George and Mollie Anderson gave Jennie McConnell flowers for her birthday and Jack and Shirley brought her in a nice cake when she was in the hospital. She was out for supper at Mary Cameron's home on Friday and stayed overnight.

There were a lot of mothers from the Lodge that went to their families for Mother's Day. It sure was a nice day for Mother's Day.

Mr. and Mrs. Phyllis Ott (Mary Buss) of Coeur D'Alene U.S.A. and Ina Buss of Killam were in to visit Mr. Ross Fox. Joan Drager of Hardisty and Mr. and Mrs. Will Fisher of Sherwood Park were in to visit Mrs. Skoberg.

Kay and Joanne Hart of Vermillion were visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Richardson and took them out for dinner on Saturday.

Minerva Pearson, Rose Kirshman, Clara Fogelberg, Rosa Frewing and Valda Storbakken went to the Killam Auxiliary Bazaar on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Lyman Baird of Forestburg were in to visit Mrs. Kirshman.

Mrs. Kirshman's daughter, Irene and her husband Lorne of Edmonton were down to visit her on Sunday and took her to Forestburg.

Lolly Ely of Gahndah were down to visit Mrs. Ely. Get well wishes go to Ross Fox in the Killam hospital and Orval Probst.

Phases One and Two of 'SCHLP' are working, now available phase three, the home adaptation program for the disabled

The 'Home Adaptation Program' provides a grant of up to $1,000 to homeowners of any age who are wheelchair users or who have a member of their household using a wheelchair.

The program, which commenced April 1st, 1978, is designed to help meet the special needs of persons who normally use a wheelchair in their daily routine.

This is a 'one time only' grant.

The grant applies to homeowners whose current annual adjusted family income does not exceed $19,500.00 and who plan to carry out eligible adaptations.

Funds are to be granted for permanent items associated with wheelchair access and livability within the home (i.e. ramps, modifications to doorways, alterations to light switches, etc.)

You may qualify... brochures and application forms are available from organizations providing services to the handicapped or:

CALGARY POWER LTD.

Class A Common Shares
(without nominal or par value)

Calgary Power is proposing to offer a new issue of Class A Common Shares to investors in Canada. The proceeds will be used to finance expansion of the Company's facilities in Alberta.

The Company is the largest investor owned electric utility in Canada. Its service area covers some 194,000 square kilometres from the international boundary to approximately 185 kilometres north of Edmonton. Over 90% of Alberta's electric energy requirements are supplied by the Company.

In 1977, the Company earned $4.28 per share and is currently paying a quarterly dividend of 56¢ per share. Purchasers of these shares will be eligible for an increased quarterly dividend of 60¢ per share payable on October 1.

Further information on the Company, its earnings, dividend payments and other details of this offering may be found in the preliminary prospectus, a copy of which may be obtained by returning the attached coupon, or from any of the investment dealers listed below.

The offering is expected in late May or early June, 1978.

A preliminary prospectus relating to these securities has been filed with or delivered to the securities commissions and administrators in all provinces of Canada but has not yet become final for the purpose of a distribution to the public. This advertisement shall not constitute an offer to sell or the collection of an offer to buy, nor shall there be any sale or any acceptance of an offer to buy these securities in any province of Canada prior to the time a receipt for the final prospectus or other authorization is obtained from the securities commission or administrator in such province.

MIX & MATCH
Alchemists of the 15th century aren't all dead. Farmers today face a large array of weed control chemicals, and often the temptation to mix them all together is unbearable. With 2, 3 or even 4 different chemicals to apply, mixing them all in one for a one over treatment certainly is attractive.

But be careful, once over with all these chemicals may be a waste of both time and money. Some chemicals can be mixed, some cannot, most shouldn't be. To offer some guidance in what can and can't be mixed I've constructed the following list of Registered Chemical Herbicide Mixtures.

1. Endaven with Carbyne at a rate of 1 quart Endaven and 2/3 quart Carbyne per acre. This will control wild oats in all wheat except Softch.

2. Trifluralin with Avadex B.W. and/or liquid nitrogen fertilizer for top dressing of wheat and barley - wild millet and some shallow rooted weeds will be controlled along with wild oats when using 2 1/2 quarts Avadex and 1/2 quart Trifluralin per acre.

3. Average together with 2-4 Ester, MCPA Ester or Bromoxynil at recommended rates will control wild oats and most broadleaved weeds in barley, Neopawa and Glenlea wheat.

4. Lorox together with MCPA tank mixed at a rate of 6-8 oz. of powder to 15-20 oz. of 64 MCPA will control a large number of weeds and suppress wild millet in wheat.

5. Sodium T.C.A. inhibited added to 2-4-D or MCPA Amine at a rate of 1 lb. T.C.A. plus normal 2-4-D or MCPA Amine rate will control various broadleaved weeds and wild millet in barley, oats and rye. 6. Various commercial mixtures of 2-4-D, MCPA, Dicamba and Neoprop are available and are sold under trade names like Beavel 3, Dyvel, Kilmor, and Target, etc.

John Knapp, D.A.

Every year someone tries to mix chemicals which are not registered to be mixed. Such chemicals are: Hoegaas, Matavan, Endaven and Carbyne as specified. Anyone who mixed chemicals which are not registered to be mixed is taking a chance in damaging his crop, or spraying chemicals which are much less effective than designed. Furthermore, such mixing could be illegal according to the Federal Pest Control Products Act.

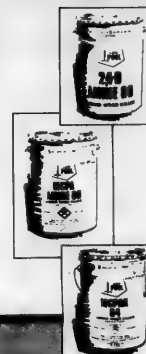

Several mixtures are presently being tested and evaluated. However, none of these are registered and too little information exists to make recommendations.

Some mixtures you may wish to watch for in the future are: Average-Carbyne, Matavan-Carbyne, Endaven-Torch, and Matavan-Torch. Testing of wild oat chemicals with broadleaved herbicides is still being carried out. To date none seem good with exception of Average. The broadleaf chemical which shows some promise is of the Bromoxynil type.

Remember, this spring before you mix and match, read your label and use only recommended mixtures. You don't need to be an alchemist to lose your shirt in farming today.

"A general purpose weed killer? A work-horse herbicide? I recommend one of these:

The 2-4-D and MCPA liquid weed killers have been in use for some years now; they aren't new, but they sure are effective. Effective in the many places you need them: against broadleaf weeds in cereal crops, hay fields and pastures, in sensitive crops like oats and flax; against Canada thistle; against many of the annual weeds, as well as the perennials; and as a component of the tank mixes that control the hard-to-kill groups of weeds.

I carry the full line, and I'd like to see you pick up the one you need now so that you can spray early and get the best results.

Daysland and District News Items

Sunday, May 7 there were three baptisms in the United Church. They were Dalin Spiller daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Don Spiller of Daysland and Michael Douglas Friend son of Mr. and Mrs. Doug Friend of Daysland.

A large crowd attended the shower for Connie Gaudet April 28 in the United Church social room. Seated at the head table was the bride Connie and her three bridesmaids. Val Skogstad of Barhead, Sue Haulbolter of Edmonton, and Louise Rensley of Edmonton, the bride's mother Vera Gaudet, and her sister-in-law Avis (Mrs. Gordon) Gaudet both of Daysland.

They played two contests then they began opening the many lovely gifts which Connie thanked everyone very graciously for. A delicious lunch was then served.

Mrs. Clarence Johnson passed away suddenly May 6 and her funeral was held May 9 in the United Church with Rev. C.C. Armstrong officiating. She leaves to mourn her husband Clarence and one son Terry. Interment was in the Daysland Cemetery with funeral in charge of all arrangements.

The Daysland High School year end exercises for grade 12 class of 1978 was held in the school gym May 5 with a large crowd in attendance. The banquet was served in the hall by the Daysland C.W.L.

The theme of the exercises were, "I Can See Clearly Now". Master of Ceremonies was the principal, L.E. Gillespie. The Grand Chorus sang three songs. Mr. G. Cranston brought greetings from the school committee. Mr. John Dickson (Deputy Mayor) brought greetings from the town of Daysland.

Introduction of Graduates - Presentation of Pins - Dianne Leech; Presentation of Scrolls - L.E. Gillespie; Reading of the Wills by Cheryl Gabruk and Kevin Karpovich; Reading of the Prophecies by Tania Heister and Dale Spiller; Valdicatory address by David Hilt;

Introduction of the Guest Speaker by L.E. Gillespie; Guest Speaker Mr. Arnold Mahone of P. Battle River Constituency; God Save the Queen. There were 59 Grade 12 graduates from Daysland that graduated at 10:30.

The Daysland Hospital Auxiliary meeting was held May 11 at 10:30 in the presence of 11 persons presiding. She opened the meeting with all repeating the Auxiliary Prayer. The roll call was answered by 12 members present.

The Secretary's minutes were read, also the Treasurer's report given and approved. The Strawberry Tea was discussed and each one given their part and what they were possible for. The correspondence was read. Part of the tickets for our July 1 raffle were ready in the ticket list to staple together.

Eleanor Davidson brought the quilt that is to be raffled off at the tea. The meeting adjourned and coffee and cake was served by the hospital.

The Hospital Auxiliary had a very successful Strawberry Tea, Bake Sale and Raffle May 12 in the United Church basement. The winners of the raffle were as follows: Quilt won by Olga Wirth of Daysland; Large Grocery Hamper won by Michael Niehaus of Camrose; Small Grocery Hamper won by Mary Ann Schlant of Daysland.

Killam mixed bowlers end season

The Killam Mixed Bowling League ended another successful year with 26 teams entered. All enjoyed a most tasty potluck supper. President Robert Bjerk presented the trophies assisted by Treasurer and Secretary Ed Borth and Vice President and Statistician Bill Morgan. Statistician Bill Morgan presented a $50.00 cheque for his work for the season. The evening ended with a dance, music by the Storbakken orchestra. It was a most enjoyable evening as usual and we all look forward to another successful and enjoyable evening of bowling the next season.

On Thursday, Friday and Saturday, April 13 to 15 a most enjoyable bowling bonspiel was held with nine teams entered. First in the A event went to the Stubbs team with Bob and Bernice Guthrie, John and Dorothy Stubbs and Roy Brink scoring 3322. Second in the A event went to Morgan's team of Kay McMahon, Clarence Fjorstad, Don, Bill and Brian Morgan scoring 3303.

First in the B event to the Bjerk team: Robert Bjerk, Emily Keldorfer, Beverly, Brian and Barry Bagdan scoring 3045. Second in the B event went to the C. Murray team: Cheryl and Jim Murray, Bonnie, Bob and Shirley Scott scoring 2702. There were some fantastic scores in bowling in this and look forward to another next year.

Killam Sr. citizens meet

There was a good attendance at the May meeting of Killam Senior Citizens with E. George presiding. Secretary M. Gibb read the minutes of the April meeting and they were adopted. Treasurer reported two memorials were given. Two minutes silence were observed for 2 members deceased, Sue Bricker and Doris Adolph.

Correspondence included a thank you note from Elks Lodge and 3 sympathy cards and several brochures offered for senior citizens tours.

Business arising from minutes was the school bus trip. We would like to inform Mr. Taylor the date set is June 17 at 8:00 a.m. to leave the Elks Hall. For information contact Myrtle Osbeck, Gertie Brodie or Tina Blumhagen, committee in charge of planning the route. Bring a paper bag lunch.

Help was solicited to make and serve the pancake supper for the Rodeo events in June.

IN MEMORIAM

FELEGA - In memory of Connie Felega who passed away on May 10, 1977.

What would we give if we could say,

"Hello, Connie" in our same old way.

To hear her voice and see her smile.

To sit with her and talk while Partings come and hearts are broken.

Loved ones go with words unspoken.

Late goes on, we know that's true.

But not the same since we lost you.

So bring me remembered and sadly missed by Mother and Father, brother Bill and sister Teresa. 38-1c

ANNOUNCEMENT

Loughed and District News Items

Mrs. James McClements went by plane owned and piloted

by her son Gary, to Calgary last Friday to attend the funeral of her cousin's husband,

Mrs. Chris Akerman.

Mr. Stan Larson of Rimby was in town one day last week.

Sadie Marlow was talking to him. Stan was a grain buyer in Loughed a few years back. He

some of the farmers would remember him when he was in the elevator.

Mr. and Mrs. Hunter White were business visitors in Camrose a week ago this past

Monday, and called in to see

Roger Knecht who is a patient in St. Mary's Hospital. They also met with Mr. Harvey

Stuve in the same ward. They were wonderfully cheerful despite the discomfort of broken bones. We wish you both a speedy recovery.

Hazel Swainson, Rita Stur-

bakers, Veronice Probst, Loraine Frost, Jerry Johnson,

Sadie McClements and Molly

Fernyhaugh attended the Women's Institute Conference at Heather Brae Hall 6 1/2 miles south of Otonabee on Wednesday,

May 10. It was a very interesting conference this year.

Mrs. Brita Birchall had her family home for Mothers Day weekend. Mr. and Mrs. Art

Eastly, and Mr. and Mrs. Ken

Edge from Calgary, also Mr.

and Mrs. Andy Birchall and family from Wainwright.

Ed and Alison Swainson from Sedgewick were supper guests at her parents, Mr. and Mrs.

Hunter White's last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernie Wiley were in Edmonton on Sunday visiting with their daughter

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Gaseyne and family.

Derek Probst of Edmonton was down visiting grandma and grandpa Probst last weekend.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Bergan of Vauxhall were visiting their daughter Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd

Schmidt and family last weekend.

Seems as though everyone is to be busy farming, gardening, the wives are busy helping their husbands moving machinery and so forth from one field to another, also taking out meats. So there's not much going on for news. If you do have some news wish you would phone me or leave it at the Post Office.

Mrs. Judy Oliver and daughter

Hardisty club makes donations

The Sunshine club met at the home of Mrs. Grace Kells on Monday, May 6, 1978, with ten members present and three guests, who were Mrs. Vivian Hampshire, Mrs. Mickey Galoway and Mrs. Lottie Kells who is an honor member.

The minutes were read by the secretary and approved by Mrs. Kathy Vandewick and seconded by Mrs. Mildred Praver. The treasurer's report was given and approved. It was reported by the treasurer that the club did real good with the food they sold at the Kells farm sale. All monies made is to be used towards charitable donations.

Correspondence was read with thank you notes from Karen (Kells) Smith and also Kathy Vandewick. It was reported that Mrs. Marguerite Drever is in the Killam Hospital receiving medication. We hope she will be out soon and back for our next meeting. Also, the club travelling basket is nearing the end of this round of members. The club will be putting together some more cookbooks before long to complete orders that we have.

The next meeting will be at the home of Daisy Chomynsh on Monday June 5, 1978, no lunch will be with Mrs. Mabel Firth and Mrs. Grace Kells.

A motion was made by Mrs. Marion Elm that the club make a donation of $15.00 to the Cancer fund drive, seconded by Mrs. Barbara Hays and also, a motion was made by Mrs. Kathy Vandewick that we donate $15.00 to the Red Cross and this was seconded by Mrs. Daisy Chomynsh.

The following prizes were won at this meeting. The big raffle was won by Mrs. Lynn Elm, and the business prizes won by Mrs. Lottie Kells and Vivian Hampshire.

A motion was made for adjournment and our hostess served a real tasty lunch and then gave us a tour of her new green house which has a real nice selection of both flowers and vegetable plants. Rex Elm

Mazure's honoured at 70th anniversary

wain, live in Edmonton and Dave works for Royal Trust Company. They have three sons and one daughter, all present for the celebration. Besse's 3 sisters also attend ed: Mr. and Mrs. Steve Koniar, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Lis and Rodger. Mrs. Annie Mistral from Vancouver, Paul and Marika and Marge from Edmonton. Besse's brother Andy Stanish from Devon attending also.

Many other guests were also in attendance. As people were being seated for this lovely supper, grace was given by Mr. Jackson. Stanley Mazure gave an outline of his parents life and proposed a toast to the happy couple.

Then followed a lovely ceremony whereby each grandchild presented grandma with a lovely red rose, Steve Mazure, giving one by proxy for his sister Sonia.

With so many grandchildren, grandma soon had a bouquet of beautiful red roses.

Then the great grandchildren presented grandma with a flower, there being seven of them. Coralee, Ken Mazure's little daughter giving by proxy for Sonia's daughter, Elona.

Many lovely bouquets of flowers were received, some of them coming from Dr. and Mrs. Cahill, Rosyth Women of Unifarm, Sonia and family in Australia, C.W.L., Hardisty Mayor, Lou Golla brought greetings from the town and said that he expected to see them around for many anniversaries.

Our Federal M.P. Arnold Mahone stopped in to greet them and said that if they were a "Mod Couple" as one of these trial marriages, his son had worked exceedingly well. He also presented them with pins.

Henry Kroeger and his wife, provincial M.L.A. sent greetings and pins also.

Greetings were read by Stanley, from Premier Peter Lougheed, Lieutenant Governor Ralph Steinhauer, Joe Clark leader of the Opposition, Prime Minister P. Trudeau, Arnold Mahone, all expressing much pleasure that they were celebrating their 70 wedding anniversary. The message from Queen Elizabeth was on its way but its arrival was late.

When Paul was called upon to say a few words he said "I had seven Dutchmen work for me at the dairy and they are all here tonight and would they please stand up."

Many of the old friends had worked with the C.P.R. The Sike brothers father had been section foreman at Rosyth, Jean (Choppy) Baker and George Choppy's father Mike work ed for the C.P.R. and lived in Hardisty many years. Mrs. Kishewich, now a widow in Daysland had lived at Bott while her husband was section foreman. John Fryko had been section foreman at Rosyth, later in-law of Besse had been section foreman at Bott. Mrs. Swinarski's husband worked in Hardisty for the C.P.R. Mr. and Mrs. Szwachuk from Cnr were there and he had worked for the C.P.R. too.

Mrs. Velch from Newfoundland and in Mrs. Ron Mazure's mother, while Mr. and Mrs. Lang from Heister are Mrs. Ken Mazure's parents, there were Brian, Steve and Richard as well, all Paul and Besse's sons.

After thanking the Rosyth Women of Unifarm for the lovely supper, the tables were cleared, open house started, lunch being served by the C.W.L.

The orchestra headed by Phil and Jack Freestone of Mars den, Saskatchewan arrived and dancing to very lovely music took place.

This was a great evening for young and old.

Many came to the open house with dancing and good fellow ship continuing till around 1:00 a.m. May this couple and their families who gave so much happiness at this occasion, continue to enjoy good health and good times for many years in

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Hallum returned on Thursday after visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Howard Koughn in Red Deer and with many relatives in Calgary during their stay when they were there on business.

Mrs. Helen Whitten arrived home on Monday after spending 6 weeks in Europe. While the main purpose of her trip was to visit with her daughter Laura and family (Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Barker and children) in Athens, Greece, she timed her visit when they were on holiday so that they were all able to enjoy a trip together. They were in Italy, Austria, Germany, Holland, France, Belgium and Yugoslavia, etc., including Greece. Helen visited 8 different countries. She said she had a wonderful time but came home really appreciating the fact that Canada is her homeland. Laura and Wayne sent greetings to everyone and said they loved to get letters from home.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Walsh were in Edmonton on Friday on business. They went on to St. Albert and spent the night with the Jim Walsh Jr. family and helped grandson Todd celebrate his birthday on Saturday, arriving home on Saturday night.

Happy to see Mr. Cliff Pope came again. He returned on Friday after undergoing surgery in the University Hospital. Nice to see you Cliff!

There were 7 tables of whist played at the usual Wednesday afternoon Card Party of the Senior Citizens held at the Legion Hall. Mrs. Violet Thomas and Mr. Henry Jamieson won prizes for the highest score, while Mrs. Ma Clark and Mr. Neil Dixon received consolation awards. After lunch a brief meeting was held on a brief meeting was held when the new Drop-In Centre is in operation. A Norwegian Whist Party was planned for next week.

Mrs. Gwen Freeman with daughter Mrs. Darlene Schmidt and children of Rosyth recently spent a weekend in Watervliet as guests of Gwen's sister, Mrs. Muriel Zajac.

At High Level for the weekend of May 6 were Mr. Steve Potage, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Potage and children and Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Lumby. They attended the wedding of Steve's grandson, Mr. Danny Reid.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Lee Kwany on the birth of a 7 pound 8 ounce son on Monday, May 8 at the Killam Hospital. He is called Mitchell Carman.

Mrs. Donna Martin spent a couple of days in Edmonton last week visiting Mr. and Mrs. David Edger.

Mr. Ernie Leah entered Camrose Hospital on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ken Martin of Penhold were at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Greg Martin at the weekend to bring grand-daughter home after she had spent a week with them.

Congratulations and best wishes to Mr. Terry Berg and Miss Shannon Sandgathe who were married at High River, Alberta on May 6. The reception and dance was held in the Legion Hall after the wedding. Terry and Shannon will be spending the summer months in Sedgewick before returning.

in the fall to Edmonton where both are enrolled at the University of Alberta.

Mrs. J.L. Muirhead is visiting her daughter Joan and her family in Strathmore.

Mr. and Mrs. Rod MacKinnon returned home on Thursday after spending a couple of weeks in Calgary at the home of their daughter Peggy and her family. Mr. and Mrs. Gerry Miller and children.

The children of the Sedgewick Kindergarten visited the four churches in town on Thursday morning. I had the pleasure of showing them around the United Church and I'd like to thank them for singing so nicely for me.

When I asked Cathy McElride if she had any news she said that all the McElride kids were home for Mother's Day. That's at the Bob McElride home of course.

Mr. and Mrs. Royce Schmitt and children of Edmonton visited the Dick Erickson home on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Dick Erickson were in Edmonton on Tuesday to take son Ritchie to the University Hospital where he will undergo further surgery on his foot.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Andersen and Kerry are at Redwater where Don is now employed.

Mrs. Mary Schmitt, Mrs. Joan Siminich and Ronette of Edmonton visited with the Wayne Schmitt family on Tuesday.

Sedgewick tennis club

Sedgewick Tennis Club held their spring meeting with an enthusiastic group of young people. They met at the Rec Centre to make plans for the coming tennis season.

A Tennis Clinic is being planned for May or June.

Anyone wishing to receive instruction or help with the basics of playing tennis is asked to call 364-2147 and arrangements will be made.

Dues for the season were set at $5.00 for students and $10 for adults. Dues may be paid to Kevin Ryan, Linda Hebert or Doreen French at the Drug Store of Lil MacPherson at the Bank of Montreal.

Locals win essay contest

The County of Flagstaff had two divisional essay winners in a Rural Safety Essay Competition sponsored by the Alberta Safety Council.

The subject for the 1978 competition was "Safety for Rural Youth."

Susan Lee came out on top for the Sedgewick school division in the grade 5 and 6 category. Her essay was about a close call brought on by skating on thin ice.

Jane Heddicks won the essay competition for the Daysland division in the grade 7 and 8 category. Her essay dealt with a tragedy that ended in death due to riding snow machines in a dangerous situation.

Province recesses

LEGISLATIVE REPORT

M.L.A.s have taken summer recess after giving women claims to family property, adopting a $3.8 billion budget, ratifying goals for the schools and tightening control of urbanization.

The 1978 Legislature session, adjourned after 49 working days until the fall with best wishes from Lieutenant Governor Ralph Steinhauser and his ascent to 36 government hills.

The recess will be busy. All sides are already preparing for the next provincial election, expected in 1979, and the government's agenda is crowded.

Premier Peter Lougheed is staying closer to home for cabinet tours, field trips and reviews of investment and energy policy after his travels in Europe, the U.S., the U.S.S.R. and the Mid-East the last three years.

The administration faces major national meetings as well as annual premiers' conference in Saskatchewan in August, and first ministers' talks on the constitution and the economy later.

Efforts to push Ottawa into preparing new grain export strategy including a national conference on selling will continue, starting with preliminary discussions in Saskatoon next month.

Meanwhile, the government is spending a budget that jumps an overall 14.7 per cent.

Capital expenditure rises twice as fast in 1978-79, retail fuel taxes were dropped and home and day care programs are launched.

The final version of matrimonial property legislation is passed to recognize women's role in building family wealth as home-makers and parents. In divorcees, they are entitled to half the assets accumulated during marriage unless the courts find evidence splits unfair.

After lengthy debate, the legislature ratified a code of ethics for the schools with strict penalties for civil debts and the province will be able to suspend drivers' licenses until tickets are paid.

authority to settle estate boundaries, let ministers request investigations by the ombudsman to create an appeal board for doctors who lose hospital privileges.

Rewritten condominium property law requires better disclosure by developers to prospective buyers and tightens state owners' control over their buildings and renters.

New hazardous and agricultural chemicals legislation permits the cabinet to prepare a list of risky substances and ban them, restrict their use and police their handling and storage.

A long awaited rewrite of the Summary Convictions Act was passed and will be implemented gradually to end imprisonment for failure to pay fines under provincial and municipal laws in all but the most serious cases.

New tribunals are to be organized to take pressure off the crowded provincial criminal courts. Penalties are to be collected as civil debts and the province will be able to suspend drivers' licenses until tickets are paid.

Guide Commissioner takes ill

Due to illness, the Chief Commissioner of the Girl Guides of Canada, Mrs. K.P. Hayes has found it necessary to cancel her visit to Camrose, originally scheduled for Saturday, May 27.

SEARCHING FOR SECURITY

Review of the scripture, on certain nature of today's world, there is great emphasis on security. Folks are searching for every possible means of security so they can enjoy their later years and have something worthwhile to pass on to their children when they must leave this journey here below. There are unlimited sources of security available, but the question is: Is the security that I am searching for really the answer as far as my welfare both for here and for eternity is concerned? Will my children, as they follow the example set by me, find true happiness, real peace of mind, and genuine comfort for their souls? These are questions we should ponder well in our search for security till we are sure our emphasis and perspectives are right. The high suicidal rate among those who were seemingly secure as far as wealth and popularity is concerned should convince us that these alone are not the answer to true security. After they had attained all that they had been searching for, they were still plagued with an aching void that convinced them that life was no longer worth living. This should prove to us that unless a man has a security for eternity, his search by securing all other available means will end in disappointment and discouragement. What then is the missing dimension as far as our search is concerned?

Jesus said, "Lay not up for yourselves treasure (security) upon earth, but lay up rather securities in heaven." Matthew 6:19,20. He went on to say in the same chapter, "Take no thought what ye shall eat, or what ye shall drink, or with what ye shall be clothed. Your heavenly Father knoweth that ye have need of all these things. But seek ye first the kingdom of God and His righteousness; and all of these things shall be added unto you. Take therefore no thought for the morrow." This then is the missing dimension. Folks to-day, because of the uncertain ties of tomorrow, are desperately searching for something secure when they should be searching for Someone secure. A strong, secure faith in God through His Son, Jesus Christ, is the security we desperately need for it alone will bring us true happiness, peace of mind, and comfort of soul both in this life and in the next. Are you trusting in Christ as your Security? The Scripture says, "And you shall seek me, and find me, when you shall search for me with all your heart." Jeremiah 29:13. Why not begin your search for the Security that really matters today? You'll be glad you did, for then all your desperate concerns regarding your security will end as you see God supply all of your needs according to His riches in glory by Christ Jesus. Philippians 4:19.

4-H achievement night a success

KILLAM NIMBLE THIMBLE
Well that race is up for another year. On April 28, the Killam sewing club had their achievement night. Everything went real well. Our fashion show was a success, and would like to thank Mrs. Bradley for making it this way. We would also like to thank our leader Mrs. Myrna Morken for all she has done for us this past year. Thanks also goes to all the other leaders Mrs. Karen Knevel, Mrs. Shirley Swanson, and Mrs. Carol Wilson. Oh, we can't forget the other mothers, thank you to them, also. Some awards and presentations were made. A silver tray was given to Mrs. Helen Nibbel, for her many years of leadership she has given the club. A tray was also given to Mrs. Teresa Sullivan for her dedication to 4-H in the past years. Jackie Collins was awarded the Efficiency award which was donated by U.F.A. agent C.J. Lewis. Fran Wilson won the trip to club week for this year. Public speaking trophies were awarded and first in the juniors went to Patty Knevel, second went to Deanna Wilson. First in the Seniors went to Fran Wilson. Well 4-H is over for another year, but don't worry it will be back next year. Anyone wanting to join, please get in contact with our leader. It is really fun and worthwhile so what are you waiting for... See you next year.

RITERS RAMBLINGS

by Flapstaff Creative Writers

A MEMORABLE EXPERIENCE
We listened as the monstrous roaring vibrated and echoed off the distant hills. We saw a plume of smoke and dust 30 feet high. We felt an excitement that tingled all over. It was slowly but steadily lumbering toward us. Winding around hills and brushing trees is made its way.

The rumbling grew louder as it advanced toward us. One second it was hidden from view and then it was here. A huge grey box 30 feet long ten feet wide and 12 feet tall. Huge gear wheels, chains, and belts were distributed all over its mass. Four huge iron wheels kept that mighty box off the ground.

A tractor pulled into the field next to our yard and unhooked. The driver drove around and parked the tractor facing the machine. He got off and attached a huge belt to the machine from a drum pulley on the tractor and then left.

That night as I was doing chores I heard my father talking to the hired man about this machine. He often mentioned threshing machine as he spoke. This made me very curious. How could a machine thresh grain? I had always known the old way. Scything the grain, making it into bundles, picking it up on flatheds, carry it to a hard surfaced threshing floor, fanning it, and putting the harvested grain into sacks.

The next morning I hastily got up, had breakfast and did my chores. Today I would see a real threshing machine at work. Neighboring farmers and their eldest sons started appearing by mid morning. An hour after the first farmer arrived everyone was around the machine and let it idle. The crops were already cut, bundled and dried

HARDISTY AIRPORT OFFICIAL OPENING & FLY-IN

Milk pricing is complicated business

Pricing milk destined for the production of butter is complicated at best.

The reason is the Canadian Dairy Policy, considers it essential to assure consumers a steady supply of high quality products and a fair market price for farmers' labour and investment.

There are two types of milk in the pricing strategy. One arrives at the store as fluid milk, whether homogenized, 2% or skim. The other, known as industrial milk, is processed into butter, cheese and other dairy products.

The Canadian Dairy Commission (CDC) recommends and administers programs to pay direct subsidies to farmers and processors, users and food markets for surplus stocks of processed dairy products.

cyclical product

Milk is a cyclical product as cows produce more heavily in summer than winter with June being the peak month. Consumer demand remains fairly constant throughout the year so the CDC is establishing programs of even year-round production and accurate forecasting of consumers' needs for the coming year to avoid a too much milk (inflation) which results in unstable prices.

In order to keep prices on a more even keel a production quota is set for the year by the Canadian Milk Supply Management Committee. Provincial governments and producers' organizations are represented on the committee which establishes the amount of both fluid and industrial milk which each province may produce. Within each province local dairy marketing boards divide up these quotas among individual farmers.

In addition to setting quotas to prevent overproduction, the Dairy Commission pays a subsidy, currently $2.66 per hundredweight to farmers to ensure a fair return for industrial milk. Without this the commercial would pay as much as $3.50 per pound more for cheese.

"support" price

The Commission also establishes the "support" or minimum price at which wholesalers buy butter and processed skim milk. On January 1 this support price was raised to $1.22 per pound for butter and $7.2 per pound for skim milk powder. Any stock of these products which wholesalers do not purchase are bought and stored by the Commission for future use, or sale on the international market.

While the Anti-Inflation Board serves in a watchdog, monitoring prices set by the Commission, it does not have the power to enforce compliance with the Anti-Inflation program. Enforcement lies with the relevant government body responsible for the marketing board. However, the producers' price for industrial milk, as set by the CDC, is currently in compliance with the AIB's program.

The large dairies' and retailers' profit margins are subjected to the Board's scrutiny too. However, each time the support price goes up, processors' and retailers' costs rise and a retail price increase normally follows.

The white horizontal bar represents the proportions of the retail price of fluid milk which each stage of production receives. The figures are national averages, based on two litres of two per cent milk monitored during the month of January.

Lougheed Legion Auxiliary

The regular meeting of the Lougheed Legion Auxiliary was held on May 16. President Barbara Knaat chaired the meeting.

Roll Call was followed by the reading of the minutes and the financial report.

A motion was made that outstanding bills be paid, carried.

The Dine and Dance was a success and the Auxiliary wish to thank those who attended.

Oliver reported on the Hut Kitchens and stated that more cream and sugar are needed also a new electric kettle. Monday, May 29 was set for a clean up day in the playground.

Barbara was our birthday girl. Eunice won the kitchen raffle.

Proposed New Issue May 1978

CALGARY POWER LTD.

Class A Common Shares
(without nominal or par value)

Calgary Power is proposing to offer a new issue of Class A Common Shares to investors in Canada. The proceeds will be used to finance expansion of the Company's facilities in Alberta. The Company is the largest investor-owned electric utility in Canada. Its service area covers some 194,000 square kilometres from the international boundary to approximately 185 kilometres north of Edmonton. Over 66% of Alberta's electric energy requirements are supplied by the Company.

In 1977, the Company earned $4.28 per share and is currently paying a quarterly dividend of 55¢ per share. Purchasers of these shares will be eligible for an increased quarterly dividend of 50¢ per share payable on October 1.

Further information on the Company, its earnings, dividend payments and other details of this offering may be found in the preliminary prospectus, a copy of which may be obtained by communicating with any of the investment dealers listed below.

The offering is expected in late May or early June, 1978.

A preliminary prospectus relating to these securities has been filed with the securities commissions and administrators in all provinces of Canada but has not yet become final for the purpose of a distribution to the public. This advertisement shall not constitute an offer to sell or the solicitation of an offer to buy, nor shall there be any sale or any acceptance of an offer to buy these securities in any province of Canada prior to the time a prospectus for the final prospectus or other authorization is obtained from the securities commission or administrator in such province.

Galahad and District News Items

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth O. Quinn, Carrie and Carl of Calgary, Miss Kathy Waterman of Goodwood, Ontario and her friend Miss Linda Bourrie of Whithy, Ontario were guests of Eva and Kathy's Aunt Anne and Uncle Bill, Mr. and Mrs. Wise. This is Kathy and Linda's first visit to western Canada.

Mr. Pat Kuehler has been over to Drayton Valley for a few days.

Mr. Ronald Larson and friend were Galahad visitors on Sunday visiting Mr. W.

Mrs. K. Gamroth accompanied Mrs. Lois Brausen and Miss Donna Brausen to Camrose this week.

Mrs. Anne Wise, Convener of the local Canvassers and Aid of the Red Cross and Cancer Society is pleased to report that the campaign was a success. Thanks to the members of the Hospital Auxiliary and the Canvassers who worked so hard. We met our quota for the Red Cross collecting over $175 and reached the highest sum for cancer of $300. Our sincere thanks to those who contributed and to those who helped so cheerfully with us.

The Galahad Hospital Auxiliary met in the cafeteria on Tuesday, May 16. The President opened the meeting with the Auxiliary prayer and assisted a welcome to the members. Secretary Treasurer each gave their report. A cheque was given to Sister Rose for Wet Dry Vacuum. A cheque was given earlier for a Jet Spray for cold drinks. A call is being sent out for some knitters and crocheters. We need baby sets. We also need members. The Auxiliary has carried on for several years with a small membership. At present there are only four members. This work is important and is necessary. Join us and help your hospital.

The Galahad and District Lions met in the York Cafe on Wednesday night. Plans are being made for the pancake breakfast to be held on June 18 Father's Day. At present one member will be going to the Lions convention in Billings. Plans are slowly going forward to make the Community Picnic to be held the latter part of June, a real success.

Mr. and Mrs. Ted Washburn and Michael of Edmonton, Mrs. Blanche Davidson of Stoney Plain, Miss Marion Davidson of Calgary are guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. Washburn.

Mr. and Mrs. John Buchholz of Redfield are weekend guests of the Buchholz family.

The graduation banquet took place in the Galahad school gym. Thirty-one young people graduated. Among them were Anne Bernhard, Bruce Blumhagen, Charlene Blumhagen, Kevin Blumhagen, Gerald Borgel, Brenda Buchholz, Roger Clurk, Ron Gamroth, Lester Gier, Joyce Jones and Eldon Kuehler. Congratulations.

Mr. and Mrs. Jake Horevich of Halkirk and Mr. Coy Jackson and daughter of Seattle were Galahad visitors on Thursday afternoon. They called on a number of friends in Galahad and district. They then continued on to Forestburg to visit Coy's Uncle and Aunt Mr. and Mrs. Archie Line.

The History Book committee will be here on May 29 - 2:30 p.m. not May 28.

On April 29 Mrs. Edith Johnston took the bus to Edmonton where she visited members of her family for a few days. Then took the bus to Alhambra where she visited her son Ervin Johnston and family. Visited Walter Kerth and family at Rocky Mountain House. Her granddaughter, Mr. and Mrs. Dave Jackson at Leducville. Then to Red Deer to visit Mr. and Mrs. Bevan Ullard and family then back to Edmonton to visit her family there again Mr. and Mrs. Pat Patton and Valeria of Edmonton brought her home and spent Mother's Day with their mother, Edith Johnston.

CBA arranges third world coverage

The Alberta Weekly Newspaper Association (AWNA), in conjunction with the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, has arranged to provide AWNA members with coverage of the CBC's role as host broadcaster of the August Commonwealth Games in Edmonton. This is the second in a series of articles written solely for Alberta Weeklies by Don Leimer of The Representative, Leduc.

Co-operation will whisk the Commonwealth Games from Edmonton to viewing audiences in developing countries on three continents for the first time, Aug. 3 to 12. Co-operation by CBC, the Games' host broadcaster, and the London-based Commonwealth Broadcasting Association (CBA), an umbrella body for member broadcast organizations, will provide games coverage to a stunning listening and viewing audience of 500 million, according to a CBA official.

Although broadcast giants like CBC, BIC (Britain), ABC (Australia), and BCNZ (New Zealand) have always covered the Commonwealth Games, coverage in Third World countries is in its infancy. CBA Secretary General Alva Clarke explained while in Edmonton recently.

The CBA represents 49 member organizations in 44 Commonwealth countries, although only 19 have television.

In April, 1977, the CBA, on behalf of its Third World members, purchased "off-the-air" broadcast rights for the Games for $100,000. If the purchase price seems low, Clarke is quick to commend the Commonwealth Games Foundation for understanding the broadcast rights represent only a fraction of the total cost which will run between $25 and $5 million.

CBC will edit a one-hour

video-tape package at the end of each day to be sent to those countries which, because of cost, cannot send their own television crews or receive live satellite coverage.

Clarke's recent Edmonton visit involved completing arrangements to have the one-hour highlights package sent daily by air to 14 countries.

They include Nigeria, Bahamas, Mauritius, Bangladesh, Uganda, Malaysia, Singapore, Kenya, India, Barbados, Jamaica, Brunei, Trinidad and Zambia.

Nigeria, which had no coverage in 1974, will also receive satellite coverage of opening and closing ceremonies, track and field and boxing finals.

Countries sending radio broadcast crews include Nigeria, India, Ghana, Bahamas, Jamaica, Kenya, Guyana, Tanzania and Gambia.

The 1978 Commonwealth Games will mark the first time in international sport that so many developing countries will have coverage, Clarke asserted.

Television audiences alone for the Games in those nations should reach 300 million, or 60 per cent of the total Clarke estimated, noting the viewing audience for the 1974 Games in New Zealand was only 75 million.

Functioning as broadcast rights holder for members

This spirit of broadcast brotherhood will ensure the 1978 Commonwealth Games the widest radio and television coverage in its history, Clarke said.

KEEPING IN TOUCH

by Arnold Malcom, M.P.

THE ELECT-SHUN

July 10, 1978 has become known as the "Election that thought it couldn't". There has been no one in Capital Hill, indeed none that I have met in the Constituency, that believes the Prime Minister when he said that it was never his intention to call a spring election. Clearly, the signals were every where.

In Saskatoon, billboards advertising Otto Lang in conjunction with an active campaign office clearly signaled that the Minister was preparing for a spring election battle. The excuse given by the Prime Minister, "Parliament is working well and there is a lot of important legislation to be passed", simply doesn't hold water.

A preview of the legislation before the House indicates that it has little to do with the major problems concerning the Nation. In virtually every sector of our society it is recognized that the three most important issues are the economy, unemployment and a constitutional framework that would provide greater harmony between the provinces and the Federal Government.

Only a few weeks ago the Order Paper desk on Parliament Hill was an empty rain barrel. Since the decision to delay the election there has been a better-showered flurry amongst civil servants in an attempt to draft Bills to give the appearance that the government has important business and, therefore, must continue to sit. The following is a list of some of that important business.

Bill C-4 - Aeronautics Amendment Act; Bill C-6 Canada Ports Act; Bill C-7 Amendment to the Corporations and Labour Unions Returns Act; Bill C-9 National Anthem of Canada Act; Bill C-10 Appropriation Act No. 3 1977-1978; Bill C-22 Metric System Conversion Act; Bill C-24 Telecommunications in Canada Act; Bill C-28 Amendment to the Public Service Staff Relations Act; Bill C-32 An Act Respecting the Facilities in the National Capital Region; Bill C-37 Canada Students Loans Act; Bill C-43 Office of the Ombudsman Act; Bill C-47 Appointment of Port Warden for Harbour of Quebec and Amendments to Port Warden and Port of Montreal Act.

And so the list goes on. The unfortunate fact about the change in the election date was not the important work that was facing Parliament. Moreover, it was not a decision of Parliament or even the Government of Canada. The influence as to when the election is to be held was made by the Gallup poll, Senator Davey and Jim Coates, Principal Secretary to the Prime Minister. The final decision and all the power as to when the election will be held rests in the hands of the Prime Minister.

Inasmuch as I believe that the recent period of inaction has left the country with a chaotic and non productive government, I have embarked upon measures to introduce a number of Private Member's Bills, one of which will directly relate to the question of fixing election dates so that the people of the Nation will have a sense of security respecting the dates of election. The purpose of my Private Member's Bill is to remove the power from the Prime Minister to call the elections at a time that best suits his personal needs. My Private Member's Bill, which list of some of that important business, is designed to put election dates back in touch with the Canadian people.

Good supervision is the art of getting average people to do superior work.

Local 4-Hers awarded trips at provincial selections

In the town of Olds, where 4-H began 61 years ago, the 1978 Provincial 4-H Selections program was conducted from May 19 - 22. The program gathered together 129 4-H club members from across the province in order to select 63 award trip winners.

Valerie Waldorf of Dayland was awarded a trip to the western provinces 4-H Seminar to be held August 5 to 12, 1978.

While Allen Henderson of Forestburg will be attending a Western Stock Grower's Convention to be held three days in late January or early February, 1979.

The trips, national and international in scope, offer delegates an opportunity to travel, experience differing lifestyles, and compare 4-H programs. While in attendance at the various conferences, seminars, and exchanges, delegates function in the capacity of ambassadors representing Alberta 4-H.

The 4-H members were initially chosen to attend Selections on the basis of their past achievements in their home communities. During the program, a variety of small group situations were conducted. This year's program theme centered around our Commonwealth Community in recognition of the up-coming Commonwealth Games. Staff observers worked closely with the delegates assessing each individual 4-Her. In addition, an exam was administered which tested the 4-Hers knowledge of current events and 4-H.

Organized and administered by the 4-H Branch, Alberta Agriculture, the Selections program receives sponsorship from Agriculture Canada, the Alberta Wheat Pool, and the United Grain Growers.

Selections were highlighted by an Awards Breakfast on May 22 with the announcements of the following awards.

The Fatal Ride

It started out as a joyful ride, but ended in an excruciating nightmare. My friend Karlynn was killed when she and I went skidding.

Karlynn was staying over night at my place. We wanted to go skidding at nightime. It would be more exciting than in the daytime. Before we went out, Dad warned us about a drop-off and a barbed wire fence. He solemnly told us to avoid that area, and to drive carefully. Karlynn was giggling under her breath, but I had a feeling of apprehension. When we got outside and started the skid, we found out that the front right light didn't work. I thought it would be best to put a new one in, but Karlynn was not into waste any time. We had a little skimmer behind the skid. Karlynn hopped into the skimmer, and I drove off on the skid. We were driving around having lots of fun, not knowing that the evening would end in a nightmare. Karlynn had not driven before and wanted to try. It was wide open area, and I thought there would be no harm. We switched places and Karlynn drove off. We were having so much fun we didn't know we were out of the familiar area. Karlynn was going at a very fast speed. She skidded drove over a snow fence, and I tumbled out of the skimmer. I screamed at Karlynn to stop, but she couldn't; the brake was jammed. She was crashing through the barbed wire fence, and before my very eyes she went flying over the drop-off. I screamed in a shrill voice, and prayed that she would be alive. As Karlynn fell she shrieked in agony. It seemed that the bushes below were just not strong enough to break her fall. Karlynn was the victim of this terrible accident.

Here are some of the things that we could have done to prevent this accident. We should have changed the light, so that we could have seen where the barbed wire fence and the fatal drop-off were. Karlynn should have paid more attention and not have been so careless. Since Karlynn didn't know how to drive, and was in unfamiliar territory, she should have been allowed to drive. Both of us should have worn helmets to protect our heads. This accident is a regrettable one which could have been avoided. Jane Hirdick

It was a sunny day in Jan.uary, called Audrey. Lying flat on the snow she slowly pulled Cleo out.

When Cleo was safe Audrey quickly put her coat around her. Both knew that standing here wasn't helping. Slowly she started homeward.

When they reached the farm Cleo was quickly rushed to the Hospital. Fortunately she had only developed a bad cold.

Later on when Audrey went to see her Cleo couldn't thank her enough.

"All the thanks I want is that you promise to keep the safety rule. Don't skate on thin ice," said Audrey.

"I agree," Cleo said and they smiled at each other.

NOTICE

The County of Plagiat No. 29 will be holding its pre-bidder orientation and pre-bidder and consolidation into a future subdivision with all lands that lane described as:

"The lane adjacent to the westerly and westerly boundary of Lot 11 and the westerly boundary of Lot 10, Block 25, Plan 725-0227."

Plans showing the location of the said roadway may be inspected and information obtained in the Town office during regular office hours Tuesday and Saturday inclusive until 5:00 p.m. the 31st day of May, 1978.

Bylaw No. 782 has been passed and will be tendered by the Council on June 8, 1978 or as soon thereafter as the matter can be conveniently dealt with, for first and second reading and will then be submitted to the Minister of Transportation for his approval prior to the final passing thereof.

This notice shall be published each week for two consecutive weeks, the last of which shall be on May 24, 1978.

Before passing of this bylaw, a person who claims that land in which he is interested as owner, occupier or otherwise will be affected prejudicially by the bylaw and who petitions to be heard, shall be afforded the opportunity to be heard either by himself or by his agent in accordance with the said Act.

Any person owning or otherwise interested in land that sustains damage through the closing of the aforesaid lane shall be compensated for such damages in accordance with the said Act.

Written petitions to the proposed bylaw will be received until May 31, 1978.

LAUGHLIN

In loving memory of our dear brother, son and uncle, Lloyd Edward Laughlin who passed away May 26, 1977.

Everyday in some small way Memories of you keep coming our way.

A thought, a prayer, a secret tear, then

A silent wish that you were here.

Beautiful thoughts of one so dear.

Treasured forever with love sincere.

Deep in our hearts your memory is kept.

We loved you too dearly to ever forget.

Not long ago in Wainwright your reporter was very pleased to see Mr. and Mrs. Harold Craig, who were well known in the Bellshill area at one time.

The Powells renewed acquaintanceship with Bob Ram say who used to live in the Amisk area and boarded with Mrs. Kitty Martin in Edmonton at one time. It had been over thirty years since the Powells had seen him.

In late April a banquet and award night was held in Wainwright to honour foster parents and Mrs. Agnes Baruschew was given a ten year citation award for fostering children for 10 continuous years.

Attending the open house for Jack Measures was Betty Mills with her brother Jack Trupp and his wife from Port Saskatchewan.

The U.C.W. slip and blossom sale was well attended with many home baked goodies and lots of plants, both indoor and out. Rev. Jackson auctioned the plants off.

Mr. and Mrs. Claude Devey of Edmonton spent the weekend with granddaughter Ida and Merle King and family. While here they visited the other Devey grandchildren.

Congratulations to Helene Bunk on winning the Elks jackpot of $1400 and to Sam Moore on winning the bonanza of $124. A large crowd attended that bingo ton.

The O.R.P. had a bake sale and strawberry tea on May 13, with a large amount of home-made goodies for sale, lovely cakes for Mother's Day being some of them.

The hushia on which tickets was sold was rather cute for the winner.

Joan Rogers drew the ticket and it was won by her sister Shirley.

Mrs. Ginny Prentiss, Doreen and Meredith spent Mother's Day in Camrose with Ginny's mother, Mrs. Kent.

We are so sorry to hear of the passing away of Dick Clark in Hanna. Although he had been ill for sometime, sympathy in his sister Mary Dones and all his Sedgewick friends and relatives.

The regular bi-weekly card party was held at the Drop-In Centre on Saturday evening with 5 tables in play. Prizes went to Ladies 1st Eleanor Moody, Gent 1st John Houscher, Ladies Cons. Gladys Abbott, Ladies Cons. Barbe Matthews. Members and friends are reminded that the monthly potluck supper will be in two weeks time, May 27.

The Garden Club meeting, held on Tuesday afternoon, was well attended. Plans were made to visit the greenhouse at Vermilion on May 23, taking a picnic lunch. A guest speaker is to be asked to the June meeting to give advice on setting up the flower show, as well as preparing flowers to show.

Members exchanged plants and slips, and enjoyed lunch.

A special meeting of the Legion Auxiliary was called on Wednesday evening, May 24. It was reported that the lawn set for raffie had been received. It was decided to have a fund of the $100 previously announced.

Hardisty hospital auxiliary invited to conference

The meeting held on May 10 was opened by the president, Hilary Gray, with 13 members present to repeat the creed.

A letter was read which was sent to Mrs. M. Tavish, visiting nurse to pediatric doctor of the W.W. Cross clinic written by Mrs. M. Tavish.

Letter to be written to Kilham Auxiliary thanking them for their invitation to the East Central Alberta Conference. Donations were received from Barbe Matthews for cupboard.

Books were audited by Bob Taylor and will be paid.

Farm policies were ordered for the hospital by the Auxiliary and bill to be paid.

The availability of pins or crests was discussed and it was decided to acquire into the matter.

Card to be sent to Betty Hough thanking her for donating the alphas for the Auxiliary raffie from which a nice amount was received.

Discussion regarding a stand on main street for July 7, 1978 was discussed and next one is June 14.

To those who are interested in museums and early history and to those of us who know Mrs. Howard Stoner, this was an interesting item.

Her grandfather had the first natural mill west of the Great Lakes and located in Portage La Prairie, Manitoba. Later on this mill burned down so what to do with this huge mill stone was a question?

Finally it was buried and recently was located under a front lawn and driveway.

No one seems to know how long it was buried there but Mrs. Stoner had done a lot of research into this and found the location. The stone is in excellent shape, very heavy and is in the museum at Fort La Reine, on the outskirts of Portage. I have had the good fortune of a quick trip through this museum two years ago and found it very worthwhile seeing.

In 1977, intensive Carbyne yield trials were made on farms, and managed by farmers. Carbyne-treated and untreated plots were planted side-by-side at the same time, and harvested with field combines. No special treatment.

Check out the yield results in the chart above. Multiply the extra bushels in Carbyne-treated plots by current crop prices. You see that Carbyne made money for these growers.

Money maker, money saver.

Carbyne's low product cost produced yield increases at minimum cost. And Carbyne doesn't need incorporation. That can save about $2 per acre, per trip.

You know Carbyne is going to work, because you spray the wild oats, not the soil.

Rain won't wash your investment away. Fifteen minutes after application, it can pour rain without washing Carbyne off the wild oats. Yet Carbyne doesn't need moisture to activate it.

Easy to apply.

Carbyne is not only easy to apply.

LEAST WEASEL

MUSTELA ERMINIA

Occupying most of Canada with the exception of the Maritimes, Southern Ontario and Quebec, this little creature is scarcely larger than the mice on which it preys. Its body length seldom exceeds 8" and its tail is short and pointed.

These tiny predators are seldom trapped except by accident. The coat which is brown above, with white under side, turns completely white in winter throughout most of its North American range.

Living almost exclusively on mice, shrews and lemmings, they also use the fur of these animals to line their underground nests. The following in particular look upon this small hunter with great respect and the capture of one was considered a great omen.

Little known to most, the beaver dam is a kind of trap. It gets this from the fact that it is a trap for the beaver.

Marvin Moore, Minister of Alberta Agriculture and Al Adair, Minister of Alberta Recreation, Parks and Wildlife, have announced a joint beaver flood control program for private land.

Beaver flood control

Alberta Agriculture will provide funds for 60 per cent of the program costs to a maximum of $6,000 per municipality for beaver control programs carried out between local municipalities and Recreation, Parks and Wildlife.

A combination of weather and a large beaver population have resulted in serious flooding in many areas of the province, and depressed beaver pelts prices will likely result in a significant decrease in the normal spring beaver harvest. About 2,500 complaints were received last year by the fish and wildlife division, and current trends indicate a continuing and possibly greater problem this year.

Anybody experiencing serious problems with beaver should contact his local fish and wildlife division office.

UNIFORM'S AGRICULTURAL REVIEW

UNIFORM'S INSURANCE POOLS LTD.

After almost 20 years of service to the F.U.A. and Uniform, auto and fire insurance pools are to be discontinued, Howard Falkenberg, Uniform president has announced in a letter to all Uniform members.

The Alberta Superintendent of Insurance and the Automobile Insurance Board have requirements which prevent continuation of the pooling program.

Uniform's insurance committee discussed the matter with representatives of The Co-operators, underwriters for the pool, and the Superintendent of Insurance, and found that there is no basis for continuation of the pooling program in any form.

Mr. Falkenberg noted that it was gratifying that the program, established in 1959, had met its objective which was to obtain insurance at cost. The F.U.A.

felt that at the time in surance premiums were generally higher than they needed to be. Thus the pooling of premiums and claims with those members in good standing evolved. At the end of each year, surplus was distributed to eligible members in the form of a discount on premium renewals.

With termination of the pools, The Co-operators have been asked to periodically review their rates. Already physical damage premiums for most Alberta auto policy holders insured with The Co-operators have been reduced by 10 per cent.

Eligible members will be receiving final dividend cheques in the month of May.

UNIFORM'S ROLL-OVER REQUEST ALLOWED

The recent federal budget accepted Uniform's recommendation to allow incorporated family farms and partnerships to defer capital gains on transfers to children, Uniform's economist Elmer Allen reports.

In the Canadian Federation of Agriculture submission to the federal government, it was also suggested that farmers should be allowed to roll-over capital gains on eligible capital property such as agricultural land to their children. Mr. Allen writes in the April issue of Farm Trends, Uniform's monthly magazine, that this roll-over of capital gains will be allowed after April 10, 1978.

There are about 2,600 incorporated farms and 2,200 partnerships in Alberta that will be affected by the amendment.

UNIFORM MOTIONS GET CFA APPROVAL

Uniform's 11 member delegation to the 12nd annual meeting of its parent body, the Canadian Federation of Agriculture, met with considerable success when they gathered at Quebec City recently.

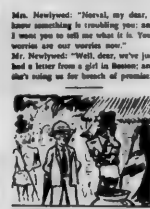

Of 32 resolutions introduced by Uniform, 29 were carried.

1978 crop planting intentions

Statistics Canada reports that Canadian farmers plan to seed 25.5 million acres of wheat in 1978. This is two per cent more than the acreage seeded in 1977 but down eight per cent from 1976 plantings.

Wheat plantings in Alberta are expected to hold steady this year at about 4.8 million acres.

Total Canadian wheat production for 1978 is projected at 18.6 million tonnes.

World wheat production, as forecast by the International Wheat Council, is anticipated to be 395 to 405 million tonnes, up from the estimated 384 million tonnes produced in 1977-78.

According to Statistics Canada, Canadian farmers plan to reduce the seeded area of barley and oats by six per cent to 11.2 and 5.7 million acres respectively. Little change is expected in the area seeded to rye and mixed grains.

The decline in area seeded to barley may be a result of farmers substituting wheat and corn. Increased yields, however could result in increased barley supplies in 1978-79.

In Alberta, the area planted to oats should hold steady at two million acres, while acreage planted to barley is expected to drop slightly to 5.4 acres of rye. This is an increase of 65 per cent from 1977.

The area of Alberta seeded to rye should increase from 800,000 to 910,000 acres while the area planted to mixed grains should hold steady at 370,000 acres.

Plantings of rye planted in Alberta are expected to increase to 2.3 million acres from a figure of 1.4 million acres in 1977.

Planting intentions indicate an increase in oilseed areas in Canada and the United States in 1978. With prices favoring rapeseed over feed grains at planting time, rapeseed plantings can be expected to increase significantly this year.

In western Canada, farmers have indicated they intend to plant about 5.5 million acres from a figure of 1.4 million acres in 1977.

Prices of edible oils and high protein meals are expected to show a moderate decline from the present levels towards the end of this crop year as world export supplies of oilseed products increase.

A good number of folk from Sedgewick took in the Sports Day at Loughheed on Monday. Although the men's softball team bowed out in the first round the Sedgewick Oilers were the victors in the Baseball Tournament. In the first game Loughheed defeated Hughedon, while in the second Sedgewick beat Hardisty.

The third game was a real marathon, going 11 innings before Amik was victorious over the Killam. Sedgewick received the bye into the finals, as Amik and Loughheed met in the semi-finals with Amik winning.

Sedgewick only needed 6 innings to beat Amik and so win top money. Congratulations Oilers.

Province abandons civil liberties law

Opting for caution, the Conservatives have shelved a plan announced in the 1978 throne speech to overhaul Alberta's six-year-old civil liberties law.

Extensive amendments requested by the Alberta Human Rights Commission have been mostly rejected for now as a hardline, reports the cabinet member responsible, Labor Minister Neil Crawford.

The commission's chairman, Max Wyman, submitted a draft for a rewrite of the Individual Rights Protection Act Sept. 2, 1976. He recommended broader rights and much tougher enforcement.

A wider definition of protected characteristics was suggested than the present promise of equality regardless of race, religion, color, age, sex, ancestry or place of origin.

The commission chairman's charter would include marital status, source of income, sexual preference and physical features.

Wyman wants creation of an "Alberta human rights tribunal" with the powers of judicial inquiries to compel testimony and evidence in reviewing complaints, and authority to make binding orders.

Fines would be up to $5,000 for first offences and double for more against a code outlawing discrimination in public service, signs, accommodation, employment, pay and retaliation for complaining.

The commission says "society should not, in the fields of employment, housing and services, discriminate against people because of the lifestyles they choose to live, provided the practice... does not contravene the law."

Crawford reported that the Conservative caucus and cabinet could accept few changes now and that reopening the act for only minor amendments was not considered worthwhile.

He said the government is receptive to the request for additional rights guarantees for the handicapped. He rejected incorporating legal provision for homosexuals, with guarantees of equality despite sexual preference.

"I don't think any government in Canada would move in the direction of 'day equality' at the present time, unless it wanted to be angrily flung from office."

Crawford said "no strong case has been presented" for other Wyman proposals, such as equal treatment regardless of marital status.

He reported that the government prefers to stress the commission's role as an educator in the ways of civil rights. A "hard line" approach instead of voluntary compliance might accomplish little.

"We want people to believe in rights. That way they can be assured. If we have only legislation with no belief, we will not have the assurance that rights will be respected and maintained."

Vandalism cause of serious power damage

Recent power interruptions in the Sedgewick-Killam area have been caused by vandalism. Insulator shooting seems to have become a favorite pastime of local gun owners.

The most serious was on May 10 when 18 insulators on the main transmission line between Sedgewick and Killam were destroyed by rifle fire. This caused a two and a half hour power outage to the towns of Killam and surrounding area with lesser outages to the towns of Strome and Dayland.

Numerous other recent outages have been caused by insulator shootings. This is very serious business as damaged insulators can be dangerous if innocent people are injured.

Frequent showers are delaying seeding.

improving the condition of Highway 96 since it is one of the major links with the border and Fort McMurray.

Dr. Horner made note of the fact that five paving projects have already been scheduled for Highway 96, each contract covering a 12 mile area.

"In four or five years, we should have the entire Highway 96 paved."

Grade nine students from the Killam Separate School expressed serious concern about the rapidly decreasing number of children enrolling in the school and wanted to know about any future developments which might help this situation.

With the coming of the heavy oil industry and the provincial decentralization policy, Dr. Horner said he felt Killam would be experiencing beneficial impact in all areas, including the schools.

On behalf of the Killam-Sedgewick Airport Commission, Mayor Dutton also wished to have their application checked on.

As soon as the land could be identified, the airport will be in on the program of development, assured Dr. Horner.

Overly severe restraint on spending was the crux of the brief presented by the Killam Hospital Complex through Mr. Fer.

In reply to this brief, Mr. Kroeger stated that the ministry in charge of hospitals was in the process of being restructured.

THE ACCOMPANYING JOYS OF GENEROSITY
 There are varying attitudes today on this subject of generosity. Some feel that folks just don't appreciate it like they used to and tend to take advantage of you if you are too generous. Therefore they become very cautious of their giving. Others say they have all they can do to make ends meet themselves without giving to someone else. Others have been considerate of the needs of others, have given generously to help them, and have experienced the joy of seeing their generosity returned to them multiplied many times. Since there are such differences of opinion, nearly every person you meet has a different attitude, and many have reached the conclusion that they will be generous only when it appears it will be appreciated and be beneficial to them in the long run. What matters most is not what we think or do about it, but rather recognizing God's standards and motives as revealed to us in His Word on this important subject.

Actually, true love and genuine concern for the needs of others is so intrinsically linked with generosity that it's almost impossible to separate them. This is so beautifully illustrated in our Heavenly Father's great love and concern for all mankind that moved Him to send and give His only son, Jesus, to be our Saviour from sin. This was generosity at its greatest and becomes the standard upon which we must base our attitudes toward generosity. This standard is simple, "I give because I love and love."

Our Lady of Fatima

C.W.L. Strome
 The May meeting of Our Lady of Fatima C.W.L. was held Monday, May 8 in the Elks Hall, with Marion Stasenko as hostess. Twelve members were in attendance.

Eight children received their First Communion on Sunday, May 14. They included Le-ann Daugel, Brent Delaney, Greg Paulowski, Nancy Pfeiffer, Darren Fedden, Valerie Zimmer, Shelley Steel and Lorilee Kmet. Each child received a gift of remembrance from the C.W.L. Ladies will canvas the district for Flowers of Hope for the Mentally Retarded.

The year-end Catechism party will be held June 8 at the school grounds. An appreciation night for all sales of the parish will be on June 12 in conjunction with the regular meeting.

Teresa Mazure gave a thorough regime of the Diocesan Convention she attended in Lloydminster.

Hilda Kretsch was the attendance prize. Dorothy Schuler and Pauline Bohme assisted the hostess with lunch.

There is no limit to generosity if we love and care enough. It is a God-given prompting from the very depths of our hearts that makes giving a joyful experience with no thought of recompense. It completely erases all selfishness and stinginess. Not only does it become a joyful experience for you, but God loves a cheerful giver. II Corinthians 9:7. Is giving a joyful, cheerful experience for you? If it isn't, it may well be that you have not yet tasted of the loving generosity of God by accepting his Son as your Saviour. Only when Christ's love fills us to overflowing can we experience the true joy there is in giving. When we give with the right attitudes and motives, we shovel out and God shovels in, but God uses the biggest shovel. This is what Jesus said in Luke 6:38 and it can be your joyful experience today if you ask Him into your heart and allow His generosity to flow through you. He generously gave his very life that we might experience all the accompanying joys of His love and salvation. "Give, and it shall be given unto you: good measure, pressed down, and shaken together, and running over." Give your life to Christ and he will make every aspect of your life a joyful experience. You will experience blessing you had never dreamed possible as you give, because you care and you love.

RITERS RAMBLINGS

by Flagstaff Creative Writers

NO WRITING TODAY

THANK YOU

Here's winter already gone and I haven't done any of that writing that I intended to. There were so many ideas kicking around in my head. I really should have been able to get at least two or three down on paper.

Let's see, there was that piece I was going to write on time. Oh, look, not that a true swallow! It's about the time they usually come back, I hope they nest here again, they are so graceful. I love to watch them soar and swoop around in the sky. Think I'd better go and check to make sure that the sparrows aren't in their nest box.

No, it's empty, all ready for them. Now let's see. Oh, yes, time. I had some rough notes here somewhere. If I was a really organized person I'd know where they were. Well, I'll leave that for now. What about that piece on colour, all those lovely shades. Course, blue is my favorite. That reminds me, I wonder if the wild violets are out. They're usually right by the lilac hedge. I'll just have to go and see.

Yes, they are. More than ever this year. So dainty and sort of prim, such a contrast to those stately daffodils by the south wall. First time I've planted them and everyone else says. Beginners luck, I guess.

But to get back to some writing. Here's a piece I started about what it's like to have roots in two countries. Had a good opening sentence but didn't get too far with it. Then I thought that one about Bird Watching. That reminds me, I haven't seen or heard the little wren this year. Wonder if she's back in her nest spot. Don't think the sparrows could get in but maybe I'd better take a look.

Here's one alright, got quite annoyed with me for aspooping. She's nested there for several years in a tiny hole in the tree by the raspberry patch. The raspberries seem to have come through the winter fine, but that strawberry patch needs a lot of work. Stopped to pick some rhubarb. Thank goodness that winter time will there.

Now to really settle down and write. Time, Colours. Red, Red. Bird Watching. Then there's that one about friends. Oh, there's the phone. A friend had some news for the paper. She'd been on a little trip to visit relatives so of course I had to know how everyone was. Back to the business at hand, writing. If only I could settle down to one subject.

The sun is sure warm where it's shining on my desk. Blue sky, green grass, trees in their new green coats. Two fat robins, the "Pop" birds, bathing in a puddle. It's so clean and fresh and lovely outside. But just look at those dandelions. I should get out and get after them.

And I think I'm going to. After all, it might rain tomorrow, then I can get some of my writing done. Because unless I'm in a windowless room with no phone I can't get any done today. I should have known better than to expect to write when suffering from a really bad case of my annual sickness — Spring Fever!

Central High News Bulletin

Wednesday, May 31, 1978

The high school pre-registration for the 1978-79 term is more or less completed. I apologize to parents for stating in an earlier column that students would bring home their registrations for parents' signatures and then not following through on this plan. Many students never return their registrations so this plan was abandoned. If you wish to know more about your child's registration they may bring home a copy of their registration for your approval. At this time of year it is important to consider how grade nine students choose their courses for high school. To often students who have not performed at a high academic level in the Junior High, are encouraged to take "easier" courses in high school because the worst that will happen is failure in these courses. I believe that this is the wrong approach. The high school program is a lot, with some limitation to offer courses for less academically inclined students. If there is a serious doubt about a student's chance of success in high school, they should as a matter of course be guided to the diploma courses in English and/or Math. Our emphasis in student guidance should be success oriented rather than failure oriented. Far too often students are guided into courses where failure is very likely. If a student registers in English 10 or Math 10 and performs well there (achieves a grade of 70-75%) they would be urged to register in the "easier level" course in grade eleven. There is no joy in failing. Students who succeed in their studies are happier and enjoy school, while those who fail can't wait to leave.

Galahad and District News Items

Mrs. Iva Kueffer and Mr. and Mrs. Hunter Armstrong and daughters were home for the long weekend.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Wise were business visitors to Sedgewick on Monday.

A shower for Sherry Erickson was held on May 17 at the Galahad Missionary Church. There were approximately 80 ladies present. Lene Wegman held a little name contest. She also presented a miniature quilt.

At the wedding of Linda Buchholz presented Sherry with the gifts from the Galahad and Forestburg communities. Helping out the gifts were her Mother Mary Ann, the Groom's mother Eileen Kien and his sisters Donna and Diane. After the gifts were passed around for all to see Sherry thanked everyone and invited all to stop and see them when they were settled in their new home in Forestburg.

Lunch was served by friends and neighbors.

Among the Galahad folk who attended the Gerard and Lorette Baier wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Dominic Gamroth, Mrs. Martha Bodry, Mrs. Pray Gamroth, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Herle, Mr. and Mrs. Allan Diez, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ponto, Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Ponto, Mr. Williams and guest, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Koenig.

Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Kueffer and Michael joined the wedding party on Sunday for the opening of gifts and the celebration for the day.

Mr. and Mrs. Dominic Gamroth are accompanying Mr. and Mrs. Mel Kueffer to Edmonton. Mr. and Mrs. Mike Kueffer of Edmonton attended the Graduation exercises of their grandson, David, at the University of Alberta.

Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Oberg accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Stewart to attend the funeral this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Staub of Red Deer are visiting Mrs. Staub's brother Teddy Meckler. They also visited their father, Mike Meckler who is in hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce George and family of Calgary, Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Feiden of Slave Lake, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Roche and Dr. and Mrs. and Mrs. Brian Roche and Shannon of Camrose, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Martel of Edmonton and Mr. and Mrs. Dave Lappage of Killam attended the Graduation Exercises of Shelley Blumhagen.

Sympathy of the Community was extended to the Merchant family on the passing of Mrs. Rose Grant. A number of Galahad people were able to attend the funeral.

Miss Shelley Blumhagen, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Roche of Camrose and Mr. and Mrs. Dave Lappage of Killam went to Willingdon for the Graduation Exercises of Ron Roche.

Sympathy to Mrs. Joe Grant and family of Duncan, B.C. in the passing of her husband Joe, who was piloting a fire fighting plane near Winnipeg, Manitoba when it crashed killing him and his Co-Pilot on May 21. Mrs. Grant and the former Silvers Stover, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Don Stover of Dayland, Mr. and Mrs. David McGowan visited David's sister Margaret Johnson at the Rimosa St. Citizens home in Pooka on Tuesday afternoon, 1978, coupled with numerous other folk of election but the Minister of Finance introduced his budget in an attempt to buy favor with the Canadian voters.

He could have reduced the Federal Sales Tax, however, such a measure would be non-viable reduction. He chose, instead, to bargain with the provinces to reduce provincial sales tax, a reduction that would be highly visible but, unfortunately, required an intrusion into an area of provincial jurisdiction. He attempted to get co-operation from the provincial Premiers and then finally moved ahead with his budget without unanimous support.

The result is that the whole budget has become a mish-mash of inequitable policies that have separate status designation for citizens who live in different parts of the country. Alberta pays no sales tax and therefore received none of the personal benefits received by citizens of other provinces. The Minister of Finance made the unfounded statement that Alberta received its share in grants to the oil industry with complete disregard for the fact that all Canadian benefits through the lower than world oil prices by which Alberta, has in effect, been subsidizing Canada and National Unity.

Most importantly, after the Province of Quebec decided that it did not wish to accept the Federal intrusion into provincial jurisdiction and thereby resisted a reduction in provincial sales tax via the means of a federal subsidy, the Federal government then intended to by-pass the Province of Quebec and give a direct income tax rebate for all tax-paying citizens. The problem here is two-fold. First, sales tax affects all people who buy products. The reduction in personal income tax means that the poorest people, those who don't pay income tax and the ones who could most use the assistance, will receive no benefits at all from the federal program.

What the government became saddled with is a program that is being implemented in a different manner in different regions of the country. It causes a whole host of inequities. As an example, nearly 100,000 people have left the province of Quebec in the 1977 tax year. Those people now, if they paid taxes, will receive a rebate from the federal government and since most Debra Buchholz was a Calgary visitor on Sunday, there was a wedding for her son Keith and Diane Temmer, they are guests at Diane's parents home.

Miss Kay Fowd and Mr. and Mrs. Pete Willis were Camrose visitors on Tuesday and while there they visited Mr. and Mrs. Roy Farquhar and Mrs. Farquhar.

Hazelwood Goodseed club

The Hazelwood Goodseed Club's May meeting was held at the home of Irma Thrope with ten members and two visitors present, Mrs. Mc Clements and Mrs. Timholm.

Meeting was called to order by our president Kay Cox. Visitors and members were welcomed, roll was called. Minutes of the last meeting were read and approved.

Correspondence was read. Kim's shower and reception was discussed and we will take care of them.

Mrs. Mc Clements brought a bunk bed quilt.

Members paid dues. We also got a new member, Mrs. Timholm.

Kay handed in a pair of finished pillow cases. Mrs. Timholm took the chair.

New officers were elected. Ennie got the hottest gig. We all enjoyed a scrumptious lunch.

THE TRANSPARENT BUDGET

By Arnold Malone, M.P.

of whom are living in the province of Ontario they will also have a reduction in sales taxes.

In other words, those 100,000 people get a double bonus from this particular budget measure.

Likewise, any person from the province of Alberta that immigrates to the province of Quebec, and there were significant number, will find that they not only don't receive the sales tax benefits they also will not receive an income tax rebate because they did not pay tax in Quebec — a double whammy.

The fact that the most recent budget has united all parties in the provinces of Quebec against the federal government has caused the four western Premiers to speak out in protest against further intrusion into provincial rights is documentation enough to underscore that this past budget was hurriedly put together without adequate thought to — are jurisdictional rights. The most recent budget was obviously a play to buy favor at the expense of an election campaign. What it has done is to cause dissent amongst provincial administrators across the country. As a further example, the Province of Manitoba was denied the flexibility of being able to use some of its sales tax provisions on a job creation program. However, after it was found out in Ottawa that the budget had caused a political bonanza most they granted extensions flexibility to the province of Quebec w/o denying it to other western provinces who wished flexibility in their programs.

The subject area is very complex and deep. The lesson, however, is simple and clear. No federal government of any political affiliation should ever move into a field of provincial jurisdiction unless it has absolute and unanimous agreement from each and every province. Moving as this government did with only partial support from some provinces and no support from others is simply begging for political trouble.

Keeping in touch is a national obligation and it requires full and complete consultation with all other jurisdictions.

Shower held in Killam

The ladies of the Killam
C.W.L. Mrs. Helen Nikiforuk
M.C.'s an enjoyable "shower" of gifts and good wishes to honour Mrs. Lynn Marie Mann on Friday, May 19 in the Catholic Church Basement. The bride-elect was attended by Annette Mann, Ann Spiller, Mrs. Lee
Mann and Cyndi Davis while Theresa Mann and Patti Spiller provided over the guest book which was signed by about twenty friends.

Mr. Mann and attendants entertained the guests by demonstrating their talents at providing luncheon "tastes".

A J. J. was given for each other-blindfolded a brief sketch of family, community and educational events in Lynn's life and several humorous readings and anecdotes were presented by Mrs. Nikiforuk. Several of her sister's favorite songs were rendered for sister Sue Bricker. Under

Heisler and District News Items

May 21 was an impressive and proud occasion for the Heisler Catholic Congregation as they watched nine second graders of the Heisler school parade into church to celebrate the Holy Eucharist for the first time. Michelle A. Badry, Michelle L. Badry, Patricia Basser, Mary Ellen Froehler, Tamie
Pepping, Susan Smith and Sandra Zimmer were dressed in white dresses and veils while the two boys, Trevor Sullivan and Garth Wolbeck were attired in suits for the momentous occasion.

Tamie Pepping, Patricia B-asser and Michelle L. Badry read the epistles and psalms while the prayer of the faithful were led by all of the eight year olds as they took turns sharing at the altar. Rev. Father

Herube of Edmonton posed with the celebrants while Mrs.
Janet Hilaby of Kelsey took group pictures of the class receiving certificates and gifts.
The church was decorated with posters depicting "The Bread of Life" by the grade 8 class.

The two celebrants, Mrs. Florence Sommer and Mrs. Norman Lassu were presented with lovely crosses, "thank you gifts" from their charges.

Collected was 74 dollars from the "meagre" lunch in the Canada Fast Program on May 3 and a cheque for 100 dollars was forwarded to Unicef.

The Junior-Senior High School Track and Field Day was cancelled for May 20.

On June 5 and 6, the grade 1 and 2 classroom will be closed due to the orientation and testing schedule for the pre-school grade 1 and 2 students staying at home. At present it appears that Farmer's Day will not be a declared school holiday this year.

Clean up day was on May 19, when Heisler students, armed with plastic garbage bags, picked up the accumulated trash in the village of Heisler.

The Vista Theatre located in Hardisty is going through an external facelift. Workmen have been busy for sometime now making constant improvements.

Mabel Grant passes at 62

The late Mabel Evelyn Grant (nee Merchant) was born June 8, 1916 in Hardisty, Alberta. On June 21, 1944 she married Ross Alexander Grant and they had five children.

She was predeceased by her father in 1958, her infant daughter in 1958 and her mother in 1967. She passed away on May 21, 1978 after a lengthy illness. She is survived by her loving husband Ross and they had five children: Garry of Elmira, Ontario, Lyman (Mrs. Marvin Kretsch) of Edson, Bill of Surrey, B.C. and Donna of Edmonton.

Also surviving are her brothers Ken, Allan, Herbert, Harold, Arthur and one sister Margaret and many other relatives.

The funeral services was conducted by Rev. J. Higelow in Kilham Presbyterian Church at 8:00 p.m. with interment in the Kilham Cemetery.

FARE OF THANKS

We wish to sincerely thank all our relatives and friends who visited or sent cards, gifts and flowers to Mabel during her lengthy illness. Your floral tributes, cards and donations are greatly appreciated and we will long remember your offerings of sympathy and comfort.

Thanks to all those who brought baking and visited us at home. We express our appreciation and thanks to Rev. Higelow, the Pallbearers, the choir members and Mrs. Wilson, Edward and Gordon Fox, the Presbyterians Ladies Assoc. and the O.O.R.P. and B.P.O.E. Ross Grant and family.

Daysland and District News Items

The Daysland and District Recreation Board wish to report another successful year of sponsoring classes which were partially funded by the Flagstaff and District Recreation Board.

There were 25 different classes offered to the public, with 233 persons registered. 20 classes were very well received and some were over subscribed. Only five classes had to be cancelled due to insufficient registration. Under Further Education funding there has to be a minimum number of eight adults registered before a course can proceed. The Recreation Board will sponsor some of the more popular classes again in the coming year plus a few new added courses. As usual there will be a top notch instruction in all classes, and everyone is invited to register early as the classes are advertised to avoid disappointment.

If you have any special interest in a class do not hesitate to inform the contact. Mary Carlson. Last weekend guests with Rev. and Mrs. C.C. Armstrong were Mrs. Roy Colwell from Free Port Ill. and her sister Mrs. Betty Leavers from Toronto. Mrs. Colwell is a sister-in-law of Mrs. Armstrong. I wish to thank Betty Hill for typing out the news for me last week when I was in the hospital.

The planning of the Camrose Area Retreat has been completed with the Retreat being held in the Ferintosh United Church on June 12 at 10:00 a.m. We hope to have a good fellowship day. Everyone is welcome.

The Children's Summer Retreat Program begins June 1 at the Daysland Public Library.

Library hours are 1:30 to 6:30 p.m. Monday, Wednesday and Saturday.

There are a number of new books ready - Adult Section, Westerns and Mysteries, Dr. McChase's China Years, Woodwards, the Night we Stole the Mounties Car, How the West was Won and many others. The Juvenile Section Nancy Drew and the Hardy Boys, Little House on the Prairie, Tin Tin, Children's Section Books of Magic, Cookbooks, Bicycle Repair, Picture books, Garage Delight, Alligator Pie, books for all ages. Congratulations to Lloyd Larson and Moreen Koshil who were married May 20 in the Daysland United Church, with the reception, open house and dance in the community hall in the evening.

The U.C.W. meeting was held May 25 instead of June 1 as the Ministers Conference is on that date in Camrose. The President Margaret Schmidt presided. The devotion was read by Helen Paulgard titled a Prayer. The roll call was answered by 17 members and 58 visitors to the sick. There were also 8 visitors present.

The Secretary read her minutes also the Treasurer gave her report and they were both approved. Three got well cards were sent and a gift to a member in the hospital.

Margaret Schmidt and Ethel Graham have been accepted to go to the Conference the end of October. The five weddings that we are serving for in June, July and August were discussed and decided yet on them as we have no meeting till September now.

Margaret Schmidt has a program for Ruth Armstrong as it was a farewell party for her from the U.C.W. We played one contest and Norma Hanrahan read a poem on retirement. Five of the ladies out of the Community Choir that were there sang two songs and Anna Boggs and Margaret Schmidt sang a duet. Then Margaret presented Ruth with a gift of a crystal candy dish and two flower vases from the U.C.W. Ruth Armstrong thanked us all for the gift and gave a little talk on a man retiring but his wife only retires from one kitchen to another.

A delicious lunch was served by the hostess Helen Paulgard and her helpers Ethel Candlish and Ethel Graham. Ethel Candlish baked and decorated a lovely cake for Mrs. Armstrong which was cut and passed around among us.

GREEN ACRES

In talking to a farmer the other day, he noted that his calf was 6 calves from 21 cows. Needless to say, he was out looking for another bull.

The best method in selecting a bull is to determine what characteristics are desired, and rate them on their level of importance. There to keep in mind would be: 1. Does he have good legs? without them he can't do the job. 2. Does he have the desire required? this can be affected by nutrition. 3. Examine the reproductive organs for proper conformation - if he has the equipment to do the job?

The stocking rate of cows/mature bull varies as follows: Hand mating - 40; Farm pasture - 40; Open range - 30; Rough range and bush - 20.

Yearling bulls should be exposed at 15:00 cows/yearling. Since conception rate is low until 40 days after calving, the bulls are turned out at 30 days and remain until 90 days. Now is the time to cater to the physical condition of the animal. Hoof trimming, exercise, and examination for soundness. 24 hour attention should be in effect prior to the breeding season.

Here health management is as on going as. Maintaining a close watch can help catch diseases such as IBR or BVD which can result in drastic calf losses. Treatment for warbles can also reduce stress during spring.

Now that beef prices are high again, any losses incurred are expensive. Start with a healthy, efficient lot to insure a gainless lossless.
